French Unit Captures Aquafondata

Storm Mountain Positions For More Gains

By EDWARD KENNEDY
Associated Press War Correspondent

ALGIERS, Jan. 15. — (AP). — French troops, staving off five German counter-attacks in fierce fighting on the right wing of the 5th Army front in Italy, have pushed forward two more miles toward Cassino, it was announced to-day, capturing the village of Aquafondata and three important heights in its vicinity.

Pressure by the French forces under Gen. Alphonse Juin was applied over a considerable length along their mountain line in the general area northwest of Cassino and greatly strengthened the flank of the Americans driving toward that stronghold 70 miles from Rome.

The advance of the French put the Allies in a commanding position on heights entirely surrounding the village of Viticuso, which now apparently is in Allied control.

The Berlin radio announced yesterday that the Germans had evacuated Aquafondata, which is approximately seven miles north-east of Cassino.

All the heights taken by the French were more than 3,000 feet.

Mount Ferro, the most advanced of the three, is two miles northwest of Acquafondata and directly overlooking the village of Vallrotonda, which is about six miles north and slightly east of Cassino.

They also took Mount Pogano, two miles southwest of Acquafondata and Mount Pile, two miles northwest of Viticuso.

The fiercest of the German counter-blows was made some five miles north of Acquafondata along the San Pietro ridge.

During the first two days of their current campaign in this sector the French have taken 250 prisoners it was announced.

Germans Using Rocket Planes

STOCKHOLM, Jan. 15 — (AP). —Last night's heavy R.A.F. and R.C.A.F. assault on Brunswick forced the Nazis again to put up their secret rocket-propelled fighter planes which they encovered for the first time in Tuesday's American assault, the Berlin correspondent of the newspaper Aftonbladet said today.

The Nazi rocket-propelled type is similar to the newly-announced Allies jet-plane, but driven from the rear by explosive fuel instead of from air sucked in from the front and then superheated and super compressed almost to explosive point as in the Allied type.

The rocket power was said by the correspondent to enable the new Nazi fighter to climb 4½ miles in two minutes, instead of the usual 15 minutes.

Only top-notch pilots were said to be able to withstand the sudden change of pressure experienced in the climb, which was described as more terrific than that undergone by dive-bomber pilots.

It was reported also that the Nazis are building a new type of automatic machine - gun which continues to fire on the target after the gunner is killed or wounded. It was described as having a rate of fire much faster than anything now used.

U-Boats Beaten

LISBON, Jan. 15 — (CP-Reuters).—Indication of Allied mastery of the U-boat menace in the Atlantic was provided by an official Portuguese statement yesterday that not a single torpedoed seaman from a belligerent ship was brought into Tagus during 1943, as against 448 such seamen reaching here in 1942.

Bomb Damages Theatre, Kills 7 People

LONDON, Jan. 15—(CP)—Seven persons were killed and 31 injured when a German plane making a freak raid without an alert being sounded dropped a bomb squarely on a suburban London movie house last night.

The sound of the plane's engines was heard, then the whistle of a bomb and, the Daily Express said, it scored a direct hit on a crowded theatre. Every one in an adjoining dance hall escaped.

The movie audience kept calm. Most did not know what the blast was as they had no warning of a raid flashed on the screen.

No gunfire was heard and the bomb hit the centre of the theatre roof. It missed two balconies and landed just back of the orchestra pit, blowing at least 25 seats into the air.

It was the first time in several weeks that a known German plane was able to get as far as suburban London without detection by the elaborate coast defense radiolocation system.

Failure to sound an alert, The Associated Press said, raised immediate speculation that the Nazis have a new type of noiseless plane, possibly bombing from the stratosphere, and it escaped detection.

An adjoining grocery store also was hit by the bomb, which screamed down shortly before midnight. Properties were destroyed in suburban London.

There were indications that only one enemy plane came over.

More than 3,000 people were in the theatre when the explosion occurred just after the finish of the feature picture, "Wintertime," starring Sonja Henie.

The theatre manager through a microphone on the stage told the audience to remain seated until the lights were put on and then advised them to leave. Some tried to depart while the manager was speaking, but three young girl ushers calmed them.

The theatre lobby became an emergency casualty station. A score of ambulances arrived within minutes.

Police said reports showed all were civilian casualties except one British soldier. Many of these injured were hit by fragments of flying debris.

The blast was so strong that one firewatcher on a large store said he was blown out of his chair. Most of the injuries were cuts by flying glass and other fragments.

MONTREAL, Jan. 15 (CP). —J. O. Gagnon, secretary of the French section of the C.C.F. in Quebec, said last night he had resigned the position. The announcement followed rumors of such a move. He declared: "Things are not as I saw them in my first contact with the C.C.F., and I have decided to resign." He did not elaborate.

Claims Public Entitled To Protection

CHICAGO, Jan. 15 (AP)—Silliman Evans, publisher of the Chicago Sun, yesterday suggested legislation requiring the recording of "every minute of broadcast, over every radio station, irrespective of the character of the program, the time, or the power of the station."

Evans made the suggestion in an address before the United States National Council for professional education in journalism.

If false or misleading advertising has been run in a newspaper, or if libel has been committed it is a matter of record in the newspaper, he said, and then added:—

'Not so with the radio . . . It goes on the air, a credulous and unsuspecting public hears it, and buys the fraudulent cure-all. But a split-second after the broadcast is made, no proof of fraudulent representation, or fake advertising, can be proven, except by hearsay, and that over the air."

Evans also suggested the American Newspaper Publishers Association employ a full-time, high-salaried executive to aid in the solution of problems confronting the newspaper industry, including that of newsprint.

Soviet Army Moves Toward Pinsk

White Russian Unit Now 20 Miles Beyond Mozyr City

By HENRY C. CASSIDY
Associated Press Staff Writer.

MOSCOW, Jan. 15 — (AP). — Russian troops pursuing a disorganized German army over a large sector west of the Horyn River beyond Sarny have driven within 70 miles of the big communications base of Kovel in pre-war Poland, front dispatches declared to-day.

To the north, a White Russian Army offensive battering into the Pripet Marshes toward Pinsk 115 miles away has smashed the backbone of Nazi defences, the newspaper Red Star said, and General Konstantin Rokossovsky's troops are pouring through the broken enemy line.

The Army newspaper said the German high command vainly ordered a line held between the Sluch and Horyn Rivers, but Gen. Nikolai Vatutin's Ukrainian forces battered through and the Germans probably will attempt another stand in the Styr River running 25 to 35 miles west of the Horyn, or between the Styr and Stochod Rivers, 20 miles east of Kovel.

Moscow raid said the Nazis did not have time to blow up or mine bridges

Soviet units that seized Stepan 18 miles south-east of Sarny were driving down behind Rowne (Rovno), 35 miles south, which was reported becoming outflanked

"Tremendous losses" were inflicted on the fleeing Germans, the Russian communique said, as Rokossovsky's Cossacks, ski-shod veterans and light mobile units plunged westward through the marshes.

More than 40 smaller towns and villages, including the rail station of Kotsury, 16 miles west of Kalinkovichi, on the north bank of the Pripet, were liberated in the fourth day of Rokossovsky's advance, the bulletin said, and 3,000 Nazis were killed.

Take 30 Towns

South of the marshes, Gen. Nikolai Vatutin's First Ukrainian Army broadened its front along the Kiev-Warsaw trunk railway and crossed the Horyn River, 10 miles west of Sarny. More than 30 towns were captured in this advance, including Stepan, 35 miles north of Nazi-held Rowne (Rovno), important junction on the Kiev to Warsaw railway, supply artery for the German 6th and 8th armies in the Dnieper River bend, far to the southeast.

The twin offensives were rolling westward about 60 miles apart along the only two rail routes serving east-west traffic through the Pripet Marshes.

Vatutin's drive south of Sarny threatens to outflank Rowne from the west, and the Germans stiffened their resistance in the area between Rowne and Novograd Volynski, 55 miles to the east. Despite this the Russians continued to advance, dispatches said, killing 400 Nazis and wrecking 11 tanks and guns.

Free 1,500 Poles

LONDON, Jan. 15 — (CP-Reuters).—A guerilla detachment of the Polesi region freed 1,500 citizens of Mozyr who were being carried off to Germany, the Moscow radio reported last night.

A communique from the Polesi guerilla force said: "We have just saved two trainloads of Mozyr citizens who were being carried off to Germany from Mozyr. We blew up the track, overwhelmed the German guards and freed 1,500 people."

German Papers Have Good Newsprint

By WADE WERNER
Associated Press Staff Writer

LISBON, Jan. 15 — (AP). — Dispatches concerning newsprint shortages in the United States have provoked puzzlement here as to how the Germans still manage to publish so many newspapers on the continent of Europe.

All apparently are getting a fairly good quality of newsprint.

Dailies from bomb - shattered Berlin arrive in Lisbon looking much the same as they did in 1939— Voelkischer Boebachter six pages, Borsen-Zeitung eight, Der Angriff six, the latter with its customary two-color front page and numerous news pictures.

More remarkable, however, is the number of newspapers appearing at widespread points in occupied and satellite countries — even in such places as Minsk, close to the Russian front.

However, this applies mostly to German-language papers.

Bucharest dailies published in the Rumanian language look war-weary on shabby stock. In Paris, the once properous Paris Soir has lately been reduced to a single sheet of tabloid size with printing scarcely legible . . .

On indication the Nazis have begun throttling the book publishing industry in order to maintain a paper supply for propaganda periodicals and newspapers is to seen in the textbook shortage in schools and universities.

During the First Great War some of the most luxurious issues of certain German magazines appeared in October, 1918, creating an impression in the mind of the casual reader elsewhere in Europe that Germany still was at the peak of production. A few weeks later, however, came the armistice.

Island Bases Lashed By U.S. Fliers

Fires, Explosions Damage Japanese Holdings

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, New Guinea, Jan. 15—(AP)—Japanese tropical island bases in an almost unbroken chain of 3,000 miles from Borneo to Bougainville were listed today as having felt the wrath of bombs and bullets from far-ranging Allied planes.

From end to end of the long line, an Allied communique told of fires and explosions among such enemy facilities as a big oil refinery, a 7,000-ton cargo ship, planes, airdromes, barges, supply dumps, buildings and bivouacs.

Flying more than 1,000 miles northwest of Australia, heavy bombers set ablaze a cracking plant at the Balikpapan oil refinery on Borneo on the westernmost end of the operational line. On adjacent Celebes, the Wilhelmina wharf area was blasted.

Southeast of there, Liberators started fires in the harbor town of Dili on Portuguese Timor. Northeastward, on Ceram, explosions rocked Amahai airdrome and Geser village.

On nearby Dutch New Guinea, four-engined bombers attacked Keaukwa village.

Madang Hit Too

Closer to the northeastern New Guinea jungle front 75 tons of bombs were dropped on Alexishafen in the Madang sector.

From there, the operational line swung across New Britain, with attack planes tearing into enemy positions at invaded Arawe on the southwest coast; fighters strafing buildings and small craft to the east of Gasmata; and Mitchells and Liberators delivering a one-two punch from Solomons bases against Rabaul on the northeast end of the island.

Ground successes were reported on both sides of the narrow waters separating New Britain and New Guinea. At Borgen Bay, New Britain, United States Marines battling up the slopes of a strategic hill have killed 500 Japanese to raise enemy losses there to nearly 3,000 since that sector was invaded last Dec. 26.

On New Guinea, Australians winding up the Huon peninsula campaign captured Nambariwa and moved their artillery within shelling range of the enemy barge base of Sio.

Beaufighters Hit German Convoy

LONDON, Jan. 15—(CP Cable).—Canadian Beaufighters from the coastal command yesterday participated in an attack on enemy shipping off the Norwegian coast in which two medium-sized merchant vessels were hit by torpedoes and several escort vessels damaged, the R.C.A.F. announced today. Two Canadian planes are missing.

Coastal command Beaufighters estimated in Bergen reports to have numbered 26 dived through heavy anti-aircraft fire from both shore batteries and Nazi escort vessels to blast the convoy.

The first torpedo crashed against the hull of a medium-sized merchant ship as several Messerschmitts swooped in trying to break up the attack, but a New Zealand squadron followed up immediately with a second torpedo against another ship.

"We also got cannon hits on other vessels," one of the fliers said.

Three Messerschmitts ganged up on one Beaufighter, making six attacks while it twisted and dodged for 30 miles before it shook them off and escaped undamaged. Three planes were lost during the engagement, two of them Canadian.

The German version said that most of the torpedoes went wild and exploded ashore, with only one vessel receiving slight damage.

German Troops Advance In Yugoslavia

LONDON, Jan. 156 — (AP).— German troops have smashed down the Vrbas River Valley from Banjaluka to within 45 miles of Sarajevt, capital of Bosnia in Yugoslavia, but have suffered heavy losses in Eastern Bosnia, Marshal Josip Bros (Tito) reported to-day.

Nazi columns captured the Vrbas River towns of Bugojno and Gornjivakuf, the latter 54 miles west of the Bosnian capital, despite continuing harassing action by Yugoslav partisans, Tito's communique, broadcast by the Free Yugoslav radio, said:

Sarajevo is 87 miles south-east of Banjaluka, rail junction from which the Germans began their drive through Central Bosnia.

Other German columns captured the town of Prnjavor, 12 miles south of Banjaluka. They are meeting bitter resistance, however, near the town of Kotar Varos, 10 miles farther south, where the Partisans are constantly attacking their lines of communication. A German column was reported smashed between Banjaluka and the town of Cadjavich.

Partisans were on the offensive in Eastern Bosnia according to Tito's bulletin, and captured the town of Bijelina and the locality of Jamja, 65 miles north-east of Sarajevo.

Hercegovinian Patriots were said to have cut the railway line between Dubrovnik on the Dalmatian coast north to Mostar, destroying the stations of Luk, Jasenica and Diklic.

The Yugoslav 2nd Division, battling Germans and Chetniks in Serbia, captured the locality of Ivanjica, south of the town of Cacak, after a fierve two-day battle in which the enemy suffered heavy losses.

The Fiume - Zabreg - Belgrade railway, main feeder artery of the German forces in Yugoslavia, was again cut by Partisan columns near Draganici.

EXTRA!

LONDON—The German high command announced today Russian forces had launched a new offensive "north of Lake Ilmen." Lake Ilmen is about 170 miles south of Leningrad on the long-dormant northern front.

NEW YORK—The German high command asserted today that the U.S. Air Force was "continuously publishing greatly exaggerated figures" on the number of German fighters shot down during American raids on the Reich.

OTTAWA—War expenditures for the first nine months of the present fiscal year, April 1 to Dec. 31, 1943, totalled $2,782,749,515, compared with $1,641,588,326 in the same period of the previous year.

Hitler Has Plane Reserve Hidden Away

Invasion Visualized As An Armageddon Never Before Witnessed

By DEWITT MacKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst

The chief Allied lessons emerging from the mighty daylight air battle over central Germany Tuesday are twofold: (1) Encouragement, because the air fleet was successful in a most hazardous attack, and (2) warning of future dangers, because of the strength displayed by the enemy.

The magnitude of the attacking force, comprising some 700 great bombers and 500 fighter planes, resulted in the Nazis flinging into the air every available craft to meet the assault. Thus they confirmed that Hitler has a reserve which he has been husbanding against the day of Anglo-American invasion when air power is likely to be the determining factor.

Will Attack Britain

This reserve will come into full action when Allied forces move out from England for the greatest amphibious operation ever attempted. Then we shall witness an aerial conflict such as heretofore has been seen only in the fantasies of imaginative writers and artists. The British military commentator who writes under the nom de guerre of "Veritas" has this to say about probable German activities at this crucial moment as the Allies rush for the kill:

"Apart from terrorism (against Britain), it is obvious enough that as a great expeditionary force with its vast mass of equipment and supplies begins to converge on the invasion ports, the enemy will go all out to inflict the maximum damage and as far as possible to cripple transport and cut down our war production—by bombardment and possibly by using air-borne suicide squads. It is known that the German have a bomber force in reserve for this purpose, and that, by enforcing a system of drastic priorities, they have been able to raise their fighter strength in North Europe to about 2,000 front-line aircraft.

"In the titanic campaign for air mastery, both sides can be expected to throw in everything they have. While it lasts, the civilian population of England may well experience something in the nature of a state siege. Whatever they may be called upon to endure, they will be right in the front line, and their contribution to the gaining and sustaining of bridgeheads will be an indispensable one. They have been at 'action stations' for four years: and they are ready."

That's the grim picture which the people of Britain see in the gathering clouds over the French coast. We on this continent will do well if we try to orient ourselves to this Armageddon towards which we are rushing.

German City Of Brunswick Left In Flaming Ruins Gets 2,000 Tons Of Bombs

Huge Messerschmitt Plant Is Target As British Night Raiders Continue Round The Clock Assaults

LONDON, Jan. 15—(CP).—The R.A.F. and R.C.A.F. threw their full weight into the pre-invasion campaign to exterminate the German air force, burying the central German city of Brunswick under a heavy load of explosives last night as an after-stroke to American daylight attack last Tuesday when heavy bombers fought one of the great battles of the war to bomb the Messerschmitt plant.

The heavy R.A.F. bombers dumped 2,000 long tons of bombs upon the plane-manufacturing city in what the Air Ministry termed "a very heavy attack." This and other operations cost 38 aircraft.

The R.C.A.F. share of the night losses was seven aircraft.

As this main force was over Brunswick, Mosquito bombers returned again to attack Berlin, and other planes bombed Madgeburg, southwest of Berlin, and targets in northern France.

The overnight blow at Nazi defence fighters swung the Allied aerial offensive into a round-the-clock attack again, following by only a few hours a day-long assault on military targets in northern France by strong formations of Allied heavy, medium and light bombers, fighter-bombers and swarms of fighters.

Nine enemy craft were destroyed in the daylight raids by American heavy bombers, and 18 more by their fighter escorts. Allied losses in yesterday's daylight operations were 16 planes, three of them heavies.

The Canadian Lancaster squadrons were included in the bomber command force which ranged over Germany during the night, it was learned.

A German broadcast said 'major' formations had attacked during the night, and added that Nazi fighters had offered strong resistance.

Making their first attack since the gigantic air battles over Germany Tuesday, hundreds of U. S heavy bombers with fighter escort were included in the mixed armada which poured a deluge of explosives on Northern France by daylight yesterday.

The onslaught appeared to equal and may have exceeded the record Christmas Eve raid on the same area in which approximately 700 American heavy bombers and about the same number of Marauders and fighters participated.

The Lancaster squadrons of the Canadian bomber group fought through a big force of German night fighters to do another of the cloud-bombing jobs that set Brunswick so alight it looked like a city "that was not blacked out," as one pilot put it.

This flier added, "It was just like daylight. Fires on the ground lit up

Windsor Strike Threatens Transport Tie-up

WINDSOR, Jan. 15. — (CP).— Windsor's entire wartime trucking industry to-day was threatened with a tie-up following a meeting last night of members of the Teamsters' Union who voted to give Union Organizer A. D. Petrozzi power to call a general strike unless some agreement is reached soon between Direct-Winters Transport employees and the management. Employees of the organization have been out since Jan. 3.

The union concerned is Local 880 of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters, Chauffeurs, Warehousemen and Helpers (C.I.O.) A statement issued from union headquarters to-day said Petrozzi had been given the power to order a strike unless he is successful in bringing the men and the company together over the week-end.

Petrozzi said that rather than see the entire industry tied up he would make another attempt to bring Direct-Winters management and employees to an agreement. Differences include a collective bargaining contract and adjustment of bonus payments.

Company officials said they were ready to sign an agreement but want no closed-shop clause. The union insists that without a closed-shop

Discipline Spain Newspaper Says

MANCHESTER, England, Jan. 15 (CP-Reuters).—Commenting today on a London report of time bombs hidden in cargoes of oranges shipped from Spain, the Manchester Guardian said editorially that "the episode of the time bombs in the oranges may do what other affronts from the same quarter have not done and this is to compel the Foreign Office to take a really strong line with the Spanish government."

"It certainly will cause angry feeling in this country and it is inevitable that the Government shall declare more openly its complete dissatisfaction with Franco and his government," the Guardian said.

"Planting of time bombs in food cargoes is a hostile act of great seriousness and justifies much more than diplomatic remonstrance. It is clearly the act of agents, whether of the Falange or German, and it is time Franco was made to understand that this kind of pro-Axis 'neutrality' will not be tolerated.

"The United States is much exercised now about the growth of Fascist governments in Latin America. All the more reason why she should join with us in making an example of the Fascist in Europe to whose pattern Argentina and Bolivia are shaped. Franco's turn comes before that of Ramirez."

Launch Corvette Peterborough

"Corvette Peterborough launched at 9:00 a.m." was the wording of a telegram received to-day by Mayor James Hamilton from the Kingston Shipbuilding Company.

Earlier this week the Mayor had been advised that the launching would take place on Saturday, but would be without ceremony. The christening ceremony is expected to take place near the time of the commissioning, possibly May or June, when representatives from this city will be present.

Editor Warns The Public

Urges AP To Appeal Court's Decision

CHICAGO, Jan. 15—(AP)—Richard J. Finnegan, editor of the Chicago Times, said yesterday he was "sure the public doesn't understand what has happened" in the United States Government's suit against The Associated Press.

"Few newspapermen do, either," he told the American Association of School and Deparmtents of Journalism.

He said AP should appeal the decision of the New York Federal court and that "the Supreme Court ought to clear things up."

The findings of the court "mystified us when we compared them with the complaint," which accused AP of violating anti-trust laws. He said "we have the court's word that The Associated Press is not a monopoly in the important aspects that the government claimed."

"The court nevertheless, through an injunction which restrains AP from observing by-laws regulating the election of members, has taken the copy of a news report under its wing," he continued. "It has opened the door for government regulation of news material while it is still in the written form, prior to publication."

Poland Stalls On Reply To Russians

Ask Britain, U.S.A. To Sit In On Discussions

LONDON, Jan. 15—(AP).—British official quarters and the London press today hailed the Polish government's reply to Russia's boundary offer as brightening the chances for settlement of this knottiest of United Nations' problems.

The Poles, in an official statement early today, neither accepted nor rejected the Soviet Union's offer of the Curzon Line as a possible Russian-Polish frontier, but called upon the United States and Britain to bring them and the Russians together to discuss all outstanding questions.

The British Government was represented as more than willing to lend aid as an intermediary, especially to restore Soviet-Polish relations to co-ordinate the Polish underground with the Red Army's drive.

(The U.S. State Department announced in Washington that it had received and was giving immediate attention to the Polish request.)

The diplomatic correspondent of the London Times said that Britain as well as Russia had assured the Poles their borders would be extended westward as compensation for the Soviet's Curzon Line proposal, which would leave Russia with the bulk of the Ukraine and White Russian territory incorporated into the Soviet Union in 1939.

The press generally alluded to the Poles' "wise, statesman-like" reply, which it said avoided "polemics" and seized the opportunity offered by the Russians to get down to brass tacks in negotiations.

Report Encouraging.

The Polish statement, a copy of which was given to the Russians before its publication, came after a cabinet session which lasted throughout Friday morning and was followed by another meeting between British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden and Polish Foreign Minister Tadeusz Romer.

"The Polish government," it said, "are approaching the British and United States governments with a view to securing through their intermediary discussion by the Polish and Soviet governments, with the participation of the British and American governments, of all outstanding questions, settlement of which would lead to friendly and permanent co-operation between Poland and the Soviet Union."

The British government issued a comment on the Polish statement, declaring it was regarded as "an encouraging response" to the Soviet declaration broadcast from Moscow Jan. 11.

"It shows that in the view of the Polish government all outstanding questions that divide them are open to negotiation with the common object of reaching a satisfactory settlement," the British statement said.

The Soviet declaration of Jan. 11 said the Polish government had "shown itself incapable o organizing an active struggle against the German invaders in Poland itself" and "by its incorrect policy it often plays into the hands of the German invaders."

Warkworth Youth Absent From Parades

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 15 (ENS) —To be granted a postponement of military training under the N.R.M.A. does not relieve the citizen of fulfilling his obligation to the militia. A Warkworth youth, C. J. Cornelius, found out when he was hailed before Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C. Friday on a charge of failing to report for parades as a member of B Company, 2nd Midland Regiment.

The charge was laid by Major N. Alex. MacColl who told the court that the accused had not put in an appearance at a parade since last summer. Cornelius pleaded that he had been granted a postponement of Military Training and therefore did not have to attend parades, however when it was explained that the postponement did not alter his status in the militia he agreed that he would attend future parades and the charge was withdrawn.

DENMARK'S ROLE — While a direct Channel crossing to some sections of northern France or the Low Countries is considered certain when the second front invasion begins, Denmark is also looked upon by many as an important key to an assault on the Nazi European fortress. This map shows a method of attack which has been discussed widely by experts. A combined air and sea attack, followed by troop landings, could be undertaken from England while Russia's Baltic army, already hitting at Latvia and in the East Prussia area, could be co-ordinated with the thrust from the Atlantic. Arrow indicates how Norway may be an effective landing place for Allied troops and Hitler already has indicated his fear of such a possibility by fortifying Danish Jutland. Once landings on Denmark were achieved, northern Germany would be left open to attack.

Bulgars Order Sofia Evacuated

LONDON, Jan. 15 — (AP). — The Bulgarian Government has ordered immediate total evacuation of Sofit's 300,000 citizens as a result of heavy Allied air blows against the capital, the German radio announced last night.

Dispatches from Istanbul quoted travellers as saying the centre of the city was almost knocked out by the American-British day and night attacks this week. The German marine headquarters and the Hotel Slavianska Besseda, housing most of the German army staff, were reported destroyed.

The German broadcast said most of the evacuees would be accommodated in the provinces and added that other large towns in Bulgaria also were to be evacuated.

(The Bulgarian home radio broadcast an order of the day by Interior Minister Docho Christov which threatened the personnel of Sofia's health services with prosecution if they did not report for duty in the capital within 24 hours. The broadcast, recorded by U.S. Government monitors, said the city's banks and motor repair shops were also ordered to re-open immediately.)

The death penalty has been ordered for looting and a curfew imposed from 8 p.m. to 8 a.m., the Berlin broadcast said.

The Istanbul advices said the Ministries of the Interior and Finance and part of the Foreign Ministry were reported destroyed among many other buildings, including the National Theatre.

Pugnacious Pilot Hurls Gasoline Tank

Air Headquarters in Italy, Jan. 15 (AP). — Lt. R. M. Bell, Barrington, Ill., pilot of a bomb-less plane that went along to cover a formation of bombers attacking shipping off Yugoslavia Thursday decided he had to have his part in the fray.

Diving on one 5,000-ton ship that had been hit, he dropped his belly fuel tank directly on the deck. The gasoline helped to spread the small fire abroad the vessel which was soon enveloped with flames.

STOCKHOLM, Jan. 15—(AP).—The German-dominated Scandinavian Telegraph Bureau said to-day there were reports in Oslo that 4,000 persons had been evacuated from the Norwegian coastal city of Tromso because of a possibility of an Allied invasion in that area.

The bureau said there were other rumors that Narvik and Harstad would be evacuated.

Aluminum Setup Irks US Member

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15.—(AP).—Representative Walt Horan (Rep., Wash.) said yesterday that Joseph B. Eastman, director of the office of defence trasportation had recommended to the War Production Board the closing down of 20 of the 25 aluminum lines in the United States Pacific Northwest.

The representative said Eastman advanced "a transportation squeeze" as the reason for his request.

The O.D.T. director did not name the lines he suggested closing.

"It is just another phase of the current aluminum jockeying," Horan said. "We of the West Coast delegations do not want any shutdowns in the United States as long as the Shipshaw project in Canada is allowed to run full blast. Our delegations are asking Eastman the cost of transporting alumina (a source of aluminum) to Shipshaw and the cost of transporting aluminium to the United States."

Horan said Eastman made his recommendations to the W.P.B. in reply to a request from the W.P.B. for his views on shutdown of aluminum production lines.

Army Probing Dog Decoration

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15 —(AP). —A United States war department spokesman said last night the army is investigating the award of a Silver Star to a dog for heroic attacks on the enemy in Sicily.

Dogs for Defence reported in New York yesterday that three-year-old half-husky, Chips, also awarded the Distinguished Service Cross November 19 for "courageous action in single-handedly eliminating a dangerous machine-gun nest and causing the surrender of its crew."

The War Department spokesman however, said army officials here expressed doubt the dog has received the D.E.C. or the Purple Heart which Dogs For Defence said also was added to Chip's collar decorations.

Attacks in the Sibenik area were carried out by light bombers and fighter-bombers.

Medium bombers attacked a railway bridge at Pontecorvo in the Cassino area while other planes blasted gun positions at Sant'elia and San Giuseppe. Hits were scored on the port of Anzio, southwest of Rome.

Farmers' Wives Say City Women Have Easiest Job

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 15 (ENS) —Having had a good many years first hand experience of farm life, ladies of the Petherick's vicinity are strongly of the opinion that their city sisters have a much easier time of it than they do. At least their arguments were convincing enough to win an impromptu debate on the subject when the topic "Resolved that I would rather be a farmer's wife than the wife of a city dweller." The debate formed a part of the January meeting of Zion Women's Association which met Thursday afternoon at Mrs. E. Irwin's to hear a report on the banquet they had provided for Rotarian's Farmer's Night.

An unusual feature of the meeting was the presentation of a lovely wall bracket to Mrs. Royce Hannah (nee Rheta Watson) whose marriage took place on January 5. Mrs. E. Irwin made the accompanying address and Miss Marian Wright made the presentation.

The program opened with a singsong lead by Miss Isobel Irwin followed by a reading by Mrs. Jack Watson; a piano duet by Misses Marion and Bernice Wright; an address by Mrs. J. R. Bick on the "New Year"; and a reading by Mrs. John Simpson. The debate was conducted by Mrs. Fred Barnum with Mrs. D. Ingram and Mrs. Carmen Wright presenting the argument for the affirmative and Mrs. A. Petherick and Mrs. H. Arnold on the winning negative side. The judges were Mrs. J. R. Bick, Mrs. E. Irwin, Mrs. E. L. Anderson. At the close of the meeting Mrs. John Simpson gave demonstration of a punch mat.

"The Germans were using their new fighter flares, several times brighter than the old ones," a Canadian gunner said. "The whole target area was dazzling with them and we could plainly see our Lancasters swarming all over the place."

One of the Canadian Lancasters shot down an antiquated four-engined Focke-Wulf Condor, primarily a transport plane, which the Germans threw up with its fighters in frantic opposition to the fourth big night attack of the month on Germany.

Obituary

HIRAM BARNUM.

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 15. — (ENS).—A native of Seymour township and life-long resident of the district, Hiram Barnum 84, was buried at Rylstone Friday afternoon. He was a well known and highly respected figure in the community where he had farmed until about twenty years ago when failing health forced his retirement. Following his marriage to Ellen Meiklejohn, formerly of Rawdon, the couple moved to a farm on the 11th Concession, where Mr. Barnum live to the time of his death.

Mr. Barnum was a member of Rylstone United church, where for nearly twenty-five years he had been an elder and took an active interest in church affairs. Though like others of the vicinity he went in for mixed farming, Mr. Barnum was at one time the largest patron at Rylstone Cheese and Butter Company which he served for a number of years as director.

There survive besides his widow two sons, Gordon and Douglas at home, Lorne at Petherick's Corners and Harold of Seymour, and one daughter, Mrs. Harry Watson, (Bessie) of Seymour. The funeral cortege left the family residence at two o'clock for Rylstone United church, where services were conducted by Rev. Holden of Springbrook and interment was made in the Rylstone cemetery. The pall-bearers were John S. McKeown, W. T. Allan, Chester Meiklejohn, Murray Meiklejohn, Sanford Meiklejohn, Richard Meiklejohn and the bearers of many lovely floral tributes were Roy Southworth, Earl Finch, Densmere Lain and Lawrence Meiklejohn.

C.C.F. Optimistic Toward Dominion Fight

NEW YORK, Jan. 15 (CP) — A Canadian General Election within 15 months may put the C.C.F. in power and the party is preparing plans to meet such a National challenge, M. J. Coldwell, C.C.F. leader, said in addressing a meeting sponsored by the League for Industrial Democracy today.

"It is not beyond a possibility, if not a probability, that the general election due within 16 months at the most, will put us in power in Canada," said Mr. Coldwell.

Word reaching him from overseas had reported great gains in strength for the C.C.F. among all the armed forces. If Ontario civilians had voted in the Provincial election last August in the same proportion as soldiers who were "permitted" to vote in Canada, the C.C.F. would have been the government of Ontario, Mr. Coldwell said.

Had provision been made for taking the soldiers' vote overseas, particularly in Britain, all the 1943 elections in Canada would have been more conclusively C.C.F.

Editorials in the daily, weekly and financial press attacking the C.C.F. were evidence that "the vested interests are thoroughly alarmed" at the prospect of the party winning the Federal election.

"Because this is so obvious the common man in greater numbers joins our ranks."

New Social Order

The C.C.F. aim was to replace the present capitalist system with its "injustice and inhumanity" with a social order from which exploitation of one group by another would be eliminated and in which economic planning for abundance would supersede unregulated private enterprise.

The party believed the change could be made through political action and the election of a C.C.F. government.

"We do not believe in change by violence," Mr. Coldwell said.

In 10 years the C.C.F. had become the major political issue in Canada, but inadequate funds prevented the party taking full advantage of a favorable situation, while its opponents were financed by the corporations, some of which were subsidiaries of parent companies in the United States.

The C.C.F. did not intend to allow any corporation, native or foreign, to rob Canada or posterity. National planning to develop resources was required. But the C.C.F. did not believe that everything should be owned and operated by the state.

It distinguished between two kinds of property—that upon which the life and general welfare of the community depended and which should be socially owned, and that which ministered to the welfare of the individual and family and did not interfere with the general economic plan and thus should be individually owned.

Dr. W. J. Johnston to Preach Anniversary Services in Trinity Church Sunday

The anniversary services of Trinity United church will be held on Sunday, on which occasion the preacher will be Rev. W. J. Johnston, M.A., D.D., of Eglinton United church, Toronto.

Dr. Johnston came to Canada from Portadown, a thriving industrial town in Northern Ireland. The circuit with which he was connected in his boyhood has four ministers. It is the largest circuit in Irish Methodism and it has been noted for its periodic revivals in which hundreds of people are brought into the Kingdom of God. It was during one of these revival movements that young Johnston was converted. He came out to Canada as a young man, and entered the Montreal Methodist College, from which he graduated. Some years afterwards he was ordained to the ministry he was called to Eglinton church, Toronto, which is one of the largest congregations in Toronto. There are 816 families, and 2,132 members in the church, and Dr. Johnston's ministry there has been very successful. He received his degree of Doctor of Divinity at the Emmanuel College convocation in April, 1943. He is well known as a speaker at service clubs throughout Ontario.

St. Andrew's church will cancel its evening service next Sunday to allow its members to attend the anniversary service, and Dr. E. W. Young will assist in that service.

Special music will be rendered at both services by the Trinity choir under Miss Mabel Clarry, organist and choir directress. An invitation is cordially extended to all former members and friends of Trinity church to be present upon this occasion.

MARKS ANNIVERSARY—On Sunday the Trinity United Church congregation will celebrate its anniversary. Rev. W. J. Johnston, M.A., D.D., of Eglinton Avenue United Church, Toronto, will be the special preacher. Trinity Church, formerly situated on Charlotte Street, and known as Charlotte Street Methodist Church, is one of the older congregations in the city.

Jesus Gave Joy To Friends By the Raising of Lasarus

By REV. E. R. JAMES

It is both interesting and helpful to remember that Our Lord's first miracle, the turning of the water into wine at Cana of Gallilee, was in the home circle. Its primary purpose was to save His friends from ambarrassement: —"They have no wine." The last miracle according to St. John was in the home circle also. Its primary purpose was to bring joy to the hearts of His dear friends.

It was the home of plain, simple people: "Martha, Mary and Lazarus." The two sisters were keeping house for their brother. They were in comfortable circumstances, and neither rich nor poor, but able to give generous hospitality to the Lord and His disciples. It is important to remember that it is the home atmosphere that enabled the Lord to perform this miracle. In that home there is love, harmony, tenderness, sympathy and consideration for one another. Above all there is faith and trust in Jehovah. They were the product of the best in Judasim. In Our Lord's home village of Nazareth "He could not do many miracles there because of their unbelief."

"Now a certain man was sick, named Lazarus." At once the sisters sends a messenger. How brief the message; how true to life. "Lord, behold, he whom thou lovest is sick." The Master is only to know and He will come immediately the sisters say to one another.

"Now Jesus loved Martha and her sister and Lazarus." The Authorized Version does not bring out the full meaning and depth of the statement. "Now Jesus was all the time loving Martha and her sister and Lazarus" is the translation of a modern scholar: "All the time." How the words sink into our hearts. When sickness comes to your home remember that "All the time" Jesus loves you and your loved ones; especially "he whom thou lovest."

"When He had heard therefore that he was sick He abode two days still in the same place where He was." The writer looks back after half a century and inserts that word "therefore." Deliberately he writes it for you and me in our hour of anxiety and delay. He is all the time loving you and yours and He whispers:— "What I do now thou knowest not, but thou shalt know hereafter." It is the promise of the noblest Gentleman of the ages. It helps to deepen your faith. "Though He slay me yet will I trust in Him" is your response.

"Then said Thomas unto his fellow disciples: "Let us also go that we may die with Him." What a light it throws upon the Apostle who doubted the Lord's resurrection. Thomas is the man who cannot be carried away by mere enthusiasm. He is not afraid to speak his mind; moreover he is not afraid to die for his Master. Very often this is the characteristic of men of independent and enquiring mind.

"Many of the Jews came to Martha and Mary to comfort them concerning their brother." Here is the social aspect. They are highly respected and their friends in the city put themselves out to call and sympathize. Written more than nineteen centuries ago it brings the incident close to our hearts. Moreover Lazarus was a young man full of promise. He must have been when the Lord was so drawn to him.

"Martha went and met Jesus." St. Luke portrays Martha as the practical member of the household. She is full of energy; she cannot sit still. She carries the cares of the household upon her shoulders. She is a strong character. She stands in the presence of the Lord. Mary, the emotional, "fell down at His feet." Now do you take sorrow?

"Lord, if Thou hadst been here my brother had not died." Independantly the sisters make the same statement. It was the uppermost, unspoken, thought in their minds during those terrible days of delay. No reproach but deep regret. They believed that the Christ could have healed their brother; but their faith and hope could not rise to the thought He could raise him from the dead. The progress of Martha's faith is true to modern psychology. No forger of the second century could have invented it.

"Jesus saith unto her, I am the resurrection and the Life; he that believeth in Me, though he were dead, yet shall he live. And whosoever liveth and believeth in Me shall never die." Here is the reason for the Lord's delay. The brother's death enables Him to give us this clear statement which has comforted and will comfort countless mourners.

"Believest thou this? She saith unto Him; Yea, Lord, I believe that Thou art the Christ the Son of God, which should come into the world." The Revised Version brings out the deeper force of the words. Not "I believe" but "I have believed." To the Greek mind this means not only I have believed but I will continue to believe. Do the words move your heart in spite of the darkness, sorrow and grief? "LORD, I have believed—Thanks be unto Thee."

SON OF MAN, TAKE THIS BOOK AND EAT IT. AND I DID EAT IT AND IT WAS IN MY MOUTH AS HONEY FOR SWEETNESS.

Jesus Answers His Critics — ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By Alfred J. Buescher

Scripture—Mark 2:15—3:35

When Jesus dined at the house of Levi, the publican, many followed Him to Levi's house, and publicans and "sinners" ate with them.

The Pharisees asked Him why He ate with sinners, and Jesus answered, "I came not to call the righteous, but sinners, to repentance."

In the temple Jesus found a man with a withered hand. He asked, "Is it lawful to do good on the Sabbath"? The Pharisees were silent.

The Pharisees did not answer so He healed the man, being grieved and angry at their hardness of heart.

GOLDEN TEXT—Matt. 5:1

Jesus Answers His Critics

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL

(The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for Jan. 16 is Mark 2:15-3:35, the Golden Text being Matt. 5:11, "Blessed are ye when men shall reproach you and persecute you, and say all manner of evil against you falsely, for My sake.")

YOU REMEMBER our last lesson ended when Jesus called Levi, the publican, to follow Him. We know Levi as Matthew.

Matthew made a great feast for Jesus at his house and many were invited, including, probably, some publicans who had been associated with Levi in collecting taxes from their countrymen for the Roman masters. The Pharisees, those chronic enemies of Jesus, and the scribes, asked His disciples, "How is it that He eateth with publicans and sinners?" The word "sinners" does not mean that any of these men were guilty of crimes, but that they were not accepted by the orthodox Jewish church as acceptable from their legalistic standpoint.

Jesus' answer was one of the most precious in the whole record of His teaching. He said. "They that are whole have no need of the physician, but they that are sick: I came not to call the righteous, but the sinners to repentance."

Pharisees Silenced

That silenced them on that point, but immediately they asked why Jesus' disciples did not fast. The disciples of John the Baptist and the Pharisees fasted, why not his? Jesus answered that He, the Bridegroom, was with them, so why should they fast frequently? The law ordered a fast once a year, but the Pharisees had multiplied fast days so that they fasted twice a week, and even the disciples of John (then in prison) had fasted frequently.

One day He, their Master, would not be with them, and then they could fast oftener, but in His presence there was no need to fast, but to be joyful. You don't sew a rent in an old garment with new material, do you? He asked, or put new wine into old bottles? Old bottles would be worn and the fermentation of the new wine would burst them, so new wine would go into new bottles that would stretch and hold it.

One Sabbath Jesus and His disciples were walking in a grain field near Capernaum, where most of these scenes took place. As the men walked and talked some of them picked the grains of wheat and ate them. This was another way of breaking the strict Jewish laws, according to the scribes and Pharisees. "Behold, why do they on the Sabbath that which is not lawful?" they asked.

Jesus reminded them that in their own scriptures it was recorded that when David and those that were with him were hungry, they went into the temple and ate the shew bread that was supposed to be eaten only by the priests. "And He said unto them, the Sabbath was made for man, and not man for the sabbath. Therefore

Tyranny By The Law

The press has given a good deal of attention to Mr. Justice Hope's recent warning that the law can be tyrannical; law, the eminent jurist said, was an excellent thing, but it is possible to have too much of it. "In some countries and in some places", said he "there have been attempts to tyrannize by law over the private life of the citizen, even in his thoughts and beliefs", and he warned that "there are those whose zeal to dictate how others shall lead their lives leads them to press for undesirable extensions of the law".

The majority of these people who want to extend the law to the point where it regiments and regulates the citizen's life excessively are not themselves ill-disposed nor do they recognize themselves as potential tyrants. But they have a passion for order, and they have very little realization of what liberty is, or what a human being is. They are utterly lacking in humanism; they neither love their fellow men nor hate them; they regard humanity as essentially nothing more than the raw material from which a perfect, smooth-running state can be made. This is a point of view with which we have no sympathy whatever; it is essential that the government of the land and the law of the land recognize and respect the free will of the individual citizen, and interfere with that free will as little as possible. We must have laws to keep society from falling into chaos, but it is remarkable how few laws are needed to achieve this end; indeed, the Ten Commandments and the subsidiary laws which explain their application to modern life fill the bill extremely well. But there is a strong modern trend to exalt the State above the Individual, and to make laws which imply that the Individual was made for the State, and not vice versa. Unless free men in this and other countries are prepared to resist this trend to the uttermost of their power, it will overwhelm us.

In this connection it is interesting to recall some observations about the nature of the State which were made by the late Dr. Sigmund Freud in Civilization And Its Discontents, which he published in 1929. Through the years, said Freud, man has achieved a high degree of civilization, chiefly by repressing his aggressive instincts. But those instincts have merely been repressed, not rooted out, and they are constantly seeking sources of expression. A result of this situation has been to permit the State to do things which would be punished in the Individual, and man achieves a vicarious satisfaction by seeing his own instincts of aggression expressed through the greater entity, the State. Thus, while an individual cannot hold the power of life and death over another, the State is permitted to do so; the individual may not move against his enemies and snatch their possessions, but the state may do so in war. The outlet of deep-rooted individual instincts of aggression through the State, and the manner in which this may be exalted into a national faith has been clearly exemplified twice during the last thirty years by Germany.

Now while this transfer of aggressive power from the individual to the State may be a good thing when it is carefully controlled, it has many dangerous aspects. We all have some seeds of tyranny in us, and if we endow the State with our collective desire to tyrannize it will recoil upon us with unimaginable force. In our struggle toward a better civilization we must struggle against every form of tyranny, whether in individuals or in the State; if, as Mr. Justice Hope suggests, we enmesh ourselves in a net of tyrannous laws, we shall have regressed, not progressed toward a condition of freedom.

The necessities of war have led us to accept serious restrictions on our freedom because we had no choice. But it is constantly being hinted from a variety of sources that these wartime restrictions must be continued in times of peace, in order to prevent chaos in our country. That is pessimistic balderdash, based on an unwarrantable assumption that we are unfit for real freedom. At the earliest opportunity we must demand the return of the freedom which we had, and resist any further tyranny of law or State. No one who has a real affection for mankind doubts that men work better when they are free than when they are loaded with chains.

A Message To Congress

When Mr. Roosevelt gave his message to Congress last Tuesday he did not mince matters, and nothing was discernible in his speech which could reasonably be interpreted as a bid for reelection this year. He proposed a National Service law which would make every able-bodied adult in the U.S. available for war production, and which would prevent strikes; certainly no one could call that a popular move. It will be strongly opposed in Congress and out of it by labour leaders, many of whom have already expressed themselves heatedly on the subject.

But there is something in this for all of us to ponder: apparently the President does not look for a quick ending of the war, or he would not think such a sweeping measure necessary at this time. Perhaps he expects the fall of Germany this year, as predicted by General Eisenhower, but he may have a very different view about the length of time which it will take to defeat the Japanese, and reduce their holdings in the Pacific to a size consonant with peace.

The President also reminded Congress of its duty to the people, and he set out under eight headings the rights which he considered the minimum for free citizens. They were as follows:

1. The right to a useful and remunerative job.
2. The right to earn enough to provide adequate food, clothing and recreation.
3. The right of every farmer to a return for his products which will provide a decent living for him and his family.
4. The right of every business man to be free from unfair competition and domination by monopolies.
5. The right of every family to a decent home.
6. The right of adequate medical care and an opportunity to achieve and enjoy health.
7. The right to adequate protection from economic fears in old age, illness, accident and unemployment.
8. The right to a good education.

Few Congressmen will deny the validity of these claims, but to ensure them for every citizen—that is a gigantic task. The President certainly gave the people's representatives something to chew on.

Annual Review From Lethbridge

Somewhat belatedly, but with the utmost goodwill, we acknowledge the receipt of the annual summing up of Southern Alberta affairs in the New Year's edition of the Lethbridge Herald. Senator W. A. Buchanan, the publisher of that paper, sends this annual review to other friendly publications, and we are happy to be counted among their number. Lethbridge, speaking for Southern Alberta, has a great story to tell, and it is fitting that we should hear it in the East.

The city of Lethbridge is in first-rate financial condition. It paid off nearly $800,000 in old debts during 1943, and invested $165,000 in Victory Bonds, to be used in a construction program when the war is over. That is a record of which any city might be proud.

As for the farming area around Lethbridge, this is what the Herald has to say:

"Conditions are prosperous in Southern Alberta in spite of the fact that the crop was only two-thirds of normal. This prosperity is reflected in the greatest progress in the payment of farm debts in the history of this area. Instead of gambling in land and wheat, as was too often the case in the last war, farmers are cleaning up their old debts, putting money into Victory Bonds and preparing to meet whatever conditions may follow the end of the war. They are not going to be unprepared this time."

The Southern Alberta district which the Lethbridge paper serves is one of the most go-ahead communities in Canada, and we like to hear about it. Indeed, we sometimes wonder whether the secret of Western progressiveness might not be embodied in a tonic and shipped East, where we are sometimes a little too contented for our own good.

NOTE AND COMMENT

"Monopolies Opposed by C.C.F." says a headline. They don't want monopolies; they just want monopoly.

A dietitian advises that breakfast be eaten in silence, for reasons of health. For perfect health, we advise eating it in bed.

The Brantford Expositor comments on the fact that we headed a recent editorial "The Prospect Before Us"; where else, it asks, could a prospect be? The title, of course, is a quotation from a well-known work of a very famous author and we suggest that our Brantford contemporary might yoke up the oxen and drive in to Hamilton, where he will doubtless be able to get the Public Librarian to identify it for him.

Diary Of A Newspaper Reader

By SAMUEL MARCHBANKS

SUNDAY: Spent most of the day hugging the fireplace. The great charm of English houses in winter is that they are heated by open fires, with which one can play for hours at a time. Contrary to the belief popular in Canada, English houses are not cold in winter—at least, not more often than Canadian houses. A room with a fire in it has life; the hearth is truly the altar of the household. In a room which has no fireplace I never know how to orient myself; there is no obvious focal point to the room, or the furniture, or the groups of people in it. One cannot make a focal point of a steam coil. And the delights of fire-poking are endless. There are, I believe, 116 fireplaces in the Duke of Devonshire's country home at Chatsworth; how I should love to go from room to room, poking each one into a cheery blaze!

MONDAY: I read an article in a Western newspaper, in which the writer rejoices that the war has caused the railway dining cars to discard finger-bowls. He says that he has never liked finger-bowls, looking upon them as a useless and irksome frippery....I scorn him. He is probably a poor wretch who has eaten off a corner of a kitchen table all his life, and who drank out of his finger-bowl the first time he was given one. Throw out the finger-bowl, and what goes next? The napkin. After the napkin, the table-cloth, and after the cloth the knife and fork. My poor Western brother, if you want to eat with your hands you cannot do it at my table. I have always liked finger-bowls, and if possible I like a few flower petals floating in them.

TUESDAY: Clifton Fadiman has resigned as book-reviewer of the New Yorker magazine, and several writers seem to look upon this as a great blow to modern letters. Personally, I am glad. Fadiman's taste was always too stodgy and Germanic to suit me, and he rarely had a good word to say for a book written by an Englishman. But give him a fat book of ponderous mysticism by a middle-European, or something stark out of the Steinbeck-Hemingway drawer, and he was as happy as a clam. I always got the impression from his reviews that he had read everything and understood nothing—a 'gross feeder' as they say in the rose catalogues. But he is to be succeeded by Edmund Wilson, a really great critic, though not the man who would ever be called upon to help sell soup.

WEDNESDAY: The music of Russia's new National Anthem has appeared, and I played it over several times. It is first-rate without being inspired, and makes the unlamented Internationale sound like the hurdygurdy tune it is. It is also very singable, particularly so by Russians, who like lots of swing and dash in their music. I see that 165 musicians and 40 poets competed in the production of this piece, and they all got 4,000 rubles each; but the three who concocted the winning piece got 100,000 rubles each. It is real democracy when even the failures in a competition get a prize. Now Russia has a splendid national song, produced by committee means, though I cannot avoid the feeling that one man of genius could have written them a better one, if such a person is tolerated in a people's state.

THURSDAY: The simpletons who delight in choosing this that and the other "of the year" have been having a field-day. Mrs. Churchill has been dubbed "Woman of 1943" by the London Daily Express, because "she did what every woman in these isles would give her soul to do; she went out to fetch her man home!" And I see that Betty Grable's unborn child has been nominated Babe of the Year. When tender and fugitive emotions are displayed in public for everyone to gape at, and giggle at, and blubber at, I feel sick at my stomach; we live in an age unsurpassed in all history for the grossness and vulgarity of its emotion; even the unborn are unable to protect their privacy.

FRIDAY: Was delighted today to see an advertiser kidding his competitors. It was in an advertisement for a famous wallboard and insulation firm, and it began "Will Your Post-War House Have Hot and Cold Folding Doors?" It then went on to give a good ribbing to vitamin houses, pre-fabricated houses, revolving houses, and all the other horrors with which we have been threatened as soon as peace breaks out. I count this a great advance in the world of advertising; for years the English have used humour in their ads with great effect, but it is still regarded with suspicion on this side of the water. If any producers are interested, I always read funny ads, and avoid those which contain the findings of scientists, promises of increased attraction for the opposite sex, and other forms of hooey. My money is for the advertiser who is funny.

SATURDAY: I see that Sir William Holdsworth, the Vinerian Professor of Law at Oxford, is dead. The obituaries all agree that he was one of the greatest legal minds of his time, and a historian of the highest importance. But no one mentions a secondary claim to fame: he had one of the most remarkable moustaches in the British Isles, where moustaches are taken seriously. As to style, I think it was the finest 'Ancient Briton' I have ever seen; Caractacus would not have been ashamed of it. Red in youth, it had turned white with age, but, like some Greek statues, it retained mellow patches of its original colour. It was the outward and visible sign of an inward and invisible greatness. ....The opera broadcast this afternoon was "Lucia," and Lily Pons went mad as exquisitely as ever; if I should at any time have to be taken to the loony bin I hope it will be full of madwomen as beautiful and as tuneful as Lily Pons

Military Candidates

There is probably no truth in the rumour that the United States is planning to issue a counterpart of British honours lists, but substituting for our cataloguing of mentions in despatches the number of times each general has been mentioned as a possible Presidential candidate.—Windsor Star.

Would Be Confusing

Now there's talk of giving new and higher titles to Gen. George C. Marshall, Army chief of staff, and Admiral Ernest J. King, commander in chief of the Navy. We're not so much concerned with Admiral King, but we can visualize the difficulties in the wake of any move to make Gen. Marshall, Marshal Marshall. — Buffalo Courier-Express.

THERE'S A BEAUTIFUL MUSTACHE COMING INTO YOUR LIFE!

"Christmas.... All the Year"

(BRANTFORD EXPOSITOR)

THE Peterborough Examiner, usually accurate in such matters, slipped up when it alluded to January 6, Epiphany, Twelfth Night, or Old Christmas, as "the last day of the Christmas festivities," and said that it used to be thought that the very worst sort of bad luck would befall the careless who left any decorations hanging after midnight on January 6.

Modern practice concludes most of the Yuletide celebrations by that time, and often by New Year's night, but, traditionally, the Christmas holiday extends to the night before Candlemas, which falls on February 2.

The Examiner quoted from Robert Herrick, the seventeenth century English poet, who wrote:

"Down with the rosemary and bays,
Down with the mistletoe;
Instead of holly now upraise
The greener box for show."

In point of fact, Herrick's reference was not to Twelfth Night but to Candlemas Eve. Elsewhere, he recommended, in accordance with an ancient belief, that every vestige of Yuletide decoration be removed by that time,

"That so the superstitious find
No one least branch there left behind;
For look, how many leaves there be Neglected there, maids trust to me,
So many goblins you shall see."

It is probably a small matter, anyhow. As for the superstition, there is nothing in it. In at least one house hereabouts, a sprig of holly remains the year through, and never a goblin, sprite, spook or ghostie to show for it!

As for Christmas "ending" with Twelfth Night or Candlemas Eve, or any other night of the long twelvemonth, is it not obvious that Ebenezer Scrooge came at last upon the true formula, when he said: "I will honor Christmas in my heart and try to keep it all the year?"

Some Vitamin Mysteries

(NEW YORK TIMES)

FOR ten years Americans have been buying vitamins like cigarettes and candy. In fact, a vitamin craze has taken possession of the country. Yet the more biochemists and nutrition experts discover about food the more it becomes apparent that the kitchen garden and the butcher meet Nature's requirements without benefit of pills and capsules.

As the biochemists push on into the unknown it becomes apparent that there is more in the philosophy of nutrition than so many "A's," "B's," "C.'s" and other alphabetical aids. We have been wolfing the alphabet in pill form, piously convinced that we are warding off deficiency diseases. Along comes the biochemist and keeps rats and men alive with nothing but a few "B's." Why? It turns out that the bacteria in the intestines obligingly produce vitamins on their own account. Try this on chicks and guinea pigs and they languish and die.

Experiments on animals clearly have their limitations because intestines of some generate bacteria more abundantly than do those of others. Give a sufferer from some infection any one of a dozen sulfa drugs and the bacteria are crippled, so that they no longer produce beneficent vitamins. But enrich the diet with folic acid, one of the "B's," and not only are the bacteria as active as ever but the white blood cells are protected. When foxes are fed on raw fish their hind legs are paralyzed for lack of thiamin, one of the "B's." Does this mean that we must avoid half-cooked fish? We don't know. The evidence is strong that soybeans inactivate carotene, the substance out of which the body makes vitamin A. Must we push a plate of soybeans aside? We don't know. It is also certain that the liver contains something that poisons vitamin A. What is it? We don't know.

When the diet is varied enough we have no reason to worry about the chemical composition of every forkful of food that we eat. It looks very much as if vitamins ought to be taken only with good medical advice. But more than the usual superficial diagnosis is demanded. If he had his way, Dr. C. A. Elvenhjem, one of our leading authorities, would have physicians take stock of intestinal flora, the kind of carbohydrate consumed, the level of fat and protein, the vitamin content of the diet, the amount of bile secreted, the rate of digestion, the alkalinity and acidity of the intestinal tract and the natural capacity of the body to inhibit the growth of certain bacteria. Buying a bottle of vitamin tablets is clearly no guarantee that health is also bought.—New York Times.

Culled From Our Contemporaries

Another Like Him

Deanna Durbin got a divorce because her husband stayed out all night and would turn off her radio by day. Well, we stayed out once till 12 and we do not like the radio dramas.—Brandon Sun.

Unfair to the Men

Life isn't very fair to us men. When we are born, our mothers get the compliments and the flowers. When we are married, our brides get the presents. When we die, our widows get the insurance.—The Canadian Doctor.

Needs Maid To Fit It

And then there's the case of the distraught young society matron, with dishpan hands who, tired of it all, advertised in one of the daily papers that she possessed a beautiful mink coat, and would like to find a maid to fit it.—Amherstburg Echo.

Shows By The Moon

Theatre and cinema managers and the owners of dance halls report curious fluctuation just now in the patronage they receive. It is not curious really, because it seems wholly dependent on the phases of the moon.

On evenings when there is a half or full moon, and nights remain moderately light far into the evening, bookings are substantially heavier than when there is nothing to relieve the impenetrable gloom of the black-out. Even advance bookings rise or fall from this cause, since moonlight affords promise at least of getting home afterwards in relative comfort and safety.

The theatres do their best to cater accordingly. Most evening performances commence now round about six o'clock, giving people time if they like to get a snack after the show. As for concerts, they have almost closed down, except for the programs they present in the afternoon. —Nottingham Evening Post.

Lots of Bully Beef

"Bully beef" is still the bane of the soldier's existence, according to reports from Italy, where there are "inexhaustible quantities of it." That same corned beef would look like a delicacy to civilians just now, since many haven't seen a speck of it for two years.—Ottawa Citizen.

Colonel McCormick Please Note

The line between an Isolationist and a pro-German is mighty, mighty thin.—Ottawa Journal.

Party Funds

It often has been remarked, and again just recently, that elections are not won with prayers. It would be interesting to have it tried some time, with the prayers said in public. But meanwhile, campaign funds have to come from somewhere. Often that means corporations. But we would like to be sure that whatever corporation money any Canadian political party uses comes from corporations which are really Canadian. It might hamper parties somewhat if the sources of party funds had to be made public, as we believe they are in the United States.—The Printed Word.

Freak Bet

Just before the Spring racing in Sydney, two bookmakers were discussing prospects. One fancied a horse called Main Topic, the other pooh-poohed its chances.

"What will you lay me?" asked the first.

"A pound a week for life, all to nothing," said the other.

Main Topic won, and the winner is collecting. His only regret is that he is 70, and "won't enjoy it long."

Incidentally, he claims to be the biggest bookmaker in the world—19 stone, including the red, white and blue hat band he wears when fielding.—Australian News-Letter.

A Bible Message

Now a certain man was sick, named Lazarus, of Bethany, the town of Mary and her sister Martha.... Therefore his sisters sent unto him, saying, Lord, behold, he whom thou lovest is sick.... Then when Jesus came, he found that he had lain in the grave four days already.... Then when Mary was come where Jesus was, and saw him, she fell down at his feet, saying unto him, Lord, if thou hadst been here, my brother had not died.

When Jesus therefore saw her weeping, and the Jews also weeping which came with her, he groaned in the spirit, and was troubled. And said, Where have ye laid him? They said unto him, Lord, come and see.... Jesus therefore again groaning in himself cometh to the grave. It was a cave, and a stone lay upon it. Jesus said, Take ye away the stone....

Then they took away the stone from the place where the dead was laid. And Jesus lifted up his eyes, and said, Father, I thank thee that thou hast heard me. And I knew that thou hearest me always: but because of the people which stand by I said it, that they may believe that thou hast sent me.

And when he thus had spoken, he cried with a loud voice, Lazarus, come forth. And he that was dead came forth, bound hand and foot with graveclothes: and his face was bound about with a napkin. Jesus saith unto them, Loose him, and let him go.

Then many of the Jews which came to Mary, and had seen the things which Jesus did, believed on him. (John 11: 1, 3, 17, 32-34, 38, 39, 41-45.)

Unconsidered Trifles

"When I was introduced to your wife the other day I was sorry to discover that she is rather deaf."

"Rather deaf? Do you know, old boy, we once lived close to a gas-works, and one night a gasometer exploded!"

"Good gracious! I'll bet your wife heard that!"

"Yes, she did. She turned over in bed and grunted: 'John, you'll have to get something for that cough'!"

The Scotsman's wife had strong views on the subject of strong drink. One night her husband came home late and badly fuddled. He managed to get inside the house without waking her, and on reaching his bedroom he got down on his hands and knees and started to crawl along the floor. But luck was against him, his wife awoke.

In the darkness, mistaking the moving object for the dog, she said, "Come on, Jack; Good dog!"

"Whereupon," said the husband next day, recounting the event to a friend, "I had the rare intelligence to lick her hand."

Letter To The Editor

FREEDOM TO TAKE DICTATION

Editor, Examiner.

Sir,—I read an article by a prominent newspaper woman the other day in which she said that "thoughts were nothing until expressed." After reading the letter by E. M. Staples in Wednesday's Examiner I had a few so would like to express them if I may.

The writer speaks of the state of affairs which should exist when the boys come home. Well to my way of thinking the boys won't be very well pleased if, when they come home, the C.C.F. is in power and father can't will them the farm he promised to will them before they went away. Oh no, they will just have to settle down and work on that farm like a piece of machinery. Even the money they earn won't be theirs to invest as they wish apparently. I quote: "The C.C.F. proposes to socialize every bank in the country, thereby taking control of the private individuals' private property at present cared for by the banks and "tearing away from him the privilege of free investment he has enjoyed from Confederation up to now, unimpeded by any party."

The writer speaks of freedom which should exist. Well yes, if the C.C.F. were in power I imagine there would be plenty of one kind of freedom. Freedom to do what a dictator dictates.

FOOTLIGHT FASHION—Black silk satin is cut with a halter neckline, and quite without a back, over a slit skirt of pencil slimness for Mary Martin. The hat is of ostrich plumes, the neck bow of satin ribbon. Yes, it's pretty Mary Martin who models this black satin gown for you. And such is the power of the press, you can see Mary's new stage dress even if you can't wait in line for a month or so to get tickets that will get you in to see her new musical hit show. It is Mary's dress here; but on the gala opening night of the New York Metropolitan Opera, a beautiful South American woman appeared in the same model, made of navy blue satin (Mary's is black) and stampeded the photographers. Especially notice the black velvet band about the throat. Mainbocher revived this to flatter Mary. Now all the girls who have avoided double chins are copying.

Y.W.C.A. Club Doings

The little germs of the air wait for no man and get their plug in early in the New Year. That stops our news but not our activities and in case any one might have been under the impression that last week's absence of news might mean absence of activities we assure you that is not the case. And so—we are off again to a new start in the New Year.

The Vagabonds don't seem to have gathered their energy together after the holidays as yet and were contented last week with a theatre party. But since this is an outdoor club, skating will be getting its share of attention. Old Man Winter has not smiled happily upon such clubs as this of late.

On Wednesday the Girls' Council at their regular monthly supper meeting heard the report of the Nominating Committee and the following officers and committees were installed for 1944: President, Betty Detcher; vice-president, Ada Smith; secretary, Jean Carew; treasurer, Doris Royea; supper convener, Ina Robinson; telephone committee, Maye Lambert, Jean Elcombe, Anna Heffernan; '43 continuing officers: Flora Metcalfe, past president; Dorothy Hepburn, secretary. The Sponsor from the board of directors is Mrs. Sootheran, president; and staff councillor, Robert Kiefer, girls' work secretary. Council members are appointed in the Fall when activities in all departments get underway for the season but the council being a junior board follows the practice of the general board and appoints its executive at the beginning of the calender year. This council is one of major importance and is invested with the responsibility of organizing and carrying out most of the association programs directly concerning the girls. The membership is made up of the president and one representative of each club; two representatives from each senior gym and swimming class; and two representatives from the residence auxiliary.

Flora Metcalfe, the retiring president, presided over the meeting and expressed her appreciation to the executive and members of the 1943 council for their co-operation. The favor was returned and our appreciation of the gracious and untiring efforts of our president was expressed. The after supper "sing" was led by Miss Kiefer and followed by the Invocation which opened the business meeting. Copies of "Trans-Canada Y Ways" were distributed to representative by Betty Detcher, co-editor, so that they are available to all members. Jean Carew and Dorothy Hepburn are in charge of the mailing of copies to associations across Canada. The report of the "Hanging of the Greens" program was read and all agreed that it had been most successful. Members are now "all-out" on a personal invitation campaign to let girls know, who are away from home and who have no comfortable and congenial spot in which to entertain their friends, that the club rooms and lounges and kitchenettes with pianos and radios and soft chairs are here and for their use, particularly on Sundays.

Coming events were discussed. The health campaign being organized by the gym department under Miss Littlefield for January is holding our attention at present and since our purpose is a three-fold one: body, mind and spirit and their relation to the community and the world, many interesting programs can be developed in the club department around health of mind and spirit and the importance of health of body, mind and spirit if we are to be good citizens in our own community and the world. The annual meeting of the association is announced for February 3rd and the report from council will be presented. Citizenship Week and the National Business Girls' Observance were discussed.

Supper was prepared by Ina Robinson and other members assisted. The next meeting will be on February 2 with the new executive in charge.

The regular meeting of the '38 Club was held in the club room on Wednesday evening with Leona McMillan, presiding. Mrs. Paige Rowell, sponsor from the Girls' Work Committee, was the guest of the club. Lunch was served by Roberta Deyell and Elizabeth Elliott.

The Junior Supper Club held their first meeting of the New Year on Thursday of last week at 4.30 in the club room. Marley Jobbitt presided. This was a business meeting and plans are in the hands of Agnes Strickland and Barbara Hughes for a sleigh-ride on January 29th, providing the Weather Man brings snow. This week's meeting was devoted to the war work project of making stuffed toys for refugee children. Marley Jobbitt, Nancy Stanton, Jean Hills assisted with the Saturday Junior Christmas party; and Mary Jane Wharry, Barbara Warne, Margaret Jane Louckes and Louise Leslie assisted at the Friday Supper Club Christmas dance.

The Gym-Swim Club held a business meeting in the club room after gym last Thursday and this week they held a skating party. A good time was reported by those attending although their number was small. The club returned to the 'Y' for supper and singing. Supper arrangements were in charge of Marguerite Royea, Doreen Lord and Jean Badgley.

Last Friday the Supper Club held a well attended meeting with the president, Jean Ferguson, presiding. Comments on the dance were given by Jean Ferguson. A telephone committee consisting of the following members was appointed: Marny Kern, Jean Leach, Marilyn Wilson, Betty Brown, Lenore Edwards, Barbara Rishor. The name of Margo Spicer was added to the program committee under the convenership of Agnes Weddell. A sing song was led by Helen Weddell with Margo Spicer at the piano. This week Miss McDougall of the Collegiate staff addressed the club on "Ration-time Menus". She was introduced by Barbara Stewart and a vote of thanks from the club expressed by Adeline Campanaro. Supper was prepared by Thelma Andrew assisted by Audrey Allin, Betty Brown, Joan Brown, Adeline Campanaro and Viva Clarke.

The Saturday Juniors had a good turn-out last week. Calendars were made from Christmas cards and the story of the Gingerbread Man told by Miss Millburn.

Extreme Styles Out for Canada

Summer styles will see a return of sleeveless, backless dresses, according to the fahion experts in the States, who are holding a big week of spring fashion openings in New York. In Canada, however, spring and summer styles, although they feature bright colors, high shades, and gay patterns, are still quite conservative in pattern, the only deviation towards the somewhat extreme fashions adopted by the States, being a plunging neckline. Silks and jerseys, dressmaker suits predominating, in pastels and in bright colors, with green the most popular shade, are being shown at advance previews of spring styles in Canadian fashion centres. Summer styles are not yet being shown, but it is doubtful if Canadian designers will carry fabric conservation to such a degree as their American contemporaries.

THE STARS SAY . . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Sunday, Jan. 16

SUNDAY'S horoscope points up the probability of much festivity, gayety and celebration rather than any attempt at a serious or material contemplation of certain splendid opportunities for advancement, progress and fulfilled ambitions that are due to loom on the horizon. Those disposed to step up the more worthy and enduring aims and aspirations are bound to reap rich rewards and not forfeit the romance, happiness and restrained conviviality of benign occasions.

Honors Ahead

Those whose birthday it is are on the threshold of a year of promotion, honors, preferment and happy culminations of many ambitious hopes and desires. Although there may be parties, celebrations and festive occasions making the year a memorable one, it is a time for reaching to high goals, not forgetting the gratitude and generosity due to unusual benefices of luck and good fortunes. Certain emotional restraints are recommended. Shun impetuous moves.

A child born on this day will be blessed with many talents, abilities and personal graces and attractions to insure a prolific, worthy and happy life.

For Monday, January 17

This may prove to be a continuation of prior occasions of hospitality, merriment and celebration of a glamorous or joyful event, in which prolonged merriment or indulgence may demand repose, relaxation and rest, after the high tempo of conviviality. Physical and mental depressions are likely to incite some emotional, or impetuous behavior of regrettable nature. In serious affairs, use precaution and do not overlap in sudden surprise.

Difficult Year

Those whose birthday it is may have a difficult and perplexing year, in which the urge or action swings between the erratic, tempestuous and reckless and an inner yearning for dead inertia, for the static or stagnant. To strike a happy medium between opposite poles may bring a surprising benefit, born of clever work, ingenuity or an especial skill. Strike a balance between extremes for attaining happy denoument. Have regard for health, reputation and funds.

If It Is Your Birthday

A child born on this day may be torn between two polar opposites of conduct, impulse and emotions, making it difficult to understand or manage. A strict education may serve to bring balance and produce usual accomplishments.

REMORSE ALWAYS LOT OF MAN SACRIFICING LIVES OF WOMEN

Middle-Age Man Must Stop Destroying Girl's Happiness and Pay Attention to Family.

DEAR MISS DIX—I am a man 46 years old. Have been married thirteen years to a good woman. Have two children, a beautiful home and a fine position. I find myself madly in love with a girl of 24. This is definitely not infatuation with either of us. She had told me so and proved it by her actions, for before we fell in love with each other she had a great many male friends and was engaged to a fine young fellow, but she left him for me. Many boys still come to see her and send her expensive gifts, but she returns them all and refuses to answer them when they call her long distance.

When I am in town I see this girl several times a week, and when I am away I call her every evening on the phone. I feel that I am destroying this girl's life, but she has promised to wait for me and I think she will always wait, no matter how long the time is; while, as for me, I will never look at another woman.

Will you help me out with this affair? I am almost out of my mind worrying over it.

Man Wrecks Two Women's Lives

ANSWER—I don't wonder at that, for any man who has a spark of honor in him must have his very soul torn in twain when he realizes that he is wrecking the lives of two women who love him and who have trusted him. For him there is no way out that does not involve the sacrifice of one of them, and nothing that he can do will ever bring him real happiness. Conscience and remorse will always walk beside him, forever reminding him of the forsaken wife and little children he abandoned, or of a girl who is drifting into old maidenhood because she gave so much of her heart to him that she had nothing left to give to any other man.

You say you are afraid you are destroying this young girl's life. You know you are. You are a middle-aged man and you know that for a young girl to fall in love with a man who is old enough to be her father is almost invariably a tragedy, because there is between them that gulf of years that neither one of them can successfully cross. They have separate tastes, different habits, different points of view that separate them more and more as time goes on, so that after the glamour of the honeymoon is gone both of them go back to being their own age, and youth calls to youth for the wife, and the husband begins to want a wife to whom he can say: "Don't you remember?"

It is easy enough for any man, who has kept his hair and not acquired a tummy, to make a young girl fall in love with him and take her away from her boy sweetheart. He has the sophistication and worldly wiseness which practically hypnotizes all girls at that age. He has the technique of courtship that young boys lack. He knows what to say and how to say it. He has poise. And it flatters a young girl out of her wits to think that she can attract grown men, and even married men, and take them away from other girls and from their wives.

Every mature man knows that winning a young girl's heart is as easy as taking candy from a baby, and he knows how cruel a trick it is to play upon one who has neither the knowledge of the world, nor the skill to defend herself from him. And he knows, especially if he is a married man, that he is committing a crime that is one of the unforgivable sins, for he is ruining a girl's whole life for the sake of gratifying his own vanity, or passions.

You say that this girl, who is 22 years younger than yourself, has promised to wait for you. What is she waiting for? What can she promise herself as a reward for her waiting? Is she waiting for your wife to die? Are you both waiting with murder in your hearts? Are you waiting on the chance of forcing your wife to divorce you? Or is the girl waiting until you get get tired of her? Does she think she can build a house of happiness on the wreck of another woman's home? Or is she just aimlessly waiting, the while drifting into a lonely old maidenhood, or marrying a man whom she only tolerates for the sake of a living?

You may say that you cannot bear to think of giving this girl up. But can you bear the thought of knowing that you have wrecked the life of the girl you say you love?

DEAR DOROTHY DIX—Will you please answer these questions that have us completely baffled every way we turn? (1) How can a girl tell when she really loves a boy? (2) How can a girl tell when a boy loves her? (3) How old do you think a girl should be before she starts dating? (4) What do you think the proper age for marrying is? (5) How long should a boy and girl be engaged before they get married?

TWO WORRIED TEENAGERS.

No Foolproof Test For Love

ANSWER — Science has weighed the earth and measured the distance to the stars and sent a whispered word around the world, but it has never been able to devise any sure, foolproof test of love. For uncounted centuries men and women have been trying to determine whether what they felt for a member of the opposite sex was the grand passion that would last a lifetime, or a passing fancy from which they would recover in a few weeks, and they still can't tell whether, when they lose their appetites and have that gone feeling, if they are in love or have indigestion.

At your age you should distrust all symptoms and, no matter how your heart goes pitapat over Tom or how you moon over Dick or Harry, don't take it too seriously. Realize that you will outgrow it by the time you do your last winter's suit and there will be some other lad whom you will be mistaking for your Prince Charming. And this goes for boys as well as girls. They have no better method of diagnosing their heartthrobs than you have.

At 15 a girl may start dating, provided she does not do it on school nights and that she has intelligence enough not to fall for the "keeping company" racket, which brands her as "Tommy's girl" and cuts her off from knowing other lads, so that when he gets tired of her and ditches her she is left stranded. Avoid the Boy Friend unless you want to be an old maid.

Statistics show that the best age for marrying is in the twenties. By that time a girl is mature. She knows what she wants in a husband, and she has had her fling and is ready to settle down and be a good wife and mother.

An engagement should last just long enough for a couple in love to be sure of their feelings towards each other and to have gotten really acquainted with each other, and not long enough for all the romance to have worn off. I should say a year would be a long enough probationary period. A wedding cake should be neither too hot nor too cold.

WHEAT CROP DOWN

CANBERRA (CP). — Australia's wheat crops this season will be only 89,000,000 bushels, compared with the average of 156,000,000 over the past eight years, according to a preliminary estimate by the Australian Wheat Board. The nation's record crop was 210,000,000 bushels in the first year of the war.

NAZI CALLOUSNESS

LONDON (CP) —Madame Francaise Rosay, an escapee from France, told in a BBC broadcast how a deputation of mothers waited on a German officer in Marseilles asking for means to nourish their children and themselves. "Nothing to eat?" he queried. "Kill yourselves; the problem will be solved."

Build him up and don't worry about vitamins and minerals.

Authorities say the difference between husky children and those who are poor eaters, underweight, and nervous is often simply a matter of proper nourishment, especially an adequate supply of vitamins and minerals.

But don't worry about vitamins and minerals! Children who eat 3 average-good meals including fruit juice, and drink 2 glasses of Ovaltine each day, are getting all the extra vitamins and minerals they need. In addition to its well-balanced food values, Ovaltine adds significant amounts of Vitamins A, B_1 and D and the minerals Calcium, Phosphorus and Iron. So, if your child is not developing normally, remember this rule:

3 good meals plus 2 glasses of Ovaltine every day.

This Home-Mixed Cough Relief Is Hard To Beat

Very Easy to Make. No Cooking. Saves Big Money.

No matter what you've been using for coughs due to colds, you'll be the first to admit that this surprising relief, mixed in your own kitchen, is hard to beat, for real results.

Make a syrup by stirring 2 cups of granulated sugar and one cup of water a few moments, until dissolved. No cooking is needed—anyone can do it. Or you can use corn syrup or liquid honey, instead of sugar syrup.

Then put 2½ ounces of Pinex (obtained from any druggist) into a 16 oz. bottle, and add your syrup. This gives you 16 ounces of really excellent cough relief—about 4 times as much for your money. Tastes fine—children love it—and it never spoils.

You can feel this home mixture taking right hold of a cough. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the irritated membranes, and helps clear the air passages. Eases soreness and difficult breathing, and lets you sleep. Once tried, you'll swear by it.

Pinex is a special compound of proven ingredients, in concentrated form, a most reliable soothing agent for throat and bronchial membranes. Just try it, and if not satisfied, your money will be refunded.

Here and There in Sport

By The Canadian Press

Mr. and Mrs. E. Blake Thompson of Toronto yesterday received official notification their son, Flt. Lt. Eddie Thompson, co-captain of Toronto R.C.A.F. Hurricanes when they won the Grey Cup football championship in 1942, was killed April 22 through enemy action in the North Atlantic when a ship carying 52 air force officers was twice torpedoed. Only 16 officers are known to have survived.

Reg Threlfall, coach of the Winnipeg R.C.A.F. Bombers last fall, declared the western football champions would seek games with neighboring teams in the United States next season if the grid sport failed to develop in Eastern Canada. He declared there were 15 college or service teams in the States within reasonable distance of Winnipeg.

The Boston Braves yesterday sent infielders Joe Burns and William Heltzel to Indianapolis of the American Association to complete the deal through which Southpaw James Trexler had been acquired. Trexler, 33, won 19 and lost seven games last year.

Announcement was made at Philadelphia yesterday of the dissolution of the combined Philadelphia-Pittsburgh team in the National Football League. Splitting the merger means the clubs will operate as separate units next fall.

Sixteen entries for today's Palm Beach Handicap at Hialeah Park forced the management to split the race into two $5,000 races over the seven-eighths-mile course. A Woolford Farm horse immediately became a favorite in each event, Signator and Adulator respectively, with Owner Herbert M. Woolfe in line for a "sweepstakes double."

John J. Evers, second baseman of the Chicago Cubs who snatched the 1908 National League pennant from New York Giants in the famous Fred Merkle "bonehead" play, yesterday was reported in poor health at his Alban, N.Y., home. One of his treasures is a 50-pound baseball scrapbook, mostly containing 35-year discussions of his great putout.

Brandino Wins

WORCESTER, MASS. (AP) — Tony Brandino, 160, of Hamilton, Ont., won the decision in a six-round preliminary of last night's ring card here over Alex Rebark, 152, of Pawtucket.

CITY CARPETBALL

This week there has only been one result received showing that the Antiques were rather let down by their lodge mates, the Old Soldiers, with a double loss. The win puts the Old Sweats on the top for the moment four points ahead of their nearest rival.

As stated last week we are trying out the old system of regular schedule every week to eliminate any team having a two-week layoff. The schedule for next week is:

B.E.S.L. No. 9 vs. P.F.D. No. 8

All Saints' No. 5 vs. St. James No. 7

S.O.E. No. 3 vs. Wardens No. 6

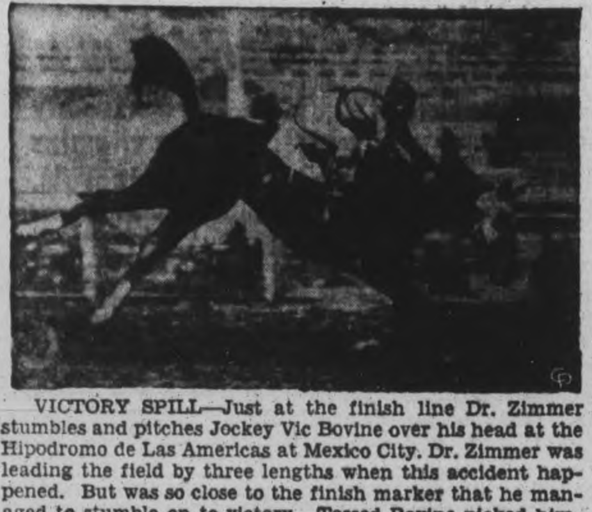
Results: B.E.S.L. No. 1, 11-17 vs. B.E.S.L. No. 9, 9-7.

Skips are reminded that the dues are now in arrears and we would like to see every team get straightened out.



VICTORY SPILL—Just at the finish line Dr. Zimmer stumbles and pitches Jockey Vic Bovine over his head at the Hipodromo de Las Americas at Mexico City. Dr. Zimmer was leading the field by three lengths when this accident happened. But was so close to the finish marker that he managed to stumble on to victory. Tossed Bovine picked himself up, brushed off his silks, and walked to the winner's enclosure to weigh in. The incident did not hamper Bovine's riding efforts. He scored two more victories during the afternoon.

Fenelon Falls Wins District Curling

By FRED MARTIN

In a driving finish after playing 16 ends of real curling, the Peterborough boys playing in the finals of the District Cup competition of District 3 of the Ontario Curling Association almost pulled the game out of the fire. Jimmy Richmond's rink had finished their game with J. H. Curtis, and was only one shot down. Fred Green had two end to play against his opponent R. Joyce. Commencing the last end Green was only down one, but that made Peterborough down two on the round. In the early stages of the end it looked as if F. Green and his rink might get a break and tie the score, but the vice of Fenelon Falls settled the issue when with his second stone he removed Green's shot stone, and it was all over. It was a good day's sport, some good curling and barring the last half of the final game was played on fairly keen ice. The Peterborough boys did well, they tried hard, and never gave up. Maybe the three 16-end games was a little too much for the day.

Bonspiel Wednesday.

Now here's a tip to any of our local boys who intend to play in our open bonspiel next Wednesday and have not as yet made their entry. We have only room for six more rinks.

If the weather turns a little colder during the day it is the intention of ladies' club to hold a mixed bonspiel at 7:30 this evening. All are welcome and be on time—fee 25 cents.

Remember When—

Governors of the National Hockey League decided three years ago to day to impose automatic fines of $25 each on players taking part in fights they did not originate. The rule was intended to discourage free-for-all brawls similar to those which had broken out in New York, Chicago and Montreal during the

Golf Play Drops

NEW YORK (AP) — Golf play during 1943 was only 28 per cent below that of 1941 despite war-time shortages of equipment, caddies and travelling facilities, the executive committee of the United States Golf Association reported today. The report revealed that membership dropped from 758 clubs a year ago to 703 but that 27 other clubs joined the public links division.

The championship of the Y.M.C.A. House League, carrying with it possession of the Dominion Life shield for the next year, will be decided tonight in the Y.M.C.A. gym when the Algerines who sailed through the season without a loss will clash with the Frigates who have blazed through the preliminary and semi-final stages of the playoffs to emerge as finalists. It should be a real argument. Joe Stewart, a perpetual scoring threat, is captain of the Algerines and he has been piling up the big end of all their scores all season. In fact without reflecting in any way upon his teammates it is safe to say that the Algerines' unbeaten record has been due to the great shooting and all-round good play of their captain. On the other hand the Frigates who have been going great guns recently are the most improved team in the loop and Steve Csumrik is leading a team of youngsters into action tonight that are hot enough to spill the beans and hand the Algerines their first defeat of the season at a time when defeat will mean disaster. It looks like about the best battle of the season in House League circles.

One of the happiest bunches of girls to be found anywhere in Peterborough last night were the members of the Normal School team in the Ladies' Basketball League who made history by winning the first game the budding school teachers have been able to capture in three seasons playing in the loop. The Normalites downed the Y Cadets 21 to 10 and they made their victory decisive by leading their opponents over most of the distance. They were 10 to 4 in front at the half and increased their lead in the second half. And they came off that floor as jubilant as if they had just won the senior title. That win must have been sweet. Week after week the last three seasons, the Normal girls have turned up for their scheduled games and week after week they have gone home defeated. They made it close often in some of their games but just when it looked as if the jinx had been finally shaken, something would happen and another game would go into the discard. No wonder they were happy last night. Three seasons is a long time to wait for a win and the Normal players had a right to celebrate. Not even the Cadets would begrudge them that victory. They have earned it by the manner in which they have stuck to their guns in the face of a long string of defeats.

A Real Referee

The assigning of big Ernie Powers, senior wrestling referee of the Ontario Athletic Commission, to handle the return bout here next Tuesday night between Earl McCready and the rowdy Earl Davis should ensure the success of that engagement. Powers knows wrestling thoroughly and in addition he is big enough to take care of himself when any of the battlers turn ugly. He weighs around 250 pounds and the badmen do not push him around very much. Naturally the Moose is delighted over the Powers' appoinment. "He knows what it's all about," beamed the Aurora farmer. "Davis won't frighten him with any of that berserk stuff and I know now I can concentrate on wrestling without having to worry about what the referee is going to pull off next. Maxwell had me so mad the other night that I simply had to toss him around. I felt like throwing him into the third row of seats." On the other hand Davis does not seem to be worrying any about the change in officials. "I don't need any help," the Texan declared when he heard Powers was going to act." I could have beat McCready the last time without any help from Maxwell. When he did slip up I was smart enough to cash in on it—that's all. If McCready had done the same thing and got me the crowd would have been tickled to death. It's just because the wrong bird won that they're hollering."

Wrestling fans incidentally will enjoy this satire by Bill Westwick in the Ottawa Journal: Sporting pastimes, as we've come to know them, are due for some violent revisions if governing bodies of other sports ever take it into their respective heads to impose restrictions along the same lines as those made public by Gen. Phelan and his buddies. We put the question to one of our wrestling operatives last night; asked point-blank if he figured wrestling would survive the New York ruling. "Survive!" he thundered. "Would you expect baseball to survive if Landis suddenly told the hitters they'd be taxed 50 iron men every time they tried anything but a bunt? Would you expect hockey to get very far if the rule-makers socked every player the same for shooting at the net? What do you think would become of boxing if the boys started losing their purses for aiming at one another's chins?" It seemed more serious than at first glance. "Serious is an understatement," he shouted. "I'm just trying to give you an idea of what can happen to the game when one wrestler can't throw another out of the ring." The ruling left some loopholes. Wouldn't throwing the referee out be a fair substitute? "Naw, it wouldn't. You can throw a wrestler out of the ring and he's practically certain to land in a ringsider's lap. At the worst he might bounce back in. But referees have no sense of direction. Most of them land on their noggin on a cement floor and get themselves hurt. Promoters don't want them thrown out because of the expense. And the manpower shortage is another angle."

"Soup" Is Puzzled

George "Soup" Campbell of the Oshawa Times-Gazette has a mystery on his hands. Here it is: "It's hard to figure out just what the answer is. All season long we have known that Galt would provide one of the best games of the season and on all sides we have heard Oshawa fans say this was the game they were waiting to see. On top of that there was, and still is, a good possibility that the Galt Kists will visit Oshawa only the once this season—yet last night's attendance was the smallest of the season to date. Just to make things more interesting—it also proved to be the best game of the season, too. Hockey fans who toss in a couple of bucks to see some of the N.H.L. games that are being produced this season really had a bargain last night, for Galt and Generals served up a sports dish of entertainment that was outstanding. It was wide-open hockey played at top-notch speed throughout and the way that puck changed hands, it easily exceeded the thrill-a-minute standard. Then of course, as all "Al" Murray's teams do, the visitors tossed their weight around with vim and vigor and the result was an Oshawa defeat, as well as an exciting spectacle for the cash customers. Galt Kists played it the old-fashioned way. The forwards back-checked and skated—and how they skated — and they left the body-checking and bumping to the big boys of the blue-line department—and how they bumped 'em. Oh, it was a regular, knock 'em down, drag 'em out affair and the Generals didn't score any goals and few decisions either. We have no way of checking without going back through all the files for a few years but if some local sports enthusiast has all the records, we would be interested to learn how long it is since the Oshawa Generals suffered a whitewashing right on their own ice. We imagine it's been quite a few years."

And Bill Walshe down at Kingston is looking for the goat in the Army hockey blowup. He writes: "Ottawa Commandos are blamed by some for the revised army hockey orders. The Ottawa soldier-civilian team made a trip to Baltimore and Neil Colville, who played with the Commandos last year, accompanied the Ottawa team on its trip. Colville was on army leave and probably entitled to go on a visit to the States, but across the border there were questions about him playing hockey for two years in Canada after leaving New York Rangers to enlist. The questions reached Washington and were relayed to Ottawa, according to authoritative information, and the relay was done through the highest Canadian office in Washington. Colville is now transferred to the R.C.A.F. Added to the Colville incident is the fact that Horeck, who was expected to play with New York Rangers, detoured to Ottawa and joined the Commandos. Alex Shibicky, Colville's linemate, is still with Commandos. It may be just a little co-incidence that Commandos did a little manipulating for players

Transports Register Sixth Straight Victory

The Transports ran their season's record to six straight wins and Normal School made history by winning their first victory in three seasons of play in a hard-fought double-header in the Ladies' Basketball League at the Y.W.C.A. Friday night. Transports defeated the second-place St. John's 20 to 11 and the school team triumphed over the Y Cadets 21 to 10.

The league leaders had their hardest battle of the season. St. John's, fighting and driving all the way had a large proportion of the play and if their shooting had matched their hard checking they might have reversed the decision. Transports, with Beryl Dobbin setting the pace with five field baskets, won because their sniping was much more accurate and they cashed in on their scoring chances while the Saints, especially in the first half, had no luck under the basket.

As a result Transports led 10 to 1 at the half, but the Saints came back after the rest and scored basket for basket with the winners. Doreen Groombridge was top scorer for the losers with six points.

The teams:

Transports (20)—Ruth Hewitt 2, Jean Castle 2, Dot Bestard 2, Janet Collins, Beryl Dobbin 10, Jean Fleming 4, B. Flynn, Helen Miller, Irene Stewart.

St. John's (11)—Theresa Heslip 3, Doreen Groombridge 6, Eva Clark, E. Wright, M. Vosberg, Eileen Hewitt, M. Dyer, E. Harte-Maxwell, Marg. Hawthorne 2, Peggy Lawless.

Referee—Howie Macdonald. Umpire—Mary McPherson.

Normal school played good basketball in the second game to grab off their first win in three seasons. With R. Chappelle piling up the highest score of the night, 13 points, the school team had an edge throughout.

Dorothy Saunders started the Cadets on the right foot by scoring the first basket, but Normal soon evened up and flashed in front. They had opened up a lead of 10 to 4 at the half and continued to head the parade during the second period to win by a comfortable margin of 21 to 10.

The teams:

Normal School (21)—R. Chappelle 11, H. Heffernan, M. Vandewater, E. Fritz, V. McNally 2, J. Sexsmith, A. Nelson. H. Baird 4, P. O'Donnell 4.

Y Cadets (10)—N. Sootheran 4, M. Spicer, Betty Lou Braund 2, A. Young, Barbara Cooke, Betty Stewart, L. Edwards, B. Weir, Pat Martyn, N. Stanton, Dorothy Saunders 4, Mary Barreat.

Referee—Hymie Smith. Umpire—Eleanor Craig.

New Talent Billed For Big Wrestling Card Tuesday

Wrestling "with the gloves off" and polite tactics thrown to the winds, is scheduled for Tuesday night when Earl McCready and Karl Davis throw their combined five hundred pounds of battling brawn at each other. The huge, rowdy Texan, as boastful as ever, is once again proclaiming that he will hand McCready his third successive defeat here. "Krippler" Davis has gained the official verdict in each of his efforts against McCready on the Brock Arena mat, but we feel we can be safe in predicting that in this next bout Earnest Earl will come through with a stirring victory. McCready is boiling. Says the big Aurora Farmer: "I've wrestled in almost every country in the world and never have I been victimized the way Davis and the referee gave it to me here."

With Ernie Powers, the senior referee of the Ontario Athletic Commission as the third man, Tuesday's mat melee should be a humdinger. All Earl McCready asks is the chance for a clean-cut wrestling attack at the conceited Texan under regularly and properly enforced wrestling rules. "Which," says Earl, "that Maxwell has never even heard about."

Not content with this stirring attraction which should be the piece de resistance of a rather large evening, Promoter Tunney is bringing in Tom Zaharias, one of the famous wrestling brothers, to grapple in the semi-final. Zaharias will meet Toar Morgan, the Fighting Marine and the ring will need to be re-enforced for that one also. In the opening bout Jerry Meeker of Indiana has been signed to meet burly Bunny Dunlop.

Dr. Carlson Claims Basketball Is Not Tiring

NEW YORK, Jan. 15 (AP)—Basketball players, Dr. H. C. Carlson has discovered, may run until the tongues hang out of their shoes, but they're not as tired as they think they are. In other words, they get all in before they go all out.

Dr. Carlson is the Pittsburgh basketball coach, and when a great to-do was made some time ago by the uninformed, that the game was too fast and strenuous for youths, the Collegiate Basketball Coaches' Association appointed him, as a doctor of medicine, to do a little research on the subject of fatigue.

The doctor obtained the co-operation of about 50 of the leading teams in the United States in conducting a series of tests, and one of the major findings was that, although the game might be too fast, the players generally would not lend themselves to complete exhaustion. In fact, the great majority never even approached the limits of normal, healthy fatigue. Nature's inhibitions were allowed to curtail activity, and they were victims of a false fatigue.

Another major discovery was that a person recovers more in the first two minutes of rest after intense activity than he will in the next 20 minutes.

A third finding deals with the current insidious conflict between what Dr. Carlson terms so-called physical educationists—and termed by another doctor, Mal Stevens, as "muscle jerks" — the theoretical critics of athletics, and the unanswering recipients of such criticism.

"We found," Dr. Carlson says, "that it was easier to develop good chest and abdominal muscles than it was to develop the more important intrinsic factors of competition as generally symbolized by heart and intestinal fortitude beneath the more apparent structure."

Marine Is Wizard

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 15 — (AP). — Marine Pte. Bill Graff, Jr., 22, writes home that he has become "the wizard of the Solomons." His father included a yo-yo in Bill's Christmas package, and the marine reports these results: "I've got the natives half crazy trying to figure out what makes the yo-yo work. My skill and all, they think I am on the supernatural side—and how am I to tell 'em different!"

Bobby Ruffin Draws With Larkin

NEW YORK, Jan. 15 (AP)—Winding up his civilian swat career in a vicious, slashing brawl that saw both battlers slug away virtually from start to finish, Bobby Ruffin drew with Tippy Larkin in a 10-round fight last night before a near capacity crowd in Madison Square Garden. Larkin scaled 136¼; Ruffin, 136¾.

In his last appearance before putting on United States army uniform Jan. 26, Ruffin, a local battler, turned drummer-boy this time and played a tom-tom with right hands on Larkin's ribs for his biggest edge. At the same time, the Garfield, N.J., Italian had a wide margin in boxing skill and turned loose the sharper punches.

The Associated Press score card showed an even fight, with each clouter getting four rounds and two heats voted even. Judge Bill Healy balloted for Larkin, six rounds to four; Judge Joe Agnello had it for Ruffin by the same score, and Referee Young Otto gave each fighter five rounds.

Although the honors appeared about a toss-up at the end, the crowd of 15,323, who chipped in to a gross gate of $41,964, greeted the draw decision with mingled cheers and boos and the uproar lasted for several minutes.

Ruffin's best weapon from the word go was that right-hand drumstick with which he beat out a jumping jive on Tippy's left ribs until they looked like a large order of hamburger smothered in Chili sauce. He was so anxious to flail away with this weapon that twice —once in the first heat and again in the fourth — he missed wild swings and slipped to the canvass without being hit.

This fourth-round slip may have cost him the tussle, for it came at a time when he was in the middle of a belting barrage and seemed to have Larkin in trouble. The moment's rest gave the Jersey lad enough of a breathing spell to weather the storm.

Jake Lamotta Defeats Zivic

DETROIT, Jan. 16 (AP) — Jake Lamotta of New York punched out another victory last night over former welterweight champion Fritzie Zivic of Pittsburgh, taking a 3 to 1 edge in their series. Lamotta, bigger and younger, finished strong to gain the 10-round decision.

Lamotta weighed 159, Zivic 151½.

The decision of Referee Sam Hennessey and the judges was unanimous, but there was considerable dissension from the 10,834 fans who paid $29,274 for Matchmaker Nick Londes' card at Olympia Stadium. There was no knockdown.

Lamotta lost the second and fourth rounds because of low punching, but after the fourth he had almost a clean sweep on official score cards. Zivic seemingly was headed for a knockout defeat in the seventh and eighth, but he rallied magnificently in a wild-swinging 10th.

Hennessey gave Zizic only three rounds, including the two he won on fouls, and called another even. Judges Michael (Dad) Butler and Elmer (Slim) McClelland marked flat-nosed Fritzie with two rounds each.

Both fighters started cautiously, but the first was Lamotta's round. Zivic took the second on a foul, but he won it by his punching anyway. There was some division of opinion on the third round, but Zivic took the fourth, again having it handed to him on a foul after he actually had won it.

In the fifth Lamotta opened a small cut on Fritzie's lower lip, a relatively small injury. But Lamotta wasn't to be stopped thereafter.

In previous bouts, the two shared decisions in Pittsburgh and Lamotta won last November in New York.

Navy Loses 11-6 To St. Catharines

By The Canadian Press.

St. Catharines Saints, leading team in the revamped Senior O.H.A. series, made a runaway of last night's fixture against the tail-end Toronto Navy, scoring eight straight goals in the first two periods and winning 11-6 after the Tars staged a rally in the final frame. The contest, first in the latest revised schedule, took place on St. Catharines ice.

Paul Mundrick and Umbo Concessi fattened their individual records by notching three tallies apiece while Blink Bellinger added two to his season's total, with Red Reynolds, Mason and Doug Fritz getting singles. Mann, with two counters, was the leading sniper for the Sailors, and Mair, Barlow, Livingstone and Thompson accounted for one each. The game was played with only one penalty, Concessi incurring the displeasure of the arbiters in the first period.

The one clash of the Junior A grade at Port Colborne resulted in an 8-4 setback for Toronto Young Rangers although the latter were clinging to a 4-3 advantage at the finish of the second stanza, the Recreationists running in five straight tallies in the final session. Simpelle with three goals, Wallace and Gravelle with two each, and Pitts with one constituted the winners' scoring record. Ranger goals were by Thompson, Imonti, Dewsbury and Gagnon.

Marion Timm Leads Bowlers

Marion Timm with 629 had high three in the Y.M.C.A. Ladies' Five-Pin League this week and M. Morton was close behind with 622.

NEW YORK, Jan. 15.—(AP). — The talk about post-war planning in baseball is just a headache for one official of a local club who moans: "We can't even plan for the present."....His complaint is the singular lack of co-operation by the men who should be the most concerned—the players....For instance, Bobby Coombs joined the Navy Dec. 29 but the Giants, who were bringing him up from Jersey City, haven't heard about it officially so he's still on their reserve list....And only three Yankee players bothered to send Christmas cards to their ailing boss, Ed Barrow....In case they're interested, Barrow thinks he'll be well enough to make daily visits to his office before long.

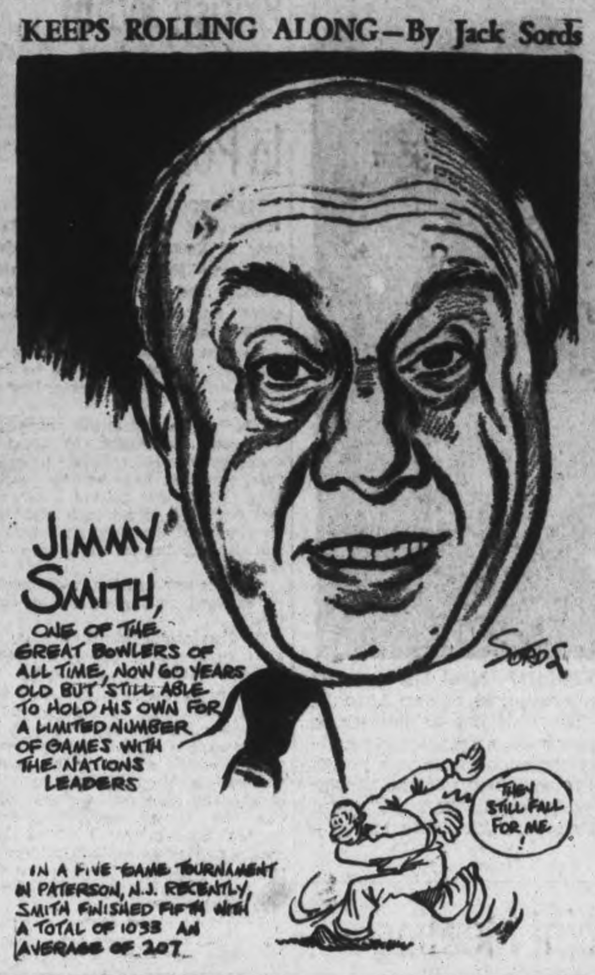
One Minute Sports Page.

Frank Sinatra, the crooner, has bought heavyweight Tami Mauriello's contract for $10,000....No, it wasn't because Frank needed something stronger than a microphone to prop him up. They've been pals since Sinatra went to Tami's trainer, Al Silvani, to try to build himself up physically....Howard Callahan, whose running gave Southern California its grid victory over College of the Pacific last fall, will sprint for the Columbia Navy Midshipmen's School in the Grover Cleveland track meet to-night.... That young fellow, Alan Gould, who made the AP sports service what it is to-day, expects to answer to "Grandpappy Gould" before long ....Army-bound Bobby Ruffing broke one of the New York State Athletic Commission's strongest traditions when he refused to pose for pictures at the weigh-in before last night's scrap with Tippy Larkin.

Hoppe Loses

CHICAGO (AP). — Walker Cochran defeated champion Willie Hoppe, 50 to 38 in 40 innings, last night in the 40th block of their three - cushion billiards exhibition here and retained his lead over Hoppe in the Chicago matches.

KEEPS ROLLING ALONG—By Jack Sords



Canadian Sport Snapshots

By CHARLES EDWARDS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO, Jan. 15 — (CP). — Reports are current that the National Hockey League is thinking of breaking off relations with the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association, but Red Dutton, N.H.L. managing director, favors continuance of present relations.

Chief point of objection by some N.H.L. governors is the agreement to pay $500 to the C.A.H.A. for each Canadian amateur making good in the major league. The agreement was made originally with the idea amateur clubs should be repaid for money spent in developing youngsters and so have funds for further development.

Elmer (Montreal Herald) Ferguson writes: "Those who would scrap the agreement, or scrap-paper it, take the stand that every Canadian kid wants to play hockey, that the National League is his goal; and that the payments aren't necessary for the development would come along in the natural course of things as it always did."

Dutton takes the stand that $500 is cheap for a player making good in the big time and therefore worth probably thousands of dollars in subsequent deals. And he believes it is to the N.H.L.'s advantage to spend money for development of such stars.

In an interview with Ferguson, Dutton mentioned Russ McQuarrie of Saskatoon, who promoted junior teams and developed two great players, Harry Watson and Charlie Rayner, both of whom played with Dutton's New York Americans. "Every year he'd lose $300 or $400 which he really couldn't afford," said Dutton. "Dont you think a fellow like that deserves a little help?"

Reports say the amateur-professional dispute was brought to a head by the case of Johnny Horeck, recently discharged from the Army. It appears Horeck had been on the New York Rangers negotiation list before he enlisted and, after discharge, Lester Patrick was prepared to offer the player a good contract. However, Eddie Shore of Buffalo Bisons obtained the title rights to Horeck in the deal which sent Bob Dill to Rangers. Then Horeck crossed them all up by locating in Ottawa and stating he wished to remain there and play for Commandos.

No matter how annoyed, however, the N.H.L. will not sever relations with the C.A.H.A. because it can't get along without co-operation with that body. The C.A.H.A. has international affiliations which will exert some measure of control over transfer of hockey players to Europe when hockey booms there after the war. If the N.H.L. severed relations it would have to compete in player salaries not only with European rink owners but with the Canadian amateur clubs which actually are professional in everything but name.

And amateur hockey is just reaching the big money bracket. Already there have been cases where amateurs have refused big league offers because they were making more money as amateurs. A good job paying perhaps $2,500 a year plus a hockey bonus of $2,000 is not unusual for an amateur star. That isn't "hay" in the N.H.L. either—and on top of the gravy the eamteur is establishing himself in business.

Leafs 6 Games Behind Leaders

By The Canadian Press.

Two teams whose current records suggest sharp form meet in week-end National Hockey League double-header which may make or break Toronto Maple Leafs as a potential threat to the pace-making Montreal Canadiens.

Now riding a three-game winning streak but still six games behind Canadiens, Leafs play host to Detroit Red Wings in Toronto to-night and travel to Detroit Sunday for a return engagement. Anything less than a split of points would just about cripple Toronto chances of overhauling the leaders.

The double bill is of equal significance to the renovated Red Wings, now one point ahead of the Chicago Black Hawks in a duel for fourth place. Detroit, strengthened in recent weeks by addition of several players discharged from the Canadian Army, showed improvement Thursday in holding Canadiens to a 2-2 tie in Montreal.

Boston Bruins, two games behind Toronto, entertain New York Rangers at Boston Saturday and assume the guest role at New York Sunday in another week-end double-header. Canadiens play at Chicago Sunday in the only other scheduled game.

HONORS SHOES—These running shoes of the famous world-record breaking track sprinter, Charlie Paddock, will rest in a glass case aboard the S.S. Charles Paddock, Liberty ship recently launched at Los Angeles, and named in honor of the Southern California speed demon. Miss Lillian Maki is holding the shoes especially made for him in Finland.

Byron Nelson Leads San Francisco Golf

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 15—(AP) Racking up an eagle three and playing faultless golf except for one hole, Bryon Nelson of Toledo, Ohio, shot a four-under-par 35-33—68 Friday to lead the field at the end of the first round of the 72-hole $10,000 San Francisco Victory Open tournament.

Nelson, former National Open and Professional Golfers' Association champion, was one of very few entries who took the long Harding Park public course to pieces during the opening round of the battle for bonds.

Others included Lloyd Mangrum, Monterey Park, Calif., who posted a 33-36—69, a score equalled by a local favorite, Art Bell, who tacked together nines of 36-33.

George Fazzio, Pine Valley, N.J., and Harold (Jug) McSpaden of Philadelphia, winner of the rich Los Angeles Open last week-end, also came in with sub-par '70's.

Says Research At Peak During 1943

OTTAWA, Jan. 15—(CP)—The National Research Council, in a review of its operations, said today that scientific research in Canada probably reached the peak of its contributions to the armed services in 1943.

Canada had "an enviable record" of accomplishment in the application of science to war needs.

Science had served the forces in radio-location instruments and the optical glass for their manufacture; aerial photography and cameras; ballistic developments of importance in gunnery; new and powerful explosives; defence measures in chemical warfare; improvements in the design of nearly ever item of clothing for special conditions such as tropical and Arctic warfare, including flying and navy needs; nutrition, safe storage and transport of food, camouflage; design and construction of aircraft and tanks, and consideration of thousands of maintenance problems.

A new aviation fuel, special vaccines, air trasport, of wounded, and medicine in all its applications under service conditions had been studied.

Combined Effort

The council served as the central co-ordinating body directing scientific research in Canada, with research in its own laboratories and in universities and industries used in a combined effort at present directed to the solution of new and urgent problems arising out of the war.

Scientific problems referred to the council and dealing with the forces are studied jointly by officers from defence headquarters and civilian personnel on the council staff, allowing decisions to be taken promptly.

"Highly technical problems have arisen from anti-submarine warfare and minesweeping operations," said the review.

"Problems on the direction of gun fire have been attacked with success. Tests have been made on the armoring properties of various materials and work is in progress on the improvement of anti-aircraft projectiles."

New Parachute.

The council had developed secret radio-locator equipment which was placed in the hands of the services.

"Important studies are in progress on the development of superior fighting aircraft and in working out all possible safeguards for the personnel who use them," the report continued.

Seeking substitutes in making parachutes, the council successfully developed a man-carrying 'chute using nylon in the canopy, shroud lines, tapes, and sewing thread. Viscose rayon was used as a substitute for silk.

"Investigations on modified curing practices for bacon resulted in the adoption of a standard cure by Canadian packers. Research on the drying of pork has yielded an excellent product which retains about 75 per cent of its natural vitamin B1 content after cooking and drying.

"Specifications for the processing and storage of dried eggs prepared for the special Products Board and the Canadian Army have been accepted by these bodies af well as by the industry and the British Ministry of Food...."

Some 40 active committees now are working under the council's auspices.

BRITISH MONEY IN U.S.

The British government has poured more than $1,500,000,000 into the American aircraft industry, and spent more than $173,000,000 directly in capital assistance to American corporations making aircraft, tanks and guns.

GREATEST WOMAN MARKSMAN?—Meet the greatest woman marksman, Mrs. Ad Topperwein, 60, of San Antonio, Tex., now teaching dead-eye rifle shooting to soldiers in over 100 army camps. Mrs. Topperwein, affectionately called "Auntie Plinky" by the servicemen because she plinks off little 2¼-inch wooden blocks with her rifle as they're tossed into the air, is equally adept at shotgun and pistol shooting. She hold the world's record for those blocks—1,460 without a miss.

WMS Considers Joint Meeting

British Want No Controls In Post-War

LIVERPOOL, Eng. Jan. 15 — (CP).—Lord Woolton, British Minister of Reconstruction, said today that one of the Government's major winding the administrative machine" imposing controls in British industry and life.

Woolton addressed an audience at Liverpool University, where he received an honorary degree of Doctor of Laws.

"Our entire industrial capacity has grown accustomed to working under government control," he said. "We, ourselves, have become people controlled in our private lives; we pull down the blinds each night at an appointed time, and we regulate our consumption according to ration cards.

"That is war, but the reconstructed England isn't going to be like this."

Woolton said controls necessarily must remain until supply and demand are in balance, but added:

"I venture the reminder that we are a democracy. I look forward when the time is opportune to a revival of that spirit of vigorous enterprise which, surveying the needs and well-being of the country, will once again come forward and advise the Government how it can further the commercial life of the nation and what controlling forces of law are necessary to give proper protection to workers in our industries at home."

He said he hoped traders and industrialists are planning for trade abroad as well as at home "and to call for such help as they may need from the Government."

Doctor Testifies At Court Martial

FREDERICTON, Jan. 15 — (CP). —Capt. Ner Littner, R.C.A.M.C., Toronto, took the stand in his own defence yesterday at his general court-martial trial on a charge of ailing to assure proper medical attention or Pte. Charles Fraser Smith and thereby endangering the latter's life.

The officer said he had concluded Smith was suffering from influenza and that he did not then believe the man had diabetes. Smith died her a few days after he was called up for military service and admitted into the Army.

The soldier, said Littner, said he had been taking 70 units of insulin daily for the last 10 years, but his supply became exhausted five or six days previously.

The accused said he examined Smith and after the latter had told his story was unable to find any marks of insulin injections.

CONDITION SATISFACTORY

Authorities at Toronto General Hospital said today that the condition of Dr. George Easton of Peterborough was "satisfactory." Nature of his illness was not disclosed, but he is believed to have suffered a stroke.

IN ITALY.

Word that his son, Harry J. Lee of the Royal Canadian Service Corps, is now in Italy was received recently by B. Lee, 31 Park Street North. This soldier, who was stationed for a year and nine months in England, took his basic training at the local Military Training Centre and was later at Camp Borden for 10 months.

MORNING CLASHES

A series of important engagements were in progress on the C.G.E. rink this morning. Teenage boys began their hockey battles around eight o'clock, and action continued from hour to hour. A lot of the every man after the puck style of hockey was noticed, but at any rate there is a crop of young chaps learning to skate well, and the game is only dormant this winter.

CHIMNEY FIRES.

There were only two alarms Friday night, but one followed so closely on the heels of the other that two fire trucks had to be taken out. At 11.21 p.m. a chimney fire was reported at Magee Motors Garage, 210 Hunter Street West, and six minutes later the second alarm, coming from 520 Elm Street, home of C. Rusk, was received. This too was a chimney fire, and in neither instance was any damage caused.

ENLIST IN R.C.A.F.

On its visit here January 11 and 12 the Mobile Recruiting Unit of the R.C.A.F. enlisted the following group of 17 men. Those from Peterborough, 13 in number, included the names of Warren T. W. Marshall, Grant E. Howard, John G. Legros, Cecil P. Belsey, Reginald W. Dunham, Norman T. Hope, John H. Kidd, Wesley W. Lee, Thomas J. Devine, William L. Storey, Douglas H. Dawes, John D. Whittaker and Eugene L. Warriner. From Lindsay were George A. Fox and John J. Curtin, and the group is filled out with the names of Ralph W. Carey of Cobourg and Arthur E. Brandwood of Port Hope.

Police Arrest 3 Youths For Vagrancy

Three youths arrested by Constable Ernest Beatty in the vicinity of the Co-Op Company building at George and Dalhousie streets on Friday night were charged with vagrancy in police court this morning but Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry, K.C. intimated that it was likely other charges would follow.

The three, Donald LaFonte, 19, 433 Chamberlain street; Lorne Moore, 17, same address and F. Hughey, 18, 422 Wellington street were remanded until next Friday for trial. Bail was fixed at $1,000 each in the case of LaFonte and Moore, with no bail set in the case of Hughey who pleaded guilty on the vagrancy count.

Constable Beatty was patrolling his beat Friday night when an employee of the Co-Op Company shouted to him to stop three men whom he said had been trying the doors of cars around the building.

The constable stopped the three as they were getting into a car owned by LaFonte. A message was sent to the police station and Constable Percy Sexsmith arrived with a police car. On reaching the scene Constable Sexsmith noticed that the automobile directly in front of the LaFonte car was one owned by C. R. Hutchinson, Romaine street, that had just been reported stolen from the Legion Hall.

After the three youths had been locked up a police squad armed with a search warrant visited the house on Chamberlain street where LaFonte and Moore had been boarding and searched the place. Several radios, gasoline coupons and other articles were found.

German Shells Create Havoc Soldier Writes

Dead and dying lay everywhere and blood ran like water, Pte. W. Stewart McIntosh of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment, who was wounded December 15, wrote his wife at 40 Lafayette avenue as he told how two German shells landing in a village created a shambles which his tortured mind is doing its best to forget.

His wound on the back of the left leg behind the knee, as a result of shrapnel, was described as slight, and he said that he had missed death by a fraction only, while several of his pals were killed beside him. Pte. Victor Peters, who was killed, was with him at the time and he wrote he was one of the ones who helped carry him for medical treatment.

"It all happened so suddenly after we had been in action for about 18 days, that it still seems unreal. During that period we had not had a wash or a shave and it was decided we needed a cleaning up. So some of us were taken to a mobile shower in a little town almost within range of German artillery and it while we were there that two of their 88 millimetre shells burst in the centre of the village only about five feet from the truck we were in.

Terrible Scene

"Nobody dreamed it would happen, and we were in something of a tight spot," he wrote. "When the smoke cleared away the dead and injured were everywhere and I never want to see again some of the things I witnessed that day. It was enough to almost drive a man crazy and my nerves were nearly shattered."

Pte. McIntosh, at the time he was writing, was still in a hospital in Italy, which had only recently been opened up and he said that the patients were quite comfortable and were getting good treatment and food. He expected to be released in a short time after December 21, when his message was sent.

His nephew, Albert Maudsley, was wounded about the same time from shrapnel in the back, and he said he had not seen him since.

Pte. McIntosh enlisted with the Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry Highlanders and several months ago transferred to another unit and during the winter was in North Africa. Before enlisting he worked at Stock's Bakery.

Charles Kingan Re-elected For Sixth Term

president of the Peterborough Fish and Game Association for his sixth consecutive term at a well-attended annual meeting in the Chamber of Commerce on Friday evening.

Other officers elected are as follows: vice-presidents, Fred Goodellow and Frank Edgar; secretary-treasurer, Stanley Adamson; executive, William Addyman, Sid Black, Wallace Davidson, Johnny Wilson, Fred Rappe, Frank Barrett, Pat Hayden, Clarence V. Neal, Alex Weddell and Chris Hughes.

It was suggested at the meeting that the city sportsmen had no desire to dominate the organization that was of vital interest to the entire county, and because of this, action was taken to give members throughout the county representation on the executive. A resolution put forward by Fred Marshall urged that an advisory council be formed to consist of men representing all parts of the county. These men should they attend committee meetings will have the same status as any member of the regular executive, but must take out membership in the Association. The resolution was seconded by James McMartin, and carried unanimously. Reeve Norman Lean of Apsley, and Max Humphries of Hastings were at the meeting and will be named to this committee when the executive meets for the first time.

At the start of the meeting, Alex Weddell, read the financial statement which revealed a balance of $158.57. Then Charles Kingan gave his report, outlining the extensive work done by the Association during the year. He listed the totals of fry, fingerling and adult fish that had been placed in county waters.

One hundred signs have been supplied by the Department of Game and Fisheries for the Crown Game Preserve. Mr. Kingan also reported that a quantity of salt, grain and hay had been purchased for the game birds and animals introduced into the game preserve. He paid generous tribute to the men at Apsley, Havelock, Stoney Lake, and other points who have given of their time and energy in the work of restocking and game conservation.

E. A. Outram, city clerk, was then appointed by the president to preside for the election of officers. The first officer named was Harold Scott, M.P.P., who was named Honorary President. The election took place, ater the report of the nominating committee had been accepted and other nominations called for from the meeting.

Another resolution that was endorsed was submitted by Pete McGillen and Frank Hughes, and urged that no change be made in the season for bass and maskinonge this year. The seasons opens Saturday July 1, and closes October 15.

Considerable discussion followed, a resolution by Fred Marshall that the Association go on record as favoring an independent, non-political commission to administer the fish and game affairs of the province. It was seconded by Frank Barrett. The motion hit a snag when the mover urged that copies of the resolution be sent to the Minister, the local member and to the Ontario Federation of Anglers.

Several members spoke to the motion, and E. A. Outram moved, seconded by Max Humphries that the recommendation be sent only to the Federation of Anglers, as this was the parent organization in Ontario. When the amendment was put, it was lost, and similarly when the motion was put it too was lost. Arguments and comments continued on this subject, and finally Frank Barrett moved as a new order of business that the Ontario Government be advised, that the portfolio of Game and Fisheries was of sufficient importance to be given to one minister alone, rather than having the offices of Provincial Secretary and Dept. of Game and Fisheries under the one man. In the tumult and preparation to see a film from the Dept. of Lands and Forests, Mr. Barrett's resolution was lost, but may possibly be considered by the executive.

Simpson Gledhill of the C.G.E. operated the projector during the showing of the film, which revealed progress being made in reforestation.

Holland Pleads Guilty To Theft

Arrested in the Hotel Champlain Friday evening after he had allegedly tried to sell a number of wind-breakers, Percy Holland was charged in police court this morning with the theft of three wind-breakers from the Canadian Department stores.

"I'll plead guilty to having possession of them," the accused stated.

"I cannot take that plea," Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C. stated and then Holland stated that he would plead guilty to the charge as laid.

He had been out on adjournment on a liquor charge and this morning was remanded until Wednesday when both charges will be disposed of.

TWO MINISTERS COMING

Two Ontario cabinet ministers will visit Peterborough shortly. Hon. Dr. R. P. Vivian, Minister of Health will address the Medical Association on January 21 and Hon. T. L. Kennedy, Minister of Agriculture, will be the speaker at the annual Rotary Farmers' Day on January 24.

Young Peterboro Airman Describes In Letter What It Takes To Make Raid On Germany

A Peterborough airman, only 19 years old, but who has made numerous bombing raids over Germany, in writing home describes in a most concise manner but fully descriptive just what it takes and what feeling the airmen go through when over their target. His description is typical of the outlook on life of thousands of boys his age now serving. The Phil he mentions in his letter is a cousin who is busily engaged at home building planes for them to fly.

The following is a quotation taken from his letter:

"I was glad to hear that young Phil is doing so well, but he can make all the 'kites' he wants and I think he will never know the thrill that they bring—at night to be flying with your crew, your closest pals, to have all hell break loose on you, to weave and do evasive action over your target, to have thousands of searchlights poking their ruddy fingers at you, watching flak crawl its way up then exploding in your face, to see bloody flames belching from fighters, to answer them, to smell cordite, to feel your heart pounding and your blood surging, to be lost in yourself, to hear the Bombardier officially say "bombs away," then less officially, now let's get the hell out of here, to run the Ruhr gauntlet, to bless and kiss the lovely, beautiful, magnificent Channel, to breathe again, to timidly ask if everyone's sane—then you relax and look at the stars and realize that you are covered with honest sweat and you bless those lovely stars, to watch your darling plane break and swell its heart to take you home, to see the puffy clouds smiling at you when a while back they were vomitting death and fire, to land and give 'thumbs up,' to crawl up and humbly kiss your plane (who never lets you down), to go into breakfast and have a smoke and act as calm as ever, when you are seething inside.

Oh me, I do get carried away, but is it not a happy way to live, for your crew, to die if necessary, not for them but with them in the cause we are fighting for."

City And North Monaghan Agree On Annexation Boundaries But County Asks Enlarged Area

North Monaghan and the city reached a new boundary agreement at the township annexation conference in the county council chamber Friday afternoon, but they did not go far enough afield to suit the representatives of the county who demanded a further inclusion in the proposed incorporation in the city of the additional area south of Lansdowne street to Cameron street and lying between Monaghan road and Erskine avenue.

Erskine avenue is virtually an extension of Western avenue south of Lansdowne street. It is the first street to the south of Lansdowne street and the C.P.R. railway west of May's School, passes John Williams' house and continues south across the C.N.R. to Port Hope and continues on to the end of Orpington road and Cameron street.

Like the snowball gathering size as it rolls along, the conversation yesterday afternoon developed agreement between the city and township on a westerly extension of the proposed area south of Lansdowne street first crossing Park street to Monaghan road, a tentative agreement at least, after previous understanding in regard to the Claraday section east of Lock street, then expanding westerly to Park street.

Bruce Johnston, clerk of the township, informed the meeting that on Thursday night he had received a largely signed petition from the residents of the area between Park street and Monaghan road.

The representatives of the city expressed their willingness to subscribe to that expansion,, but drew the line at the Monaghan road limit. It was then the delegates of the county council, Warden Mather and Reeves Gifford and McIlmoyl, tossed in their demand that the proposed annexation be projected further westerly to Erskine avenue. At that point the meeting adjourned with the prospect of further separate meetings of the city council next Monday night and the county council opening beginning its January sessions Tuesday afternoon. Renewal of the conference was suggested for next Monday night.

The county's attitude was plainly a surprise to the city council members, and Alderman Dutton enquired when the county had first considered the far Erskine avenue boundary.

"At noon on December 17," Warden Mather replied. That was the day the Ontario Municipal Board held its session here. "And the county has not changed its mind since then," Warden Mather added.

Alderman Dutton said he wondered why the county had not declared their position before yesterday.

"This is the first time we have had an opportunity to express it," Warden Mather replied, and added that V. J. McElderry, K.C., acting as county solicitor that day had mentioned the Erskine avenue limit.

The county is directly interested in certain financial affects of the proposed annexation, Warden Mather stated, and contends that the interest of county ratepayers as a whole would be best served by the annexation of the larger section its delegates advocated.

G. W. Craw, chairman of the Board of Education, said that on the basis of township assessment the difference would be approximately an increase of $250 to be distributed over the county municipalities, a negligible amount, but Warden Mather replied that the county was concerned about equalized assessments and on that basis the amount would be larger, and could not be immediately estimated.

North Monaghan council was represented Friday by Reeve M. H. Johnston, Deputy Reeve A. W. Archibald, Councillors Grady and Roberts, Bruce Johnston, municipal clerk; and F. D. Kerr, K.C.; the city by Mayor Hamilton, Aldermen Sands, Glover, Dutton, Ovens and Mark, City Clerk Outram, City Engineer Parsons, and City Solicitor Huycke; the county by Warden Mather, Reeves Gifford and McIlmoyl and Mrs. J. A. Spurway, clerk and treasurer; the Board of Education by G. W. Craw and Public School Inspector K. S. Wightman; Separate School Board by M. H. Gainey; and the School Board of S.S. No. 2, North Monaghan by John Sinclair.

The meeting was convened by City Clerk Outram, and Reeve Gifford was appointed chairman on Deputy Reeve Archibald's motion seconded by Mayor Hamilton.

Mr. Outram sketched the precedent progress in the annexation proposals which originated from the township, when it was felt that the Wartime Housing Area on the Hatton property should be taken into the city with the staff house property on Monaghan road.

Explaining the city's advanced position, Mayor Hamilton said: "We have accepted your boundaries as you have proposed them," directly referring to the expansion area on the west side of the city to the altered definition on the north side of Highway No. 28 westerly to Western and then south on Western avenue, taking in a strip of the property on its west side, as far south as Lansdowne street; also the 225-foot strip on the south side of Lansdowne street westerly from the C.N.R. (Port Hope line) to include May's School. This proposal had come to the council as a request from the township council. Since then, the Claraday residents had submitted their own request to the Ontario Municipal Board.

Bruce Johnston introduced to the meeting the petition he re-

ALEXANDER MITCHELL.

Following a lingering illness, Alexander Mitchell of 536 Douglas Avenue passed away on Friday in his 70th year. A native of Scotland, born in Blairgowrie, the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. William Mitchell, he came to this country 25 years ago to make his home in Peterborough. Employed by the Canadian General Electric, he was a member of the Masonic Lodge, and attended the United Church. He was predeceased by his wife, the late Annie MacGregor.

Three sons survive Mr. Mitchell: James in the R.C.N.V.R., Kenneth of Lakefield, and Alexander of Peterborough.

The funeral will be held on Monday at 2.30 p.m. from the Funeral Parlors of A. Comstock and Sons, 305 Water Street, with service conducted by Rev. Dr. E. W. Young of St. Andrew's United Church. Interment at Little Lake Cemetery.

MISS WINNIE CONNOR

Miss Winnie Connor, the daughter of the late Thomas P. Connor who was at one time superintendent of the Canadian Cordage Company here passed away recently after a long illness in St. John's, N.B.

The family of Miss Connor moved from St. John's to Peterborough near the turn of the century, and remained here for about six years during which time her father managed the cordage company at the location where the Canadian Nashua Paper Co. now stands. They then went to live in Wisconsin, where Mr. Connor died about 1925. Miss Connor's mother died some time later.

Surviving are three sisters: Cathleen, a teacher in the West, and Mother St. Thomas and Mother Frances Clare of the Ursuline Order.

War—4 Years Ago

By The Canadian Press

JAN. 15, 1940—Britain challenged establishment of Pan-American safety zone, stating punitive attempts against British ships would cause friction with Allies. United States refused to entertain British protest that Neutrality Act discriminated against British shipping.

JAN. 16, 1940—Canada's first War Loan — $200,000,000 oversubscribed by $48,804,550 in two days. British Admiralty announced loss of three submarines.

Cavan Dance Makes $40 For War Victims

The start of a New Year with many people is a time to make new resolutions, all of them perhaps more or less of a personal nature, which for the most part aim at some betterment in one's life or some such object for good.

While one may hold out the promise of some good, for it would seem many good resolutions are made to be broken, how much better it is to start the New Year by doing some good deed for others, and that is exactly what the New Year's dance held in the Community Hall at Cavan can really be said to have done.

This community holds a leading place in making money in this manner to help the sufferers from air raids over Britain through the Peterborough and District British War Victims fund, for a number of such events during the past year have now rolled up the splendid total of $337.20 in that time, when their latest contribution of $40 from the dance that was held on New Year's night is included.

Good Leadership Given

Much of this is due perhaps to the leadership of Mervin K. Kinsman of Cavan, who has represented this fund in that place ever since local assistants in nearby districts were asked to act in this manner in April of 1941.

Another dance is now scheduled to take place on Friday, January 21, and as on former occasions, the net returns are to be given to the fund, thus giving all the patrons an opportunity and pleasure of making their own enjoyment an occasion for doing some good for others, an ideal way in which to have pleasure for one's self.

One penny box collection is included in today's returns for the fund, this time in an amount of $2.35 from the box placed in the Bank of Toronto, which has already contributed in a similar manner on former occasions.

Bridgenorth Primary Class

Here is a group of youngsters who deserve considerable credit, for the sustained help they have given over a long period of time now places them in a class all of their own. They have made many donations to the fund, and when it is mentioned that they gave a gift of $3 to the Children's Christmas Cheer fund in the middle of last month, the $2 again appearing in their name today gives every evidence that this class of tiny tots of the United Church Sunday School at Bridgenorth has not abated their interest.

DOING A GREAT JOB FOR CANADA—When Pte. Mary Birdsall, of Birdsall, Ont., enlisted in the Canadian Women's Army Corps, she released a physically fit soldier for active duty overseas. Mary, a former teller accountant in a branch of the Bank of Toronto, is employed as a pay clerk at headquarters, M.D. 3, Kingston. Daughter of a military family, after whom the community of Birdsall is named, Mary plans to profit from the valuable experience she gained in the Army and continue in accountancy when the war is over. (Canadian Army Photo)

Private Mary Birdsall Follows Army Career Of Her Family

KINGSTON, Jan. 15 — Daughter of a Canadian family which has been connected with the military history of the Dominion for more than 100 years, Pte. Mary Birdsall, is carrying on the family tradition.

A native of Birdsall, Peterborough County, which was named after her family, Mary is a member of the Canadian Women's Army Corps, and is attached to the Pay Office at Military District No. 3 Headquarters, Kingston. There have been Birdsalls at Birdsall for more than a century.

Both Pte. Birdsall's grandfathers were army colonels, while her father is Lt. Col. F. E. Birdsall, who has been retired for some time. With such a background it is little wonder that she is army-minded and was not content until she wore the khaki uniform of the C.W.A.C.

The number of C.W.A.C. employed as pay clerks is rather limited as the girls are expected to perform mathematical feats without turning a hair. However, to girls such as Pte. Birdsall who has had previous experience as a teller accountant in the Bank of Toronto, the Pay Office holds no terror. Pte. Birdsall enjoys the mental gymnastics.

After the war, Pte. Birdsall hopes to continue accounting work and says that the Army has given her invaluable experience in this branch of work. In the meantime she feels it is an honour to serve in the C.W.A.C. as the representative of a family which has made notable contributions to the Army in the past.

Book Canvass Is Well Supported

Several members of the I.O.D.E. denied to the Examiner a rumor that in their canvass for books for the armed service they were encountering a spirit of indifference and a relaxing in the belief that the war was just about over.

One of the women who has been out on the public firing line said her reception was most encouraging.

"I did not hear a word of opinion that the effort was not needed because we had the war just about won," the Examiner was told. "Everybody I called on was helpful. They either had books ready or they had a cash contribution. I found it a pleasant experience."

The Examiner spoke to three members of the I.O.D.E., and their comment was in full agreement.

Master Post-War Plan

SMITHS FALLS, Ont., Jan. 15 — (CP).—The various post-war reconstruction plans now being prepared in Canada should be "dovetailed" into one master plan, Mayor Stanley Lewis of Ottawa said yesterday.

Addressing a luncheon meeting of a service (Rotary) club, Mayor Lewis said that the master plan should include the best points of all suggestions and should assure proper utilization of the Dominion's resources for the benefit of the Canadian people.

City And N. Monaghan

ceived Thursday night from the residents of the Park street-Monaghan road section, from Lansdowne street south to the river. There are 152 people living in the area.

"We are willing to accept those areas," Mayor Hamilton "and try to adjust the details fairly, later on."

Alderman Sands, chairman of the city's legal committee which has been considering the annexation question, said: "We've agreed to accept the boundaries as you laid them out; we have agreed to take in Claraday, and tentatively to take in the Park street to Monaghan road section. The city's stand has been frankly, all or nothing because we feel that the Claraday area will help carry the western area. But, if we cannot decide here on the area I cannot see any use talking about schools."

Warden Mather said it was his opinion, and he believed it was endorsed by most of the members of the county council, that the annexation project should go as far west as Erskine Avenue.

As chairman of the Board of Education, Mr. Craw said he did not consider it was his place to discuss boundaries, but in the event of annexation as it was discussed the Board would have to provide additional educational, facilities, its health services and so on, and should know what the additional cost was going to be to the city ratepayers. Most of the pupils from the county attending the Collegiate Institute and Vocational School were from the Monaghan suburbs, and in that respect the county would save something like $8,000. His estimate also was that annexation would involve a city public school cost of $35,000 which should require nearly additional assessment.

Bruce Johnston said the township assessment of the three areas was $750,000 and they were now paying $20,000 in school taxes.

"We certainly don't think we are going to make anything out of this," Mayor Hamilton remarked. "We feel that it is going to cost us a considerable amount and we did not ask for it in the first place."

"If you are going to make a bigger Peterborough, you will have to pay for it," Deputy Reeve Archibald commented.

Mr. Sinclair reminded the city delegation that nothing had been said about the increased industrial area the city would acquire by annexation, with railways and sidings already available.

Mr. Roberts, Reeve Johnston and Bruce Johnston struck one common note to the effect that they did not wish to be accused of trying to force any township residents in to the city, nor did they wish to prevent them from excericsing their rights if wishing to come in, especially the residents of the Monaghan Road and Erskine Avenue area. It was said that they were conspicuously absent from the recent meeting at Confederation School at which the residents of Park street - Monagran road area stoutly announced their wish to go along with the annexation scheme.

Councillor Roberts suggested that the Erskine Avenue boundary should be considered, and Bruce Johnston said that if this area was left out the people would have to build a two-room school, that no grant for that purpose would be available and that the cost would have to be paid out of the taxes of the remaining section which was largely rural.

Warden Mather stated that he had gone over the entire area to become acquainted with the boundary details, and was impressed by the fact that the city would have nothing much to be afraid of as to costs in the Erskine A enue section because there were only two streets, Orpington Road and Cameron street which would require attention.

During an adjournment of half an hour, the township council with only Councillor Cassan absent held an emergency session and returned a resolution, moved by Mr. Roberts and seconded by Mr. Archibald, and unanimously supported, expressing approval of annexation of the southern area from Monaghan road easterly to river, and all south of Lansdowne street. At that stage Warden Mather interjected the county's claim for the further addition to Erskine Avenue.

"Mr. Craw has pointed out an increased cost to the city," said the Warden; "look at it from the county angle. We are going to lose in assessment between $800,000 and $1,000,000. As I see it our ratepayers will have to pay an increase in taxation because we would be losing this very valuable section of North Monaghan."

"If I were doing this on my own I would look for the line at Erskine Avenue," said Reeve Johnston, "but those people have not asked for it, and we don't want to shove it onto them. We feel what Mr. Mather said, that the rates for a new school down there would be high, but the council is not ready for that area being taken in."

Other details of costs were then quoted during the meeting, but they were not put forth as being exact.

and may be blamed for the sudden Ottawa army orders, but someone must be blamed. That is tradition. The Turk Broda case was blamed for the first army decision against hockey. Jim McCaffrey's interview in Vancouver was blamed for the second ruling, when he said he would have shipped Broda from Toronto to Ottawa by motor car instead of using a train, as Montreal did and Broda was picked up by police. Now McCaffrey's Commandos are accused of forcing the army's final order."

Sporting Chili Con Carne: The Navy hockey team went down 11 to 6 before the St. Catharines Saints last night....Navy was down 8 to 0 at the end of the second period but staged an exciting last session rally.... Suspension of Phil Watson has been lifted....According to Andy Lytle's comments in the Star last night of the three officials grabbing Canadien players in stopping the fight, there was plenty of provocation for any jostling of officials....Lytle intimates that the officials who acted in that game are all practically attaches of Maple Leaf Gardens and none of them could be described as a neutral....Incidentally the Detroit Red Wings play in Toronto tonight.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

MAKE SURE YOU BEAT IT

WHEN YOU have doubled the opponents' contract—then, if ever, is the time to make sure you set them one trick rather than take a chance on setting them more. If you get one trick home and possess the top card of some suit, which may be laid down to end their hopes instanter, it is the height of daring, or something, to hold it back. That is especially so when you see a long suit in the dummy, in which the declarer may possibly hold fillers to solidify it.

South had a choice of which hand to use for ruffing, and which for discarding, when West led his spade A. He decided to trump in dummy and discard the heart 5 from his own hand. Next he led the diamond K to the A.

Now was West's chance to set the contract at once by laying down the heart A. But he hated to do that, when holding on with it might later result in his getting two heart tricks, especially if he could put his partner in the lead. Possibly East's hop into 4-Spades had been based partly on a well-located club trick, or at least that is what he decided. He thereupon led his club J.

Figuratively giving three cheers, South won that trick, drew the last hostile trump, and discarded his remaining three hearts on the dummy's clubs.

As it happens, double dummy play will set the contract two— the heart A, another heart, which would blank East of the suit, the diamond A when South led trumps, and then a third heart for East to ruff. But would you make that defense, if you sat in the West seat?

OTTAWA, Jan. 15 — (CP). — War is hell; Lord De La Warr, the cheerful and fluent chairman of the United Kingdom Agricultural Research Council, left some sparkling examples of English wartime humor when he completed an Ottawa visit the other day.

In England, the rare oranges are for the young, and cigarettes are for those of mature years.

Lord De La Warr said a 16-year-old boy went to the store in his village and asked for a package of cigarettes.

"Go on out, you're ar too young for cigarettes," said the storekeeper.

The boy: "Too young for cigarettes, too old for oranges. Blimey, what a ruddy war."

Not so: A story going the rounds among the thirsty has been nailed.

Those who found liquor restrictions onerous repeated a yarn that the one Cabinet minister fighting the controls was Finance Minister Ilsley. His objections were said to be on two counts: 1. That substantial Government revenue came from liquor sales; 2. That when people spent money on liquor they were not using it to crack the price ceiling on more essential goods

But Mr. Ilsley has let it be known he has not been fighting the liquor restrictions and fully agrees with the Cabinet policy.

Progress? Out of the north comes the story of the missionary who thinks all this talk about wonderful airplanes is the bunk.

The good man decided to visit an air base about 100 miles away, hitched up his dog team, laid in a store of tea for his Eskimo guide, and whipped over the snow to complete the jaunt in a gouple of days. En route, he wrenched his ankle, and the hospitable airmen said he must stay and rest and they would fly him home.

Grateful, the missionary sent the Eskimo home with the dog-team.

Recovered, an airplane took him over the mission in half an hour, but the ice was rough and they could not land. So they went back to the base. A few days later they flew back and the fog was so thick they couldn't land

A third time they flew over and again the fog made a landing impossible.

The missionary got on the radio that night and asked the Eskimo please to come back from the mission with the dogs. He finally walked home with the team, facing the chill wind and the drifting snow, and muttering.

Coal Factor: There has been a suggestion in the United States that as aluminum purchases are decreased home plants should have to suffer less than the Aluminum Co. of Canada which operates a large plant and power development at Arvida, Que.

One reason for their opinion is that a considerable part of United States aluminum production is made possible by power generated from plants using coal. Coal supplies are limited in the United States as well as in Canada, while the waters of the Saguenay River which turn the turbines at Arvida, are unlimited. Therefore, these authorities say, both Canadian and the United States plants using Hydro power are likely to keep their aluminum orders longest.

Chandos Councillors Paid At Rate Of $5

The council of Chandos township held its regular meeting at Hale's school, East Road, recently and it was decided that councillors would be paid $5 for attending the meetings. The motion met with some opposition, and Gerald Ayotte and H Campbell moved an amendment limiting the fee to $4. The original motion was made by J. Reynolds and O. Montgomery and Albert Hall, reeve, cast the deciding vote.

Other motions dealt with accounts. It was moved by Hall and Montgomery that the treasurer be paid $500 to apply on the county rates; by Hall and J. Reynolds that D. Brown's bill for $5 be paid; Reynolds and Montgomery moved that Theo Post be appointed Road Superintendent at a salary of $4.50 a day while working.

It was also moved that a road by-law be passed for $6,500 for road purposes; Hall and Reynolds, that the deed of land re Lot Pt. 16, Con. 5 be delivered o Mr. Breakey; and any or all of the council will attend the Ontario Good Roads Association in February in company with the Road Superintendent. Reynolds and Campbell moved that the same pound-keepers, fence viewers ani sheep valuators be appoited for 1944 and that Voucher No. 1 be passed for payment of a total of $516.

Assessors Find Building Act Details Vague

Continuing their discussions begun on Friday morning, members of No. 5 district of the Association of Assessing Officers of Ontario met in the city council chamber in the afternoon, and questions of a technical nature affecting the uniformity or divergence of their practice as assessors, were presented for discussion among the confrerees. About 30 members of the Association attended the proceedings, which concluded with the adoption of several resolutions to be forwarded to headquarters of the main Ontario office.

Considerable time was devoted to unveiling the mysteries of one particular section of the assessors' code, dealing with interpretation of the law governing assessment of uncompleted buildings. It was set forth that the definition of the act held a dwelling to be completed when it first became fit for occupation, but it was admitted that practice varied in determining when this stage had been reached. Many complaints regarding interpretation of the section had been received at Queen's Park, it was stated by George D. Scott, assessor of New Toronto.

He stated that the section in itself made for more work, but also for more extra revenue, than any other; and made pointed reference to the fact that many fine municipal surpluses, exhibited with pride by city treasurers had been accumulated through the efforts of assessor working under this section of the law and getting little or no credit for their contributions to municipal coffers. "The city council of New Toronto," he said, "didn't know what was going on."

Following out this line of thought, other members tended to express agreement with Mr. Scott's thought, and the assessor of Oshawa summarized the general feeling of the group when he said that assessors should get out and blow their own horns a little in order to get credit for some of the monies their work brought in.

Simpler Methods

Methods of simplifying the procedure and reducing the length of time and amount of labor going into physical appraisal of community properties were brought up for discussion, and the practices of individual assessors were explained and examined. Different types of appraisal cards and field blotters for the recording of structural and statistical information were considered and their application to the work in various communities was passed upon.

A question of particular interest to rural assessors, of whom quite a number were on hand, involved the best time of year in which to conduct the assessment of rural communities.

Lacks Gas

In this connection the problem of obtaining gasoline rations for rural assessors was brought to the fore, inasmuch as through lack of adequate supplies some had been forced to cover their district on foot. Mr. Scott, referring to the provincial meeting of last spring, stated that letters of inquiry addressed after that meeting to the Control Board in Ottawa had not been productive of satisfactory results, and that to date, indeed, no answer had been received to the second of two letters forwarded to the Board.

Another matter elaborated on at the morning session, the need for a general system of county assessors, for the purpose of promoting equalization of rates, was again touched upon in the afternoon, when Otonabee township was named as an area where high rates of valuation, out of proportion to neighbouring districts, prevailed. It was felt that the adoption of the county assessor plan would go far towards forwarding the welocme achievement of rate uniformity.

Southern Democrats Threaten Party Rift

By NORMAN WALKER
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15 (AP).—President Roosevelt will have an opportunity next week of restoring harmony in the ranks of southern Democrats, some of whose leaders have been talking of forming a third party.

A White House "social," it was learned today, is being planned for a group of southern governors who are meeting here Monday to renew their perennial demand for railroad freight-rate equality.

Having long sought rates equal to those prevailing in the industrial east to "free our region from economic peonage," the southern governors on occasion threatened party reprisals unless given administration support.

Further cracks in the "solid south" have resulted from disputes over legislation dealing with poll taxes, absentee voting by servicemen and other issues.

It was some time after the blast that persons in a search through the part of the theatre which was most severely damaged found two of the bodies.

The blast left many persons bewildered, some feeling it, but not hearing the explosion.

The circumstances were much the same as the explosion in Soho's Continental restaurant section last autumn when for a time many thought Hitler was using a new type of plane or time-bomb for a "secret weapon." Investigation later revealed that these explosions were not bombs. but gas explosions.

Uniform Ballot Rejected By House

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15 (AP) — The House of Representatives Elections committee rejected to-day all proposals for a uniform Federal ballot for men and women in the United States armed forces and approved, 7 to 5, a modified form of the Senate-approved measure turning the soldier vote problem over to the States.

Committee Chairman Eugene Worley (Dem.-Tex.) announced immediately he planned to carry the fight for a uniform ballot to the House floor.

Worley said both Army and Navy told the committee they could not get ballots to any appreciable number of soldiers, especially those overseas, under 48 different State systems.

Poultry Men Suggest Many Changes

OTTAWA, Jan. 15.—(CP).—Suggested changes in national poultry policies and proposed methods of finding a market for poultry products after the war demand passes were ready for study by government officials to-day after approval by the national poultry conference last night.

The three day conference ended just before midnight after strenuous activity by 10 committees formed by the 100 delegates from coast to coast.

Extensive changes in poultry policies were recommended, and Dr. G. S. H. Barton, Deputy Minister of Agriculture, said some of them might be "castles in the air" at the moment but all would receive close study.

4 Year Contract.

The conference recommended that a four-year egg contract with the United Kingdom be sought at prices similar to those who paid under a one-year agreement.

Other recommendations were:

1. A Dominion Board to purchase poultry products surpluses.
2. Arrangements for training persons leaving the forces in poultry husbandry.
3. A survey of possible postwar markets in the United Kingdom for dried eggs.
4. Advertising campaigns to maintain home markets after the war.
5. Floor prices for poultry products payable to the producer at grading stations.
6. The sale of all poultry on grade to maintain quality.

The conference was informed that prospects were not good for early export of numbers of breeding stock or hatching eggs to Europe, as other food sources would have preference in first relief shipments.

By vote, the conference accepted the suggestion that all approved flocks should be tested for pullorum disease by government inspectors.

Government agencies should encourage the popularity of poultry breeds shown by investigation to be most economical in production of eggs and meat, the conference said.

The Prices Board was advised that a price ceiling on day - old chicks would serve no useful purposes as the price structure had not been abused.

Examination of the relative feeding values of forage crops for poultry was recommended.

A turkey production and market requirements committee received the support of the conference at large in recommending a national turkey committee to seek co-ordination of provincial turkey approval policies.

A floor price of 27 cents a pound to the producer for dressed turkey was recommended, this rate being for Ontario with adjustments for other provinces in light of the freight rates.

Skilled Worker Shortage Still Exists

By JACK WILLIAMS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA, Jan. 15 (CP) — With Canada's compulsory manpower regulations apparently at their peak, extensive study of the methods to be used in removing Canada's manpower control regulations has been undertaken by Labor Department and National Selective Service officials.

"As far as we can see no new campulsory regulations will be required," Arthur MacNamara, director of National Selective Service, told The Canadian Press today.

While there is no indication that controls are to be immediately slackened, departmental officials are giving considerable attention to developing techniques which will be required when the manpower war needs relax.

Already steps have been taken along this line, particularly in the placing of the great majority of the 2,500 workers laid off at the Nobel, Ont., explosive plant in other jobs.

When the inevitable general slowdown of war production comes, the problem will be accentuated and will have to be handled on a much larger scale.

Selective Service regulations have been largely administered through the chain of government-operated employment offices.

Although a shortage of some 100,000 skilled workers still exists in top priority industries some lay-offs have taken place and it is recognized that with the end of the war these offices, instead of being primarily concerned with finding men to fill jobs, will face the task of finding jobs for men.

Will Shift Back.

One of the complicated problems will be the return to their previous occupation of workers who, under compulsory transfer regulations, have been shifted from less-essential occupations to war or other high-priority jobs.

In some cases, for instance, men have been taken from hotels and placed in war industries. They may, subsequently, have shifted to another war plant.

The compulsory regulations provide that if they are moved under Selective Service orders they are assured their original jobs back when their services are no longer required for war work.

Serious administrative problems are also likely to arise from the enforcement of the Act passed by Parliament in 1942 providing for the reinstatment in civil employment of members of the armed forces.

This Act requires employers, in all cases, where reasonably practical, to re-employ men now serving in the forces under conditions "not less favorable" than would apply if they had remained in their civilian employment during the war.

Jesus Answers

the Son of Man is Lord also of the Sabbath."

See Man With Withered Hand.

After that Jesus entered the synagogue and beheld there a man with a withered hand. The Pharisees were there, too, watching to see if they could trip Him, if He would heal the man on the sabbath. Jesus told the man to stand forth, and when he did so, Jesus turned to His enemies and said, "Is it lawful to do good on the sabbath days, or to do evil? to save life, or to kill?" But no one answered. Then Jesus told the man to stretch forth his hand, and he did so and the hand was made whole. He was grieved and angered at their hardness of heart.

Jesus and His disciples withdrew to the Sea of Galilee, and great multitudes followed them, and He healed many. Here He also chose His 12 disciples to be trained and taught to carry His message to all the people after He had left them.

Among the persons whom Jesus healed were many afflicted with evil spirits which Jesus cast out. But the Scribes came down from Jerusalem and said it was the power of Satan, not of God, through which he cast them out. Jesus asked them how Satan could work against himself? He also told them what was the unpardonable sin; to blaspheme against the Holy Ghost. He "hath never forgiveness, but is in danger of eternal damnation." This He said because they accused Him of having "an unclean spirit." Blasphemy indeed!

One more incident of this time and we are finished, as our lesson is long. His mother and brethren came to the house where Jesus was and sent word that they wanted to talk with Him, but Jesus said, "Who is My mother or My brethren?" Looking around Him at His disciples and followers He stated. "Behold My mother and My brethren! For whosoever shall do the will of God, the same is My brother, and My sister and mother." He doubtless loved His earthly parents and brothers and sister, but no kin folk could claim Him; His mission was to all the world. Those who so needed Him were therefore His family.

Pulpwood Cut Spurts In Six Months

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15 (AP).—Pulpwood experts of the War Production Board who have been crying the shortage blues for months, reported happily yesterday that United States pulpwood production took an unexpected spurt in the last six months of 1943 to make the outlook for adequate 1944 production much brighter.

November estimates had put the 1943 pulpwood cut at 11,700,000 cords but production reports today caused upward revisions, said James L Madden, W.P.B. pulpwood director It now appears that U.S. pulpwood cutters exceeded the 13,000,000-cord mark for 1943.

The W.P.B. pulp division warned, however, that adverse weather and other factors could quickly precipitate another pulpwood shortage crisis in the south, where part-time pulp cutters are swelling present totals.

As an indication of the improved outlook, the November report of the combined raw materials board estimated U.S. 1944 pulpwood production at 9,949,000 cords, whereas today the W.P.B. said the goal for 1944 production, based on current indices, is 14,000,000 cords.

While saying that the supply situation had eased, and that the outlook for 1944 production is better W.P.B. officials said the pulp and paper situation remains serious, due to the increased military demands for paper and paperboard containers.

Invasion Plans Far Advanced

Lt.-Gen. O. N. Bradley, Tunisia Veteran, Senior U.S. General

By LEWIS HAWKINS—Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Jan. 17—(AP).—The pre-invasion task in Britain is far advanced, Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower disclosed today, even as Gen. Sir Henry Maitland Wilson hinted at new blows in the Mediterranean, possibly into southern France. This picture of Allied might menacing Hitler from the west and south as well as the east was thrown into sharper focus with announcement that Lt.-Gen. Omar N. Bradley, veteran of Tunisia, has become senior American general under Eisenhower in this theatre.

Eisenhowever, in his first press conference as western invasion commander-in-chief, warmly praised naval, air, supply and other forces for "the work that has been done in advance of my coming," and lauded infantrymen in the United Kingdom who "are getting themselves ready and toughened for any job that lies ahead."

Hit At Opportune Time.

Gen. Wilson, the new Mediterranean commander-in-chief, in his first press meeting at Allied headquarters in Algiers, declared his front extends from the Maritsa River in the Balkans to the Pyrenees, and "we've got to hit home wherever we see the opportunity... If we saw an opportunity for going into southern France, we should do so."

He added he would confer today with Gen. Charles de Gaulle.

"With luck," Gen. Wilson said, the Allies will win the war in Europe "this year, but whether we'll finish it this year is another thing." He drew the parallel of a boxer who has won but whose opponent still is on his feet.

Bradley's appointment stirred speculation he would be the invasion commander for U.S. ground forces as opposite number to Gen. Sir Bernard Montgomery, who heads the British army group, but there was no official confirmation. Bradley commanded the 2nd Corps in

Murder Trial Gets Underway Jos. Kennedy Pleads Not Guilty

HAMILTON, Jan. 17 — (CP).—Joseph Kennedy, 52, to-day plead not guilty in Supreme Court here on a charge of murdering his neighbor, Mrs. Betty Edwards, on the night of October 11.

Seven members of the jury panel were challenged by E. D. Hickey, defence counsel, and three by the crown attorney, Harvey McCulloch before a jury was selected. Mr. Justice A. W. Greene is presiding.

Hickey was appointed by the attorney - general's department to defend the candy maker, committed for trial on the murder charge at a preliminary hearing October 22.

In his opening address to the jury, McCulloch said Mrs. Edwards, 23-year-old wife of LAC. John B. Edwards of the R. C. A. F. was murdered sometime between 9:20 p.m. and 9:47 p.m.

"She was alone and speaking on the telephone at 9:20 and at 9:47 she was found dead with her home on fire," he said. Mrs. Edwards was found in the cellar with her head crushed. Her two children, Geraldine, five, and Robert two, were rescued by firemen from a second story bedroom.

McCullough said a blood-stained sweater was found in Kennedy's room and a milk bottle at the bottom of the cellar steps in the Edward home. Blood on the bottle was in the same category as that on the sweater, he said.

The trial is continuing.

Death Recalls Strange War Story

HOLYHEAD, Wales, Jan. 17 (CP)—Death here of Capt. Lionel J. Manning recalled a strange story of the First Great War involving his son, Lieut. Victor Manning, who was reported to have been killed and buried in France.

Eight years later Capt. Manning and his wife received a letter from a prisoner in Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., jail, signed "Victor Manning," and saying he had been imprisoned for forging a cheque. The writer said he had been suffering from loss of memory and appealed for funds to get him out of jail.

A handwriting expert was convinced the writing in the letter and Lieut. Manning's writing were the same and Canadian detectives could not shake the man's story he was Lieut. Manning. To make sure, however, the parents sent another son to Canada whom the prisoner could not identify. The Mannings refused the request for money.

It was learned later the man was a native of the Holyhead district and in a subsequent letter to the Mannings he said he was with Lieut. Manning when he was killed and the spirit of the dead lieutenant must have entered his body.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17—(AP).—The United States Government has advised the Soviet Government of its willingness to work for restoration of good relations between Russia and Poland, State Secretary Cordell Hull disclosed today, and is hopeful that such relations may be resumed.

Hull disclosed at a press conference that a dispatch to that effect had been sent to Moscow.

Claim Secret Weapon Liquid Air Rocket

STOCKHOLM, Jan. 17—(AP). —The secret weapon about which German propagandists have boasted recently was described by the Swedish press today as a "liquid air" rocket bomb of great destructive power which can be employed against targets 70 miles away.

The paper said it was understood the bomb was propelled to a height of more than 30 miles by rocket power—although some experts were represented as skeptical on this score—and then was designed to glide to its ultimate target.

Dwelling Fire Kills Three

Mother, 2 Children Perish, Father Escapes

HULL, Que., Jan. 17—(CP).— A mother and two children died and a father suffered injuries when an early morning fire of undetermined origin destroyed a small two-storey wood and tin house on east-side Garneau street.

The dead: Mr. Joseph McKinstry, 32; Roland McKinstry, 10 months; Isabelle McKinstry, eight years.

McKinstry was given hospital treatment for cuts on the head and face, received when he jumped through a window. Later he returned to the scene of the fire to learn that his family had perished.

Mr. and Mrs. Napoleon Dussault and their 13 year old daughter, Jannine, occupants of the house's other apartment, escaped after hearing McKinstry's cries of "fire."

The fire started in the basement near the furnace and raced through the house within a few minutes, giving all but Mr. McKintry no time to leap from their beds and escape.

McKinstry said he was awakened by Isabelle's screams. "I noticed the house was in flames and I dove head-first through a window and tried to get help. That's all I can remember."

Huns Retreat Anew In The North

100,000 Nazis Killed Since Christmas On One Front Alone

By HENRY C. CASSIDY
Associated Press Staff Writer.

MOSCOW, Jan. 17 — (AP). — The Germans were reported retreating anew to-day before pressure of a powerful new Red Army ofefnsive north of Novosokolniki, where the Russians cut the railroad line leading to Leningrad.

The newspaper Pravda said the Red Army men were surging forward over smooth snow fields, ripping German lines and intercepting their retreat.

As in other major retreats, the dispatch said the Germans were attempting to demolish everything in their path, burning villages blowing up bridges and herding the local populations westward.

The new offensive began with a surprise assault on German fortifications around the railroad town of Nasva. Pravda said the Nazi line was broken on the first night of attack and that Nasva fell the next day at noon. The Germans counter-attacked with tanks, self-propelled guns and infantry, but were repulsed quickly.

Used Dive Bombers.

At one point, the Germans used two battalions supported by dive bombers in groups of 20 to 26 planes for daylight counter-attacks, Pravda reported. By night, the Red Army resumed its advance.

The Russians employed tanks liberally in the new drive, although the terrain offered considerable obstacles. Fields were covered with snow in the Novosokolniki region, but the deep swamps there never freeze and are especially treacherous in this unusually mild winter.

The thin ice coating breaks under the slightest pressure, and the brown mud oozes up to impede movements.

The German propagandists reflected alarm over the new development. Any large-scale Russian success there might cause Finland to quit the war.

The 100,000 caualties, nearly 5,000 daily occurred on just one of the five major fronts. In addition to inflicting them, Vatutin's

Halifax Denies British Seeking Peace

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17—(AP). —Lord Halifax, the British ambassador declared today "there is no truth" to the report published in Pravda, Communist party paper in Moscow, that two English officials had conferred secretly with German Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop on terms of a separate peace.

"There is no truth to this story," Lord Halifax said. "People who believe it will believe anything."

About the same time State Secretary Cordell Hull was telling a press conference that he had no information that would bear out the Pravda report.

News dispatches telling of the publication of the report in the Communist journal under the heading "Rumors From Cairo," aroused extreme interest among officials here. Frank amazement was the usual reaction, not only at the rumors but also at the fact that Pravda would publish them.

This arose from the fact that the Communist journal is regarded as an authoritative publication whose dispatches are more likely than not to serve the designs of Russian officialdom.

How It Started

MOSCOW, Jan. 17 — (AP). — Pravda published a Cairo report to-day that two "English officials" had conferred secretly with German Foreign Minister Joachim Von Ribbentrop to find terms for a "separate peace" with Germany, and added:

'It is understood the meeting did not remain without results."

Canada To Get Two Destroyers

OTTAWA, Jan. 17—(CP)—An announcement from Navy Minister Macdonald today disclosed that Canada is getting two new fleet destroyers as well as two new medium cruisers from Britain. Mr. Macdonald had announced the gift of the two cruisers at a press conference last Friday.

A naval release said the gift of the four ships to Canada might be described as "reverse mutual aid." On Friday the minister emphasized, however, that the cruisers were "straight gifts" with "no strings attached."

Arrangements for the transfer of the ships to the Canadian Navy were initiated at Quebec conference discussions, the release said.

"They will come under Canada's exclusive control in the same way that large numbers of fighting ships, notably corvettes, minesweepers and frigates built in Canada, have been transferred to the United Kingdom and now are units of the Royal Navy," the release added.

"In both cases, the ships are made available, without regard to financial considerations, to the service where it is believed they can contribute most effectively to the common war effort of the United Nations.

"The addition of these four ships of the latest design and modern armament and equipment, to the Royal Canadian Navy will contribute greatly to its strength and balance, and will enable it to play a still greater part in the defeat of our enemies. It provides a striking example of the close co-operation and mutual assistance which have characterized the relations of the two navies from the moment of the outbreak of the war."

His One Ambition

SEATTLE, Jan. 17 (AP).—Col. Charles H. Morhouse, personal physician to Gen. Douglas MacArthur, said last night MacArthur 'would far rather set foot in Manila than in the White House. I can tell you that General MacArthur's greatest ambition is to go back to the Philippines in a victory parade; he has no political ambitions.'

Allies Storm Cassino Suburbs Push Ahead on 30-Mile Front

By WES GALLAGHER—Associated Press War Correspondent

ALGIERS, Jan. 17 — (AP). — Attacking alone a 30-mile front, American and French troops of Lt.-Gen. Mark Clark's 5th Army reached the steep banks of the Rapido River which runs through Cassino, and have begun battering assaults on the Gustav defence line, main barricade to Rome, Allied headquarters announced today. The exact penetration where the American troops finally pushed up to the Rapido, which runs almost due north and south at Cassino, was not announced. Previously, however, infantry men had stormed and captured Mount Trocchio, the last high ground before Cassino, whose peak is but two miles from the town, and it was possible that they had thrust on down the slopes to Cassino itself.

The French led by Gen. Alphonse Juin also smashed through precipitious hills and mountains in the Apennines to reach the upper Rapido, having previously captured the village of Cardito and another of the many Mount Croces which dot the Italian terrain.

Powerful Defence.

At Cardito and Mount Croce, the French were nine to 10 miles north of Cassino and only slightly east. Lower down the line where they had reached to within two miles of the mountain village of Santa Elia they were but five miles from Cassino.

The Rapido's high banks have been converted by the Germans into one of the main features of their Gustav line. It has been studded with guns, weapon pits, dugouts and traps, as have the hills and rocky ledges behind it.

Snow and rail squalls swept the mountain areas of Italy and on Lt.-Gen. Sir Oliver Leese's 8th Army front action was limited to a push along the Adriatic coast for a short distance by the Canadian 1st Division and a brush between the Germans and an Indian patrol at San Eusanio, four miles inland. There was some artillery activities.

The Mediterranean air war flared with increasing violence as heavy bombers hit the German Messerschmitt factory at Klagenfurt, Austria, 75 miles northeast of Trieste and 150 miles southwest of Vienna.

Pulverized Factory

Airmen in this theatre, thus joining with British-based Allied air forces in the campaign to knock the German air force flat, shot their way through a dozen rocket-firing fighters to get at their objective and left the factory sheds and railway siding a bomb-scrambled mess.

Fighter escorts and bomber gunners got four of the enemy fighters.

After peering through the smoke and flame that covered the plant, one pilot said "there will be ample spare parts all over the town of Klagenfurt because I am sure we scattered the factory and its contents."

A German broadcast said damage was caused, but claimed that 18 Allied planes were shot down in this and other actions in the Mediterranean theatre.

The Klagenfurt works is a subsidiary of the Messerschmitt plant at Wiener Neustadt, outside Vienna, which has been attacked from this area.

Another group of bombers dumped loads of bombs on the airdrome at Villaorba, 70 miles to the southwest in Italy, while still others smashed at Osoppo airdrome in northern Italy and Zara Harbor in Yugoslavia to slice down German air strength and interrupt their efforts in the Balkans. At Zara 140 hits were scored in the target area.

18 Planes Downed.

Northeast of Cassino, French troops also pressed forward in the direction of the German base.

Argentine Quake Kills 1,500 13,000 Reported Injured

BUENOS AIRES, Jan. 17—(AP).—A survivor of the disastrous earthquake which wiped out the picturesque Andean city of San Juan during the week-end, killing and injuring thousands, said today the tremor struck one mighty blow, "cutting the city at the roots as if by a scythe."

The survivor, Moises Rudman, said the quake came without warning and in an instant plunged the city of 30,000 into total darkness. Hundreds of survivors huddled in the city square and open spaces, he added, while others sought to extricate the dying and the injured whose screams were heard in the dark.

Troop and other rescue workers were digging additional bodies from the ruins of the dead city today as the nation mobilized aid for the survivors of Argentina's worst earthquake in 83 years. By official count 500 bodies have been recovered so far, but estimates on the total number of dead mounted to between 1,400 and 1,600.

Calls Emergency Session

(President Gen. Pedo Ramirez of Argentina has called an emergency cabinet meeting today to consider additional measures for relief and reconstruction of the city, the Buenos Aires radio said in a broadcast heard by U.S. government monitors. Ramirez will lead a party of officials to make a personal inspection of the city, the broadcast added.)

Authorities said 90 per cent of the buildings in San Juan, which was jolted by four shocks Saturday night and Sunday morning, were destroyed and none of those left standing was habitable. The quake crumbled modern, steel-reinforced structures, such as the city hall and other government buildings, as well as the twin-spired 18th century cathedral and other older buildings.

The injured—one estimate placed the number as high as 13,000—taxed the hospitals of Mendozan 75 miles south of San Juan, and authorities ordered school buildings converted into temporary hospitals. Physicians and nurses worked without rest amid the debris of the stricken city, administering to the injured. Additional doctors and nurses, and blood plasma, medicine, food and clothing, were being rushed by train, plane and truck.

The loss of life and the large number of injured were attributed to the suddenness as well as the intensity of the tremor. Thousands were trapped in their homes and additional hundreds were caught in cinemas and restaurants. An undetermined number were reported killed and injured while attending a service in the cathedral.

Atherton Likes Alliance With Russians

TORONTO, Jan. 17 — (CP). — Expanded and advantageous peace time relations between the United States and Russia were foreseen by Ray Atherton, United States ambassador to Canada, in a speech here today.

The Moscow conference of foreign ministers, in its declaration for a general international organization open to all peace-loving states on the principle of sovereign equality, gave expression to the "fundamental idea which guides the American government in all its discussions of international relations."

Mr. Atherton spoke at a luncheon meeting of the Canadian Club. It was the first of several speeches he is scheduled to make in a brief swing round Ontario during which he will visit various war industries. Other speeches will be made at Hamilton, tomorrow; London, Wednesday and Niagara Falls, Thursday.

Proved Friend Before

"During our civil war when the whole question of the existence of the federal union hung in the balance Russia proved to be our best friend among the great powers," he said.

"Our arrangements with Russia over Alaska were mutually satisfactory. The national interests of each country neither impinge upon nor do they conflict with those of the other.

"With such a background, speaking as an American, I am convinced that the present Russo-American military collaboration, will be the forerunner of greatly expanded mutually advantageous, peacetime relations which will make easier the task of organizing and maintaining the world peace that so concerns us all."

Germans Take Over Danish Police Units

STOCKHOLM, Jan. 17 (AP) — The Free Danish Press Service said today German military and police had interned the entire police force of Copenhagen and had occupied all police stations.

Danish sources here said they believed a new wave of sabotage against the Nazi invaders had led to the action which had been long expected.

Nazi occupation authorities have accused Danish police of not cooperating with them in the past in combatting the numerous outbreaks of sabotage.

Allies Continue Steady Advance

NEW DELHI, Jan. 17—(CP)—Allied forces have occupied two more villages in Western Burma west of the Mayu mountain range in a slow advance through the jungle, Allied headquarters announced today.

A communique said some units had penetrated three miles south and southeast of captured Maungdaw, 55 miles northwest of Akyab.

After the Allied forces entered the two villages, the Japanese counter-attacked several times, the bulletin said, but all attacks were repulsed.

Allied forces have advanced two comiles east of the Mayu range, the bulletin added, and in northern Burma, near Suprabum, a "considerable party" of Japanese was successfully ambushed.

R.A.F. heavy bombers Friday night hit the rail line south of Moulmein. In other recent operations, American planes attacked a road bridge near Manywet, and troop concentrations and supplies near Kamaing. Japanese airfields, communication lines and villages elsewhere were raided by R.A.F. and U.S. aircraft in the last five days.

Russia's Impatience Upsets Diplomats

Polish Question In Air Again; Churchill Pacifies Haughty De Gaulle

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst

Disconcerting but now necessarily of great significance is the grape-vine rumor published by Communist party newspaper Pravda in Moscow to the effect that two English officials have been discussing a separate peace with Nazi foreign minister Von Ribbentroy "in one of the sea coast cities of the Pyrenness peninsula" and that this "meeting did not remain without results."

The only point of importance is why Pravda should publish such a rumor. Both the British and American government have given their bond that they will not make a separate peace.

Could it be that this is an indirect rebuke to the Anglo-American allies for their reportedly favorable reception of the Polish reply to Moscow's offer to negotiate the territorial dispute on the basis of the Curzon boundary? The Soviet government has interrupted the Polish answer as a repudiation of its offer, and has declined to negotiate with the Polish government in London on grounds that diplomatic relations have been interrupted.

Nobody outside Moscow knows the solution to the puzzle.

Allied "home - front" diplomacy sustained one sharp setback over the week-end but at the same time appears to have achieved a striking success in another direction.

The set-back is in connection with the bitter Russo-Polish territorial dispute. The Poles on Friday, replying to the Soviet offer to negotiate on the basis of the Curzon Line—that is, aproximately the same border established by the Red Army of occupation in 1939—asked for Anglo-American mediation.

Moscow's reply is that the Poles have ignored the Curzon Line offer, and the Soviet declares that it cannot negotiate officially with the Polish government in London, in view of the fact that diplomatic relations have been broken.

That seems to leave the imbroglio about where it was — bad but not much worse. Observers glean some hope from the fact that the Muscovites don't say they wouldn't negotiate with a reconstituted Polish government. There are some members of the present Polish government for whom the Russians have a particular dislike. It may be that the opening of negotiations will depend on the elimination of these cabinet officials.

As an offset to this unhappy Russo-Polish development there is encouragement for the belief that a major victory may have been achieved as a result of the unheralded conference in French Morocco between Prime Minister Churchill and Gen. de Gaulle, leader of the Fighting French.

We are officially informed that these two personages reached agreement on the part the French are to play in the coming invasion of western Europe. Further, they discussed the vastly-important matter of the establishment of a provisional French government after

Roosevelt Faces Obstacle

May Become Campaign Issue

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17—(AP)—President Roosevelt will face some party opposition if Congress fails to enact National Service legislation by July and he attempts to force endorsement of the proposal by the Democratic national convention observers believed today.

The President's proposal that the government be given the power to assign men and women to war jobs has aroused such outspoken opposition from both Democrats and Republicans that the issue may be dragged out for months although hearings will be started tomorrow by the Senate military committee.

If Congress should delay action—or reject the proposal—it may become a presidential campaign issue.

Senator Homer Ferguson (Rep., Mich.) said he would not be surprised if it were employed by the administration as an answer to public criticism of the prevalence of war industry strikes.

"They probably will say that the President tried to get National Service legislation to stop the strikes and then try to blame everything on Congress if it does not pass the bill," he said, and added he did not believe a labor draft was the solution for wartime strikes.

Eisenhower Reaches London Post

Starts Immediately To Complete Invasion Program

LONDON, Jan. 17.—(AP).—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, newly-arrived in Britain to command the invasion of western Europe, plunged without delay to-day into the task of completing detailed plans for the greatest and most decisive Allied venture of the war.

He expressed the greatest satisfaction with the lieutenants assigned him for the job of smashing into Hitler's fortress. He stressed to a press conference that his is to be an Allied command of Allied operations, with questions of national prestige subordinated to military efficiency.

He said he was highly pleased to be able to confer en route with both Prime Minister Churchill and President Roosevelt. The prime minister, he added, was looking much better and apparently was on the road to recovery when he saw him.

The Allied air fleet's pounding of Germany, the navy's defeat of the submarines and its transport of men and supplies, and the organization of vast stores of supplies and equipment in the United Kingdom all drew praise as essential preliminaries to his job.

Eisenhower's arrival was announced yesterday by the newly-established "Supreme Headquarters of the Allied Expeditionary Force," which disclosed he had conferred with Prime Minister Churchill and President Roosevelt en route to Britain from the Mediterranean, where he recently has been in command.

The bulletin — first to be issued from his new headquarters here—was followed by a United States War Department announcement in Washington that Gen. Eisenhower had spent "a few days" in Washington where he had conferred with President Roosevelt and Gen. George C. Marshall, United States Army Chief of Staff.

Eisenhower said farewell to his Mediterranean troops Jan. 2 after predicting an Allied victory over Germany in 1944.

His arrival in Britain virtually completed the array of top-notch Allied military men being assembled here to lead the invasion. Among those already here are:

Air Chief Marshal Sir Arthur Tedder, Deputy Supreme Commander; Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery, commander of British ground forces; Air Chief Marshal Trafford L. Leigh-Mallory, Allied Air Commander; Lt.-Gen. Carl A Paatz, commander of the U.S. Strategic Air Forces; Gen. Sir Harold Edmund Franklin, commander in chief of the British Home Forces; Lt. Van Strydonck de Burkel, commander-in-chief of the Belgian Army; Maj.-Gen. H. J. Phaff, commander of Dutch Forces; Gen. Wilhelm Hansteen, commander of Norwegian Forces; Gen. Serge J. Ingr, commander-in-chief of the Czechoslovakian Army, and Gen. Kazimierz Sosnkowski, commander of Polish forces in Britain.

Moscow Angry As Polish Refuse Red Plan

By A. I. GOLDBERG
Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Jan. 17.— (AP).—The Soviet government, interpreting the Polish statement of Jan. 14 as a rejection of its offer to negotiate a new Russian-Polish border on a Curzon Line basis, emphasized today it could not "enter into official negotiations with a government with which diplomatic relations have been interrupted."

Moscow's short sharp reply also revived the Katyn Forest mass graves accusation by Nazi Propaganda Minister Goebbels last April with a reminder that Polish recognition of the charge caused the diplomatic break.

Hard on the heels of this response, Moscow announced in another broadcast—both of which were recorded by the Soviet Monitor—that a Russian States Commission now is investigating "the murder of Polish officers and prisoners of war killed by German occupationists in the Katyn-Smolensk district."

The Moscow broadcasts received the immediate attention of the Polish Government, which was expected to summon a cabinet meeting during the day. Some Poles in official circles, who have been frankly pessimistic of reconciliation regarded Moscow's tone as substantiating their fears Russia is not willing to negotiate with the Polish government in London under British-American mediation.

The only ray of hope apparently was the fact the Russians did not say flatly they would not resume diplomatic relations, but it seemed likely the government would have to be reshuffled to be acceptable to Moscow — a move which would cause bitter controversy in the Polish cabinet.

The Soviet statement, replying to he Polish note of Friday which asked British-American help in bringing Poland and Russia together, referred to the diplomatic break as caused by the Poles' acceptance of Goebbels' charges and declared the graves were filled "by German occupationists."

Earlier last week the Soviet government offered to negotiate the border problem on the basis of the line drawn in 1919 after the first Great War by an Allied commission headed by Viscount Curzon, British foreign secretary. By this suggestion Russia would retain, most of the contested territory, but at the same time Moscow urged that Poland expand to the westward taking certain German territory.

The 10-line dispatch, published at the top of Pravda's foreign news page under the heading "Rumors from Cairo," said the meeting "had the aim of finding out the conditions of a separate peace with the Germans."

tI took place "in one of the seacoast cities of the Pyrenees Peninsula"—apparently Spain or Portugal—according to the Communist Party newspaper's report.

The text of the dispatch:

"CAIRO. Jan. 12. — (By special Correspondent of Pravda). — According to information from reliable Greek and Yugoslav sources, a secret meeting took place recently in one of the seacoast cities of the Pyrenees Peninsula between two English officials and Von Ribbentrop.

"The meeting had the aim of finding out the conditions of a separate peace with the Germans. It is understood the meeting did not remain without results."

The original Soviet-British agreement on joint war-time action against Germany and their later 20-year alliance both provide that neither would make a separate peace.

Question Source.

Pravda's dispatch stirred intense interest and surprise among the Russian public but met with incredulity in Allied quarters.

There were two interesting points about the dispatch:

1. Although it appeared in the organ of the Communist party it was not official and did not even bear the weight of a dispatch of the official news agency, Tass, but was labelled plainly as from special Balkan sources.

The newspaper itself labelled the story as among "rumors."

2. The mere fact of publication of the story was of considerable importance at a time when the United Nations appeared to have been indissolubly joined after the Moscow and Teheran conferences.

While Pravda's back page carried the Cairo story of separate peace negotiations, the front page displayed the Polish government asking Britain and the United States to arrange Soviet-Polish negotiations and the Soviet reply that negotiations with the present Polish government were impossible.

The communique also disclosed that Soviet troops were less than 19 miles from Rowne (Rovno) a big rail and highway junction in Poland, were 5 miles inside the former Polish frontier in a drive toward Kovel from Sarny and they were about 47 miles from the old border in a parallel drive through the swamps of lower White Russia toward Pinsk.

Marines Take Hill 660 In Bloody Fight

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, New Guinea, Jan. 17—(AP). — United States Marines, in what some of them termed the bloodiest battle for the southwest Pacific, have captured Hill 660 to dominate the Borgen Bay area of western New Britain, it was officially reported today.

Australians kept pace by sweeping on through Sio, on New Guinea's northeast coast and advancing three miles farther, clearing more of the coast preparatory, perhaps, for a big Allied push against Madang, farther northwest.

Allied bombers joined the victory parade with a heavy blow at Japanese shipping in the strong enemy base at Rabaul, northeast of New Britain.

"Direct hits and damaging near-misses," said a communique, were scored on a Japanese cruiser, a destroyer and seven cargo ships in the harbor. Returning pilots said the destroyer and one merchant ship were possibly sunk.

The attack was the first blow to be delivered against Rabaul shipping from the new Bougainville Island airfields, in the Solomons, only 250 miles from the enemy base.

One pilot said he saw "the whole stern" blown off a cargo ship of 8,000 to 10,000 tons.

Hails Good Work Done

Making it clear that preparations were not just starting with his arrival, Eisenhower said:—

"I hail the good work of the naval forces, particularly recently when they nailed the Scharnhorst and got those three destroyers in the Bay of Biscay. These were simply dramatic moments—the grand work the navies have been doing is evidenced by the troops brought to England safely.

"We salute the grand work of the air forces—what they have done by pounding Germany, reducing her military potential and at great risk to themselves and with absolute courage.

"It's a wonderful story — even those parts of the effort that have not been publicized. We should not overlook the good work of base supply nor the fine infantry training and preparing out on the cold moors and on the countryside in mud and rain."

Eisenhower, ruddy and healthy-looking, said "fundamentally, public opinion wins wars," and asked the frankest and fullest possible reporting of operations in this theatre.

"I take it you are just as anxious as I am to win this war and let it be done so we can all go fishing," he said.

Striking strongly at any idea that an apology is called for in connection with Allied efforts in the Mediterranean, he said troops down there "have become extraordinary fighting men—navy, air and ground

"They work together as a real team. I don't mean only in the higher echelons among the commanders-in-chief working with me, but on down to the different units of the command."

Gen. Wilson said the present objective in Italy is capture of Rome, and that the Allied aim is "to bring the maximum pressure on the Germans wherever we can and with the maximum force we can use."

He added that the possibility of war extending into Spain now had receded.

Plan To Protest Release Of War Workers

Genelco Local 524 of the United Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers of America, following their meeting of Sunday, stated that the partial shutdown of Genelco, entailing the release of many workers, would be vigorously protested and every measure adopted to carry this protest to the highest authorities.

The union stated its position of supporting any necessary step to change production from one type of war equipment to another in the interests of winning the war, or even the conversion of the plant to the production of civilian needs.

This local situation which is apparently a replica of what is occurring in other centres, reflects the serious lack of adequate planning by those in authority, the members claim.

The union has been informed by local Selective Service that at present only 8 or 10 jobs are available locally and that arrangements are being attempted to place the remainder of those laid off in jobs out of town These transfers to out-of-town points will necessitate extra expense and in many cases of maintaining two homes as a result of the lack of accommodation in these other centres, while at the same time being forced to accept lower wages.

The union proposes to take immediate action to bring the facts before the public to win support around the demand for full employment. A delegation will wait upon Gordon K. Fraser, M.P., with concrete proposals on this issue. Mr. Fraser will be asked to take the matter up immediately with the Federal Cabinet. In addition, delegates from the union will join with a large number of other union members in a mass delegation to Ottawa early in February.

Churchill Talks Invasion Plan With De Gaulle

ALGIERS, Jan. 17—(AP)—Agreement upon some French participation in new assaults upon Europe has been reached by Prime Minister Churchill and Gen. Charles de Gaulle as a "most cordial" conference at Marrakech, Morocco, it was announced over the week-end.

The British premier, fully recovered from pneumonia, agreed with the French Committee of National Liberation head on the necessity for a close relationship between France and Britain, but was reported to have reserved for the Allied military command any decision on supplying arms to anti-Nazis within France.

The Allied high command policy has followed the advice of Gen. Henri Giraud, commander-in-chief of French forces, to send arms to trained French soldiers rather than to the underground. De Gaulle in a recent speech before the French Assembly said the Allies had not sent enough help to French patriots despite "long and dolorous negotiations."

An official French announcement of the meeting said the two leaders reviewed "the principal questions interesting to Franco-British relations as well as the different aspects for co-operation for a common victory."

In London, British satisfaction with the discussions was reflected in the banner play morning papers gave the story of their meeting.

The Daily Mail headed its story "Premier brings back entente," referring to the old Anglo-French understanding. The Mail's Algiers correspondent said the general opinion was that the conference had the happiest results.

There was no editorial comment, however.

HOW ENGINE WORKS—The principles behind the much-written-about jet-propelled engine now being developed by the Allies for super-speed, high-flying propellerless planes is shown in this drawing of the Whittle propulsion plant which appeared in "Flight," a British aviation magazine, in 1941. Embodying these ideas, American scientists have made improvements which are now being tested in planes built in the U.S. to train personnel in jet-propulsion flying. The engine functions by scooping air into the plane's fuselage, where it is picked up by a high-speed compressor, heated by the addition of kerosene or another fuel in a combustion chamber, and ejected from a jet. The result is to project the plane forward.

Rylstone Plant Presents Nearly Perfect Record

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 17 (ENS). —The best report on quality of any factory in Northumberland county was given by Rylstone Cheese and Butter Company at the annual patrons' meeting Saturday. The factory turned out 309,167 pounds of cheese and 99.4 per cent. of it was in the premium class giving them less than one per cent. less than a perfect score.

This record was attained through the entire operating season from April 1 to December 3 and as evidence of the difficulties of early and late season production their report showed that the 19 undergrades were scored before the middle of April and 44 boxes of 92's came between the 1st and 3rd of December which meant they had a perfect record from April 15 to November 30. And as an indication their cheese was of consistently good quality. Rylstone had 14 consecutive shipments of 95's. Their average score of 94.289 was, according to Dairy Instructor J. A. Murray, "the highest I know of in the county." Pointing to changing conditions he said it was just a few years ago that factories were striving to get an average of 93, "and this year, in the 20 factories I visit there is only one factory that is under 93."

During his address to the gathering, over which F. M. Rutherford presided as chairman, Mr. Murray told of the improved results to be expected from the use of the new type of filter disc which it had been expected earlier would be put into general use during 1944. Latest reports on this type of filter indicated that it would not become generally available as lack of help would not permit a sufficient supply to be made. He pointed to the promise of an increased price as one of 1944's "redeeming features" so far as the farmer was concerned.

Discuss Prices.

More detailed information on the price question was given by President Fred W. Barnum, who quoted a letter from S. L. Joss, secretary of the Provincial Association, regarding the meeting with Honorable J. G. Gardner. It was pointed out by Mr. Joss that the 30 cents per hundred milk bonus now in effect was to continue and this in addition to the basic price of 20 cents plus premium and provincial bonus making a possible of 27½ cents for top grade f.o.b. shipping point. There was nothing picayune in the new milk bonus since according to Mr. Barnum it would run the price for milk up to something over $2 per hundred compared to 1.87 this past year. To make this even more impressive was the fact that unlike nearly every other factory in the county Rylstone had actually increased the amount of milk handled at the plant last year from 3,718,034 to 3,744,126. This was due to the fact the 50 regular patrons had increased the size of their herds and there were several extra suppliers of milk in the early spring and late fall.

The annual statement disclosed a drop of 4,525 pounds in cheese output which stood last year at 309,167. It took 12.11 pounds of milk for every pound of cheese compared to 11.88 in 1942. The total amount of fat was 116,885 compared to 113,007 the preceding year, and the gross receipts of $77,490.06 were up approximately $3,000. From cheese alone they got $75,163.73 for an average of 24.31 cents a pound, and fat brought 59.95 cents, including bonus and cream money. In addition to the cheese they had 7,505 pounds of whey butterfat which brought $2,326.33, while premiums on high scoring cheese netted $5,414.81 and provincial subsidy $6,183.34. This meant patrons received an average of $1.87 per hundred or $56.15 per standard of milk which had an average test of 3.2 and gave 2.64 pounds of cheese per pound of fat. A breakdown of grading returns indicated 1,671 boxes of 95's; 1,008 boxes of 94's; 621 of 93's; 44 of 92's, and 19 undergrades.

More Profits.

Agriculture Representative R. C. Banbury of Brighton was a guest of the meeting and he said that agriculture was a field that would probably be faced always with problems and felt it was true to say the farmer was "often making more money than he thinks he is." He spoke of changing conditions and recalled how only a few years ago a man was considered to be a good farmer if he got enough eggs from his hens to put a supply on the table at Easter. Now the peak production is being maintained at that period and this same thing might be applied to cattle which with little more feed than is required to keep them could be producing milk throughout the winter. Canadian exports of agriculture products have increased fifty per cent. above 1938 and this output is being handled by half as many people.

Mr. Banbury could foresee no improvement in the farm labor situation in 1944 and he felt that one reason why labor would always be a problem was that farm wages could not compete with industry. The trend had always been for the good farm laborer to get a farm of his own—"the farm laborer of yesterday is the farmer of tomorrow." On the question of cow care Mr. Banbury stated it was possible for one man to get twice as much from a dozen cows as another and it's all a matter of cow comfort and care. Too many just shut their eyes to things that should be done and walk out of the stable.

"You must keep them comfortable for maximum production. A cow will milk for 300 days in the year just as readily as for only 200. For the farmer who has the equipment more money can be made when he gets this extra production. Give her all the good clover hay she'll eat and your a long way toward milking ten instead of six months," he said, adding that the diet should also be supplemented with chop and oil cake.

Following Mr. Banbury's remarks the election of officers took place, with F. W. Barnum being renamed as president and secretary, and the following directors were elected: Charles Stewart, Wilfred Spencer, Thomas McKeown and Ernest Irwin. William Moore was re-engaged as cheesemaker.

W.I. Collects, Ships 110 Tons Jam, Honey

COBOURG, Jan. 17—(ENS)—Cobourg's objective in the Red Cross campaign is $8,500, it was announced at the meeting of the Cobourg branch of the Red Cross. A letter from the Toronto headquarters of the Red Cross revealed that the 110 tons of jam and honey collected in the town and county by the Women's Institutes had been forwarded to England.

The report of the workroom showed that purchases in December of 1943 amounted to $400.75. Shipments for December consisted of 40 leather coats, 285 pieces of hospital equipment, 21 large quilts, 13 small quilts, 178 garments for Russia, 31 sewn articles, 205 knitted garments and 340 layette pieces, or a total shipment of 1,113.

Funeral Held For S. H. Rowe

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 17 (ENS) —The district lost another of its esteemed citizens with the passing of Samuel Henry Rowe, 81, a farmer of the Healey Falls vicinity who retired to this town sixteen years ago. Mr. Rowe had been in failing health for the past year and succumbed at his home on Victoria street following an illness of three weeks. He was born in Seymour township, a son of the late William Rowe and Mary Dunk and spent most of his years on his farm on the 12th Concession, which he purchased following his marriage to Mary McKeown of Stanwood 56 years ago.

Though farming was his primary affair Mr. Rowe also took a considerable interest in community matters and as a consequence he was for a number of years a school trustee for S.S. No. 9, Stanwood, and as a farmer dairyman was among the original stockholders at the Stanwood Cheese and Butter Company. Mr. Rowe became a member of L.O.L. No. 1338, Stanwood, over 60 years ago and was a Past Master of the Lodge as well as being a member of the Black Knights in Havelock.

Honor Memory Of L.-Cpl Donald

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 17 (ENS) —Legion members went in a body and with a large number of citizens nearly filled St. Andrew's church Sunday afternoon, when memorial services were conducted in honor of Lance Corporal Angus Donald, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Donald, Wallace street.

L-Cpl. Donald was reported killed in action while serving in the Italian theatre on December 21. He went overseas two years after transferring from the Midland Regiment with which he joined up in 1940. Prior to his enlistment he had worked as a plumber with his brother William. He was born in this town and received his education in the Campbellford schools.

He was in England for some time before being sent to the Mediterranean and Sicily where he was wounded last June. A brother, Stewart, in Italy was reported wounded on December 16, and another brother, Jack, is also overseas. A brother, William, of Campbellford, and two sisters, Mrs. Edwin Little and Stella survive in addition to his parents.

The memorial service was conducted by Rev. J. O. Ralston who gave a timely message pointing out that life was essentially risky at its best. He said the obligation of citizenship included the duty of defending one's country and this was only second to duty to God. "Whatever blessings may come as a result of the peace, this family can remember that they have contributed to that cause." The choir sang "Crossing the Bar" and Mrs. Charles Milne as soloist contributed "The City Four Square."

WHEN CLOTHES BECOME Uniforms

As the "survival war" develops, uniforms take the place of clothes. Not only armed services but civilian services require identification by uniforms, so the great garment industry is converted to war purposes.

In the great war drama an army of workers, chiefly women, are engaged in this important task of transforming peace-time "individualists" into uniformed members of war-time organizations.

Thousands of Canadian women, toiling to turn out uniforms for others to wear, are contributing beneficially to the total war effort. They are a valuable part of the great, united team of the United Nations.

HOW ENGINE WORKS—The principles behind the much-written-about jet-propelled engine now being developed by the Allies for super-speed, high-flying propellerless planes is shown in this drawing of the Whittle propulsion plant which appeared in "Flight," a British aviation magazine, in 1941. Embodying these ideas, American scientists have made improvements which are now being tested in planes built in the U.S. to train personnel in jet-propulsion flying. The engine functions by scooping air into the plane's fuselage, where it is picked up by a high-speed compressor, heated by the addition of kerosene or another fuel in a combustion chamber, and ejected from a jet. The result is to project the plane forward.

Rylstone Plant Presents Nearly Perfect Record

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 17 (ENS). —The best report on quality of any factory in Northumberland county was given by Rylstone Cheese and Butter Company at the annual patrons' meeting Saturday. The factory turned out 309,167 pounds of cheese and 99.4 per cent. of it was in the premium class giving them less than one per cent. less than a perfect score.

This record was attained through the entire operating season from April 1 to December 3 and as evidence of the difficulties of early and late season production their report showed that the 19 undergrades were scored before the middle of April and 44 boxes of 92's came between the 1st and 3rd of December which meant they had a perfect record from April 15 to November 30. And as an indication their cheese was of consistently good quality. Rylstone had 14 consecutive shipments of 95's. Their average score of 94.289 was, according to Dairy Instructor J. A. Murray, "the highest I know of in the county." Pointing to changing conditions he said it was just a few years ago that factories were striving to get an average of 93, "and this year, in the 20 factories I visit there is only one factory that is under 93."

During his address to the gathering, over which F. M. Rutherford presided as chairman, Mr. Murray told of the improved results to be expected from the use of the new type of filter disc which it had been expected earlier would be put into general use during 1944. Latest reports on this type of filter indicated that it would not become generally available as lack of help would not permit a sufficient supply to be made. He pointed to the promise of an increased price as one of 1944's "redeeming features" so far as the farmer was concerned.

Discuss Prices.

More detailed information on the price question was given by President Fred W. Barnum, who quoted a letter from S. L. Joss, secretary of the Provincial Association, regarding the meeting with Honorable J. G. Gardner. It was pointed out by Mr. Joss that the 30 cents per hundred milk bonus now in effect was to continue and this in addition to the basic price of 20 cents plus premium and provincial bonus making a possible of 27½ cents for top grade f.o.b. shipping point. There was nothing picayune in the new milk bonus since according to Mr. Barnum it would run the price for milk up to something over $2 per hundred compared to 1.87 this past year. To make this even more impressive was the fact that unlike nearly every other factory in the county Rylstone had actually increased the amount of milk handled at the plant last year from 3,718,034 to 3,744,126. This was due to the fact the 50 regular patrons had increased the size of their herds and there were several extra suppliers of milk in the early spring and late fall.

The annual statement disclosed a drop of 4,525 pounds in cheese output which stood last year at 309,167. It took 12.11 pounds of milk for every pound of cheese compared to 11.88 in 1942. The total amount of fat was 116,885 compared to 113,007 the preceding year, and the gross receipts of $77,490.06 were up approximately $3,000. From cheese alone they got $75,163.73 for an average of 24.31 cents a pound, and fat brought 59.95 cents, including bonus and cream money. In addition to the cheese they had 7,505 pounds of whey butterfat which brought $2,326.33, while premiums on high scoring cheese netted $5,414.81 and provincial subsidy $6,183.34. This meant patrons received an average of $1.87 per hundred or $56.15 per standard of milk which had an average test of 3.2 and gave 2.64 pounds of cheese per pound of fat. A breakdown of grading returns indicated 1,671 boxes of 95's; 1,008 boxes of 94's; 621 of 93's; 44 of 92's, and 19 undergrades.

More Profits.

Agriculture Representative R. C. Banbury of Brighton was a guest of the meeting and he said that agriculture was a field that would probably be faced always with problems and felt it was true to say the farmer was "often making more money than he thinks he is." He spoke of changing conditions and recalled how only a few years ago a man was considered to be a good farmer if he got enough eggs from his hens to put a supply on the table at Easter. Now the peak production is being maintained at that period and this same thing might be applied to cattle which with little more feed than is required to keep them could be producing milk throughout the winter. Canadian exports of agriculture products have increased fifty per cent. above 1938 and this output is being handled by half as many people.

Mr. Banbury could foresee no improvement in the farm labor situation in 1944 and he felt that one reason why labor would always be a problem was that farm wages could not compete with industry. The trend had always been for the good farm laborer to get a farm of his own—"the farm laborer of yesterday is the farmer of tomorrow." On the question of cow care Mr. Banbury stated it was possible for one man to get twice as much from a dozen cows as another and it's all a matter of cow comfort and care. Too many just shut their eyes to things that should be done and walk out of the stable.

"You must keep them comfortable for maximum production. A cow will milk for 300 days in the year just as readily as for only 200. For the farmer who has the equipment more money can be made when he gets this extra production. Give her all the good clover hay she'll eat and your a long way toward milking ten instead of six months," he said, adding that the diet should also be supplemented with chop and oil cake.

Following Mr. Banbury's remarks the election of officers took place, with F. W. Barnum being renamed as president and secretary, and the following directors were elected: Charles Stewart, Wilfred Spencer, Thomas McKeown and Ernest Irwin. William Moore was re-engaged as cheesemaker.

Funeral Held For S. H. Rowe

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 17 (ENS) —The district lost another of its esteemed citizens with the passing of Samuel Henry Rowe, 81, a farmer of the Healey Falls vicinity who retired to this town sixteen years ago. Mr. Rowe had been in failing health for the past year and succumbed at his home on Victoria street following an illness of three weeks. He was born in Seymour township, a son of the late William Rowe and Mary Dunk and spent most of his years on his farm on the 12th Concession, which he purchased following his marriage to Mary McKeown of Stanwood 56 years ago.

Though farming was his primary affair Mr. Rowe also took a considerable interest in community matters and as a consequence he was for a number of years a school trustee for S.S. No. 9, Stanwood, and as a farmer dairyman was among the original stockholders at the Stanwood Cheese and Butter Company. Mr. Rowe became a member of L.O.L. No. 1338, Stanwood, over 60 years ago and was a Past Master of the Lodge as well as being a member of the Black Knights in Havelock.

His death marked the first break in his large family in fifty-six years, and there survive besides his widow four sons, George G. of Toronto; William A., Fred J. and Ralph H. of Campbellford, and six daughters, Mrs. Ross Anderson (Jessie), of Hoards; Mrs. Chester Irwin (Ethel), of Seymour; Mrs. Alfred Brown (Ida), of Napanee; Mrs. Sam Hutton (Clara), of Peterborough; Mrs. Donald Dalgleish (Hazel), of Peterborough; Mrs. William Macoun (Irene), of Seymour. One brother, Albert, of Campbellford and a sister, Mrs. Annie Hubble of Glen Ross, also survive.

The funeral service was conducted from Bennett's Funeral Parlors, Frank street, at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon by Rev. G. N. Maxwell of St. John's United church and interment was was made in Mount Pleasant cemetery. The pallbearers were six sons-in-law, Ross Anderson, Chester Irwin, Alfred Brown, Sam Hutton, Donald Dalgleish and William Macoun and the flowerbearers were five grandsons, Harry Irwin, Cecil Irwin, Clarence Irwin, Kenneth Hutton, Billy Rowe; and Glen Brunton.

Honor Memory Of L.-Cpl Donald

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 17 (ENS) —Legion members went in a body and with a large number of citizens nearly filled St. Andrew's church Sunday afternoon, when memorial services were conducted in honor of Lance Corporal Angus Donald, son of Mr and Mrs. Arthur Donald, Wallace street.

L-Cpl. Donald was reported killed in action while serving in the Italian theatre on December 21. He went overseas two years after transferring from the Midland Regiment with which he joined up in 1940. Prior to his enlistment he had worked as a plumber with his brother William. He was born in this town and received his education in the Campbellford schools.

He was in England for some time before being sent to the Mediterranean and Sicily where he was wounded last June. A brother, Stewart, in Italy was reported wounded on December 16, and another brother, Jack, is also overseas. A brother, William, of Campbellford, and two sisters, Mrs. Edwin Little and Stella survive in addition to his parents.

The memorial service was conducted by Rev. J. O. Ralston who gave a timely message pointing out that life was essentially risky at its best. He said the obligation of citizenship included the duty of defending one's country and this was only second to duty to God. "Whatever blessings may come as a result of the peace, this family can remember that they have contributed to that cause." The choir sang "Crossing the Bar" and Mrs. Charles Milne as soloist contributed "The City Four Square."

As the "survival war" develops, uniforms take the place of clothes. Not only armed services but civilian services require identification by uniforms, so the great garment industry is converted to war purposes.

In the great war drama an army of workers, chiefly women, are engaged in this important task of transforming peace-time "individualists" into uniformed members of war-time organizations.

Thousands of Canadian women, toiling to turn out uniforms for others to wear, are contributing beneficially to the total war effort. They are a valuable part of the great, united team of the United Nations.

Abandoning The Canol Project

The Truman Committee has strongly recommended that the U.S. Army's oil development in the Mackenzie River district be abandoned at once. The expense of that project was estimated at $134,000,000, and the Committee insists that nothing further be done about it in the construction of pipeline and refinery, until the United States government is assured of "suitable rights" in the development. The Truman Committee has taken expert advice, and has discovered that there is "one of the most impressive surface manifestations of petroleum in the Western Hemisphere" near Cape Simpson, east of Point Barrow in Alaska, and thus in U.S. territory. There is a region there of 30,000 square miles which has been reserved solely for the U.S. Navy. Why, the Committee wants to know, cannot some of this rich yield be used for the Army as well, instead of seeking oil in Canadian territory. Wallace E. Pratt, a geologist and director of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, spoke thus in advising the Truman Committee:

> "Thus we have the anomalous situation that the United States Army is driven by the realities of war to draw upon the natural resources of another nation, Canada, in an effort to insure adequate supplies of aviation fuels for the Air Corps, while the United States Navy holds a totally undeveloped twenty-year-old petroleum reserve in the adjacent territory of Alaska. We are slow to realize that our air force needs fuel as well as our battleships and that our own potential sources of these critical fuels in the Far North have already been too long neglected."

If the U.S. decides to stop work on Canol, and write off its loss to experience we do not think that Canada will mind. It is rather annoying, however, that a suggestion has been made in the U.S. that the Canadian government in some way inveigled the U.S. Army into setting up its great establishment at Fort Norman, so that we might benefit from it. Canada, so far as we can see, gains nothing from Canol. If the U.S. wants to abandon it, we shall feel no sense of grievance.

The Indefensible Practical Joke

There is an old proverb which says, "Jokes should have sheep's teeth, not dog's". Nothing is less funny than the practical joke which results in someone being badly hurt. The newspapers recently have given publicity to the fact that Freddie Bartholomew, who will be remembered as a child star in the films, has been discharged from the American army because he is unfit for military service; he is so because four years ago some wag pulled a chair from under him as he was sitting down, and he has been forced to wear a brace on his back ever since. If that is funny, we miss the point of the joke.

The publicity for Bartholomew is attributable, of course, to the fact that he is known by many thousands of movie-goers. But how many people are there, unknown to fame, who have been similarly injured by practical jokers who do not know what is funny and what is not?

There are practical jokes which are very funny indeed. But there is nothing funny about causing someone physical pain, indignity or possible injury.

Army Revival Tents

He was an astute man who conceived the idea of the 'revival tents' which are maintained behind the lines of the American Fifth Army in Italy. When a man comes out of the fighting he can go to one of these tents and get a shower, a shave, a massage if he needs one, and a clean uniform and underwear; to say that he "feels like a new man" after such treatment is no more than a bald statement of the truth.

In the course of bitter fighting a soldier becomes dirty, sweaty, wet, unshaven and uncomfortable; when he comes out of the lines or the battle he wants rest more than anything else in the world. What will rest him most quickly and efficiently? A thorough clean-up and a good meal. The revival tents provide the former, and the commissary does its best to provide the latter.

The soldiers of citizen armies have been used to a reasonable standard of luxury in their private lives; dirt and lice and frowsy clothes are bad for their morale. A chance to make themselves clean raises their spirits. The revival tents have proved extremely popular; the soldiers of the Fifth Army probably agree with the wit who said that he could get along without the necessities of life if only he were spared its luxuries.

Eisenhower's Big 'If'

Everybody knows that General Eisenhower said that we would win the war in Europe this year. But not many people seem to remember that he said that we should do so if every man and woman in every part of every one of the United Nations got down to the job and worked unsparingly for victory. That is a very big 'if'.

There are indications to be seen everywhere—some small and some conspicuous—that many people think that our victory is now assured, and that the time has come to ease off a bit here, and relax a little there, and in general to snatch a forestaste of the sweets of victory. No greater mistake could be made. The last hundred yards of the race will be the hardest, and we dare not slacken pace or rest until we have finished the course.

Many people will say: Industry is slackening; men are being laid off; if the government has all the armaments it wants surely that is a sign that the war is nearly over and that further strenuous exertion is not needed. In reply to this we shall repeat what we said in a recent editorial: industry is not slackening its efforts; it is changing because the Department of Munitions and Supply has asked it to change, and it is as busily engaged in war manufactures as it was a year ago; the materials needed have changed, but the necessity is as great as ever. If you do not think that the war is as serious as it was, read the daily accounts of the battles which our men and our allies are fighting; and remember that the last great assault has yet to come.

We must draw attention to another matter in this connection: if the idea becomes widespread that the war is as good as over, what will happen to our next Victory Loan? We must find the money for that Loan in quantity certainly not less than was asked of us last October. Nor will the next Loan be the last. If anyone imagines that the war is almost over, we must remind him that no war is over until it is paid for, and that we shall have to keep on paying for a long time.

Let us not allow ourselves to slip into a foolish complacency about the war. Such complacency would give the enemy the chance which he is looking for. The war is in its final desperate phase, and the struggle will be greatly intensified by spring. This is not time for counting our chickens before they are hatched. Remember Eisenhower's big 'if'.

A Matter Of Good Taste

The St. Thomas Times-Journal makes a comment on a matter of taste which we feel may be of interest to our readers, and we reproduce it here in full:

> "Some people are so wrapped up in what concerns them personally they fail to understand that others have feelings. In St. Thomas quite recently a woman sadly bereaved by the death of her husband was interviewed by a large number of parties seeking to purchase her home, her motor car or pieces of household furniture, this before the woman had recovered in any degree from the severe shock she had undergone or any chance to decide in her own mind what her course in the future might be. These would-be purchasers needed something and could not wait a reasonable time before starting negotiations. Their hasty action aggravated the bereaved woman's grief and lessened her faith in humanity.
> "This is not an isolated case. Some time ago the writer, calling at a home where the head of the house lay dead, overheard an agent, as he stood by the side of the casket, suggest to the sobbing widow that his services were available should she decide to dispose of her property.
> "Persons who do this sort of thing do not possess any sense of decency. They should think twice before rushing into the sacred thoughts of newly-bereaved people with business matters."

There is more than a hint of the vulture about such conduct as this. A careful consideration for the feelings of others is a mark of civilization, and a thing which we do well to foster in our daily life. There are times, of course, when too great a tenderness for other people's feelings is inadvisable, and when plain speaking is necessary in order to clear the air. But this is rarely the case in a house which has recently been visited by death.

NOTE AND COMMENT

A new born child in Tennessee weighs 18 pounds, 10½ ounces. And to think that a few days ago his parents were probably referring to him as "a little stranger".

The gasoline used in the raids on Hamburg by the R.A.F., the R.C.A.F., and the American fliers would equal the full value of 288,750 of our AA ration books. If you didn't know before, that is why we have rationing.

Farming News and Views

By HON. DUNCAN MARSHALL

WITH the land locked in the grip of winter's frost the farmer plans for spring seeding. The seasons follow each other with inexorable certainty and the farmer's business will not brook delay. Upon his business of producing food human life depends, and of course his own and his family's lives are included. It is under this urge he works, and as the seasons run he knows that over a period of years it is certainly the early bird that gets the worm in farming. Crops seeded at the earliest possible date have the best chance for yielding a fair harvest. We have few enough days for growth in this country and days of sunshine on moist earth must not be missed, so every preparation for early seeding should be attended to ahead of time. The year just past was one which didn't produce an abundance of good seed grain, and I feel sure that most farmers realizing this have their seed well in hand. Tests for germination will have been made, decisions arrived at as to what crops will be grown and that part of the preparations for seeding should be done before now. It is a good plan to have a little extra seed in case you decide to make some changes in seeding different fields but the forehanded farmer will see to that.

ONE preparation for seeding which should not be neglected is to get other work out of the way. If you are feeding pigs or milking dairy cows, a good store of feed should be laid up during winter weather so you can be sure not to have spring work interrupted by the necessity of going for feed or grinding it in days when you should be on the fields. Work that can be done before spring breaks should all be gotten out of the way in good time. It is easy to mention these things but we all know it is just as easy to neglect some of them and I know of no better way to avoid that than to keep making lists of what there is to do and so take them up in orderly fashion. I frequently found myself compelled to leave home for some days and I always seemed to get more accomplished if lists were made out, of what was to be done and what should take precedence as we proceeded with the different tasks. I am also firmly of the opinion that such a list is important to the farmer when he is always there to direct affairs. There is always plenty to do and you have much in sight to prevent you forgetting, but how often do we halt at the end of the day to remark, "Oh! I forgot entirely to do this or attend to that?"

Farmers have, over a period of years, been doing more writing and more keeping of accounts in connection with the different phases of their business, and I am sure every one of them will agree that the more they get of their business—their planning and their achievements down on paper, the better they are informed as to where they are at and why.

THERE is always a good deal of discussion about what is good farming practice, and in this we sometimes forget the character of the soil, or the average rainfall, both of which will likely have a good deal to do with proper treatment of land. A good farmer said to me not long ago, in a discussion of such matters, "Well, I know my headlands are all well farmed for I see the results." This is very true in farming in this province, as farmers are accustomed to plough the headlands of their field with a good deal of care. Before they are ploughed the team or the tractor is turning on these headlands and firming the soil. In the spring the same thing takes place when discing, harrowing, and using the seed drill, and a packer if one is employed. The headlands are better cultivated and better packed and, if carefully seeded, you find the greenest parts of the field, as the grain sprouts, are the headlands. This man said, "How green are my headlands? is the question I ask myself as the crop comes up." He doubtless had in mind that charming rural story of Wales, "How Green is My Valley." I always remember my first lesson in land packing when a small boy. A field was seeded by my father and there were quite a few scattered limestone on it that would interfere with the reaper when cutting the crop. We picked these rolling stones, using a lumber wagon, the field was then rolled and as the crop came up you could see bright green strips showing where the wagon wheels pressed the soil and where a heavy load of stones was driven across the field, to be unloaded, the growing grain was more vigorous than even in the wheel marks up and down the field. That was a good lesson in the value of firming soil in which we plant crops, and the promoting of rapid growth by the process. This and other lessons we learn of the proper treatment of land, in which we seed spring crops, and every year we can improve our farming by close observation of the results of different practices on farms.

IT IS a rare thing when farmers can call a strike and they have rather poor chances of going through with it. There has been one, however, and of all places it was in Yorkshire, England. This is a great grass county and its northern climate does not favor wheat growing so the farmers were putting forth extra efforts in milk production. The Ministry of Food, of the Government, through the War Agricultural Executive Committee, was ordering more grass to be ploughed and closed two milk shipping stations declaring them redundant. The farmers of North Yorkshire met and demanded that they be reopened. The Ministry of Food refused, and the farmers stated they would take "unconstitutional action" if it was not done. The result was that finally 85 Upper Nidderdale farmers withheld 11,000 lbs. of milk daily from shipment. The milk was used on these farms to make cheese and feed young stock. At the end of twelve days the "Committee" agreed that these two milk shipping stations should be given a chance to reopen by Jan. 1st, or be compensated on "generous terms." The compulsion of Government control doesn't sit well on Yorkshire men.

THE Ministry of Food in Britain has cut down the allowance of liquid milk to catering establishments by two thirds, which means they will have to become larger users of powdered milk. This will increase as largely as possible the importation of milk powder from Canada and the United States. It is even suggested that catering establishments should use only powdered or preserved milk.

A Scottish Farm Journal speaking of the Agricultural Conference at Hot Springs, queries "Hot Springs or Hot Air?" This is a criticism of the delay upon the part of the British Government to implement by an announced policy the conclusion arrived at in the Hot Springs meeting in the United States.

THE bonus on pigs announced by Federal Government will be appreciated but it was rather long delayed. The performances of the Bacon Board have not been much to enthuse over at any time. If a four year contract is completed with Britain it will be all to the good, and the plan of paying this bonus of $3 on grade A or Selects, and $2 per pig on B1 will be an incentive for the production of more high quality bacon which will be the only kind that will find a ready export market after the war.

THEIR KAMPF — By Thomas

Doctors and Advertising

(CHATHAM NEWS)

IN this day it is considered undignified and unethical for members of the medical profession to advertise. That is, the physicians and surgeons themselves have set up a code of professional conduct which specifies regular advertising as something that just "isn't done"; although the general public who entrust their lives to the members of this profession would no doubt often consider it an advantage to know something about the special qualifications of the men they are forced to consult in times of illness or injury.

But this was not always so. The Brockville Recorder and Times has resurrected a copy of the Recorder published in December of 1824 which contains the advertisement of a physician who had then, recently established himself in the township of Matilda, Dundas county and it read as follows:

"Doctor John Lindon, having had a regular education as a classical scholar and been lawfully bred to the study of Physic & Surgery under the instruction of the most respectable as well as the most able of the Faculty of Montreal and Quebec and having also attended two courses of lectures at the Schola Medicinae in Montreal and the Montreal Medical Institution in all the branches of the healing art, viz., Anatomy, Physiology, Surgery, Theory & Practice of Physic, the Diseases of Women and Children and Chemistry, offers himself to the Public in the line of his profession (he hopes) as a Safe and Prudent Physician who will be moderate in his charges & attentive to his patients. Dr. Lindon has had the advantage of seeing the practice of the General Hospital of Montreal last winter and of witnessing the happy effects of many new modes of treating diseases which but few of the Doctors know anything of, that is, those who have never attended the class. Dr. Lindon understands Medical Electricity and has a machine on a new plan of his own improvement at his Lodgings in the Fourth Town, or Matilda, near Major Merkley's."

Of course Dr. Lindon lived in the age of quacks when people were well warned against the travelling medicine man; but even today there are some doctors with better qualifications than others— some specialists in various forms of illnesses—and why should they not let their abilities be known to the masses through the regular advertising columns of the newspapers? It may be argued that the public might be "taken in" by false claims in advertisements; but only graduate doctors would be allowed to advertise, and if there are men in the profession who would thus take advantage of the opportunity to mislead the public, they could be weeded out just the same as they can be dismissed from the profession now for any form of mal-practice.

He Was the First Drama Critic

A LONG TIME AGO—certainly it was before man made a practice of leaving written records for the confusion of posterity—an eye-filling and sonorous inhabitant of a village on a shore near the Mediterranean was overmastered by an impulse to mount a rock and recite in a darkling and heroic manner. By this experiment he made two pregnant discoveries—first, that he himself had found the new release distinctly pleasurable, and second, that his neighbours, through some unexpected and, indeed, inexplicable docility, were quite willing to listen to him. He was the first tragedian.

But among those listening neighbours was one who felt not only the liveliest interest but also the bite of envy. He too yearned to get up on that rock and hold the crowd enthralled. But he was of such voice and shape and aspect that he know all the villagers would laugh at him. Well, suppose they did? He would rather get up on the rock and be laughed at than not get on it at all. It is part of the tradition of the theatre that unto this day his descendants conceal with varying success an ancient heartache because no one wants them to play Hamlet. He was the first comedian.

A third villager felt the selfsame call but knew that he was no instrument for such music. A pity, too, because his was the livelier mind. Into that mind as he wandered over the countryside or lay under the stars there would come words so much happier, so much more stirring, than any which those two dolts were spouting. At last the pressure from within became more than he could bear. He could not resist taking the other two aside and whispering little suggestions into their half-offended ears. Thus he, too, would be represented on the rock. Inadequately, to be sure.... But, if only by proxy, he too, would mount the rock. He was the first playwright. With those three in action the theatre had come into the world. Since then it has undergone no important change or improvement.

Now although I am getting on, it must be clear that I can have learned all this only by hearsay. It was told to me one afternoon in London by one of my betters, a sage with a snowy white beard who looked at least as if he might have been present. His name is Bernard Shaw. And all I would add to the tale as he told it is this. Soon after the theatre was founded, while the first tragedian and the first comedian, although already showing signs of wear and tear, were still holding the affections of the public, one of the cross-grained villagers as the crowd dispersed one day was overhead to grumble, "They aren't as good as they used to be."....He was the first dramatic critic.—From "Long, Long Ago," by Alexander Woollcott. Culled From Our Contemporaries

Just Hard Work

If we are to have a high standard of living and a fair degree of social security we must work for it....

The only way we can maintain an eight billion dollar national income is to produce and trade. During the war that's simple. There is a market for everything we can find the labour and the raw materials to produce—the maw of war and destruction. But when peace comes we can only maintain Canadian people at work by producing what we can trade and sell.

To the West that means wheat and pork, beef and coal, timber and salmon. Nature has provided that we can produce great surpluses of these commodities over what we use. We must trade them on a fair price basis else we cannot be prosperous. Let's keep that squarely in our minds. Production and trade are the very foundations of post-war employment and social security.—Lethbridge Herald.

Sir Lyman's Home Town

The tributes now being paid in the east to Sir Lyman Duff will be endorsed by Victorians who knew him as a fellow townsman. It is well said that he belongs to a small group of the elect among Canadian judges. Both on and off the Bench he has been known for his studious ways, his fine understanding, his unusual interests, his kindly nature and his great knowledge. The legal profession always has regarded his opinions as models of clarity, sound reasoning and judicial wisdom. He has guarded above all else the ethics of his profession, the independence of the Bench and the integrity of the judiciary. His has truly been an illustrious career.—Victoria Times.

A Bible Message

But now thus saith the Lord that created thee, O Jacob, and he that formed thee, O Israel, Fear not: for I have redeemed thee, I have called thee by thy name; thou art mine....

Since thou wast precious in my sight, thou hast been honourable, and I have loved thee...., Fear not: for I am with thee: I will bring thy seed from the east, and gather thee from the west; I will say to the north, Give up; and to the south, Keep not back: bring my sons from far, and my daughters from the ends of the earth; even every one that is called by my name: for I have created him for my glory. I have formed him; yea, I have made him....

I, even I, am the Lord; and beside me there is no saviour. I have declared and have saved, and I have shewed, when there was no strange god among you, therefore ye are my witnesses, saith the Lord, that I am God,....

This people have I formed for myself: they shall shew forth my praise. (Isa. 43: 1, 4, 5-7, 11, 12, 21.)

A motorist was proceeding along one of the main roads of a small town in Staffordshire when the driver of a coal cart in front suddenly turned to his right, down a side street.

After narrowly avoiding a collision the motorist demanded to know why the coal man didn't put out his arm to indicate which way he was going.

"Don't be so daft," he replied, I always go down that street."

It was a very dissatisfied tenant who approached the landlord of the new house.

"Look here," he said, "that house I've just taken from you is horribly draughty. I've spent pounds on heating arrangements, but wherever I sit my hair is blown all over my head. Can't you do something about it."

The landlord shook his head.

"I'm afraid not," he replied. "I think it would be easier and cheaper for you to get your hair cut."

Motor Car Prices

Automakers long ago decided that the first post-war cars will be back-in-1842 models. The need for quick production will rule out Buck Rogerish creations of plastic and light metals. But automakers have not yet decided on prices. Last week the Wall Street Journal surveyed the industry, came up with some price predictions as hot as a blowout on a curve. The predictions: Car prices may be up from 25 to 40 per cent over 1941.

On this basis, sedan models of the lower-priced group, Chevrolet, Plymouth and Ford, would retail for around $1,400. The predictions were based on: (1) Come peace, the overall U.S. price level may be up 40 per cent over 1941; (2) The auto industry hourly wage rates are already up about 15 per cent over '41, and the powerful C.I.O.-U.A.W. is determined to keep them there.

But one factor may knock predictions into the junk pile — unpredictable 80-year-old Henry Ford. For months, he has diligently streamlined his company, getting back to his first principles of cheap cars and no frills. His low-price fetish once cracked the industry's structure wide open. It may do so again.—"Time" Magazine.

For Better Understanding

Scattered across Canada are a number of Royal Air Force stations. They operate independently of R.C.A.F. stations, but are part of the British Commonwealth Air Training Plan. Many of the personnel have conceived a great liking for Canada, and a survey indicates that a large number would like to settle in this country after the war.

Every effort is being made, both by Canadians and by British officials, to provide these men with the inofrmation that will enable them to fit into the Canadian pattern once they are released from war duties. Not all, of course, will remain here, but many will; and those who return to Britain will go home with a better understanding of this country, of its relations with the Mother Country and its status as an independent member of the Commonwealth.—Montreal Star.

Scottish Saints Topic Of WMS Address

At the annual meeting of St. Paul's Women's Missionary Society, a history of The Saints of Scotland, beginning with the patron saint, St. Andrew, was given by Miss Lillian Esplen.

The speaker explained that legend says after St. Andrew's Crucification, his bones were deposited on the western coast of Scotland, where a church was built, and the city of St. Andrew rose. It became a shrine, and was visited by pilgrims from every country in Europe. In the course of time St. Andrew's cross, the X-shaped cross on which he was crucified, was adopted as the flag of Scotland, and now is in the Union Jack of the British Empire.

St. Margaret, the first woman saint of Scotland, and queen of Malcolm Canmore, son of Ducan, was the next subject dealt with. St. Margaret's chapel, within the walls of Edinburgh castle, is the oldest and smallest religious house in Scotland—a tiny place built by the king for his queen. The chief interests of this woman were the home, the church, and the poor, who were daily fed from the king's table. The name of St. Andrew and St. Margaret are inscribed on the Scottish War Memorial, showing the place they hold in Scottish hearts.

In 563 A.D., continued the speaker, St. Columba, with twelve companions, left Ireland because of a religious feud, and landed on the island of Iona, where they built a small church, and Christianized the people. Kings came to Iona to be crowned on the Stone of Fate, which is now in the coronation chair at Westminster Abbey. The Duke of Argyle, gave the buildings of Iona to the church, and they now belong to the established Church of Scotland.

In speaking of St. Cuthbert, the saint of the North, she was told his followers carried his body with them in their travels for seven years, after they were driven from their island by the Danes. In conclusion, Miss Esplen told her audience that all people should take up the challenge that these great men and women have handed down, and carry on their work with new vigor and new hope.

The president, Mrs. E. H. Howson, introduced the speaker, and the annual reports for 1943 were heard, which showed an unusually sucessful year. It was decided to hold a get-together tea, Wednesday afternoon, January 26, in order to give the members a chance to meet and talk with one another, and also to wlecome any new ones.

THE STARS SAY . . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Tuesday, January 18.

According to the lunar transits, this is a day which should jump ahead with lightning speed and progress, under the impetus of quick thinking, well-laid plans and wisely organized schedules. This should be imperative in a gesture of major significance in order to attain very high and ambitious objectives. In such ventures the friendliness and substantial support of those in influence, whether in individual prestige, corporations of sound standing of public, political or community groups. There is definite sign of enmity or antagonism, or a surprising turn, and this should be averted by tact, compromise, amiability and good sense and not by letting the feelings and emotions run away with better judgment. Shun strife and turbulence. Entertainment or social gestures may have value in placating opposition.

Excellent Opporunity.

Those whose birthday it is are assured an excellent opportunity to forge ahead to most cherished hopes and ambitions, with promise of honors, promotion and tokens of friendship and goodwill from those in high places. This opening demands quick action, well-organized plans and logical development that will "hold water" as to co-operation of influence in capital, promoting corporations, or if the objective is a public one, the endorsement and hearty consent of political or diplomatic bodies. A sudden danger threatens, with bitter enmity and opposition which must be averted by ready compromise, amiability, logic and reason and not flying into a rage of feelings and emotions. The social approach, with congeniality or conviviality might win against impetuosity or erratic behavior.

A child born on this day will have splendid talents and creative skill for outstanding success, perhaps distinction and position, although it might spoil such prospects by emotional or erratic behavior.

PERILOUS TIMES FOR GIRLS
Howling Wolves Awaiting Tender Lambs Who Must Use Proven Defense.

Listen, dearie, I am talking to you and to Mary and Susie and Janie and Gwendolyn and all the other teen-age girls who are in the greatest peril they will ever be in during their whole lifetime, yet who know so little about the strange new world they have just entered that they do not even suspect that they are in danger.

True, you hear the howling of the wolves, but it does not occur to you that you are the tender little lambs that they are preparing to feast upon. You have heard about the terrible things that have happened to other girls. You read in the papers about the poor little girl who got into the swanky car of a handsome stranger who offered to give her a ride, and whose battered and bruised body was found by the roadside where it had been thrown out of an automobile.

And there was Susie, who used to sit next to you at school, who got in with a wild crowd and was arrested during a police raid on a dive. And Emily, who had to leave school so suddenly and whose family never speak of her. And Belle from whom you always turn your head and pretend not to see her when you meet her wheeling her little baby on the street.

But things like that could never happen to you. You know how to take care of yourself. You are old and worldly wise. You are 16, or 17, maybe almost 18. But those things can happen to you, and they will happen to you unless you watch your step, and that is a hard thing to do when you are bubbling over with youth and avid for pleasure and boy-crazy, and you don't know which paths are safe to walk in, and which lead to perdition, or how to pick 'em

Now I want to begin by giving you a little advice, which will sound to you, if it ever gets past your bob and your earrings, like something brought down out of the hair trunk in the attic; but there are a lot of things in life that time has never changed, and one of them is the rules for human conduct. Especially for girls.

Of course, circumstances have modified them. You don't have to be a prunes and prisms girl now as your great-grandmother was, and take a man's arm with the tongs when you step out with him. You don't have to sit with the whole distance of the parlor between you and discuss Shakespeare and the musical glasses, while Grandma sits just outside the door and listens in, when the Boy Friend calls. But, all the same, modesty and reserve are still the best weapons with which a girl can defend herself. Also, they are her best come-ons if she wants to make a good marriage, because every man puts women in two classes, the one he plays around with, and the one he wants for a wife.

Just bear in mind that every girl writes her own price tag for men. If she holds herself cheap, they accept her valuation of herself and treat her that way. But if she respects herself and demands respect from them, she gets it. If you want a boy to value your kisses, make them few and far between. No man breaks his neck to get the kind that come a dime a dozen. And always be the kissee instead of the kisser. Never proffer a caress. It is a dead giveaway that you have to do the courting.

Never tell a boy how wild you are about him. Keep him guessing. The old adage about not running after a streetcar after you have caught it, still holds good. Never write a boy a letter that you would not be willing for him to show around among his friends as a proof of what a devil he is among the girls. Never write two letters to a boy's one unless he is somewhere where the mail facilities are poor. Never drink anything stronger than soda pop with a boy. He may spend hours trying to persuade you to take a cocktail and then despise you for getting lit. And never go in for heavy petting. It is not only common and vulgar it is the surest way to becoming an old maid. For not many men want damaged goods in a wife.

Life has always been dangerous for the teen-agers, but it is especially hazardous right now when young girls, who have not yet gotten their emotions under control are slopping over with the romantic notion that they can somehow save the country by making themselves pickups for sailors and soldiers. Don't be like one of these little babes who told me the other day that it seemed so unpatriotic not to go off to a saloon and drink with a man in uniform who said to them: "Hi, Toots, come have a few." Don't do it. You can't boost the soldiers' and sailors' morale by wrecking your own morals. Don't ever, anywhere, at any time, step out with a strange man, no matter what sort of clothes he has on. Make them all show their identification cards before you give them a passing nod.

How to Carve a Rib Roast

Proper carving is an important part of food conservation

When you buy a standing rib roast have the butcher separate the backbone from the ribs. In this way you can remove the backbone completely in the kitchen after roasting. Then place the roast on the platter, bones to your left and small cut surface uppermost.

To carve insert fork firmly between top two ribs and slice across the grain toward the ribs (fig. 1).

Thin slices ⅛ to ⅛ of an inch thick give best flavour and help the meat go further.

As each slice is carved, release by cutting close along the rib with the sharp tip of your knife (fig. 2).

TIPS FOR CARVERS

1. Be sure your knife is sharp.
2. It is correct to stand when carving.
3. Always cut across the grain. (Steaks are the only exception).
4. Carve enough to serve all the company before transferring meat to plates.

The Sports Round-Up

By HUGH FULLERTON, Jr.

NEW YORK, Jan. 17 — (AP). — Some Pacific Coast football followers think Andy Kerr may have started a "trend" with his offensive manoeuvres for the East-West game....With only 10 days of coaching, and Dr. George Hauser taught the East team to run plays from the "T" or shift it into the single or double wing or Notre Dame box formations....Of course, Kerr was working with all-star material, but he may have proved that there can be a lot more variety in football attack than most coaches seem to think....On the other hand, Howie Odell tried a T-single wing combination at Yale last fall and it didn't prove a thing.

Off his performance on a smooth armory floor on Saturday, it looks as if Bill Hulse wouldn't have much trouble adjusting his stride to indoor running this winter. Not only was his 4:23.4 mile plenty fast under the conditions, but he did the first and last quarters in 62.5 and 66.1—which is really stepping.....Frank Sinkwich, back in Georgia for a visit, claimed he was faster last season than he ever was in college There were bigger guys chasing him, too......Rudy York, who made 155 hits in 155 games last season, needs only one more blow for a lifetime major league total of 1,000.

The Consolidated Vultee Aircraft basketball team of Nashville, Tenn. played 558 minutes—nearly 14 complete games—this season before its first man was forced to drop out of formation via the four-foul route.

Here and There in Sport

By The Canadian Press

The United States' Golf Association relented Saturday in the case of Babe Didrikson, former Olympic track star, by raising the suspension against her for professionalism, imposed in 1935 after she had been featured in money sports following her outsanding performances in the 1932 Olympiad at Los Angeles. Action was taken at the annual meeting of the Association in New York, the business of which was routine because of the abandonment of championship tournaments for the duration.

Miss Didrikson, wife of Wrestler George Zaharias, was not kept out of competition because of the ruling, however. In 1940 she won the women's western open at Milwaukee and, in 1942, was the victor in the match play for women at San Francisco.

The minimum purse for overnight races at the spring meeting of the Ontario Jockey Club has been raised to $1,000, compared with the minimum of $800 for Woodbine events last year, it was announced last night by Secretary Palmer Wright. The value of the King's Plate was recently raised from $8,000 to $10,000.

Nelson Leads.
With a four-under-par 68 for the Harding links, Byron Nelson of Toledo, O., Sunday increased his lead in the $10,000 San Francisco Victory open golf tournament to a five-stroke margin over his rival, Harold (Jug) McSpaden, who carded his third 79 in the competition. Nelson's 54-hole total was 205, which gave him a distinct advantage for the final round to-day.

President A. J. Greene of the National Boxing Association announced at Washington yesterday Phil Terraniva, featherweight titleholder, and Sammy Angott, lightweight champion, would have to defend their honors within a month or their championships would be declared vacant.

Following the withdrawal of Air Force and Army teams, the Pacific Coast Senior Hockey League decided, at a meeting in Vancouver yesterday, to throw out all games to date and start a fresh schedule to-night with four clubs, including Esquimalt Navy. The latter will not proceed into Allan Cup playdowns.

Hershey Bears of the American Hockey League and Boston Bruins of the N.H.L. will play an exhibition at Hershey Jan. 26 when admission will be the purchase of a U.S. Fourth War Bond plus a service charge, the proceeds from which are to be donated to the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis.

Hoppe Wins
William Hoppe won the Chicago phase of his cross-country three cushion billiards match with Welker Cochran Saturday night by taking the 17th and final block, 51 to 46, in 46 innings. The victory gave him a margin of 850 to 846 for the sessions here and an over-all score of 1,250 to Cochran's 1,188. The non-title match began in Kansas City will continue on Monday in Detroit and conclude in New York.

Pitcher Bob Chipman of the Brooklyn Dodgers and previously with Montreal Royals took his army medical examination last week and reported yesterday to President Branch Rickey he expected to be in military uniform before the end of January.

Matchmaker Jake Mintz of Pittsburgh announced Saturday Fritzie Zivic had fractured a bone on his left hand against Jake Lamotta at Detroit Friday night and it was reported the injury might finish the ringster's career.

The United States Lawn Tennis Association, at its annual meeting in New York Saturday decided to conduct all national tournaments next summer, with dates and locations to be arranged although the doubles tourney was tentatively set for August 29-30. Holcombe Ward was re-elected president of an eighth term.

Open Bonspiel Starts Wednesday

By HERB MARTIN

With a full entry of twenty-eight rinks from our own club and four clubs in this district play for the "Wes Champ" and "Morrow" Trophys will commence at 9 a.m. Wednesday.

So great has been the demand for entry in this, our first open bonspiel of the season, that we are afraid before Tuesday night rolls around many entries will have to be rejected.

All we need now is fair weather and we will be well away.

Each rink will play three ten-end games and the prizes are to be awarded to the rinks with the highest standing.

The committee is asking for all to be out on time and by so doing it will help in no small way to make the bonspiel a success.

And here is something just a little different; the lady curlers are going to serve refreshments, at a reasonable cost, to the curlers. The third floor of our club has just recently been all done over; it's nice and warm, sunny and convenient. You will find it an ideal spot to relax aftter a hard game. Be sure and visit the third floor and save time.

Oshawa Juniors Score 13th Win

By The Canadian Press

Turning the tables on Galt Kists with a 5-1 victory Saturday night at Galt, Oshawa Generals registered their 13th success of the Junior O.H.A. season and strengthened their leadership in Group 1 with a four-point advantage over Toronto St. Mikes in second position, Chenier scored two of the Oshawa goals while Bill Ezenicki, with one tally, earned star rating on his night's performance for the visitors.

Brantford Lions, trailing in Group 2, literally took a fall out of the St. Catharines Falcons on Brantford ice, winning a rough tilt 7-2. There were 19 penalties during the fray, including four by Paul Waldner, late of the Buffalo Bisons, who was making his first appearance with the Lions. The Falcons have threatened to protest his participation in the Junior match. Evenshen and Turner each scored twice for Brantford while P. Long accounted for both Falcon counters. In losing their fixtures, Galt and St. Catharines remained deadlocked for leadership in Group 2 with 22 points each.

In Saturday afternoon's doubleheader at Toronto, Hamilton Whizzers surprised St. Mikes with a 4-1 setback while Stratford Kroelhlers trimmed Toronto Marlboros 2-1 for Stratford's fifth victory of the campaign.

SPORTS—Day by Day

By FRED D. CRAIG

Will Referee Ernie Powers, senior referee and a big one at that, be able to hold down the turbulent Karl Davis in his match with Earl McCready here tomorrow night and give the Moose the chance he has been demand-ng to show that he is a better wrestler than the rowdy Texan. Davis has the fans on both sides of the line howling for his head on a charger. He is the gentleman who pulled off such murderous stuff in Buffalo recently that John J. Phelan, New York State Commissioner, has threatened to have him shot at sunrise or something of the kind if he ever tries any more of that sort of stuff in New York State again. In other words Davis is ornery enough to attract official attention in a form of entertainment in which in recent years almost anything has gone. It remains to be seen whether Powers has any more success than Maxwell had in keeping him under control. If he does the bout should be one of the most thrilling of the season. Promoter Tunney has built up the bill with two real preliminary battles. In the semi-finals he has matched Tom Zaharias of Los Angeles, one of the famous wrestling family against the Battling Marine, Toar Morgan and that should be a memorable clash, while Bunny Dunlop, always good for a near riot takes on the Indiana grappler Jerry Meeker in the opener.

* * * * * *

Incidentally there may be a spot of boxing on the program too as an extra attraction. It comes about in this way. Harry Low, former Peterborough boxer, who is home on leave from the Canadian Navy, thought it might be like old times to stage another battle with his old opponent Dutch McIlmoyle and so he telephoned Promoter Tunney the other day and asked if it would be possible to stage a fistic battle as an extra number on the regular wrestling show. Tunney when he heard that the sailor was home on leave turned a sympathetic ear to the request and so far as he is concerned Low-McIlmoyle bout was given the green light. So that if the sailor can make arrangements with his old opponent, the two boxers will slug it out again tomorrow night as they have on a number of hectic occasions in the past. Low has been with the Navy for several years and should be in good shape for a ring come-back. The two always dished out a lively argument whenever they met and boxing fans will hope to see them in action.

Algerines Come Through

Fittingly enough the Y.M.C.A. House League ended Saturday night with the final game of the playoffs producing the best battle of the season and with the team that had gone through the regular schedule without a loss coming home in front to take the title. Joe Stewart's Algergines by defeating the Frigates 36 to 32 will hold the Dominion Life Trophy for the next 12 months. The win was a personal triumph for Joe Stewart, captain of the winners who came through with a fine exhibition of accurate scoring just at a time when his team needed pulling together. Frigates who went into the final game red hot after battling through the playoffs led 16 to 10 at the half and looked good enough to win. Only Stewart's dazzling shooting, in fact, prevented the Csumrik crew from packing up the trophy. It was an exciting finish to a House League season that was a success in spite of many handicaps. Since last season the crop of experienced basketball players had shrunk so much because of enlistments that of the fifteen who figured in the final game Saturday night, twelve were first-year men. Only Stewart of the Algerines and Csumrik and Ferguson of Frigates had previously played House League basketball. And even before some of the players finished their first season there were gaps in the ranks because of more recruits from the cage game for the armed services.

* * * * * *

There were two shutouts in the three Public School Hockey League games played at the C.G.E. rink on Saturday morning and in the third fixture the biggest score of the season was hung up. The high-scoring was done by the King George youngsters who ran in 14 goals against the Queen Mary School team in the second game on the triple card, winning in easy fashion by 14 goals to 2. It was the second decisive win by the East City youngsters in two starts as they won their opening game the week before against Prince of Wales. The King George kids are playing nice combination and their teamwork is reflected in the scoring punch they have been displaying. In the first game on the Saturday card Prince of Wales handed the King Edward team a 4 to 0 shutout, having the edge throughout and in the third game of the morning Central who were blanked 4 to 0 the week before at the hands of King Edward ran into another coat of the same whitewash, losing to Queen Alexandra by 4 to 0. The schedule for this Saturday calls for Prince of Wales to meet Central, King Edward to clash with Queen Mary and Queen Alexandra and King George to battle in the third game. The regular schedule ends February 5 and after that the first two teams will fight it out for the league championship.

He's In Ceylon

Peterborough fans who remember "Jo-Boy" Samain when the Belleville boy made a number of ring appearances here will be interested in the following from the Belleville Ontario-Intelligencer: "Recently the Winnipeg Tribune carried a three column picture of an R.C.A.F. softball team in Ceylon. In the picture and a member of the team was Cpl. "Jo-Boy" Samain, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Samain of this city. "Jo-Boy" will be remembered as a promising young boxer prior to the outbreak of war. Tutored by his dad, "Jo-Boy" fought many ring battles throughout Eastern Ontario as a bantamweight and carried the boxing prowess of Belleville into such cities as Kingston, Oshawa and Peterborough, besides his native home town. Incidentally "Jo-Boy" played second base for the R.C.A.F. Catalina Squadron in a service softball league in Ceylon. Called the 'Maple Leafs," "Jo-Boy's" team won the softball championship of the R.C.A.F. stationed in Ceylon, according to the caption below the picture was received by Gaoler Samain this week."

Detroit Red Wings were the big winners over the week-end with double victories over the Toronto Leafs, 6 to 4 in Toronto and 4 to 1 in Detroit. And the Boston Bruins, in spite of the fact that the best they could do was to break even in a double-header with the New York Rangers managed to gain two points at the expense of the twice-beaten Leafs. In the other game over the week-end Chicago Black Hawks played a 1-1 draw with the league leading Canadiens. Leafs looked to have a commanding lead over the Red Wings Saturday night but the Detroiters cut loose with a sudden surge in the final period that saw them score three goals in 71 seconds and yank the game out of the well-known fire. It was the third period in Detroit that saw the Red Wings burst out in front, too. The teams were tied with one goal each at the end of the second session but goals by Smith, Armstrong and Brown settled the issue in the last 20 minutes.

Sporting Chili Con Carne: Chicago and Detroit had record crowds in their Sunday engagements. At Chicago 18,150 saw the Hawks and Canadiens tie....While at Detroit there were 13,850 fans to see the Leafs beaten. Boston had 11,800 Saturday night and the Rangers in the return game played to 15,201 persnos....Although the Bruins scored 13 goals in their two games with the Rangers Bill Calladine got in on only two of them, getting a pair of assists....Oshawa Generals roared back to form Saturday night to beat the Kists right in Galt 5 to 1....The draw gained by the Black Hawks with Canadiens last night was the first tie played by the Chicago team this season. Incidentally it was a moral victory for the Hawks who had dropped five games in a row to the Flying Frenchmen....Phil Lawson, wrestling coach and Whipper Billy Watson have returned from a ski holiday in the Laurentians and Lawson will be here tomorrow night to look after the local bouts for Promoter Frank Tunney. ....The death of Alex Mitchell will be regretted by football fans. For eight or ten years he was a referee in local soccer circles and one of the best officials to work here....His three sons are also well known to football enthusiasts as players with the C.G.E. team.

Algerines Win League Title Defeat Frigates

Unbeaten all season Joe Stewart's Algerines came from behind Saturday night to defeat the Frigates in the best battle of the campaign, 36 to 32 and thus take the House League championship and the Dominion Life trophy.

The winners after finishing the regular schedule without a loss had received a bye into the playoff finals. Frigates on the other hand had to knock off Cruisers a week ago to get into the playoffs and then throughout the week dispose of the Corvettes and Fairmiles.

It was anybody's ball game Saturday night until the Algerines opened up a slight lead in the last few minutes. Frigates had the edge in a close-checking first half and left the floor at half time in front 16 to 10. But Joe Stewart tied up the game with three beautiful shots for baskets inside the first two minutes of the second half and from then on the Algerines were carrying the pressure. The whole team seemed to catch fire from Stewart's accurate sniping and they came on to win.

Frigates, however, did not give up without a fight. They fought back into a one-point lead early in the final session and after that was wiped out tied the score three different times. It was not until the last five minutes that Algerines were enabled to get more than a basket in the van. At that stage they opened up a six-point margin and had four points of it left when the final whistle sounded.

Joe Stewart saved the day for his club by his deadly shooting in the second half and by his steady and effective checking. He tossed in eleven baskets for a total of 22 points and was good under both baskets. His younger brother Al also helped with a couple of timely scores and Kidd and Jones worked hard to bring victory.

Jim Ferguson topped the losers with 14 points in a nice scoring effort and Jim Collins was next in line with six. The whole team played well and were beaten chiefly by the great shooting of Stewart.

Algerines (36)—A. Stewart 6, Jones 4, Davis, Thompson, Joe Stewart 22, Kidd 4, Bouck, Thomas, Griffin.

Frigates (32)—Csumrik 1, Ferguson 14, Collins 6, Seabrook 4, Franks 2, Estlick 5.

Referees—Harry Currie and G. Baird.

Jean Ferguson Wins Tourney

A round robin badminton tournament was run off Saturday evening by the Peterborough Badminton club at the Market Hall. This was the first tournament played this year, owing to the shortage of shuttlecocks, and a lot of interest was shown by the members, over 60 players participating.

Each player took part in four games of doubles and the play was very close in most of the matches.

Jean Ferguson ran up a score of 90 points to take the first prize. Aileen Sisson copped second with 74 and Isobel Graham took third place with 64 in the ladies' doubles.

In the men's doubles Howie Shields and Leo Copp tied for first place with 58 points and Bob Baker was next with 56.

Remember When—

(By The Canadian Press)

Just three years ago tonight "Li'l Perpetual Motion" Henry Armstrong was severely battered and stopped in the 12th round of a 15-round bout by Fritzie Zivic before a jammed audience in New York's Madison Square Garden. This bout—the second meeting between the two—was for the world's welterweight title which Armstrong previously had lost to Zivic in 1940.

Canadian Sport Snapshots

By CHARLES EDWARDS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO, Jan. 17 — (CP). — Commenting on the case of George Grigor and Whitey Farrant of the Toronto Mercantile Hockey League who were paid $100 each for playing a game in Toronto with Chicago Black Hawks, Alan (Brantford Expositor) Rose wrote: "It must cost all of $100 to transport and feed a player on a trip to Toronto and return, to say nothing of the player's salary. We may yet see the day when the Chihawks will arrive in Toronto for a game with nobody but the manager and trainer getting off the train."

Rose was jesting, but his comment may provide a ray of hope in a dreary world for Manager Jack Adams of Detroit Red Wings. Already two Wings veterans, Mud Bruneteau and Normie Smith, are restricted to home games because of their war jobs.

January quarterbacking:
Vince (Winnipeg Tribune) Leah quotes Ralph Adams, Toronto, the head linesman in the Dominion football final last fall, as stating in a letter that Winnipeg would have won if it had exploited a two-man end run featuring Garnie Smith, the former Vancouver halfback.

Artful charity:
Art Ross' apparent breach of the N.H.L. gag law in blasting Frank Selke after Bill Cowley was hurt in a game with Toronto drew this comment from Doug Vaughan of the Windsor Star: "Ross should be made to pay that $1,000 fine—the money turned over to some war charity and then the rule tossed into the ash can where it belongs." This corner agrees the rule belongs in the ash can, but is willing to wager in moderation that the gag rule will never be invoked against either player or official. It has already been broken several times without penalty.

Incidentally:
Jim Handy has published his annual hockey guide for 1944 but it will not be offered for sale in Canada this time because of taxi and distribution difficulties....One of the greatest curling feats of the year was the eight-ender scored by G. Fitzpatrick's Orillia rink against Bert Hall of Kitchener in the Midland bonspiel last week. The eight-end is the perfect score, equivalent to baseball's no-hit, no run game, golf's hole-in-one, the 13 spades in bridge. This time it was scored against one of Canada's greatest skips, a former Macdonald Brier champion. Even so, Hall beat Fitzpatrick 14-10.

Senior Services Hockey Loop Ends

WINNIPEG, Jan. 17 — (CP). — The Winnipeg Senior Services Hockey League came to an end January 10 when the Canadian Army adopted a ruling, similar to the one announced last month by the R.C.A.F., prohibiting the soldier teams from participating in leagues whose champions enter either Allan Cup or Memorial Cup playdowns.

When the Senior Services League had finished its abbreviated schedule, Army was in possession of first place, three points ahead of H.M.C.S. Chippawa and R.C.A.F. Bombers.

Meanwhile the two Winnipeg junior circuits continue to provide an exciting brand of hockey.

In the South Division set-up Winnipeg Monarchs boast a four-point margin over St. James Canadians. The Monarchs have six victories, the Canucks four. Winnipeg Rangers, defending Dominion junior champions, have yet to enter the victory column.

In the North Division Winnipeg Esquires continue as top-dogs. The Eskies have registered 17 points since the season was ushered in, eight wins and a tie. And have been defeatetd only once—by Canadian Ukrainian Athletic Club, which oloiw them with six triumphs and a draw.

St. Boniface Athletics, 1943 champions, are five points behind the Ukrainians with four wins and Winnipeg Air Cadets, badly hit by the recent R.C.A.F. puck ruling, trail the pack without a win in nine starts.

Port Arthur West-ends lead the Thunder Bay Junior League and loom as a choice threat to the title won last spring by the now defunct Fort William Hurricane-Rangers. The Westies have four straight triumphs for eight points. Port Arthur H.M.C.S. Griffon follows in the standings with two victories while Port Arthur Flyers and Fort William Columbus Club each have yet to produce a winning effort.

Make Pretzel Of Davis Avers Moose

"If I don't twist that big Texan int~ a pretzel, I'll never call myself a Canadian athlete again." That's the pre-bout statement of Earl "Moose" McCready regarding his grudge clash with Karl "Krippler" Davis to-morrow night. In two previous bouts, McCready has received the worst of the decisions although morally winning hands down. Now the "Moose" is really roused and in the frame of mind he finds himself in to-day is ready to give Davis not only an official loss but the "hardest thrashing any Texan ever took." With McCready's burning resentment and Davis' conceited belief that there is no Canadian who can touch him, the bout looms up as the tid-bit of an exciting season. Do or die is Earl McCready's attitude and when the big man from Aurora feels that way the fans know there are going to be fireworks. And the presence of Ernie Powers from Hamilton, senior referee for the Athletic Commission ensures that this time at least. Davis will have to wrtsle. Which little factor definitely throws t.e odds in favour of his Canadian opponent.

With the famous Tom Zaharias of Los Angeles meeting Toar Morgan in the semi-final and Jerry Meeker taking on Bunny Dunlop, it looks like a large and strenuous evening for the Brock Arena.

Leafs Trounced Twice By Detroit Wings

By ALAN HARVEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Unless Detroit Red Wings can prove that Adam Brown's views do not necessarily represent those of the management, Toronto Maple Leafs will have specific cause for reprisal next time the two teams meet. In seven games against Toronto this season, four of them Detroi victories, the slender sniper from Ottawa has scored eight goals —80 per cent of his production against all National Hockey League clubs.

During the week-end Brown collected two goals in each game as Red Wings mauled Leafs 6-4 in Toronto Saturday and 4-1 on home ice Sunday.

The double triumph hoisted the refurbished Red Wings within three points of the third-place Boston Bruins, who muffed a chance for a share of a higher bracket with Leafs by losing 8-6 Sunday to New York Rangers, whom they had beaten 7-5 Saturday in the first instalment of the double bill. Chicago Black Hawks, held to a 1-1 tie by the league-leading Montreal Canadiens at Chicago Sunday, slipped two games behind Detroit.

Fido Purpur gave Chicago a 1-0 advantage in the first period, but Butch Bouchard's clever second-period shot from 25 feet gave Canadiens a division of spoils which left them 13 points ahead of Leafs.

Three goals by Art Jackson and two by Herb Cain gave Boston its 7-5 victory at home against Rangers They led again 5-2 at the end of the first period in the Sunday struggle, but Rangers scored three in the middle period and three more in the third against one for Boston to end their losing streak at seven games. Bryan Hextall and Johnny Mahaffy each scored twice while Gernand Gauthier counted the deciding goal.

Red Wings, in their two meetings against Leafs, scored three times in one minute and nine seconds of the third period to erase a 4-2 deficit Saturday and tallied three without reply in the last period of Sunday's contest. Murray Armstrong, recently discharged from the Canadian Army, pressed Brown for scoring honors with two goals Saturday and one Sunday. Jackie Hamilton collected two goals for Leafs, both on Saturday. Detroit has won four and tied one of its last five games.

A cumulative total of 71,345 paid admissions watched the five week-end games, creating an average of 14,269 per game which probably is a league record. Latest individual attendance — 18,150 paid — watched the Sunday game at Chicago.

Woodbine Park Boosts Purses

By APPAS TAPPAS

TORONTO, Jan. 17—Further increases in purse money will be made by the Ontario Jockey Club for the 1944 spring meeting at Woodbine Park. No purse of less than $1,000 will be offered.

This means all overnight races have been boosted. The O.J.C. enjoyed very successful meetings last year and, considering the greatly increased cost to horsemen in keeping up their stables, the directors decided to make the minimum purse offering for this year $1,000, an increase in most races of $200.

Increased prices of feed, shipping and stable help made it very difficult in the past few years for trainers to avoid operating at considerable loss. With this in mind the O.J.C. officials, Secretary Palmer Wright said, raised the amount. Prize money in stakes have already been increased. It is expected the majority of the tracks on the I.C.R.A. will follow in the footsteps of Woodbine in bringing the purses in all claiming races up to the $1,000 minmum.

Bears, Barons In Tie For Top Spot

(By The Canadian Press)

Hershey Bears and Cleveland Barons won their week-end encounters to remain tied for first position in the American Hockey League. Each team now has 19 victories and five draws chalked up for its season's efforts.

Sparked by their French-Canadian ace, Gaston Gauthier the Bears defeated Buffalo Bisons 4-1 Saturday night while Barons whipped Indianapolis Capitals 7-4.

In the other A.H.L. games Pittsburgh Hornets thrashed Providence Reds 6-2 Saturday and last night Bisons defeated Hornets 4-2 while Capitals laced Reds 4-1.

Gauthier scored three counters for Bears in their game against Bisons and teamed up with Capt. Wally Kilrea for the other. Fred Thurier scored for Bisons in the first period.

Cleveland's centre Les Cunningham and Lou Trudel were the top point-getters in their game against Capitals. Cunningham scored two goals and assisted in three others while Trudel bagged two more counters and got two assists.

Morrison Gets Two

Other Cleveland marksmen were Adolph, Sprout and Hergesheimer. Indianapolis goal-getters were Morrison, with two, Smith and Sorrel.

In the Pittsburgh-Providence encounter Tony Hemmerling rang up a goal and three assists while Jamie Jamieson scored two goals for Hornets. Tom Forgie, Lloyd Roubell and Bob Gracie bagged the other counters. Johnny Gagnon and Roly Forget scored Reds' two counters.

Last night Bisons came from behind with three goals in the third period to whip the Hornets. The first period was scoreless, but Fred Thurier put Buffalo in the lead in the second. But less than a minute late Roubell tied the count.

Roger Leger, Larry Thibeault and Thurier added third period counters which gave Buffalo their decisive victory.

Carl (Winky) Smith scored two goal to lead the Caps to their 4-1 victory over Reds. Alex Ritson and Bill Thompson accounted for the other two. Yank Boyd bagged Reds' lone tally.

Count Fleet Slated For Green Pastures

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Jan. 17 — (AP).— A few more races this year to dispel any doubts about his greatness and Count Fleet is headed for green pastures and the easy life of a sire.

Owner John D. Hertz told yesterday of the plans for the only thoroughbred ever to win the five top events for 3-years-olds in the United States.

"We will enter the Count in just enough handicaps to establish him further as a great horse— as good as a 4-year-old as he was last year," Hertz said.

"That's all we want," he added, speaking for his wife and himself. "Winning the most money or the most races, means nothing to us.

"If Count Fleet is alive in 1945, he will be retired to stud."

Count Fleet was withdrawn from competition last summer as the result of a hoof injury suffered as he was winning the Belmont to complete his conquests in the Wood Memorial, the Kentucky Derby the Preakness and the Withers.

Jesus' Teachings Practical For Present Day

The humanity of Jesus' religion and the practicability of his faith as revealed in the Gospels is evidence that Christianity as preached in the beginning is more than ever suited to the needs of present-day life, Rev. W. J. Johnston, pastor of Eglinton United church, Toronto, told a large congregation at Trinity church Sunday morning.

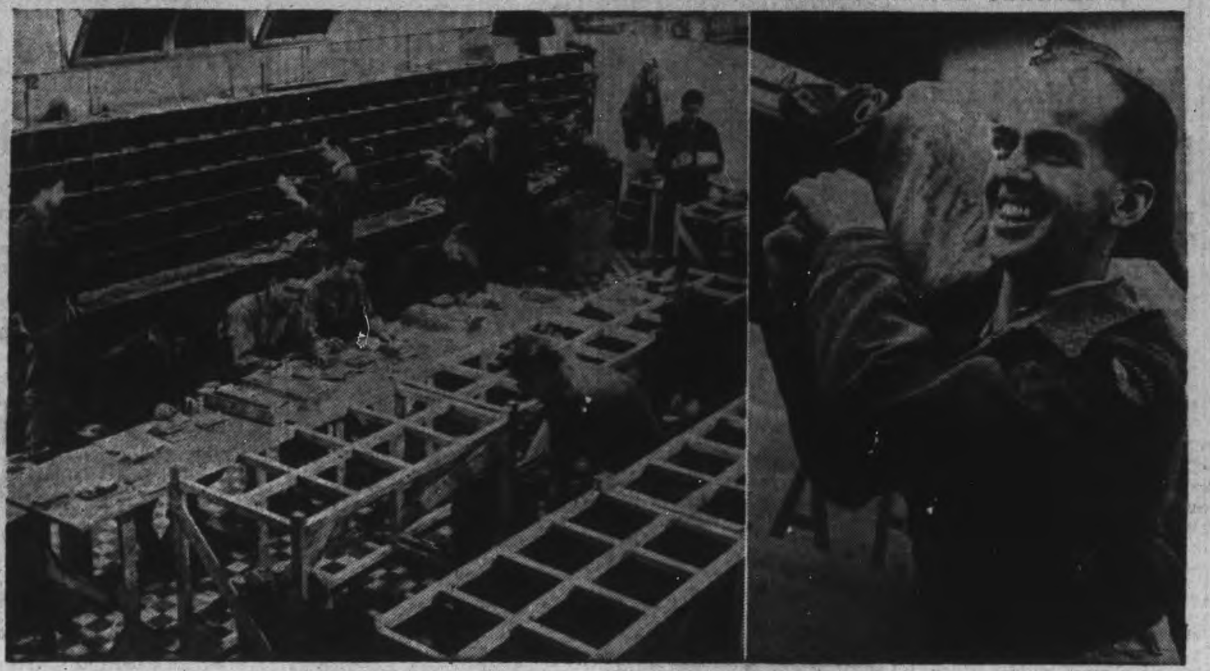
Preaching at the anniversary services. Rev. Johnston, who is president of the Toronto conference of the United church and head of one of the larger congregations of that city, emphasized the vital elements of Jesus' faith that made an old-time religion also a religion for a new day. That Jesus' religion was practical, that it was democratic and that it was a religion of friendship and brotherhood linked it, the minister asserted, with the spirit of the changes which are coming over the world.

"Many are going to be surprised at the changes which, as a result of the war, are bringing a new world into being," he said. "But we feel that no change is necessary in our religion, that it is suitable as it is, whatever the extent of change there may be. Why is this so? It is because the keynote of the plans and determinations to remake our world into a better place to live in is the same combination of practicality, charity to others and brotherly, democratic feeling that was the mainspring of Jesus' life and work."

Jesus, the minister said, did not talk of Heaven but took that for granted and talked of human beings, their problems, their trials and tribulations. For him religion and life were inseparable and he drew no line between the religious and the secular. He was acquainted with the give and take of life, the everyday concerns of making a living and sharing his things with others. Jesus identified himself with realities, and went into the world to preach his doctrines rather than withdrawing and expecting disciples to come to him."

His faith, Rev. Johnston showed, was not influenced so much by heredity and official distinctions as by the worth of individuals. In this judgment of men and women according to their personal merit he was an exponent of the democratic values that today are becoming more real in practise in political and economic spheres, the minister said.

A prayer for the speedy recovery of Rev. Dr. George Easton, pastor of Trinity church, now in the Toronto General Hospital, was offered at the service.



R.C.A.F. "BEAGLE 'BOYS" SPEED MAIL—"A combination of missing persons bureau, beagle, and friend from home" is the way these hard-working R.C.A.F. and Canadian Army postal clerks have been described. Working side by side in a section of the British Army base post office in Algiers, they handle mountains of mail for Canadians in North Africa, Gibraltar, Italy, the Middle East, Iraq, Iran and India. Their task is complicated by the frequent moves of men in the forces, but these men work all day and many nights till midnight, with grim determination to get every letter and parcel delivered in the shortest possible time. To that end, they particularly welcomed the inauguration shortly before Christmas of the R.C.A.F.'s new overseas air mail service. The picture at Left shows a corner of the busy sorting room at Algiers. At the Right, LAC. J. S. MacLean of Pictou, N.S., seems to be enjoying his job as he hoists a mail sack into an R.C.A.F. truck. (R.C.A.F. Photos)

Demand For Eggs Drops At Lower Prices

At least a $32 question among the women on the Saturday market who help supply Peterborough's tables with fresh products of the farm was: "Why did eggs sell more freely at 40 to 50 cents a dozen than today at 35 to 40 cents?"

You just can't toss back a flippant: "You're asking me" or something equally banal and evasive. Certainly not to serious minded women who, you know, keep an eye on costs and their margin of egg profit, and incidentally are up rather early of a Saturday morning with full baskets for the ensuing week. If eggs were holding their early winter line at 45 to 50 cents you might profoundly suggest the price factor, but when buying drags at 35 to 40 cents you are disarmed or reduced to some sapient comment like. "may be it's an off day."

Any way, the flocks around the county continue to dominate the local market, as they did Saturday. Chickens were 35 to 38 cents a pound, some whopping big ones of nine pounds, plump and well groomed, with broilers at 40 cents. Demand was fairly active, but something seemed to have hexed the egg trade, which was moving slowly. Probably the simple answer to the egg question was that there were not enough buyers.

Holds Auction

Potatoes were $2 a bag with some at $1.65, and the vegetable and fruit men were busy, but Gordon Hancock's auction sale of a trailer and a lot of other stuff attracted the outdoor crowd. And Mr. Hancock on the auctioneer's stand, apparently found a hot market. Some of Norman Moncrief's apple prices were: Spies 85c a peck or $3.25 a bushel with domestics at 70c and $2.75.

Herb Doig's prices were: Carrots $1.50 a bushel, parsnips $2.25, onions $3.50 a bag and "all sold," cabbages 10 cents each, and so on down the list. Several of Monaghan's municipal leaders stopped to exchange greetings with Mr. Doig, touching briefly on the annexation question. His comments were volubly and hyperbolically ironic, such as: "It's grand. That's just what we need. I never thought I'd live to see the day when we would be moving into the city or rather the city moving out to us. Everything is going to be lovely for all of us." You assumed from Mr. Doig's expansive remarks that in all probability he was not a signatory to the Park street-Managhan road petition to be taken into the city. Of course there was no evidence that he did not put his name on one of the sheets that was circulated, but the impression was that he was not cheering the prospect of his garden fields being included in the area proposed for annexation.

United Church Holds Candle Light Service

HAVELOCK, Jan. 17—(ENS). — A candle-lighting and installation service was held in the United Church Sunday evening when the auditorium of the church was entirely lighted by candles, with seven tall white tapers in candelabra at the altar and a pair of candles in each window. During the installation each officer of the Women's Association, Women's Missionary Society, Sunday School, Young People's League, choir and Mission Band came forward and lit a white candle and formed a circle around the centre pews of the church. The pastor, Rev. J. W. Wilkinson, delivered a sermon following the dedication service. The junior choir provided the music at this service, singing two anthems, "Exalt His Name" and "In the Place Where the Master Needs Me." A trio, including Misses Marion Forsyth, Ruth Wilkinson, and Margaret Anderson sang "Seal Us, O Holy Spirit," with Mrs. J. W. Wilkinson at the piano.

The "outrages" against the German-occupied buildings in Florence were not explained.

Canned Salmon Shipment Slowed

OTTAWA, Jan. 17 — (CP). — Though the sale of canned salmon on ration becomes effective to-day the Prices Board said in a statement last night that it will probably be some time before the product is generally available in retail stores.

"A small quantity of Atlantic canned salmon now is on the market in some areas, but the 200,000 cases arranged for from Pacific packers have not yet moved into trade channels," the board said.

"Considerable time is required for arangement of allocations and distribution from the canneries to the grocery trade in line with the board's equitable distribution plan.

"As canned salmon has been off the domestic market since 1941, distributors and retailers must check records to determine their sales volume in the past so that they may get their proportionate share of the quantity now being made available."

The board said the product will gradually move into retail channels during the next several weeks.

Chicago Nun To Be Canonized

CHICAGO, Jan. 17 — (AP). — A woman who ministered to persons still living will take her place this month with the saints of the Roman Catholic Church.

She is the late Blessed Mother Frances Xavier Cabrini, a slight fair - complexioned Italian nun who was a United States citizen. While no official confirmation has been received, despatches from Berne, Switzerland, report that Pope Pius XII will officiate at canonization ceremonies in Vatican City some time in January.

Rejected by one religious order because she was too small, Mother Cabrini founded her own — the Institute of the Missionary Sister of the Sacred Heart of Jesus— and established a school, a hospital or an orphanage for each of the 67 years of her life. She crossed the Atlantic 23 times, went up and down the Pacific several times rode burro-back over the mountains and criss-crossed the United States.

Besides being the first American citizen to be cannonized. Mother Cabrini will have the distinction of being sainted only 27 years after her death, December 22, 1917, the shortest intervening period since papal courts have adjudged those worthy of sanctification. As an example of Jesuit martyrs, Father Isaac Jogues and seven companions tortured to death by the Iroquis Indians in the 1640's, were not cannonized until 1930.

Overseas Parcel Minus Address Finds Its Owner

Illustrating the perseverance and efficiency of the Post Office in gettin letters and gifts to their ultimate destination is the story of an unaddressed Christmas parcel which a soldier overseas received— withal somewhat belatedly.

Arriving at the Base Post Office at the height of the rush with its wrapper torn away, both the address and the return address were missing and all that could be read was part of the postmark—the syllable "peg." Opened by the Repair Section, no slip could be found to identify the soldier or the sender. But there was a snapshot enclosed of a youthful piper in a Highland uniform, with badges recognized as belonging to a Winnipeg regiment and on the back a name, a regimental number and initials standing for the name of the regiment. Communication with Postal services at Winnipeg served to identify, the regiment, the soldier and eventually the Winnipeg lady who had sent the package. Base Post Office filled in complete addresses on the rewrapped parcel and shortly after turning up unidentifiable it was again on its way.

Though perhaps a more spectacular story than others, an incident of this kind is not an isolated example of the detective work this Post Office does. Examples can be uncovered nearer home. Not long ago Miss Myrtle Sargent of Sherbrooke street received a letter addressed to her minus the name of the city, and the same was true of a letter that reached Miss Joan Stenton, 469 Water street. Both letters had come through the notation, "try Peterborough."

But what the Post Office can do to remedy mistakes when they happen is not to be interpreted as an indication that they like it. The emphasis as always is on the importance of wrapping parcels for the forces properly and giving complete addresses of both addressee and sender, not only on the cover but also on a slip of paper inside.

Flt. Lt. Elliott Lost Life In Yugoslavia

Rev. A. E. Elliott, of Sutherland, Sask., has written the City Council acknowledging its letter of condolence in the death of his son, Flight Lieutenant Eldon Burke Elliott, who had been reported missing in aerial action over Yugoslavia, and on December 1, 1943, was officially reported killed. Flt. Lieut. Elliott was a former employee of the Canadian General Electric Company in Peterborough.

The following is a quotation from the letter which was received by City Clerk Outram: "Yours of December 7 brings us the gracious announcement that the City Council of Peterborough has taken note of the passing of our son in the Middle East and of your inscription of his death in your records.

"I am glad to say that Burke was very happy in his service, and that, so far as we can gather by putting together items of his correspondence, he might very easily have been enjoying well earned leisure service in almost complete safety when he went out on what proved to be his last flight.

"Besides the latest information from the casualties officer, R.C.A.F., indicates that what is believed to have been his plane hit a hill top in Yugoslavia and that the unidentified remains of six of the seven-man crew are buried in a cemetery at Dhosinj, Yugoslavia. It would appear that the only memorial of his life and service is to be in such records.

"So we thank you very cordially for the honor done him and for the sympathy conveyed in your letter."

The Council's records of the supreme sacrifice by other Peterborough men recently received the following additions, which are accompanied by official letters of sympathy to the nearest relatives by the Council on behalf of the citizens:

Private Victor Detlor of the Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry Highlanders, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jerdan Detlor, 12 Kenneth avenue, who died in Christie Street Hospital, Toronto, November 26, 1943, of a wound suffered overseas.

Corporal Lionel Campbell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Campbell, 79 Ware street, killed in action December 23 with the Hastings-Prince Edward Regiment.

Private Victor Peters, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Peters, Hurley street, killed in action December 11, with the Hastings-Prince Edward Regiment.

Corporal Earl Pruner, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. Pruner, 478 Aylmer street, killed in action in Italy, December 6, with the Hastings-Prince Edward Regiment.

Pilot Officer Gerald Dawson, R.C.A.F., son of Mrs. Emma Dawson, killed December 29 in air operations over England. His widow lives at 743 Water street.

Sergeant Clifford Strain, R.C.A.F., missing in operations over enemy territory; presumed dead; his widow lives at 196 Reid street.

Draw On Quilt Brings $55 To War Victims

A quilt is a most useful article, which to some extent explains its popularity as the prize for a draw, but even at that it requires some leadership in an effort of this type, of which there have been a great many run on behalf of various war charities, among which, the Peterborough and District British War Victims Fund has shared on quite a number of occasions.

The latest effort of this kind comes as a result of Mrs. E. Delong making a donation of a quilt which she had purchased from a group who themselves were making money in this way for their own welfare work, the sale of tickets for a draw on it being sponsored by L.O.B.A. Vimy Ridge No. 244, of which Mrs. E. Millard is the W.M.

Then in order to further assist in the sale of tickets, Mrs. Delong offered a first and second prize for those who sold the most, which undoubtedly had some bearing on the splendid amount of $55, which was realized, and is credited in today's receipts for the fund.

These prizes were won by Mrs. J. Little who came first and Mrs. M. Manley who was second, thus also giving them credit for the largest individual share in the returns, which incidentally were turned over to the fund by Mrs. J. Pickering and Mrs. Delong.

The draw was made at a meeting held on Tuesday, January 4, by Mrs. B. Monk and resulted in the prize going to V. Emberson of 344 McDonnel street, bringing to a close one of the better efforts of its kind held to give the fund a helping hand.

Repeats Memoriam Gift

Starting in the early 1941, a donation was made "In Memory of Mike, Douro" by a close relative and today another such appears, marking the fourth time help has been given to this fund in the same manner by the same interested person, and it would seem appropriate to reiterate, that there would seem no finer way to honor the memory of one who has passed on, than by doing some good for others in his or in her name.

One personal donation is also listed, this coming from Herb. Doig, who has given help in a similar manner on a number of occasions previously. The fund is now nearing the time when another donation of five hundred pounds can be sent, and in view of the recent raids over London, particlarly the one which resulted in a bomb dropping in the middle of a theatre, it will undoubtedly come to them at a time when funds would be needed to take care of those who unfortunately happened to be in the building at that time.

Cpl. Terence J. Low Injured In Fighting

Mrs. Eleanor A. Low, 8 Brown street, has received word that her husband, Cpl. Terence Joseph Low of the Princess Pats, has been wounded in the foot during action in Italy in December.

Enlisting with the Rangers in April, 1942, for active service, Cpl. Low went overseas almost a year ago and later transferred to the Princess Pats. He took part in the fighting in Sicily but was not hurt. A member of a military-minded family, Cpl. Low's father, Sgt. John Low, is at the Training Centre here, and two brothers, Jack Low with the army overseas aid Harry Low in the Navy, are doing their share. Before enlisting he worked at the Canada Packers.

Fire At King Edward

TORONTO, Jan. 17.—(CP).—Two firemen were overcome by smoke early to-day in a fire which caused $4,000 damage in a storage room on the upper floors of the King Edward Hotel on King street in downtown Toronto. One hundred and twenty-five guests occupying upper storey rooms were forced to leave their rooms.

Despatch Rider Out Of Hospital

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Allen, R.R. No. 9, Peterborough, received a letter from their son, Pte. Jack Allen, last week and in it got word for the first time of an accident their boy had been involved in over two months ago.

A motorcycle despatch rider for headquarters, 9th Canadian Infantry Brigade, Pte. Allen was apparently run into by a truck while riding on his bike. In his letter to his parents, he did not elaborate on the details surrounding his misadventure, beyond saying that he had a broken arm, three broken ribs and a badly strained back. Dated Dec. 20, his letter home stated that he had just gone back to his unit after six weeks in a hospital, and that his back was still giving him a certain amount of trouble.

Twenty-four years of age, Pte. Jack Allen has been overseas for nearly 3¼ years. Enlisting with the Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry Highlanders in June of 1940, he preceded that regiment overseas and shortly after arrival on the other side became a member of his presen tunit. Before joining up he was employed with Hood and Cummings Motors.

He has a brother, Harmon, now living in Toronto, who was a bugler in the 4th Highlanders for almost 10 years, receiving his discharge three years ago after an accident that injured his legs.

REACHES ENGLAND—LAC. W. H. Mills, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Mills, R.R. 1, Peterborough, has cabled of his arrival overseas. He worked at Walkwel's prior to enlisting in February, 1943. He is an accountant and was stationed at Centralia before going overseas.

Michael Cavalier Exonerated By Magistrate

A charge against Michael Cavalier, Rogers Street, of keeping liquor for sale, that has been hanging fire since November 15, was finally disposed of in Police Court this morning when Magistrate E. A. Gee, after hearing the evidence in the case, found Cavalier not guilty.

There was evidence by two witnesses called by the Crown, Pte. Albert Simpson, Veterans' Guard, Ottawa, and William Francis, of Peterborough, that they had obtained six bottles of beer at Cavalier's home, but both men swore that no money had been exchanged. Francis testified that he had called Cavalier by telephone and asked him if he had any beer he could obtain and the accused had replied that there was some there that witness could have, although he, Cavalier, was going out.

Francis added that Cavalier had been a friend of his for years and there had been similar exchanges at times.

The two men started to carry the beer home and on their way were intercepted by Officer Archie Menzies. Later Cavalier's house was searched and a carton containing a dozen quarts of beer was found.

Officer Menzies gave evidence as to the search and said that a carton produced in court and bearing the legend "Hugh Rose, R. R. 7, Peterborough," had been found in Cavalier's house.

Witnesses from the staff of the brewery warehouse identified a number of purchase slips signed by Cavalier. Most of them were on orders from other persons.

After a motion to dismiss the charge without calling upon the defence was refused by Magistrate Gee, W. J. Arthur Fair, who defended Cavalier, sent the accused into the box.

Cavalier said that he had given the beer to Francis and had not been paid for it. He said that the carton marked with the name of Rose must have got to his place by mistake, and when cross-examined by Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry, K.C., said that he had bought beer for a number of other persons. Most of the 222 quarts he had purchased during September, October, and the first half of November was for others, he said.

He was questioned as to the name Patrick J. Carroll, with a Douro address, appearing on several of the orders and also as to other orders bearing Carroll's name with an Omemee addess.

"Paddy Carroll lives on Reid Street," declared the accused, and said that any beer he had bought for Carroll had been taken to his Peterborough address.

In his judgment Magistrate Gee said that the Crown's own witnesses had said that no money had changed hands. In regard to the quantity of beer purchased by Cavalier, he said that buying that much for others would have been unusual under ordinary conditions, but not in the period in question when there was a shortage of beer and the warehouse was open for only a limited period each day.

Rev. E. J. Whan Is Welcomed To Park Street

At a banquet and reception held in the Sunday School hall a large attendance of members and friends warmly welcomed Rev. E. J. Whan as minister to Park Street Baptist church.

Rev. Whan, formerly of Fonthill Baptist church, has in a short space of time won high esteem in the hearts of his many new friends and associates. In his earlier days at college Mr. Whan excelled himself in the field of sports which contributes to his eagerness to be active and to achieve the best results in his field of endeavor. A man of fine personality and so readily recognized as a leader in all Departments of the church, he has been enrolled into the membership of the Peterborough Ministerial Association and is a member of the "Morning Devotion" program over CHEX.

On behalf of the churches of this city warm remarks of welcome were delivered to Rev. Whan by Dr. E. W. Young, president of the Peterborough Ministerial Association, Rev. F. W. Craik of St. James' United, Rev. J. H. Sutcliffe of Murray Street Baptist, and Allan B. Mann who represented Gilmour Memorial Baptist church. Dr. M. C. MacLean of Gilmour Memorial and Rev. W. Walker of Lakefield Baptist were not able to attend.

This group of men heartily welcomed him in their midst as a Fellow Minister. Each voiced their opinion that in bringing success to one church would eventually bring success to all the churches of this city.

During the evening everyone was delightfully treated when Mrs. Dorothy Goldie sang "Just For Today" and "I Shall Not Pass Again This Way." Mr. Sutcliffe also rendered a solo "Tis Jesus," accompanied by Miss Marguerite Dunkley on the piano.

Mr. Whan in responding to the greetings and best wishes of the community bestowed upon him felt that God had wanted him to come to this city. Remarking on the kindness and happiness shown Mrs. Whan and family since their arrival here they feel that Peterborough will always be a home to them. In planning to work in close unity with his brother ministers, Mr. Whan felt that the spiritual blessing should be brought to the people outside the church, visiting houses where the members of the families have no church denomination.

George Batley moved a vote of appreciation to the guests from the neighboring churches and to the large attendance that were present, to Mrs. Goldie and Mr. Sutcliffe for their beautiul solos and to Marguerite Dunkley, pianist for the evening, also to the Ladies' Aid Society of the church for their splendid work in the preparation of the banquet.

Maurice Dunkley was the presiding chairman for the evening.

Again Discuss Annexation

County council and North Monaghan representatives the meeting at the Court House this afternoon to continue annexation discussion from the inconclusive stage of Fridays adjournment of the meeting at which the city was also a participant.

A new proposal to draw a southern boundary along McKellar street is said to be a variant of outlines already considered, but the main point upon which the county and township hope to reach an agreement is the extension to Erskine avenue of the area to be annexed. Substitution of some road boundary for the river as the southern limit of the entire area under consideration is not likely to receive any support from those who are convinced that a policy of temporizing on a McKellar street or any other southern limit is not in the interest of any of the municipalities. Presenting to the Ontario Municipal Board an area that will look like a "jig-saw puzzle," an illusion that has been repeated at the several meetings, is not likely to receive favorable consideration from that body of authority, according to those who are trying to reach a definitive agreement assured of approval of the Municipal Board.

The result of the meeting this afternoon may reach the city council tonight and the county council beginning its January sessions Tuesday afternoon.

At the Friday adjournment it was suggested that all three interests, with their school boards, resume their discussion Wednesday night. The city council has expressed willingness to accept all the eastern section south of Lansdowne street as far west as Monaghan road, and so far they are objecting to taking in the further block to Erskine avenue.

However, members of city council expect that both the county and township representatives will agree on Erskine avenue as a boundary, leaving the city in a minority position when the entire case is again reported to the Municipal Board.

Nazis Slowed

LONDON, Jan. 17 (AP) — Marshal Josip Broz (Tito) declared yesterday his Partisan army had brought German drives to a halt and seized the initiative in several sectors of the snow-crusted Bosnian hills and Nazis said the Yugoslavs were trying to hold open an Allied "invasion corridor" from the Adriatic.

USE NEW BASES—Allied bombers are using for the first time more than 11 recently equipped air bases near Foggia, Italy, and recent raids on Sofia and Pola inaugurated a campaign which will soon spread over a 600-mile range, indicated by light area on map. Rumanian oil fields and a number of vital targets in Bulgaria, Yugoslavia and Italy are in for bigger and heavier attacks, and, it was stated, the big bombers can take off and return to their new coast bases along the Adriatic without serious trouble from the enemy fighters.

$5,000 Sought To Buy Books

The second week of the I.O.D.E. drive for funds and used books is now getting under way, and the canvassers are continuing their work of gathering contributions for the camp's library campaign. A $5,000 objective was set for Peterborough, the treasurer for this city being Mrs. W. Gordon Hall.

The I.O.D.E. chapters of Canada had been sending books to camps, but they have been gathered individually by the chapters. Other organizations, realizing the real need for books for libraries, had also been helping. However, no concerted campaign had been set up whereby a group was in charge of seeing that camps, coastal bases, interment camps—in fact, all places where Canadian boys were stationed—were supplied with reading material to while away leisure hours.

Seeing the acute need for an organized plan of distribution and maintenance, the Department of National Defence asked the I.O.D.E. chapters of Canada to take over the job of supplying Canadian soldiers, sailors and airmen with books and reading material. In taking over this task, the women realized the tremendous scope of the job, and immediately set about to plan a campaign.

Since the I.O.D.E. could buy books at a much greater reduction than any private interests or smaller organization could, an objective of $100,000 for Ontario to buy books, was set up, with the larger cities being given definite allocations. The books which were donated were to be collected at depots, and sorted and packed to be sent to camps.

Depots in Peterborough are as follows: Routley's Grocery Store, 392 Brock Street; Miller's Drug Store, 354 Charlotte street; Frank's Furniture, George Street; Richard Hall Limited, George Street; Tudhope's Parkhill Garage, Parkhill Road; Lift Lock Candy Shop, 99 Hunter Street, East, and donations may be left at any of these stores.

All I.O.D.E. chapters of Peterborough are working together in this campaign, and are divided into groups according to the districts where they live, and not according to chapters. Each group is under a captain, and is given a definite locale to canvass. Although some difficulty in finding people at home has been experienced, the reception given these workers has been excellent, and it is hoped that this will continue, because these women are serving a worthy cause, close to the heart of every Canadian.

Ask Farmers To Buy Seed Grain At Once

F. C. Paterson has sent a letter to many of the farmers of the county advising them to buy good seed grain as soon as possible for this years requirements. "If you have suitable seed of your own get it cleaned: if your neighbor has some to spare, buy it before he sells or feeds it; or call on your seed dealer."

Oats recommended for this district are Erban, Ajax, Cartier, Vanguard, Mabel "or any variety which has been proved satisfatcory in your neighborhood . . . You may have to use western seed oats such as Victory or Banner." The use of western feed grain for seed is definitely not recommended. Although good feed much of it has been frosted, is mixed or is of unsuitable variety.

Nobarb barley or O.A.C. No. 21 is recommended "You cannot afford to sow poor seed," Mr. Paterson quoted from the maxims of the Crop Improvement Association.

St. James Church Honors Memory Of Lew Evans

In memory of Able Seaman Llewellyn Evans of Royal Canadian Navy, lost at sea in the sinking of H.M.C.S. "St. Croix", September 23, 1943 an impressive memorial service was held in St. James' United Church, Sunday morning when a large crowd gathered in honor of the first member of this congregation to lose his life in the armed services.

Officiating at the service, the pastor, Rev. F. W. Craik was assisted by Capt. S. B. Profitt, chaplain of the Training Centre, who led in the responsive service of worship from Psalm 89. Representatives of the Women's Naval Auxiliary attended in a body, as well as members of Council of North Monaghan, while the Sea Scouts of St. James' church acted as ushers. Flowers graced the pulpit, placed by the Church session forming a background for the framed photograph of the young sailor.

Special music arranged by the Church Organist, Cecil Lapp included the anthem by the full choir, "Lead Kindly Light" and the solo "One Sweetly Solemn Thought" by Mrs. R. C. Searles, A.T.C.M. After the morning worship, a moment of silent prayer for the armed forces was observed.

Royal Message

Messages of sympathy from the King and Queen to the bereaved family were read: "The Queen and I offer you our heartfelt sympathy in your great sorrow. We pray that your country's gratitude for a life so nobly given in the service may bring you some measure of consolation."

The Hon. Mr. MacDonald, Minister of National Defence for Naval Services sent this message: "This commemorates the gratitude of the government and people of Canada for the life of a brave man freely given in the service of his country. His name will ever be held in proud remembrance."

Navy Theme

"The Anchor and the Crown", the symbol of the Navy was the theme of the minister's address. Mr. Craik chose two texts, Heb. 6:19 and Rev. 2:10. The thought of anchorage for the soul seemed to come into the mind of the writer of the Hebrews rather suddenly. A new thought in a moment of reflection, giving hope to the soul tossed upon the seas of trouble, he said. For centuries, the word anchor has been the symbol of hope, yet the word was never used in the Old Testament and only twice in the New.

The Christian anchor is not an ornament nor an unnecessary piece of baggage, but a reality, Mr. Craik emphasized. On board ship an anchor is almost as essential as a compass. Every life needs a spiritual anchor. A steadfast grip upon God.

Higher Aims

"Then, the word Crown suggests a head-piece worn by Kings and Queens, while in a figurative sense, it signifies honor, splendor, dignity, authority and victory, but John spoke, in Revelations of the Crown reserved for the faithful in Heaven. What we call death is only the opening to a new life. A safe anchorage into a tranquil haven of rest."

To the sorrowing family the pastor brought a note of comfort in the thought that the Christian religion brings a glorious hope for the life to come. He told of a letter he had received from A. B. Evans one year ago, in which he spoke hopefully of his return to the work of the church and Sunday School which had meant so much to him. This is a golden opportunity for some other young man to take up his torch and carry on, he declared.

In conclusion the pastor expressed the hope that out of this memorial service they would emerge as better Christians in service for the Empire, for the King of Kings and for ushering in a day of lasting peace and justice.

Mary Pickford Bungalow Nets $103,000

An article in "Lions" magazine last month reveals that $103,000 net profit was realized from the Mary Pickford Bungalow project on which shares were sold by the various Lions clubs in Ontario and Quebec.

The proceeds from the project were divided as follows: Fifty per cent to the Lions British Child War Victims Fund, forty per cent to the Evening Telegram War Victims fund and ten per cent to the Malta War Relief Fund.

The idea was born when Mary Pickford, a native of Toronto, became interested in the welfare of British children and donated a piece of property which was sold for $5,000. Using this sum as a nucleus, the Lions built a magnificent bungalow valued at $15,000 in a restricted area of Toronto. The tickets sold as $1.00 shares in the bungalow were popular, and the winning share was held by a Mr. Ellis of suburban Toronto, a man of humble circumstances.

Peterborough Lions sold $1,353 worth of tickets placing third to all clubs outside of the Toronto area. This amount will be credited to the local club as their donation to the British Child War Victims Fund in the annual club statement.

Here is a list of the homes in England which are maintained by the British Child War Victims Fund, a Canadian-wide fund sponsored and financed by the Lions Clubs of Canada.

Talbot Home, Bournemouth, Hampshire, 40 boys.

St Agatha Home, Princes Resborough, Buckinghamshrie, 38 toddlers.

All Saints' Home, N. Saffron, Walden Essex, 42 boys.

St. Barnabas Home, at Portal Lodge, Tarjoriey, Cheshire, 26 girls.

St. Luke's home, Burgess Hill, Sussex, 30 boys.

St. Gabriel's Home, Kettering, Northamtonshire, 25 girls.

St. Alban's Home, Knebworth, Hetfordshire, 48 boys.

St. Mary's Home, Mr. Tunbridge Wells, Kent, 50 girls.

Dacre House, Rock Ferry Home, Stoke-on-Trent, Staffordshire, 46 boys.

Besides the above, there are 370 specially selected cases maintained in home scattered all over Enland.

Th name of the various homes listed above will bring memories to hundreds of Englishmen and women living in this district, who perhaps never knew of the work the Lions are doing in caring for children whose parents have been killed or maimed by the war. If anyone wishes to make a donation to this fund, they may send it to Fraser Watson, secretary, 305 Rogers street, or the donation may be given to any member of the Lions club.

Takes Off 25 Lbs.

NEW YORK, Jan. 17.—(AP).—A streamlined Margaret Stamp, 26, who was rejected six months ago by the Women's Army Corps because she was 30 pounds overweight, turned up at a recruiting headquarters Saturday just five pounds over the limit, and doctors, after hearing how hard she worked to lose the excess poundage, let her join two younger brothers already in army service.

SCOTT'S SCRAP BOOK

GUNS AND GOO DON'T — One of the problems facing gunners of the Allied Fifth Army in Italy is that of keeping the semi-liquid soil of sunny Italy out of the mechanism of their weapons. For guns just won't perk if they are clogged with the good earth. Here a gun crew of an army engineer unit is trying to clean the gun.

Germans Seek Toronto Officer

By JOHN CHESTER

CAIRO, Jan. 17 —(AP). — The Germans have placed a price on the head of a tall, white-haired middle - aged Canadian officers, Major William Jones of Toronto, who holds the record for length of service as liaison officer with Marshal Josip Broz (Tito), leader of the Yugoslav Partisans.

The fact the Nazis fear and hate him and mention him frequently in broadcasts is causing Jones little or no concern. Friends say he easily passes for top requirement for all British liaison officers with Tito—intestinal fortitude.

Jones has been with Tito's forces since April, 1942, when he dropped by parachute alone into the guerrillas' mountain hideout. He has seen considerable fighting although he does not take a combat role himself. His principal job is getting supplies and co-ordinating military operations.

Jones is more than 50 years old, but jokingly tells friends he is 28. He tried to join the Canadian Army at the outbreak of war, but was rejected because he had lost one eye. As a seaman he worked his way to England, volunteered again and worked up from the ranks to a commission.

A civil engineer in peacetime. Jones was a captain in the First Great War, when he was wounded five times and awarded the D.C.M. and Bar.

He fought in the Western Desert in this war until he joined Tito under orders of Gen. Sir Henry Maitland Wilson, newly appointed, Mediterranean commander-in-chief, who, formerly was commander of British forces in the Middle East.

Jones' activities centered mostly in Slovenia, where some of his proclamations to the Slovenians have fallen into German hands, and for which he was attacked in the German press.

A tall, strongly muscled man, Jones has completely white hair. He reads his Bible nightly. He is personaaly popular with the Partisans and is invited to all their councils. His wife, who tried to become an army driver in Toronto but was rejected because of her small stature, works in a war factory.

Lauds French Troops

Henri Giraud on the performance of French troops in Italy against resolute German resistance "despite unfavorable weather and extremely difficult terrain," radio France of Algiers said last night in a recorded broadcast.

New Air Force

LONDON, Jan. 17 (CP Cable) — The Daily Express today quoted the Nazi-controlled Vichy radio as saying that a new strategic bombing force is being built up in Russia, perhaps made up of British and American heavy bombers as well as Russian planes, for attacks on Eastern Germany beyond the range of British-based aircraft.

Reds Come Closer

NEW YORK, Jan. 17 (AP)—All Rumanian ministries have started removing their records from Bucharest in fear of Soviet columns driving toward the country, the Stockholm newspaper Dagens Nyheter said in an article reported to the United States Office of War Information Saturday night.

Proof Of Meddling

NEW YORK, Jan. 17 (AP)—Dr. Enrique De Lozada, representative of the Revolutionary Government in Washington, said at a press conference Saturday he would resign unless prompt action was taken for "complete elimination of all Nazi militaristic elements that might exist" in his government.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

PIVOT FOR FIVE OR SIX

MANY RUBBER bridge players like to eliminate the luck of drawing for new partners after each rubber. That is why "pivoting" was devised, whereby one player sits still and the other three take turns having him or her as a partner. To make sure that each player will have the others in rotation as a partner, here are simple schedules which we have worked out for five players and for six players.

FOR FIVE PLAYERS

Pair 1	Pair 2	Sit Out
1-2	3-4	5
1-5	2-4	3
1-4	3-5	2
2-3	4-5	1

FOR SIX PLAYERS

Pair 1	Pair 2	Sit Out
1-2	3-4	5-6
1-3	2-6	4-5
1-6	2-[illegible]	3-4
1-4	[illegible]	2-3
3-5	[illegible]	1-2
2-3	[illegible]	6-1

If you analyse the movement for six players, you will notice that there is no 1-5 pairing, no 2-4 and no 3-6. If a seventh round be played, those three pairs would have to cut to see which pair gets left out, the other two pairs then meeting. The reason for this complication is that, when six players are involved, there are 15 different possible pairings. Twelve of those get disposed of in six rounds, leaving three over.

Of course, with either of these schedules to be used, you start by drawing cards in the usual way. The highest card makes its cutter No. 1, the next No. 2, and so on. The players keep those numbers throughout the session.

For quick action, some players would prefer not to play complete rubbers, but to make each deal stand as a separate entity, with a change of position to the next round after each deal, or after some particular number of deals. Artificial vulnerability could then be established, as in duplicate, making the first deal with neither side vulnerable, second with only the dealer's side, third with only the dealer's side and fourth with both sides. Same scoring could be used then as in rubber bridge, except that a bonus is awarded whenever a contract is made, which is added to the value of the tricks—50 points for a less-than game contract, 300 for a not vulnerable game, 500 for a vulnerable game.

Food Shortage Blamed For World Ills

NEW YORK, Jan. 17 — (CP).— L. B. Pearson, Minister-Counsellor of the Canadian Embassy in Washington, Saturday told a radio audience that nearly two-thirds of the world's population do not get enough of the right food for health and decent living, and that nearly half that number "are on the verge of starvation."

This was true in spite of the fact that in normal times two-thirds of the world's 2,100,000,000 people spend their whole lives producing food, he said.

He spoke over a national network on the Metropolitan Opera program on the subject of 'Food and Lasting Peace," and said that adequate amounts of food for everyone might do more to ensure peace "than the thunderous declarations about liberties and rights."

As chairman of the Interim Commission on Food and Agriculture set up at the United Nations Food Conference in Hot Springs last May he annonuced that a constitution of a permanent food and agriculture organization of the United Nations would shortly be submitted for approval.

Should Raise Level.

The subscribing nations would "take all measures within their power to raise the level of nutrition and the standard of living of the peoples under their jurisdiction.

They would work together and separately, he said, "to the end that want and fear of want shall be progressively abolished."

"Food itself will not abolish war," Pearson said, "but without food there certainly can be no peace.'

"If the world's food production in a normal year were equally divided among its people, practically every American would suffer. At a period in the world's history when man, for the first time, has acquired through science the physical means of conquering want, there just isn't enough food to go around."

Scientific and mechanical progress have outrun economic and political intelligence, Mr. Pearson said, recalling that during the world depression food was destroyed while people hungered.

"We have learned in the bitter and bloody trials of the last decade that isolation alone cannot give us freedom from war. We had better learn also that isolation cannot give us freedom from want."

Unknown Flier Tackles 30 Nazi Planes

LONDON, Jan. 17 (CP). — Of the many who played heroic roles in Tuesday's daylight aerial assault on Central German, one to receive high tribute from bomber crews today was an unknown Mustang pilot who drove alone into a formation of 30 Nazi fighters.

The explanation of his anonymity may lie in the announcement five American fighters failed to return from the historic battle.

Bomber crewman who witnessed his dive, his guns blazing, believe he may have shot down as many as six from the enemy group.

"For sheer determination and guts, it was the greatest exhibition I have ever seen," said Maj. Allison Brooks, of Pasadena, California. "They can't give that boy a big enough reward."

"The sight of him out there alone, surrounded by all those Germans and trading punches to the right and left was something I will never forget," said Major Edwin W. Brown of Oakland, California.

A Pimple Covered Face Kills Many a Romance

The lives of many young people are made miserable by the breaking out of pimples, and you probably know of cases where a promising romance has been spoiled by those red, white, festering and pus filled sores on the face.
The trouble is not so much physical pain, but the mental suffering caused by the embarrassing disfigurement which very often makes the sufferer ashamed to go out in company.
The quickest way to get rid of pimples is to improve the general health by a thorough cleansing of the blood.
Burdock Blood Bitters helps to cleanse the blood and with the blood cleansed the complexion should clear up.

Millions of tons
OF NICKEL ORE...BUT NO MARKETS
In 1919 the future looked black for the Canadian Nickel industry. Because of the demand for tough Nickel Steel for battleships and ordnance, its markets had expanded during the first world war. Now these war markets were gone. A few months later Canada's Nickel plants had to close down, the mines ceased to operate.
Steps were taken to transform this war industry into a great thriving peacetime industry. Scientists were set to work developing new Nickel alloys. Engineers were sent out to seek new uses for Canadian Nickel in the automotive, chemical, electrical, radio and numerous other industries. Step by step new world markets were built up. Within ten years the production of Nickel in Canada had far surpassed the previous peak of wartime production.
Today Canada's Nickel has again been diverted to war purposes. But now this industry looks forward with confidence to the return of peace. Plans are ready to develop and expand old and new peacetime markets so that the Nickel industry may continue, through its own enterprise, to make substantial contribution to Canada's economic welfare.

CANADIANS LAUNCH NEW OFFENSIVE

British Policy Is All Out for Tito and His Partisans

ASCENDANCY OF MARSHAL TITO WHO IS EFFECTIVELY HARASSING GERMAN FORCES IN YUGOSLAVIA BRINGS FORTH COMPLICATED ISSUE

LONDON, Jan. 18 (CP).—The tumultuous affairs of German - occupied Yugoslavia, which may become an operational theatre for large formations of Allied troops in the final assault on the Nazis in Europe, have raised some of the war's most intricate problems.

The ascendancy of Marshal Tito and his Partisan army of 250,000, which is effectively harassing the German forces in Yugoslavia, has brought the complicated question of Yugoslav affairs to world attention as well as the big issue of Allied policy in southeastern Europe.

The present British policy is formally this:

1. To give all the practical help in Britain's power to those elements in these countries which are actively resisting the enemy.

2. To make clear that so far as Britain can exert any authority it shall be used to ensure that these countries shall be free to choose their own governments when they are liberated.

3. To work in the closest concert with her allies.

Thus Britain sends war materials and supplies across the Adriatic from Italy. Air support is given from Italian bases. A British military mission is at Tito's mountain headquarters and a number of British officers — including at least one Canadian, Maj. William Jones of Toronto, serve with the Partisan army. Russia, too, is sending a military mission to Tito.

100-Gun Barrage Opens Up Along Arielli River As 1st Division Gets Going

French With 5th Army Take Sant' Elia Three Miles From Cassino

Huns Strongly Entrenched On Rapido River

LONDON, Jan. 18—(CP Cable).—Canadian 1st Division troops on Monday opened an attack against the German positions on the southern bank of the Arielli River near the Adriatic coast of Italy, Reuters News Agency said today in a dispatch filed from the British 8th Army front north of Ortona.

A barrage from 100 guns could be heard for more than 30 miles as the attack started with thousands of shells hurled onto a 1,500-yard sector of the German lines, the dispatch added.

The Canadian 1st Division troops supported by tanks opened their attack in the San Tomasso area about a mile inland from the Adriatic coast. Despite stiff opposition from Germans holding high ground, they made some gains which included a foothold across a stream flowing into the sea.

Weather Cold.

At last reports the fighting was continuing with satisfactory results. The weather was cold and clear in the coastal area but there were high winds and snow inland.

On the 5th Army front, where the Allies are closing in on the strongpoint of Cassino, guardian for the Germans of the main highway to Rome, an American patrol crossed the Rapido River north of Cassino and probed the German "Gustav Line" positions.

The patrol found the Germans entrenched in fortified positions 300 yards beyond the western bank of the Rapido, and withdrew across the river after a skirmish.

French forces advanced 1,000 yards to seize Sant' Elia and also captured the hamlet of Valori two miles farther northeast as the Allied arc tightened on Cassino. Patrols were active elsewhere on the 5th Army front, and the Allies continued consolidating recent gains.

Well Entrenched.

The Germans meanwhile quickly put last-minute touches on their new line which from Cassino to Sant' Elia runs along the west side of the Rapido, in some places considerably back from the river's bank, on the slopes of Mount Castellone.

In the air, heavy bombers again blasted rail communications between Florence and Rome yesterday, pounding objectives at Prato, Pontassieve and Arezzo.

Medium bombers also attacked the rail yards at Chiaravalle, Viterbo and Orte. The docks at Anzio and the Palo rail yards were also bombed.

Fighter bombers lashed German positions in the battle area, while other planes crossed the Adriatic

Vatutin Aiming Spearhead At Rovno Centre

By HENRY C. CASSIDY
Associated Press Staff Writer

MOSCOW, Jan. 18—(AP)—Troops of Gen. Nikolai Vatutin's 1st Ukrainian army were reported closing in today on Rowne (Rovno), key German communications centre 110 miles south of Pinsk, another main objective of Vatutin's forces on the northern edge of the frozen Pripet marshes.

Fall of Rowne, junction of the Beridhev-Warsaw and Sarny-Lwow railways, inevitably would imperil the German grip on a vast area of southern and southwestern Russia, already threatened by Vatutin's left wing driving toward the Rumanian frontier.

13 Miles To Go

Vatutin's centre, based on Novograd Volynski, 50 miles east of Rowne, was driving on the rail hub from the east, northeast and north, constituting a triple threat which made its early capture a possibility. One column moving in from the northeast already has occupied Tuchin, 13 miles away, and is steadily beating down savage enemy resistance, a Russian communique said.

Soviet engineers were called in to provide equipment for the crossing of the Horny River, which flows westward through Tuchin's outskirts, and which has not frozen sufficiently for transport on the ice. Beyond the river there were formidable four-mile-wide swamp barrier extending to the village of Goringrad, strongpoint of Rovno's outer defence system 10 miles to the north which also has to be negotiated by Vatutin's forces.

The five-day-old Russian offensive on the Leningrad front, meanwhile continued to roll forward with the occupation of five additional localities north and northeast of Novosokolniki, a rail junction on the line connecting Velikie-Luki and Riga, the old Latvian capital. At one point the Russians were 70 miles from the Latvian border. Towns captured yesterday, the Russian war bulletin said, include Kurova, seven miles

Italy To Russia Shuttle Bombing By Allies Likely To Start Soon, Gen. Arnold Says

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 18—(AP).—Gen. Henry Arnold, commander of the United States Army Air Forces, said last night that shuttle-bombing of Germany by planes flying from bases in Italy to Russia was a probability.

In a press conference Arnold said the progress of the Allied drive in Italy, the advance of the Russians from the east and standardization of aircraft parts and equipment would make it possible for Allied planes to take off from Italy, and bomb vital targets en route to bases in Russia.

By shuttle-bombing from Britain to Africa to British and American forces avoided a round-trip through the German fighter belt for one attack on a German war base.

48th Stops Counter Attack Wipes Out 200 Shock Troops

By WILLIAM STEWART—Canadian Press War Correspondent

WITH THE CANADIANS IN ITALY, Jan. 18—(CP Cable).—The December battle for the Moro River and the rolling ground beyond was nearly three weeks old before the 48th Highlanders of Canada, a Toronto unit of the 1st Division, got an opportunity to catch the Germans where they wanted them—in a counter-attack.

Until this counter-attack December 26 in the area of Villa Nicola and Villa San Tommaso, southwest of Ortona, the Highlanders had to fight an enemy who had all the advantages of position and fired at the advancing Canadians from concealed positions. At the same time, German guns and mortars poured a steady fire on the Canadians.

Two days before Christmas the Toronto men, who had taken part in the earlier advance—which brought the Canadians around the cross roads south of Ortona where the road from San Leonardo joins the Ortona-Orsogna lateral road — marched north toward San Tomasso.

Cold And Grey.

The Torontonians laid low and patrolled forward toward the road which runs from Ortona northwest to the port of Pescara. It was along this road that the German defenders of Ortona received supplies.

The Germans sent patrols in the Highlanders' position and they were quickly taken care of. The weather was grey and cold and the Canadians were without any rations but what they carried. They dug themselves in and occupied the few houses from which they cleared the surprised Germans.

The battalion spent a dreary Christmas in semi-isolation in their forward position. It was not much of a Christmas for officers

100 War Brides Reach Canada

OTTAWA, Jan. 18.—(CP).—More British war brides of Canadian servicemen, on their way to new homes in a new country, arrived in Canada recently with a small group of returning Canadian troops and some British air trainees.

The British wives, numbering more than 100 and many with babies, were part of the steady stream of servicemen's wives that have been reaching the Dominion in past months as passage is secured for them. Many thousands more still await their chance to cross to their new, adopted country.

Most of the Canadians returning in the latest groups were category men invalided back from Britain, and other returning to take brief special courses or train as officers. Also included were a small number who had seen action on the various battle-fronts, either in Africa, Sicily or Italy.

For some of the men it was their first chance home in more than four years, while others returned after only a few months overseas.

British youths on their way to train for air crew or ground duties at Commonwealth Air Training Plan schools in Canada made up a large part of the arrivals who are on their way to all parts of Canada to-day.

STOCKHOLM — The German-dominated Scandinavian Telegraph Bureau said today that officials in Zagreb, capital of Croatia, had announced that passenger traffic on Croatian railways would be stopped for a month beginning Friday.

Churchill Home After Illness Health Is Good

By ROGER GREENE
Associated Press Staff Writer.

LONDON, Jan. 18 — (AP). — Prime Minister Churchill returned to London unexpectedly to-day after convalescing from an attack of pneumonia in the Middle East, and told a cheering House of Commons he expected to make a statement on the war in the near future. The Prime Minister, who looked slightly tired but happy, asked the House that he be given "some latitude" about the actual date for discussing the war, thereby indicating he planned a careful summary of events in prelude to western invasion of Europe.

As for himself, when asked by a member what steps he was taking to relieve himself of some of his official duties to conserve his health, Mr. Churchill replied amid laughter:

"I am obliged to you for your solicitude, but I have no changes to propose at present in my routine."

Mr. Churchill again drew laughter when he demurred at Cmdr. Oliver Locker-Lampson's proposal that "we go off and drink this toast: 'Death to all dictators and long life to all liberators'."

In Good Humor.

"It is very early in the morning," Mr. Churchill chuckled.

As the questioning proceeded, Sir Herbert William asked if Mr. Churchill were aware of any "false optimism" voiced in a recent speech in which Gen. Sir Bernard Montgomery indicated the probable early capture of Rome.

"I don't know about false optimism," Churchill replied. "There has been a lot of bad weather."

The Prime Minister, back in Britain for the first time since his epochal conferences with President Roosevelt and Premier Stalin in Teheran, reached London about 10 a.m. (5 a.m. E.D.T.) after a journey from North Africa, and went immediately to the House of Commons, which reassembled after its holiday recess.

Churchill looked the picture of health as he stepped from his train into the floodlighted station.

Fanfare Lacking

His arrival, terminating his longest wartime absence from the country, was kept semi-private and was devoid of fanfare. Few Britons, indeed, were aware that the Prime Minister's recovery was sufficiently advanced to permit his leaving the warm climate of North Africa to return to Britain.

He appeared in high spirits and smiled broadly as the small crowd at the station greeted him with a burst of cheering.

It was noted, however, that he was not smoking his usual long black cigar.

Churchill was wearing his "Trin-

British Editors Angry At Pravda

LONDON, Jan. 18 — (CP). — The Foreign Office denial of the authenticity of Pravda's "separate peace" story has been brought to the attention of the Soviet Government by the British Charge d'Affaires in Moscow, it was announced to-day.

Meanwhile, the Daily Mail to-day labelled the rumor an "insult to the British people."

Morning newspapers frankly expressed disappointment at Pravda's publication of the rumor. Not a single afternoon paper yesterday carried the Moscow story, but it was splashed on the front pages this morning and most papers had editorials that minced no words.

Most outspoken was the Daily Mail which denounced "this canard" and said it "bears all the marks of enemy origin."

"No Government even remotely suspected of this sort of conduct would live for a day," the Mail said. "The newspaper Pravda must be remarkably ignorant of British national standards. That is the only excuse we can find for it."

Under a front-page streamer: "Britain Kills Separate Peace Lie," the Mail said "in view of the wide circulation given the report later by the Moscow radio the Government may deem it necessary in the near future to reassert in the Commons their determination to abide by their agreements never to make a separate peace."

Bracken States Six Points In Saskatchewan

REGINA, Jan. 18.—(CP) — John Bracken, national leader of the Progressive Conservative party, told a nomination meeting here last night that "the only thing I would like to do before I pass on is to try and put the farmers on a fair and even keep."

John G. Diefenbaker of Prince Albert and sitting member was unanimously nominated candidate for Lake Centre constituency in the next Federal general election.

"I've lived on a farm all my life," Mr. Bracken said. "I want to correct the inferior position into which agriculture has been allowed to fall."

The Progressive Conservative leader said that if the Dominion government's newly-announced hog policy was good to-day then it was good three months ago. He said there was justification for a policy of improving hogs out none for taking $3 from a man because his hog was a pound overweight, referring to penalties on low grade animals.

Denies Report.

A report (not carried by The Canadian Press) with the Federal Progressive Conservative party intended to liquidate the Saskatchewan Conservative organization was denied by Mr. Bracken.

The published report indicated the purpose of Mr. Bracken's trip to Saskatchewan this time in company with R. A. Bell, Federal organizer was to:

(1) Liquidate the existing Saskatchewan Conservative party.

(2) Re-establish in its place a progressive movement which would appeal to the supporters of the old western Progressive party of about 1921.

"I don't ordinarily comment on newspaper statements but this refers to you in Saskatchewan and it is not correct," Mr. Bracken said.

"It is without foundation," he said. "We have made no such proposal and we don't intend to. We have no intention of interfering with your business."

Wants Ceiling

He said his party would seek to raise prices by increasing demand through expansion of home and of foreign markets, not by decreasing the supply.

"No agriculture can be sound with prices going up and down all the time," he added.

"If they can put a ceiling on prices in wartime then they can put a floor under them in peace time."

He said that the world of yesterday offered these challenges to the world today:

1. Cure unemployment.
2. Fair prices for farmers.
3. Conserve human resources.
4. Develop the country's human resources.
5. Re-establishment of economic security to do away with fear.
6. Banish ever re-occuring wars.

Gordon Blames Restrictions For Drunkeness

TORONTO, Jan. 18—(CP).—Restrictions on the amount of beer available for sale in Ontario have encouraged excessive drinking and have "forcibly reversed" a growing trend toward moderation, A. St. Clair Gordon, chairman of the Liquor Control Board of Ontario, said today.

In an address prepared for delivery before the annual convention of the Ontario Hotels Association, Mr. Gordon said reduction in hours of sale of beer in beverage rooms and diversion of beer gallonage from hotels to sale for home consumption "was necessary for the protection of the hotel industry."

"There are operators and owners of hotels who do not agree. I re-emphasize that the hotel owner who in this present situation puts immediate war profits on beer sale first, is a hotel owner who is openly inviting the public to seek his elimination.

"The changed regulations affecting hotels, which the board recently put into effect, are measures intended to fight the wave of increasing drunkenness which a beer shortage and a widespread public disbelief in such a shortage have created.

Some Offenders.

"This action was wholeheartedly supported and clearly understood by a relatively large number of hotels. The board's action was obeyed without protest by others. But there were hotels which by their methods of operation contributed to the dangers and seriousness of the situa-

Claim Tito Hurt In Balkan Fight

LONDON, Jan. 18 — (CP). — A rumor that Marshal Tito of the Yugoslav Partisans has been wounded in Montenegran fighting was broadcast today by the Cairo radio. There was no confirmation in the Partisan communique, broadcast earlier by the Free Yugoslav station.

The communique said Partisans have inflicted heavy losses on the German motorized forces trying to drive through Western Bosnia into the town of Glamoc, 55 miles southwest of Banja Luka. But it acknowledged strong forces of the German marines have landed on the island of Brac, south of the Dalmatian port of Split.

Brac commands what may be the "invasion corridor" for the Allies from the Adriatic into central Bosnia.

WASHINGTON — (AP).—President Roosevelt's recommendation for National Service legislation got a setback on Capitol Hill to-day when the House of Representatives Military Committee voted to sidetrack it indefinitely.

ISTANBUL — (AP).— All Bulgarian reserve officers under 60 who are not already serving have been ordered to report for army duty, an official Sofia announcement said Monday.

BUENOS AIRES — (AP). — Fears that the death toll would reach 3,000 were expressed today by rescue workers who uncovered still more bodies in the Andean city of San Juan which was wrecked by an earthquake over the week-end.

Germans Agents Flood Spain

NEW YORK, Jan. 18.—(AP). — The New York Times said yesterday in a delayed Jan. 10 dispatch from Madrid that German agents had been pouring into Spain "in an obvious effort by Germany to save what she can of a situation that has gone badly against her."

The Times said the dispatch, written by Harold Denny, was received from Madrid by way of London and was not censored in Spain.

"A thousand Gestapo agents and other German representatives have appeared in Madrid, alone, in the last fortnight," the dispatch said.

"These reinforce the army of German spies, saboteurs and provocateurs already long active in chinks and crannies of the country's political and economic structure . . . In Madrid, spies swarm in the big hotels in such numbers that even casual visitors cannot help noticing them."

Russo-Polish Crisis Troubles Allies

Sternly Realistic Russians Will Not Take Kindly To Interference

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst

The fresh crisis in the Russo-Polish dispute is a sharp reminder that Britain and the United States are rapidly approaching the point where they've got to make up their minds—if indeed they haven't already done so—how far they want to go in trying to force their ideas and ideals on their Russian ally in the matter of territorial arguments in which Moscow is involved.

In reaching our decisions we have to bear well in mind two highly-important things:

1. Anglo-American ideas and ideals don't necessarily coincide with those of Russia in all respects. What's wrong to us may seem right to the Soviet — and who's arbiter of that?

Moscow is sternly realistic — a characteristic which stood out in the recent conferences of the big three. It wasn't without reason that Lenin gave his disciple the name of Stalin which means "steel man."

2. The consensus of Allied leaders is that not only the winning of this war but the maintenance of peace afterwards depends on the continuation of close co-operation among the big three. Any rupture of this combination would be the prelude to another world conflict.

Any mediation of the Russo and Polish dispute must follow the resumption of diplomatic relations between Moscow and the Polish government in London.

May Stand Pat

If and when diplomatic relations are resumed, there will come the effort to reconcile the divergent claims. Should the Poles agree to Russian absorption of the zone in question, and recompense themselves by annexing German territory as is suggested by Moscow, then all will be well. But supposing both sides stand pat?

The answer obviously is that Russia will take back this territory. Russia will pursue this course because the Poles are incapable of preventing it.

That brings us up to our main point. What nation, or combination of nations, is going to try to compel the Soviet to withdraw the Red Army from the disputed area and abandon its program?

Any effort to solve these problems in such a manner undoubtedly means another war.

If amity can be restored, there may be a chance that Poland and Russia can work out the thing between them—as their own business. That, of course, is the ideal solution.

Plastic Soles For Shoes

Material Keeps Soldiers From Tiring So Soon

OTTAWA, Jan. 28.—(CP).—Past battles may have been lost because a fighting man lost his footing or became weary, but that won't happen in this war if the National Research Council can help it.

Council officials to-day described the development of a new shoe sole material made with plastics now in use by the forces.

They added this explanatory note:

"Leather is slippery, on a smooth surface. Rubbers on the other hands has too high a co-efficient of friction, and the resultant constant braking action in walking is definitely tiring. This plastic laminate shows properties intermediate between the two, which is a very desirable feature."

Dr. Wilfred Gallay, of the Council's chemistry division, undertook studies of substitutes for leather in footwear.

Dr. Gallay said that synthetic materials for shoe soleing had to be of an elastic type such as rubber or thermoplastics or elastomers.

In experiments, the use of thermoplastics with a woven fabric filler finally was decided on, and in 1942 a soleing material was produced which later was incorporated into the standard Canadian army boot.

2 Boys Drowned

LONDON, Ont., Jan. 18.—(CP).—Two six year old boys were drowned yesterday when they fell into an open channel in the ice-covered Thames river behind the McClary dump in southeast London. They are Charles Mann, son of Mr. and Mrs J. W. Mann, and Jack Johnston, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Johnston. The Mann boy lost his life in an unsuccessful attempt to save Jack Johnston, who fell into the water while sliding on ice.

Jones Confuses Britishers

Believed At First To Be Brig. MacLean

LONDON, Jan. 18.—(CP Cable.)—Identification of Maj. William Jones of Toronto as a British liaison officer with Marshal Josip Broz (Tito), leader of the Yugoslav Partisans, came as a surprise in some London quarters where it had been believed Jones was the "Nom De Guerre" for Brig. Fitzroy Maclean.

When Maclean was identified by Foreign Secretary Eden last month as the leader of the British mission to Tito, friends of the 32 year old Member of Parliament thought he also was Maj. William Jones whom the Germans had been seeking with a price on his head, since last summer.

Now, however, it turns out that Jones is a white-haired one-eyed Canadian who joined the British Army and rose from the ranks to a commission after he was rejected when he sought to join the Canadian army at the outbreak of war.

"Well, I'll be dashed," was all that one of Brig. Maclean's friends could say when informed there really was a Maj. Jones.

There is one thing both men have in common—a great love of adventure. When it became known that Jones dropped by parachute into Tito's Yugoslav stronghold, this also helped confuse Maclean's friends because he took a paratrooper's course after leaving the foreign office for the army.

Take 900 Bodies From Ruins Following Quake

BUENOS AIRES, Jan. 18.—(AP) —Argentina observed a national day of mourning to-day for the thousands killed and injured in the devastating earthquake which levelled the Andean city of San Juan during the week-end.

As the death toll mounted—900 bodies have been dug out of the ruins so far and hundreds more are known to be dead—estimates of the damage, including part of the wine crop, reached as high as 400,000,000 pesos ($100,000,000).

The ruined city has been entirely evacuated, and only soldiers and rescue squads still remain, digging among the debris. President Gen. Pedro Ramirez is expected to arrive in San Juan to-day to assume personal direction of rescue and relief work.

The actual number of injured—which has been estimated as high as 13,000—still is uncertain.

British Give Aid.

Public and private contributions are continuing to pour in and are expected to reach 40,000,000 pesos. The British Embassy donated 50 tons of packaged food which was to be shipped overseas to British prisoners of war in Germany. Two German organizations donated 28,000 pesos.

Expressing Secretary of State Cordell Hull's condolences, U. S. Ambassador Norman Armour transmitted to the Argentine government an offer of the American Red Cross to send aid.

Rescuers removing debris near the altar of Conception church, where two weddings were being celebrated when the earthquake struck the city Saturday night, discovered a priest and a bridal couple alive and only slightly injured. Others in the wedding party perished.

In another part of the church six persons were saved yesterday afternoon and 43 bodies recovered.

British Policy

In the military sphere British policy is all-out for Tito and has veered away from support to Gen. Draja Mihailovic and his Chetnik force whose resistance to the Germans had gradually dwindled to nothing and whose followers now number less than 40,000.

Tito, reputed an ardent Communist, has far eclipsed Mihailovic as the anti-Nazi leader in the nation. Tito also has established his own provisional Yugoslav government which has strong support within the country.

Mihailovic has been repudiated by the great mass of Yugoslavs in the country. He leaned in the direction of authoritarian government by the Serbs, particularly the officer clique of the old Yugoslav army which was the nucleus of his Chetnik outfit.

American Planes Sink Two Ships

NEW YORK, Jan. 18 (AP) — The Tokyo radio quoted an Imperial headquarters communique today as saying approximately 200 American planes had raided the Japanese base at Rabaul, New Britain, yesterday, and acknowledged the sinking of two ships in the harbor.

The broadcast, recorded by the U.S. Foreign Broadcast Intelligence Service, ended with the characteristic claim that 102 of the raiders had been shot down.

Unless the weather is "unusual" this year, the Japanese base at Rabaul, New Britain, can expect only a few more days of limited bombing.

Rains which are always heavy in January and February have prevented the heavies of the United States 13th Air Force from getting over Rabaul targets in large numbers for several days.

tion. It was unmistakably clear to anyone who cared to make an unprejudiced examination that the hotel industry in Ontario was in real jeopardy."

The people of Ontario "will not countenance" a continuation of excessive drunkenness and "if the trend goes beyond a certain point the public will demand the wiping out of the places where these conditions exist."

Some hotelmen had suggested that the only "real solution" for the problem was sufficient beer, said Mr. Gordon, adding that this was not entirely true now "because damage has already been done and it will now require time as well as changed conditions to repair this damage."

Will Get Worse

As to the future "we hope of course that things will get better but we also feel fairly positive that before they do they will get worse."

Restrictions on sale of beer in hotels and to home consumers resulted from restrictions imposed by the Federal Government on supplies. However despite restrictions in hotel gallonage, the amount available for sale in hotels from Nov. 1, 1943, to Oct. 31, 1944, will be about 17,250,000 gallons, slightly more than the gallonage sold in Ontario hotels in the 12 months ending March 31, 1940.

Surveys of Canadian opinion showed that only about one quarter of the public believed that the beer shortage was due to shortages of manpower and ingredients. Mr. Gordon said he believed the proportion was smaller in Ontario and still smaller among war workers.

Changes in drinking habits resulted and "you saw men who had hitherto been moderate drinkers taking six and seven times their normal amounts." There were "squatters" who stayed in hotels as long as there was anything to drink and "hurry-drinkers who seemed to have given up drinking for the duration in favor of gulping."

It was a "curious fact," said Mr. Gordon, that with plans being advanced to meet postwar and other problems "there is no rush" to offer solutions for the beer problem.

"I have decided that the public is too smart to volunteer answers to this question. It has an underlying hunch that there simply is no solution—certainly no quick o easy solution as things stand today."

BURTOL (Temporarily) Goes Cash and Carry

Due to war conditions we are compelled to withdraw our Pick-up and Delivery Service. Further, we are forced to refuse a few minor articles for cleaning, due to a reduction in our quota of cleaning solvent.

Our ambition is always to furnish the most complete service possible. However, with all other good citizens we gladly bow to the demands of King and Country.

The substance of the whole matter is that, until April 1st next our Pick-up and Delivery Service is withdrawn (deliveries discontinuing on Friday the 21st inst.) We offer a Cash and Carry Service in its place. To meet this situation there will be a reduction of 10% in our prices till April 1st, when we shall again resume our Pick-up and Delivery Service, prices automatically reverting to their former level.

In the meantime we will re-open our glove cleaning department, which service had been temporarily withdrawn due to scarcity of skilled operators. We shall continue to give the most rapid service available.

County Accedes To Proposal On Annexation

Agreement on the boundaries of the North Monaghan annexation area was reached Monday when the county representatives assented to Monaghan Road as the westerly limit of the area to south of Lansdowne Street to be tacked on to the city.

"Reeve McIlmoyle of Smith told me this afternoon at five o'clock that the county had acceded to the proposals of the township," Mayor Hamilton informed the council last night. "He said the Erskine Avenue boundary was out of the picture."

Reeve McIlmoyle and Reeve Gifford attended the meeting as representatives of the county. The progress indicated in this report was understood by the city Monday night as removing the last obstacle to preliminary agreement for the next meeting in Peterborough of the Ontario Municipal Board.

The neighbor and virtually partner municipalities have harmonized the preliminaries to the broader stage of determining the details of annexation, straightening out the financial involutions and deciding upon distribution of assets and liabilities and otherwise separating one part of the township from its long household association.

Without School.

"One difficulty we are causing the people in the blocks between Monaghan Road and Erskine Avenue," said Mayor Hamilton, "is that we are leaving them without a school of their own. We are taking from them two schools, and I understand there are fifty children left in the remaining part of School Section No 2, and that forty of them are in the area between Monaghan Road and Erskine Avenue."

Mayor Hamilton said it was likely the township would expect the city to make some contribution toward the proposed two-room school which has been mentioned as necessary for the pupils who will be excluded from the Confederation and May's Schools.

Helped Build Up Assets.

Those residents of the county helped to build up the township assets, their schools, their sidewalks, their machinery, gravel pit and so on through all their tangibles.

To one suggestion that the city would be expected to launch a broad program of improvement in the annexed area, Mayor Hamilton said "That would be unreasonable; there is a lot of our own work that we can't get started on. We simply all have to be reasonable. I have no doubt that as Mr. Craw of the Board of Education pointed out the other day the taking over of the two township schools is going to cost us money."

Alderman Dutton: "Well, we have now reached the position where the township, the county and the city are all agreed on the boundaries of the areas for annexation."

Alderman Sands tucked the council's approval into a motion, seconded by Alderman Dutton, confirming its assent to the Monaghan Road boundary as a definite report to the adjourned meeting of the municipalities Wednesday evening.

Alderman Glover said he felt that annexation would likely cost all parties something before the details were smoothed out.

Supper Club Holds Meeting For Mothers

Mothers' Night was the feature at the meeting of the Friday Night Supper Club. Entertainment was provided by guest pianist Mildred McIntyre and Miss Helen Parkinson who sang "Bluebird of Happiness" and a sprightly English ballad "Oh, No John."

The evening's guest, Mrs. Agnes Wharry, spoke on a renovated Shakesperian theme—"The Seven Ages of Man; According to Today's Standards." Mrs. Wharry developed her theme with a progressive description of man's growth and laid particular emphasis on the influence exercised by mothers. Although she deprecated conditions today, Mrs. Wharry foretold a promising future for the coming generations and stressed the part mothers must play in a world imbued with an ever-increasing scientific outlook. The speaker was thanked by Harry Vass for her talk.

and men. The first rations were carried to them Christmas night more than 48 hours after they set out. The rations were delivered in a truck driven by Pte. Robert Taylor and David Gibson.

The counter-attack was launched toward the positions of battalion companies commanded by Maj. J. R. Clarke, Bob Lyon, Capt. L. Smith and Lieut. George Fraser, replacing a captain who was wounded.

The Germans were about 200 strong and the Canadians let many of them get within good shooting range before they opened up. The Germans apparently believed they were attacking a much smaller force than the battalion got a startling surprise.

Use Grenades

One group pressed right in front of Maj. Clarke's company and toward company headquarters in a house. Some got into trenches which men of the 48th had dug around the house and fought from there. The Canadians tossed grenades from second storey windows to hold off some attempts on the house itself.

Clarke shot one German with his pistol and the enemy soldier collapsed practically in the doorway. Artillery fire was brought down on Germans approaching through a gully and another group was caught red-handed as it moved in front of a platoon position.

In the immediate area 58 German dead were counted and at least 50 more believed to have been accounted for. About 30 prisoners were taken.

Fox Hunter Is Fined $12.50

Fox-hunting in Ennismore township without the necessary gun license cost George Heard of Bridgenorth a fine of $10 and $2.50 costs in police court this morning. It also cost him the forfeiture of the shotgun he had been using.

Heard entered a written plea of guilty through Sergt. Gordon T. Puffer, who told the court that the accused had just gone across the bridge and started hunting when he was caught.

Fish and Game Overseer Stanley D. Windsor who laid the charge said that he would be satisfied with the minimum penalty.

Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., after imposing the fine asked about the gun the accused had been using.

"I suppose you have it?" he inquired of Overseer Windsor and the latter replied in the affirmative.

In addition to the fine His Worship added an order to the authorities calling their attention to the fact that the gun in the case should be forfeited.

A great cheer went up as he entered the House of Commons, members of both sides rising to give vent to their enthusiasm as the Prime Minister took his seat on the front bench beside Deputy Prime Minister Clement Attlee.

Ten weeks had elapsed since Churchill left Britain to meet President Roosevelt and Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek at Cairo, from where he and the President went on to Teheran to meet Stalin and map the final plans for the downfall of Germany.

The first announcement of his illness came Dec. 16, when Attlee gravely informed the House of Commons the Prime Minister had developed a patch of pneumonia on his left lung.

Today he smiled happily, glancing around the House as its members cheered him again and again.

U.S. Awaits Russia's Reply To Note On Polish Dispute

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER—Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18—(AP).—Russia's reaction to the United States' offer to help close the diplomatic breach between Moscow and the Polish Government in London was awaited here today as a possible solution to the most difficult problem in which the leading United Nations have yet faced.

The problem: How to get two members back on speaking terms.

Despite Russia's evident determination to play a lone hand in settling her border problems to the east, there was some optimism here that the reply to State Secretary Cordell Hull's offer, announced yesterday, would be favorable.

This was based on the fact that the American offer extends only to the question of diplomatic relations and presumed no intervention in the settlement of Poland's territorial dispute with Russia. On this point alone Moscow may be willing to accept the "good offices" of a third nation.

Puzzling Factor.

One of the puzzling factors in the whole situation which American officials were at complete loss to explain was the publication by Pravda yesterday of a "Cairo report", that two British officials had conferred secretly with German Foreign Minister von Ribbentrop on feelers for a separate peace.

The report was emphatically denied here by Lord Halifax, British ambassador to the United States, and by the British Foreign Office in London.

One possible explanation of the story, tied in with the Polish affair, was that the Russians were displeased with continued British efforts to seek a solution of a dispute which Moscow considers to be a domestic issued and used this means of obliquely expressing its resentment.

Omission of any reference in Hull's announcement to the territorial problems is considered here to be in line with established American policy that the first aim of international relations now is friendly co-operating leading eventually to formation of a world security organization.

Allies Repulse Jap Attacks

NEW DELHI, Jan. 18 — (CP)— Allied troops fighting on the Mayu peninsula in western Burma repulsed two Japanese counter-attacks Saturday night, Allied headquarters announced today.

The enemy thrusts were described as small and the communique said Allied troops remained in control of the contested villages of Nalpannya and Razabil, both about three miles from Maungdaw.

In fighting in Northern Burma, Chinese troops have taken two more villages in the Ninghyen area of the Hukawng Valley and an Allied scouting unit inflicted casualties on the enemy in a patrol clash on the Chindwin River front.

R.A.F. and U.S. planes continued to range effectively over Burma without loss during the week-end, the communique said.

R.A.F. heavy bombers hammered railway installations at Rangoon and Mandalay Saturday night and on Sunday U.S. medium and the fighter bombers made the main enemy airfield at Myitkyina unserviceable.

R.A.F. dive-bombers made four separate attacks Sunday on the enemy positions near Buthidaung on the Mayu River and on the same day R.A.F. fighters made sweeps along the railways between Sagaing and Shwebo and between Katha and Mogaung in Central Burma.

One enemy plane was shot down Sunday.

No Allied aircraft were lost.

Right On Target

Early reports indicated good results were achieved on all three targets — Arezzo, Pontassieve and Prato. Photographs showed six direct hits on the Arezzo yards which are now believed to have been rendered inoperative.

The bombers and their escorts made the round trip without meeting enemy planes, and the general German inactivity on the ground and in the air puzzled some crewmen.

"We went all the way across Italy without seeing any fighters or flak to speak of," one pilot said. "Something is fishy."

Medium bombers escorted by fighters bombed the rail centre of Terni north of Rome, and met no opposition.

Crewmen reported that both the bridge and railroad yards at Pontassieve were hit. There was at least one direct hit on the bridge and a number of explosions in the rail yards, said one crewman. The other crews told of several explosions in the Prato railroad yards.

In addition to six hits shown by photographs on the Arezzo rail yards, others were made in near-by buildings including factories. The new damage added to that inflicted earlier is believed to have left the yards inoperative.

HELP THE COAL DEALER TO Help you

Consult your dealer regarding your needs:

Your dealer has many pressing problems. Let him know how much fuel you will need to last until May 1, in addition to the amount you have in your bin. He can then organize his deliveries so that you will receive your share of fuel as it may become available.

Have your bins ready for the delivery man:

He is a busy man these days. Do everything possible to speed up his job. If you are getting both soft and hard coal separately, have the necessary spaces ready and cleared for each.

Clear all approaches to your bins:

Be sure that driveway, walk and outside steps are cleared of snow, and sanded if necessary; also clear walk and driveway. Use nearest windows. Keep inside steps cleared and free of boxes, pails, etc.

Accept whatever kind of usable fuel the dealer can supply:

Some types of coal are scarce and you can't afford to insist on specific grades or sizes as you would in normal times. Don't take a chance. Any kind of coal is preferable to none.

Take delivery when dealer can make it:

Your dealer is working with limited delivery facilities which must be used continuously throughout the winter, if every householder is to receive his share of available supplies. Don't wait, therefore, until you are almost out of fuel before permitting your dealer to replenish your bin. Let him make delivery when he can.

Save one ton in five

Get your copy of "Thirty-three Ways to Save Coal" from your dealer immediately.

Dealers are confronted with problems of both labour and supply. By co-operating in these ways with your coal dealer, you will help make things easier for yourself.

Court Adjourns Sparks Case For One Week

COBOURG, Jan. 18 — (ENS) — Charles R. Sparks of 330 Donlands avenue, Toronto, appeared in police court Monday on a charge of refusing to answer questions put to him by a member of the R.C.M.P. and also with failing to report for medical examination, being a designated man under the National Selective Service. He pleaded not guilty to the first charge and on the second his counsel asked for an adjournment without plea. Magistrate R. B. Baxter adjourned both matters for one week. Sparks told the court that he was a Jehovah's Witness.

Counsel for the accused objected to the wording of the first charge as being devoid of any particulars, but the magistrate ruled that it was a correct wording. On the second charge, Corporal Karl Lockwood, R.C.M.P., Cobourg, started to testify that he had questioned the accused in the county jail on January 2 while Sparks was in custody on a remand for vagrancy, the vagrancy charge being laid by provincial police, when defence counsel objected to the evidence going in. Counsel for Sparks declared that it was irregular to quiz his client while he was in custody, and where no warning had been given.

Corporal Lockwood pointed out in reply that Sparks was in custody on a charge laid by the provincial police and that he was questioning him in regard to alleged breach of the Selective Service regulations. Defence counsel in reply said that the vagrancy charge was nothing but a holding charge. There was an exchange of legal citations by Cpl. Lockwood to support their argument, the magistrate finally adjourning the matter for a week.

Edward Hicks of Campbellford, charged with the theft of $65, on September 26, 1943, from the dwelling house of John Booth of Campbellford, was remanded for a week after he had pleaded guilty and elected trial by magistrate.

Charles S. Walt of Brighton, charged with shopbreaking on January 13 at Brighton, was remanded without plea or election for a week. The store was owned by Burton Brintnell of Brighton.

Forecast Made Vatican Faces Trouble

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18 (CP).—The future of Vatican influence in world affairs "is plainly bound up with the uncertain place of religion" in the postwar world, a spokesman for the Foreign Policy Association declared today.

Sherman S. Hayden, assistant to the president of the privately-financed research organization, said in a special study report that the Catholic Church faces difficult readjustments after the war, with the possibility of a strong opposition in Italy.

"Critics (of the Papacy) both friendly and hostile have forecast a period of unprecedented anticlericalism in Italy, believing that the long association of the Vatican with Fascism will reap its harvest of hatred and even of persecutioin," Hayden said.

Since the Allied invasion of Italy, however, the church has come to be regarded in some quarters as a refuge from Fascism, but the Papacy recognition of German Fascism as a worse foe than Russian Communism was belated, Hayden continued.

Pope Pius XII, although steadfast in opposition to Communism because of its creed of Atheism, "seems to have learned what predecessor (Pope Pius XI) never did, that German Fascism is the more serious enemy of the church," the report said. Hayden pointed out the present Pontiff did not bestow any blessing on the German attack on Russia, which the Nazis propagandized as an "anti-olshevik crusade."

The Foreign Policy Association regularly undertakes special studies in the field of International affairs.

George Bowen Pleads Guilty To Theft Charge

COBOURG, Jan. 18 — (ENS) — George Bowen of Cobourg pleaded guilty to robbery with violence in court Monday, in connection with theft of $10 from Frank Bowen, 78-year-old Cobourg pensioner. He was remanded for a week. The accused is 30 years of age.

Bearing a mark on his face, which he said was where the accused struck him with his fist, Frank Bowen related the circumstances of the affair in court, stating that the accused was no relation to him.

"Tuesday night around 9 or 9.30, on January 11, he came to my house where I live alone. He was drunk. He sat down for a while and then said that he wanted me to give him $20. I just have my month's allowance to live on and I told him I couldn't spare any. He took my purse out of my pocket which contained $10. I told him that it was all I had and he gave me two dollars of it back. I went out and got a stick of wood and when I came back to the kitchen he struck me in the face, you can see the mark here, and knocked me down. He then rummaged around in my bedroom and took my straight razor. He sat down in the chair, opening and closing the razor and then went out," testified the old man.

Chief W. J. Carey testified that on January 13 the robbery was reported to him and on the following day Frank Bowen came in his office. He arrested George Bowen and although at first Bowen told him he had dropped the razor down the sewer, it was later recovered hidden in his home.

"I only get in trouble when I am drinking," stated the accused.

"In fairness to the accused, drinking is always at the back of things when he gets into trouble," stated Chief Carey.

Alberta Missionary Acknowledges Bale

GORE'S LANDING, Jan. 18 — (ENS). — A letter has been received by the secretary of St. George's W.A. from Rev. George Patterson, St. Helen's Rectory, Fairview, Alta., in which he acknowledges receipt of the Christmas bale sent from this parish.

Mr. Patterson said that during the month of December he had travelled over 1,000 miles in his parish; had fourteen Christmas services and given out over 300 presents. He wished W.A. members to know how much prayers, encouragement and support means to missionary clergy. "God has called us to the North-west and He has touched your hearts in the East. We together carry the Good News—the Christmas story with its message of joy, peace and goodwill. Your presents prepared and given so unselfishly help me to illustrate the real spirit of God's giving.... the love behind the gift."

It was understood that Sqdn. Ldr. Jennison also interviewed officials at some Windsor, Ont., industries during his tour.

Burnbrae Church Reports Higher Receipts

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 18. — (ENS).— Satisfactory reports from all departments combined to give the congregation of Burnbrae Presbyterian church one of the finest financial statements ever presented at an annual meeting. Alex Milne presided over the gathering in the absence of the pastor, Rev. Donald McKay, who is ill in Kingston hospital. He commended both the congregation and pastor on the excellent reports which in over all summary indicated the church was $200 ahead of the preceding year in total receipts.

The report of the Board of Managers given by Secretary-Treasurer W. G. Craighead, keynoted the reports. He pointed out that the financial position of the church was much improved and as evidence of this was the fact that the 1942 balance of $689.00 had now grown to $891 and in addition to regular givings approximately $265 had been contributed in a special canvass to the 'Foundation Fund.' This money will help to liquidate the general debt of the Presbyterian Church in Canada. Of special significance was the generous contribution of $1,147 made by the congregation at the annual anniversary services held last October. Mr. Craighead said also that $115 had been sent to Missions during the year.

The report on the Sunday school was given by Howard Hutcheon, who stated this account had a balance on hand of $43 after donating $10 to missions and making the necessary purchases of supplies. Mrs. William Hutcheon reviewed the work of the W.M.S. which had raised over $80 during the year, all of which went to missions in addition to several bales of clothing and supplies. Mrs. Donald McKay declared the Mission Band had reached its allocation of $20 in 1943.

Young People's Report.

The work of the Young People's Society was reported by Mr. John Coggins who said the Society had a balance of $75 on hand and this had been raised principally from collections among members. They sent several boxes to boys overseas who had been former members of the group and the total value of these was assessed at $40, while in addition they also filled two ditty bags for the Navy League. To the general church treasurer they gave a donation of $25, plus $15 for missions.

Mrs. J. A. Murray reviewed the work done by the Ladies' Aid, largest church organization, which had a balance of $208 on hand compared to $74 at the end of 1942. Though most of their funds were derived from quiltings, donations and collections, their largest single event of the year was a pie social and play which brought them $87.

Following the report of the cemetery committee by Mrs. Roy Walker, Mr. Alex Milne gave the statement from the Session. He said they had received 6 new members, 1 removal by certificate and 6 deaths during the year. Mr. Milne presided for the election of officers. The 3 retiring members were re-elected to the Board of Managers: W. H. Little, William Bennett and Edward Wilson; auditors, Neiel Third and Kenneth Milne; chairman of the Board of Managers, Ernest Thain; secretary-treasurer, W. G. Craighead.

Knees Relieved from RHEUMATIC Pains

Do you know anyone who suffers from rheumatic pains. If you do, show them this letter from Mrs. Angus:—

"Since coming here from England 10 years ago, I have suffered terribly from rheumatic pains. I have been in hospital, and spent money to no end. I have bought medicine, lotions, liniments, and taken advertised concoctions until I was weary. I heard of Kruschen Salts so often, that I thought one day I'd try them. By this time my knees had become very stiff and painful.

"Well, I bought a bottle of Kruschen, and took a teaspoonful every morning. When the bottle was finished I said, 'Oh, it's the same as everything else; I'm no better.' But my husband said 'persevere; try another! Give it a chance to act on your blood,' Well, I got another, and before it was finished the stiffness in my knees was relieved! I could hardly believe it myself when I could stoop down and get up again without help. I was so excited about it. I kept on, took another bottle, and believe me I am not like the same woman. I walked four miles the other day and felt fine, whereas before I could hardly walk across the floor."

—(Mrs.) E. Angus.

What more need be said to convince other sufferers? At any rate, they should give Kruschen a trial.

Death From Poisonous Drinks

In the space of a month three men in Toronto have died from drinking toilet lotions; whether there were any similar cases elsewhere in the Province we do not know. These men wanted to get drunk, and as they could not get liquor by legitimate means, they drank whatever they could buy which contained alcohol; in prohibition days death, blindness and injury of every sort was lamentably common from this sort of foolishness. The idea of reforming such people is ridiculous; a confirmed drunkard will drink anything at all which gives the desired oblivion, even when it is poison and the oblivion is permanent.

Many merchants, we know, have become hesitant about selling after-shave lotions and hair-tonics to people who look as though they had little use for such refinements. They keep such things out of sight, and sell them only to men who clearly want to use them in the right way. But this responsibility should not be placed on the merchant; neither do we think that labelling such products as poisonous would have a strongly deterrent effect. To a drunkard with the craving on him a sign saying "For external use only" means little.

These deaths are a symptom of what is happening in Canada as a result of our increasingly stringent liquor regulations. Although they are imposed on us as necessary war measures there is a strong suspicion that pressure from groups interested in the return of prohibition is the real factor in procuring them. However, if we accept stringent liquor rationing—and one bottle of watered spirits a month is stringent—as a necessary war measure we shall demand that it be removed when peace returns. The tendency of wartime liquor regulations has been to impede and humiliate the moderate drinker, and to provide a ready market for bootleggers; if peace should bring a campaign for prohibition it will be necessary to resist it, for experience has shown that the results of prohibition were bad, and the results of liberty were comparatively good. We do not want to return to a condition where law-abiding citizens are denied a luxury which they want, and when wretched drunks kill themselves with poisons.

No Propaganda Like Victory

Germany entered the war with great hopes of propaganda victories; had she not been phenomenally successful in imposing the Nazi regime upon herself by that means? For the first two years of the war we heard much about the fiendish subtlety of Goebbels' propaganda, and the ways in which it brought confusion and doubt into the minds of conquered peoples. We were warned to be on guard against it ourselves. Goebbels was the Svengali of the propaganda world, and there were few who did not fear him.

But propaganda is nothing but talk, after all, and unless one has something to talk about the propaganda is necessarily weak. When Germany was winning every battle her propaganda was extraordinarily good; Goebbels seized on every German success, and inflated it grossly, until we were all alarmed at the sight of the bugaboo. But even Goebbels can do little with failure, and as Germany has had nothing but failures for some time German propaganda is weakening, and we are winning the war of words as well as the war of swords.

German propaganda now is chiefly divisive in character. The British are told by the Germans that the Americans are exploiting them, and that after the war John Bull will be poor and Uncle Sam richer than ever. The Americans are told that the British are exploiting them, making them do all the hard fighting, and preparing to rook them of all the goods they have supplied on lease-lend. Both western democracies are told that Russia is laughing at them, and that when the war is over Russia will dominate the world. We must be on our guard against this sort of Nazi fairy-tale, but our danger from it is not extreme.

In the neutral countries German propaganda is in decline, and ours is on the upward path. The battle rages most furiously in Portugal, where shop windows are hired by both British and German propagandists for the display of war pictures. Of late the Germans have declined to show war pictures, but they are showing what they call 'cultural' pictures — views of beautiful Germany, and so forth. We may assume that when Germany has resort to culture in her propaganda she is lost. She never uses culture except as a screen for something else, and in this case it is defeat. After all, victory is in itself an unanswerable form of propaganda.

The Parents' Responsibility

Everywhere on this continent during the past year there has been discussion of juvenile delinquency. In some large cities, and notably in New York, there have been waves of juvenile crime and misconduct which have seriously alarmed civic authorities. In many other places the widespread situation has been reflected merely in unrest and unreasonableness on the part of groups of young people, and occasional mild outbreaks. Those who have sought remedies for this situation have often suggested strongly repressive measures such as curfews, police action, inspection of homes, and the like. Now Dr. Lawson Lowery, who is known as a psychiatrist and editor in New York, has given his opinion on the matter, particularly as it concerns girls who either run away from home, or live in their homes but are difficult to control. This is what he says:

> "Girls run away in search of something glamorous, soft and brilliant when they feel unloved, unwanted and unvalued at home. It's rot to say that strict discipline, curfews, or any one measure can straighten them out."

A great many psychiatrists, educators and social workers take this view: juvenile delinquency, they say, is usually traceable to bad conditions in the home of the delinquent. The home may not be one in which the child is ill-treated or neglected; but it may be an unhappy home, and a home in which the relationship between the parents is unsatisfactory. Every home has its distinctive atmosphere, and children and adolescents are strongly susceptible to atmosphere; they seem almost to take it in at the pores.

The responsibility which this lays on parents is a heavy one, but if it is founded on careful investigation and understanding of the problem it at least points a way toward a solution.

Bulgaria Must Decide

Bulgaria has been half-heartedly in this war as a satellite of the Axis, hoping perhaps that she would never have to do any serious fighting, certainly trusting that Italy and Germany would keep trouble away from her door. Now Bulgaria finds herself in the thick of the fight. She must choose between a complete surrender to the Allies or a whole-hearted alliance with Germany, and the certain defeat which will follow such a move.

British and American planes based at Foggia can bomb Sofia whenever they like, and they are doing so. Sofia is the only city of any size in Bulgaria, and the centre of government, industry and communications. If Sofia is laid low Bulgaria will have no course but surrender, for the country will be paralysed as a war-making entity; a great part of Bulgaria's materials of war come to her from Germany, and if the rail lines are destroyed she will soon have nothing to fight with; Bulgaria is in a miserable position, and has no one to thank for it but her own leaders.

Bulgaria entered the war greedily, hoping to reap large rewards in return for a little one-sided scrapping with the Greeks and Yugoslavs. Now she is a target for serious bombing, and she sees the Russians drawing closer and closer to her borders. It looks more and more as though a swift coup in the Balkans were part of the Allied plan for breaking into the Fortress of Europe. When that happens, what will the fate of Bulgaria be?

Bulgaria must make up her mind quickly. She has made one bad choice in this war, and another would be disastrous for her.

NOTE AND COMMENT

Driven to it by shortage of substitutes, many restaurant keepers are now using chicken in chicken a la king.

An oculist says that green is the most soothing colour. We all like to rest our eyes as much as possible on payday.

Out West they use wooden dummy apples to teach the craft of packing fruit. We are not sure, but we think we ate a basket of those last week.

A British coroner attributes the decline in suicide in the British Isles to the desire to live to see how the war will turn out. In Canada we suspect that the same sort of anxiety attaches to tomorrow's episode in the soap serials.

Ten-Year-Old Boy Convicted Of Murder

(Peterborough Assizes, May 1850)
By C. H. IRESON

THE Examiner of December 8 last contained a brief note to the effect that at the Peterborough Spring Assizes in May 1850 a ten-year-old boy had been sentenced to be hanged for the murder of a little girl four years old, but no particulars of this terrible crime were given.

The circumstances of the case were as follows: Thomas and Eliza Rowan were a well-known farmer and wife farming in Emily Township who had no children. They adopted a four-year-old orphan Margaret O'Connor, an attractive child who became much beloved in the community. Shortly afterwards the Rowans thought that she should be provided with a companion and so adopted ten-year-old George Green. Margaret soon showed a strong liking for her foster-brother and followed him about the place as he did his various chores. For some reason unknown George did not reciprocate his foster-sister's affection and in fact developed a dislike which grew to hatred though there were no visible signs of the vindictive violence that led to the ultimate tragedy.

ON Oct. 26, 1849, Thomas Rowan attended a ploughing "bee" at the farm of a neighbour. Before leaving he instructed George to get to work digging potatoes and told him Margaret would help him to pick them up. Shortly before sunset Thomas Rowan as he was ploughing saw George running towards him and crying out, "Margaret has just been eaten up by a bear." Rowan and the other farmers went back with the boy to the potato patch and the latter stopped at a point and said, "This is where the bear grabbed her in his mouth." He then walked to the fence and said, "This is where he jumped over the fence and carried her away," and pointing to some marks on the fence explained that the bear made these with his claws. But these pioneer farmers were families with the lore of nature and skilled in woodcraft and for obvious reasons suspicions were aroused. They proceeded to the point where the boy said the bear had seized Margaret and found no signs of any struggle or any evidence of a bear's presence. At the fence they noticed that the marks said to have been made by the bear were not of recent origin and it was decided that they were woodpeckers' marks. With his suspicions confirmed Rowan accused George Green of having killed Margaret. This he definitely and vociferously denied, maintaining that his story was true.

AN all-night search took place which extended over the next morning and in the afternoon of that day one of the searchers came upon a mound of neatly turned earth under a big elm tree. He brushed away with his hands a few inches of the loosened earth and uncovered the blood-stained and battered body of Margaret O'Connor, her terrible injuries having been evidently inflicted by a hoe found in the vicinity covered with blood and human hair.

An inquest was held and Green was convicted to stand his trial at the Peterborough Spring Assizes which began on May 2, 1850, before Mr. Justice Sullivan.

THE Grand Jury at that Assizes consisted of Thomas Benson, foreman, W. H. Wrighton, A. S. Fraser, W. Cluxton, J. R. Benson, C. Knowlson, T. Short, T. F. Allen, F. Ferguson, D. Griffiths, W. Lundy, E. Ridley, J. Harvey, W. Snyder, T. Bell and A. H. Peck, and it included the names of many well-known Peterborough men at the time of incorporation in 1850.

The judge delivered a lengthy charge on the law as to murder, and said, referring to the Green case that between the ages of 7 and 14 an infant is deemed incapable of crime unless malice supplies the place of age and accordingly the presumption of incapacity may be rebutted.

At the trial Thomas Rowan gave evidence that he had known Green for six years and the latter was bound to him until he was 21. He described the happenings of the day of the tragedy and the long search and said he had asked George Green why he had killed Margaret and he had replied: "I hated her. She was following me around. She was a dirty little thing."

THE most important witness for the Crown was Mrs. Eliza Rowan, the little girl's foster-mother. She testified that George had confessed his guilt to her. He told her that soon after Margaret had arrived on the field he had "taken the notion of killing her." The boy admitted he had struck Margaret with the hoe, that she had cried out at the first blow but that he had knocked her down and kept on striking her about the face and body until she ceased crying.

He had further stated that Margaret was still alive when he placed her in her shallow grave. Mr. Elias Burnham appeared for the defence. He was the first lawyer to practice the profession of law in Peterborough and was known as an able lawyer and eloquent advocate. However in this case the facts were altogether too strong and he could only plead to the jury for mercy and leniency on the grounds of Green's youth, irresponsibility and failure to realize the seriousness of his crime.

THE jury found him guilty and he was called upon to stand and receive the dread death sentence. Though all present in a crowded court room expressed their greatest abhorrence for the crime, there were few who were not visibly affected when sentence was delivered,—Green standing in the dock, pale and tremulous, his face only just reaching its top, heard the solemn sentence...."to be taken to the place of execution and there hanged by the neck until you are dead and may the Lord have mercy on your soul."

The execution was fixed for June 26 but, as generally expected, three weeks before that date, an Order-in-Council granted a commutation of the sentence to one of life imprisonment in Kingston Penitentiary. However very shortly after admission his health failed and he died and he lies in an unknown, unmarked felon's grave.

And so finis was written to one of the most cruel, heart-rendering crimes on record, and, having regard to the accused's tender years, one which is probably without parallel in the annals of crime anywhere.

INNOCENT BYSTANDERS, BEWARE! —By Thomas

Thanks A Billion

(CHRISTIAN SCIENCE MONITOR)

HOW much is a billion? Don't answer too quickly. A little reflection will disclose it to be a variable quantity. For example, for several years before the war, the Republicans and Democrats—or at any rate the New Deal Democrats—had quite different ideas about a billion. To the one group it seemed like a great deal, to the other it seemed a trifle. Or that is the impression we got from the debates over fiscal policy.

The disagreement was not confined to American politicians. It was an international affair and still is. The British have been in the habit of regarding a billion as a million million while Americans were content with a billion which contained only a thousand million. This difference would seem to be wider even than that which divided the American Parties. It made some people wonder how you could ever have a peaceful world, with co-operation and good will and all that sort of thing, when peoples so similar as the British and the Americans couldn't get together over the question of a few ciphers more or less in a mathematical expression.

It is with a smile of satisfaction, therefore, and a grimace toward Hitler and his ilk, that we note that the London Economist, a pillar of the British way of life, has now adopted the American way of figuring. For some time it had used "billion" to represent a thousand million in all articles on American affairs. But now it has extended this use to all its columns. When history, from the perspective of a few hundred years, analyzes the effect of the Economist's departure, the moving finger may write that it was from that time onward that Americans and Britons began to understand one another better than Republicans and Democrats ever intended to.

Visit From My Welsh Neighbours

JACK BROWN, who brought my luggage up the hill, is brother to Bill and Maggie, who, with their mother, an old lady of ninety years, live on the side of the mountain. They are my nearest neighbours. In the mountains of Wales the word "neighbour" has particular significance, implying a relationship which in other parts of the world might well flatter the word "family". Just as in what Doughty calls "the school and nurture of the desert" men have learnt that the first duty to a stranger is hospitality, so in the school and nurture of the mountains men have learnt that the first duty to a neighbour is helpfulness.

"Is it the loan of the horses to fetch a load of coal from the town four miles away? Is it a bit of wire for the fence? Is it a few boards to make bookshelves? Why, to be sure! Aren't we neighbours now?"...

I thought when I came to my cottage by the lake that I was coming to find peace in solitude. I thought to hear no sound but the cry of the birds, the trickle of the stream through the bog, the breathing of the wind, the crackle of the fire. And so I lived for a time, grudging each moment when a fellow human drew near, counting only those moments happy when I was alone, until the last day of the year. That night there came visitors, farmers and shepherds, with their wives and daughters. They sat with me around my fire, and as naturally as the logs took light so their voices took fire, and they sang song after song in their native tongue. The eyes of the old men were closed while their hands beat time to the music. The eyes of the young girls were open but their thoughts were far away. Then I realized that they were born of the same soil as the reeds and the rushes, and that their voices were the spirits of the wind and the rain and the sun that shines golden on the snow. Then I realized too that I need no longer be alone or lonely, for there were men and women who loved the things that I loved, men whose roots were as deep in the soil as those of the gnarled alder-trees on the hillside, women whose hearts were fresh as the starwort in the well....Then they went out into the crisp night air and I was glad that it was dark, for there were tears in my eyes. I found it difficult to speak. At last, in an effort to break the tension, I said to Dai: "That's...a bright star over the hill, have you any idea what its name is?" "I dunno," he said, "it's been there for years".

And so with the fun that was in their hearts they disappeared into the black belt of fir-trees that straddles the hill.—From "Coming Down the Wye," by Robert Gibbings. (New York: Dutton.)

Few Serious Accidents

It is very greatly to the credit of the staffs of Canadian railways that, notwithstanding the unprecedented strain imposed upon them by war traffic demands, so few serious accidents have occurred since the commencement of hostilities. Brockville Recorder and Times.

War Correspondents

Armed only with typewriters and battered ones at that, the corps of news correspondents in this war have faced death, disease and discomfort to bring back to the people the facts of the greatest struggle in human history. Many have been killed. Others have been maimed or crippled.

Behind this coverage of the war news the correspondents of today have centuries of a fine tradition, to which they are adding proud chapters filled with hardship, tenacity, imagination, sympathy and cool bravery.—New York Herald-Tribune.

Senate Should Be Used

With the death of Senator Little, of London, Ont., vacancies in the Senate now number 13; one from British Columbia, two from Manitoba, four from Ontario, six from Quebec.

Why should this be? If the Senate is a branch of Parliament, with important constitutional and legislative functions to perform, why should it be treated with neglect and disrespect, left open to attack and ridicule by those who would abolish it?

Either the Senate should be used and respected, abolished or reformed. We think it should be used and respected, and also reformed. There is no excuse at all for the present attitude towards it; an attitude which leaves it without one-eighth of its membership.—Ottawa Journal.

Deaths Among Doctors

Deaths among physicians last year were higher than usual, and heart failure continued to be the chief cause, thereby testifying to the strenuous life which the average doctor lives. They seldom know what it is to enjoy a night's rest uninterrupted by calls and they often have to drive themselves beyond all human limits. Patients should endeavour to remember this when sudden, but minor, illness comes at late hours.—Hamilton Spectator.

What Made England

What made England? Here is the answer of Rt. Hon. Lord Queenborough, president of the Royal Society of St. George, in a recent statement:

"The history of the English has been one of sturdy self reliance in the individual members of the race, fostered and nurtured through the generations. The early Empire of the Elizabethans was founded and has been, through the centuries, maintained by a race taught to rely upon the personal initiative and qualities of the individual, and not to rest upon the State. Freedom of political and religious conscience was established after many bitter struggles and that freedom tended to give the English their extraordinary variety, which has been part of the secret of the national greatness."

The planners of a new world should bear that in mind. Mankind, along with all other animal and plant life, pays an enormous price for security and safety when it is guaranteed by others.

The forward steps in mankind's history have been those periods in which individuals, self-reliant and free in mind and body, have had the daring and energy, and the privilege of using that daring and energy, for their own and for the public weal.

Womb to tomb security plans must not forget that basic fact.—Financial Post.

A Bible Message

Behold, the days come, saith the Lord, that I will make a new covenant with the house of Israel, and with the house of Judah.... And they shall teach no more every man his neighbour, and every man his brother, saying, Know the Lord: for they shall all know me, from the least of them unto the greatest of them, saith the Lord. Sacrifice and offering thou didst not desire; mine ears hast thou opened: burnt offering and sin offering hast thou not required.... I have not hid thy righteousness within my heart; I have declared thy faithfulness and thy salvation: I have not concealed thy lovingkindness and thy truth from the great congregation.

Withhold not thou thy tender mercies from me, O Lord: let thy lovingkindness and try truth continually preserve me. (Ps. 40: 6, 10, 11.)

Col. Drew is advocating immigration from the British Isles, and says Ontario at the moment could use 100,000 skilled agricultural workers.

If Mr. Drew could place that number directly on the farms of Ontario and place them so that they would be satisfactory to the farmer and to themselves, there would be some good in the talk.

Premier Drew is, however, playing around with a subject belonging to the Dominion rather than the provinces,

He speaks of 18,000 Canadian soldiers bringing back with them Old Country wives. No doubt they will make good wives, and will have good husbands taking care of them. But a skilled English workman and his family will no doubt think several times before he comes to Canada. Conditions in the Old Country are not so bad that Canada is attractive to them.

Only last week the gloomy Mr. Coldwell, C.C.F. leader, declared there would be 100,000 people out of work in Canada by the 1st of April.

If Mr. Drew could bring in 100,000 new people and Mr. Coldwell has 100,000 of our present populace out of work, what have we? Two politicians infatuated with the sound of their own voices.—Renfrew Mercury.

Knox Church Y.P.S.

Methods for financing the "Knox Knews" were discussed at the regular meeting of Knox Young People's Union, and it was decided to carry on in the usual manner, accepting donations from the young people and the congregation.

During the business period, the motion to pay all outstanding bills was made and passed, and, as permission had been granted to put a hymn-prayer on the backs of the hymnaries, it was decided that the members of the group would do it while awaiting turn to play badminton Tuesday evening during the regular sport hour.

Irene Graham, as missionary convener, was in charge of the worship period, and began by repeating a poem. Annabeth Riddle gave the prayer, which was followed by a candle-lighting service, during which Connie Lewis sang, "Jesus With Thy Church Abide."

Senator Iva Fallis Warns Citizens Have Job to Do

"Before taking an active part in the discussion and planning for post-war days, we must know what kind of a Canada we want. When we know, we can plan," said Senator Iva C. Fallis, addressing a meeting of the Women's Progressive Conservatie Party of Peterborough on "Post-War Planning" at the Paragon Hall Monday afternoon.

Enlarging upon her original statement, Senator Fallis said that the responsibility of choosing a leader to mould post-war destiny of Canada rested upon the individual, and upon the decision which every Canadian could and would make within the next few months. She urged that every citizen of the Dominion exercise the right to choose his own government, and asked that the idea that one person's opinion would not make any difference be discarded, because everyone has the same rights, and collectively the people of Canada choose their destiny.

In discussing post-war planning committees, the speaker said that people were apt to scoff at them, but that they were really groups of people interested enough in the future to try to solve the problems facing Canada and to work for the betterment of the country. She mentioned the earnestness of the committees working in the Senate, saying that she had heard and entered into their discussions, and knew that their interest lay in anticipating Canada's problems, and finding ways to meet them.

"All parties are agreed upon the objective," said the speaker, "they differ on the method and policy to achieve this objective."

Farmers Problem

Speaking of post-war plans, Senator Fallis said that the farmers were a real concern to everyone, and that their welfare would be an important part of the planning. Education was another field upon which she touched brifely, mentioning in particular the value of moving pictures as a means of educating students, and speaking of the great strides made in this field in Russia.

Senator Fallis spoke of the two great assets which Canada possesses; an aggressive young population, with many opportunities for education and vocational training ahead of them; and the vast natural resources of this rich country. "Wise leadership," she said, "can bring together these assets, and mould them into a better and wiser country."

In conclusion, Senator Fallis spoke of the essential difference between Canada promised by the C.C.F., and that of the Progressive Conservative. "There are many points in the C. C. F. policy which would be distasteful to the aggressive and democratic spirit of the average Canadian," she said, and quoted an example. "A C.C.F. speaker told an Orillia audience a few weeks ago that if and when they come into power a farmer owning his farm would be allowed to live on it during his life time, but would not be allowed to will it to

Home and School Wants Change In Movie Shows

The Home and School Council is sending a letter to the Provincial Treasurer requesting his co-operation in preventing certain types of moving pictures from entering Ontario, following a resolution passed at their regular meeting Monday night at the Y.W.C.A.

The discussion began at the previous meeting, when a committee was appointed to visit the theatre managers of Peterborough, and the report of that committee was read at this meeting. Several methods for preventing the introduction of unsuitable films were brought forth. One suggested that a letter be sent to the producers of the United States and England, asking them to make pictures along better lines. Another suggested that a woman be appointed to the Board of Censorship.

Mrs. E. Chambers, the president, presided, and gave a report on the conference held in December, and discussed several resolutions brought to the attention of the convention. She also announced the annual meeting of the Local Council of Women, being held Thursday in the Y.W.C.A., and asked those who could to attend the luncheon when Mrs. R. J. Marshall, of Toronto, will be guest speaker.

After the announcement of the convention, to be held in Toronto, April 10, 11, 12 and 13, an invitation was extended to all to attend. The roll was call, and the total members of the Peterborough Home and School Association was calculated, showing an approximate membership of 700.

The groups for the association officers, formed after the business meeting, have the following leaders: Program and health, Mrs. V. R. Henry; secretaries and treasurers, Mrs. L. Richardson; membership, Mrs. G. Hutchinson; presidents and vice-presidents, Mrs. E. Chambers. A Home and School quiz was in charge of Mrs. C. Crowe.

Musical Program Given at Camp

The soldiers of the local Training Centre were entertained Sunday evening in the camp theatre by a group of Roman Catholic men and women, with Mr. A. Seidel, who led in community singing, as M.C. for the entertainment.

The program was as follows: a piano solo, "Old Black Joe," with variations, by Doris Strickland; a humorous reading, by Joe Primeau; violin solos, "The Blue Danube," and "Irish Washerwomen," by Mr. Seidel; vocal solos, "Ave Maria," and "At Dawning," by Mrs. Ernestine Pichard.

After the program was concluded coffee and doughnuts were served in the canteen by a group of ladies convened by Mrs. P. J. Burke, and made up of Miss I. MacDonald, Miss Agnes Grant, Mrs. J. C. Rutherford and Mrs. A. Eggleton.

State Socialism Is Described

"New Zealand and State Socialism" was the topic discussed by Miss Verna Burgess when she addressed the regular meeting of the Peterborough Business and Professional Women's Club Monday evening. Her material was taken from two books, "Singing through the Anzarks," by Margaret McPherson, and "New Zealand," by Walter Nash.

The speaker said that New Zealand had been described as a veritable paradise as far as climate was concerned, and also as the "test tube" of democracy. She went on to say that without revolution and social government, New Zealand had put into practice social security measures which the rest of the democracies had simply been discussing. In New Zealand there are no excessively rich, neither are there any very poor.

The club voted to donate $10 to the Mrs. Winston Churchill Fund, and the need of the destitute Greeks for good warm clothing was brought to the attention of the members, and Mrs. Ldya Telford said that she would be glad to accept donations at her store, and to pass the articles on to the proper quarters.

It was also decided to begin a fund to help girls who are seeking a higher education, and the voluntary donation of all the pennies in the members' purses was to be the nucleus for the fund.

Soloist for the meeting was Mrs. A. R. Bennett, who sang "Just a Wearying for You," and "Long, Long Ago."

DOROTHY DIX

MAN WRITING WILL A MYSTERY.

Small Estate Should Go Intact to Widow as Simple Matter of Justice.

DEAR MIS DIX: A husband refuses to make a will. He has a house and small bank account. He says that if he should die his wife can take what the law allows her. They have three children, two are grownup, one under 16. The wife points out that the children are all self-supporting, while she is not getting any younger and will not be able to make her living when she is old.

The husband accuses her of being mercenary because she wants him to make out a will in her favor. She has always been a faithful, helpful wife and a good mother, and he claims he loves her. What do you think?

WONDERING FRIEND.

Wife Deserves Estate.

ANSWER: When there is a small estate, as in this case, it should go intact to the widow, because, in the first place, it is a mere matter of justice. She has earned half of the money that went into the house and the savings account by her work and penny-pinching just as much as her husband has. In the second place, a mother will always share her last cent with her children, so if they were ever in need they could depend on her to take care of them.

In the third place, if a small estate is divided among a number of heirs no one gets enough to amount to anything. And, in the fourth place, the woman is right when she says she needs the money more than her children, because they are young and able to work; whereas she is growing old and probably has no trade outside of her housework, while they are trained for specific jobs.

Certainly this husband gives very little proof of the love he says he has for his wife when he does not attempt to give her some security after he is gone. But the way of men in making wills is a mystery beyond all solving, for they do curious things that belie their own personalities and characters.

It is a common thing, for instance, for an intelligent, hard-headed business man, who has piled up a nice, comfortable fortune by years of toil, to make a will in which he says: "I leave all of which I die possessed to my beloved wife Angelina, for I am certain that she will always take care of our children."

In effect, this will dumps the labor and sweat of a whole lifetime and the fate of the entire family in the lap of a woman who may be good and sweet and an excellent cook and housekeeper, but who has the intellect of a hysterical hen, and no more business experience than a baby.

The husband knows this. He knows that Angelina doesn't know the difference between a Government bond and a wildcat stock. He knows that he has never been able to trust her with the handling of more than the week's market money, yet he gives his fortune into her keeping without putting a single string to it. You would think that no man outside of an institution for the feeble-minded would do such a thing, but it is done every day.

The result is, as any insurance or investment company will tell you, that thousands of women, whose husbands left enough money to keep their families comfortable, educate their children and give them a start in life, are cheated

Navy Defeats Hamilton Team

By The Canadian Press

Toronto Navy was credited with its 13th victory of the season last night after working a last-minute goal to defeat Hamilton Majors 3-2 at Toronto in the condensed and final version of the Senior Ontario Hockey Association group. Normie Mann and Livingstone made the play which resulted in the winning shot by Art Thomson and the result kept the visitors three points behind the league-leading St. Catharines Saints.

A few seconds before the close of the first period Navy went into the lead when Livingstone scored on a pass from Hugh Barlow but Doug Runions put Majors in front with two successive counters in the second frame. In 6.45 of the third stanza, Mann tied up the tilt with Barlow on the helping end to make the count 2-all. After 12 minutes of snappy play, the Sailors found the opening for the pay-off goal.

Navy holds bottom position in the three-team loop.

Skating Allowed

SARNIA, Jan. 18—(CP).—Mayor W. C. Hipple last Sunday countermanded an order by the City Council's rink committee which had banned Sunday skating on public rinks at the Athletic Park and Collegiate here. He did so on the grounds it was not legal for a committee to take such action without council approval.

Curling News

By HERB. MARTIN

It seems rather strange that it should be, but nevertheless it is true, there is always one scheduled game per night that draws the attention of the spectators. This is not something new, it has been going on for many years and last night was no exception.

It was the Putnam-Lowe game. These boys battled it out end after end, giving away nothing and taking all kinds of chances. It was nip and tuck all down the line till at the end of the regulation play the game was all square 10-10. For the most part of the extra end it was all in favor of Lowe and as far as the experts in on No. 8 were concerned it was all over. Somehow or other Putnam and Dawson would concede no such thing. After looking the situation over they decided that "Smiling Dick" should take a chance down the ice with an out turn and try and pass a long guard and run a difficult port to pass out Lowe's shot, and that's just what he did and it remained there until the game was over. It was an exciting finish to a great game and it is not the first time that Mr. Dawson has pulled off the almost impossible shot to pull the game out of the fire.

In fact it is nothing new to Dick. He does it Sunday, Monday and always.

A Good Game

Another good game was the Hall-Downey affair with Jimmy counting one on the last end to win the game.

In the ladies' section we believe there are two rinks that have not, as yet, been beaten—Mrs. V. Selkirk and Mrs. G. Ward.

There was some nice curling yesterday afternoon and we are of the opinion that the ladies are curling better each time they come out, especially the beginners. The ladies are continuing their games today.

SPORTS-Day by Day

By FRED D. CRAIG

With Referee Ernie Powers and Earl McCready both trying to slow down the wild Texan Karl Krippler Davis in tonight's feature bout at the Tunney wrestling rodeo at the Brock Street Arena should prove one of the most exciting clashes of the entire season. Twice Davis has defeated the Canadian grappler here and both times he had a lot of help from Referee Bert Maxwell. Now the two meet under the eagle eye of the senior referee of the Ontario Athletic Association and McCready confidently declares that there will be a different ending tonight. "I am willing to leave it up to anybody who saw either of the other bouts," declared the Moose, "as to whether or not I hadn't outwrestled Davis before he took advantage of Maxwell's slackness to slap on that toehold of his. Powers won't let him get away with any of that kind of stuff and that's all I am asking. I'll take care of Mister Davis on my own account and when it's all over I think that loudmouth will have a different opinion about Canadian wrestling."

* * * * * *

Davis, however, has other ideas. "I have outsmarted both McCready and Maxwell twice in a row," boasts the Texan, "and if this Powers isn't any brighter than the rest of the Canadians I have bumped into in wrestling circles since I came up here I figure I don't need to worry any about him. He may be big but mebbe he doesn't think very quick." Davis claims not only that Canadian mat men can't take it but that they are not very bright. "You can get them mad and let them beat themselves," the Texan declares. So everything points to a thriller in the main bout with two other tussles that are good enough for top billing preceding the feature attraction. The first appearance of Los Angeles' Tom Zaharias here is an event in itself. Zaharias ranks among the top performers in the game today and there will be natural interest in watching him do his stuff against an opponent in the person of Toar Morgan who is game and clever enough to make the Californian grappler produce his best wares. Then there is Al Bunny Dunlop pitted against the durable Jerry Meeker of Indiana in the opening clash and likely to get the show away on a murderous note. In addition to all this four-star wrestling the program includes a grudge boxing bout between two old local rivals Sailor Harry Low and Dutch McIlmoyle.

A City League Next

Now that the Y.M.C.A. House League is out of the way and the trophy has been annexed by Joe Stewart's Algerines, the next step will be the organization of the City League to carry on basketball for the rest of the season. Right now the probable setup is somewhat of a guess. It is altogether probable that a C.G.E. team will be one entry, Pete McArthur is expected to organize another and the Collegiate will be invited to enter their senior squad which is being organized for interscholastic competition. The Military Training Centre is an unknown quantity. Some of the players who started the House League season with the Soldiers have gone out on drafts and unless there have been some reinforcements among recent arrivals at the centre the military team may not be able to function. It is expected that steps to organize the City Loop will be taken as soon as possible. It will be a case, of course, of carrying on with younger players for the experienced cagers are nearly all in the armed services.

Belleville hockey fans are still chortling over the neat 4 to 0 win pulled off by the Quinte youngsters over the Stirling-Marmora Combines the other night. Says the Ontario-Intelligencer report of the battle: "Coach "Toots" Holway's up-and-coming Belleville Juniors forged to the top of the district Junior "B" O.H.A. shuffle Friday evening at the local ice palace, when they took on the Stirling-Marmora "Combines" and after 60 minutes of crowd-pleasing hockey during which the boys were in there fighting every minute, emerged clean-cut 4-0 winners. It was the first shutout of the year with the honors for the most part going to Fitzpatrick in the Belleville nets. This boy kicked and booted out the proverbial million during the first and second periods when the northern lads pressed hardest but with the help of a sturdy defence proved equal to the occasion on every sortie. As well as offensive strength, offensive ability was demonstrated with Coach Holway unearthing in Al Gordon what appears to be a real find. That this lad who centres the second forward line has hockey brains was demonstrated clearly when he was on the spot to sink two of the locals' goals as well as gaining an assist on the initial counter in the first period. Belleville goals were scored by Barrett; while Stirling was shorthanded at the close of the first period, and by Day and Gordon, who rapped in three quick ones in a third-period landslide."

Kingston's Swan Song

Scribe Bill Walshe writes the obituary of Kingston's Army Frontenac hockey team as follows: "Kingston Frontenac Army, leaders of the O.H.A. senior series until withdrawn by army orders, went through the usual formalities of closing a hockey season last night by having pictures taken that included members of the executive. It was not like the usual end of a season, when players are generally glad to tuck away hockey togs and turn to summer sports. Last night the players came to the full realization that they were through with hockey for the duration, and probably through for ever with the sport they had played since they were kids. A war will have to be won, or some modification on service regulations, before they can return to even a small part of the freedom of living, thought or play they are fighting for. Many expressed a hope that the team could be kept together for exhibitions, with profits going to war funds, in fact Belleville invited the Kingston soldiers for a game with the Trenton R.C.A.F. to aid the blood donors clinic. Belleville was advised to get permission from the Department of National Defence. Toronto R.C.A.F. would also like to visit Kingston for an exhibition game and other exhibitions have been suggested to fill in the winter but the Ottawa ruling is that exhibitions may only be played with service teams in the same district every other week. Many of the Kingston seniors will be leaving this district in the next week or so, as expected for some time, but most of them will be here all winter on courses and their talents as entertainers of thousands of civilians and servicemen will be wasted."

And Oshawa's Soup Campbell discusses the Generals and does a little post-mortem examination following their shutout at home by Galt which the Motor City boys incidentally wiped out by a 5 to 1 win in Galt Saturday night: "We hear on all sides, various opinions but the general consensus is that the defeat would do the Generals good. Having scored a flock of goals in recent games (not including the last one, mind you) some of the boys were getting a bit cocky about the whole thing and being taken down a peg or two will do them the world of good. Of course, some of the truly pessimistic members of local fandom openly suggest that Oshawa's 3-0 reverse at the hands of Galt is actually "the writing on the wall" and that this year the O.H.A. trophy will finally move elsewhere. Well, we know of course that they have been shining up an honored spot in the trophy room of St. Michael's College ever since last July and we also know that with the Memorial Cup finals being played in Toronto, the M.L.G. and C.H.A. officials would certainly like to see St. Mike's representing Eastern Canada. The students will have no handicaps that can be eliminated other than on the ice. Ssh! Uncle Wiggely has just whispered to beware of being robbed by the referees when playoff time rolls around! Don't laugh at that one, because we can tell you of two different clubs who have in recent years argued the other way—that they could beat Oshawa in the schedule but in the playoffs, the referees always gave the Generals all the breaks. That's what makes hockey so interesting—it's the variety of opinions—and mentalities. However, after we all were getting the idea that St. Mike's was the team to beat this year, along

Famous Stars On Big Card

Tom Zaharias, Toar Morgan, Karl Davis, Earl McCready—all "name" wrestlers throughout Canada and United States—do their stuff at the Brock Arena tonight. Not to mention that most remarkable mat artist Al Bunny Dunlop and the stranger, Jerry Meeker.

McCready and Davis come into a head-on crash in the main bout. Toar Morgan tries out his Fighting Marine technique on Tom Zaharias who has for some years eclipsed even his famous brother George in the smash-em and crash-em league. The third match introduces another new face in Jerry Meaker of Indiana who meets Bunny Dunlop.

Greco Arraigned On Serious Count

ST. JOHN'S, Que., Jan. 18 (CP)—Pte. Johnny Greco, former world lightweight boxing championship contender, today was arraigned here before Judge Andre Regnier on charges of manslaughter and hit-and-run driving. He was held criminally responsible last night by a corner's jury for the death of Pte. Romeo Dagenais of Montreal.

Judge Regnier set preliminary hearing in both cases for Jan. 24 and granted Greco a $950 bail.

Pte. Dagenais' battered body was found on the highway close to the Farnham training camp early Sunday.

Evidence was given at the coroner's inquest by six soldiers from the Farnham camp that they were driving back to camp in Greco's car early Sunday morning when they felt a bump at approximately the spot Dagenais' body later was found.

Kitchener Planning Parent Sports Body

KITCHENER, Jan. 18 — Frank Selke, manager of Toronto Maple Leafs, and W. A. Hewitt, secretary of the O.H.A., will be guest speakers at a meeting here on Jan. 26, when it is planned to form a Kitchener Sports Association to govern all sporting events in the community.

Invitations have been sent to approximately 125 civic, business and industrial heads to attend the meeting, which is the first step to eventual erection of a modern auditorium.

Selke, who was born in Kitchener, but went to Toronto over 20 years ago, is expected to outline the methods used by a governing sporting body at the time he was a resident of this city.

Tom Burlington of Cleveland Barons and Wally Kilrea of Hershey Bears continued on even terms for another week in the scoring tables of the American Hockey League with 45 points apiece for circuit scoring leadership. Louis Trudel of Cleveland jumped to third place with 43 through earning seven points in the week's fixtures.

Willie Hoppe, world's three-cushion billiards champion, defeated Welker Cochran, the former champion, in both locks of their 2,150-point non-title match here yesterday, taking the opener 50 to 42 in 51 innings and the nightcap 50 to 22 in 42. Hoppe thus grabbed a lead of 100 to 64 in the Detroit phase of their match.

Fight Them All

Matchmaker Johnny Attell of New Haven, Conn., yesterday tossed challenges right and left in behalf of his protege, Julie Kogon. The defis were aimed at Sammy Angott, N.B.A. lightweight champion, Lulu Constantino, Tippy Larkin and Ike Williams.

Eighty-one-year-old Col. Matt J. Winn, director of the Kentucky Derby, yesterday was elected president of the Empire Racing Association at Yonkers, N.Y. Winn will direct the empire program this year in addition to the racing at Laurel, Md., Churchill Downs, Ky., and Lincoln Fields, near Chicago.

Because of his broken hand, injured in the bout with Jake Lamotta at Detroit last Friday, Fritzie Zivic's induction into the Army was deferred yesterday at Pittsburgh for at least 30 days although he passed his final physical examination.

Watch Veterans

Chief Umpire Bill Klem of the National League expressed confidence in baseball this year, declaring at Miami Beach yesterday the fans would have plenty to shout about when the old players "come back and the young ones move up." The name players would not be missed, he said.

Henry Armstrong, veteran of the prize ring, yesterday declared he had discovered a "finished boxer" in 13-year-old Keith Nuttall of Salt Lake City, son of an old-time fighter. "Sammy" said the 90-pound boy had a "perfect left," Keith has 16 straight knockouts to his credit in amateur bouts.

Only civilian hockey teams are left in the running for Allan Cup and Memorial Cup competition this year as a result of yesterday's announcement that Navy teams and players could not participate in interprovincial playoffs. The Navy announcement came more than a week after Army and Air Force players were told that they could only play in local garrison or defence leagues and in exhibition games.

Unlike Army and Air Force players, the Navy men are not banned from any league in which competition leads to the Allan or Memorial Cup playoffs. A Navy spokesman said that a Navy Hockey player could play in league and provincial playdowns but not in inter-provincial playdowns.

13-Year-Old Boy Is Boxing Wizard

PORTLAND, Ore., Jan. 18—(AP)—The best left hand Hammerin' Henry Armstrong has ever seen is on a 13-year-old boxer weighing only 90 pounds.

Henry, who should be an authority on such things, said he "like to fell dead" when he first saw the youngster—Keith Nuttall—at Salt Lake City.

"The kid has absolutely the best left hand I've ever seen. He can hook, cross, feint, shift—do everything you could ask," said Armstrong. "At 13, he's a finished boxer and I wouldn't believe it if I hadn't seen it myself.

BATTERSEA, Ont., Jan. 18 (CP).—Even a 50-mile-an-hour fox stands little chance against motorized hunting. George Crissley and Chris Lake of Battersea bagged their 30th fox of the season last week after a race that hit 50 miles an hour over the ice of Dog Lake. The fox kept up the uneven chase for some time until the car drew into range.

Cowley Holds Top Position

MONTREAL, Jan. 18 (CP)—More than a week of enforced idleness is behind Bill Cowley, Boston Bruins' centre ace, and he's still at the top of the National Hockey League scoring race, although with a drastically-reduced margin.

The official statistics released today, second weekly listing since Cowley was injured at Toronto, shows him leading with 52 points, two up on teammate Herbie Cain and three up on Lorne Carr of Toronto Maple Leafs.

Elmer Lach of Canadiens is next, six points out of third place and trailed by a point by Bill Mosienko of Chicago. Doug Bentley of the Hawks and Gus Bodnar of Leafs hold down sixth place together with 40 points each.

Cowley is still ahead in the assist column too, his 33 paying passes giving him a margin of two over Lach and three over Buddy O'Connor of Canadiens. Cain leads in goals with 28, while Carr has 21 and Mosienko, Gerry Heffernan of Canadiens and Mud Bruneteau of Detroit are tied with 20 each.

Penalty leader? It's Mike McMahon of Canadiens by a minute, with 50 minutes in majors and minors, compared with 49 for Harold Jackson of Detroit.

Greco In Trouble

ST. JOHNS, Que. — (CP). — A coroner's jury last night found Pte. Johnny Greco, former lightweight boxing contender, criminally responsible for the death of Pte. The Danger of Coughs Among the Children

In young children a cold or cough is not a thing to be disregarded, as it is often of a grave matter, and unless attended to immediately may, eventually, cause serious trouble.
On the first sign of a cough or cold the mother will find in Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup a remedy to help get rid of the trouble.
Its promptness and effectiveness in loosening the phlegm, and stimulating the bronchial organs is such that the cough may be checked before anything of a serious nature sets in.
Price 35c a bottle; the large family size, about 3 times as much, 60c, at all drug counters.

Byron Nelson Captures $2,400 In Bonds

By RUSS NEWLAND
Associated Press Sport Writer

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 18.—(AP).—Byron Nelson, often described as the best golfer in the country, was back in the winner's circle to-day with $2,400 worth of war bonds in his pocket and the title of 1944 champion of the San Francisco Victory open tournament.

The Toledo, O., crackshot, former National Open and Professional Golfers' Association kingpin, knocked out a 13-under par 275 to win the 72-hole tournament which concluded yesterday.

He teed off as the favorite, led every round and polished off the long, flat Harding Park public links, par 36-36—72, with scores of ..8-69-68-70. He played superior, flawless golf with the exception of a couple of three-put greens and one drive out of bound.

He finished six strokes ahead of his running mate and chief rival, Harold "Jug" McSpaden of Philadelphia who racked up three successive round of 70 and fired a final 71 for a total of 281—seven under par for the route.

McSpaden won the recent Los Angeles open with a 278, carrying with it $4,375, and his $1,600 yesterday give him two-tournament earnings of $5,975. Nelson tied for third place with two others in the southern event and now has won a total of $3,525.

Tied for third spot behind Nelson and McSpaden yesterday were Sam Byrd, the ex-New York Yankee baseball player, now representing a Detroit golf club, and Lloyd Mangrum of Monterey Park, Calif. They carried 72-hole totals of 283, five strokes under par. Each received $1,062.50.

Boston Needs Win Tuesday

(By The Canadian Press)

The oddest angle of tonight's "grudge" battle between Toronto Maple Leafs and Boston Bruins in Boston is that none of the principals seems to take Art Ross seriously on his threat of three-for-one reprisals against Leafs. Except possibly Art Ross himself.

Certainly, the Boston manager appeared serious enough when he told Sports Editor Andy Lytle of the Toronto Daily Star that Bill Cowley's shoulder injury had been suffered as the result of a "savage and deliberate" attack by Leafs in a game at Toronto Jan. 8. If Ross changed his mind after Cowley publicly declared the injury was "my own fault," he failed to issue a retraction.

In addition to promising that Boston would "get" three Toronto players for Cowley next time Leafs played in Boston. Ross also said Manager Frank Selke of Leafs was responsible for the Cowley incident. Coach Happy Day, said Ross, "wasn't smart enough to have figured it out."

That kind of talk ordinarily would be enough to cause bloodshed, but Day and Selke have been busily debunking any thought of strife. And most of the writers figure the game will turn into a Boston tea party.

The Bruins, outscored 36-30 in breaking even in six games against Leafs this season, can move into a second-place tie with Toronto by winning tonight.

Babs Hitchman Plays Part Of Comedienne

Babs Hitchman will be heard every Tuesday night on "Town and Country" over station CHEX at 8:00 o'clock tonight. Many will remember Babs in the Part of "Jeanie" on the coast to coast serial "Penny's Diary." On the new Canadian production "Town and Country" she will be heard in the role of comedienne, along with Bernie Braden, Jaffray Ford, Judy Richards and many others.

By CHARLES EDWARDS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO, Jan. 18 — (CP). — Edmonton basketball fans don't throw in with this column's assertion that Pat Bay Gremlins probably will keep the national senior hoop title in Vancouver Island another year. O. M. Hillingsworth, president of the Edmonton (International) Men's Basketball League, writes to say it wouldn't startle Edmontonians if one of their clubs, possibly the U.S. Engineers, takes the title from Pat Bay.

The fact is that Edmonton, for many years the home of the world's greatest women's basketball team, the Commercial Grads, now has some of the best men's basketball in the country. United States servicemen and R.C.A.F. personnel posted to Edmonton gave the city a wealth of cage talent. Seven of the 11 clubs in Hollingsworth's league are Americans. The U.S. Engineers went through the first half of the schedule without defeat and Hollingsworth says either that club, Edmonton Yanks or Calgary Currie Barracks would give "the stiffest opposition ever encountered from this province in Dominion playdown competition."

More power to them, say we. Alberta has never won a Dominion senior men's basketball crown. A victory this year would be a great boost to the game there.

Oh Happy Day.

Clarence (Happy) Day of Toronto Maple Leafs was cagy when asked how present N.H.L. play compares with the game in Hap's heyday a decade ago. "When we used to put on a ganging play the fans went wild," said Day. "Now its almost a continual ganging play." The inference is that familiarity has bred contempt.

Incidentally:

Theo Dubois, who went from Winnipeg to win the North American sculling championship, has been in the Canadian Army three months. He's a sapper with the Engineers at Chilliwack, B.C.... Jack Patterson, sports editor of the Vancouver Sun, is Navy-bound with columnist Alf Cottrell taking over the Sun's sport reins....Red Carr, 26-year-old rookie from Winnipeg via Nanaimo, B.C. and way points, has been given his outright release by Toronto Leafs. He failed to measure up to N.H.L. standards and will do his hockey playing for Staffords in the Toronto Metropolitan League.

How awful.

To-night's the night Leafs invade Boston in the face of Art Ross' threat they will have to pay three-for-one for "getting" Bill Cowley in Toronto 10 days ago. But grudge battles usually develop into parties.

Baseball Chief Opposes Farm System

DURHAM, N.C., Jan. 18—(AP)—W. G. Bramham, minor league baseball's boss, suggested Monday that private ownership of teams is preferred to the farm system, and that now is the time to revamp sprawling idle loops into compact circuits.

Bramham offered his ideas in a typewritten statement that dealt with the sports' post-war problems, a subject which a major-minor committee will study in New York on February 5.

He also repeated a previous suggestion that rehabilitation of baseball start in the schools and that promotional work should strive for quality—not quantity—in the establishment of new loops.

A gag for "eruptive employees and others who allegedly have retired in predicting the death of the tree from which they are plucking, or have plucked, the fruit" was recommended. Bramham also slapped at the practice, which some officials wink at, of player and salary limit violations.

Foreign or chain-store ownership is desirable only when it has been definitely determined that local ownership lacks experience, finances or would act contrary to the best interests of the sport, the statement said.

However, it continued, "any ownership that seeks to combine with others to exercise such control over professional baseball as to bereft our members of freedom of thought and action in guiding its affairs or would jeopardize the rights of parties with whom such owners have contractual relationships would not only be illegal under the laws of our country, but a menace to the game."

Full consideration of the wartime shift in population should be given in reorganizing the leagues which have suspended for the duration, Bramham said.

The Royal Bank of Canada Annual Meeting

Morris W. Wilson, President, says any degree of political freedom impossible under wholly planned economy. Challenges socialists to show how public would benefit by state monopoly of banking.

Sydney G. Dobson, Vice-President and General Manager, reports bank business at unprecedented level. Assets reach new peak of over $1,500,000,000.

The threat to the personal liberty of all Canadians, inherent in the plans of the socialists for the nationalization of Canadian industry, was emphasized by Morris W. Wilson, President of The Royal Bank of Canada, at the bank's Annual Meeting.

Mr. Wilson reviewed the tremendous role Canada had played in this mightiest war of all time and the manner in which workmen and enterprisers alike had co-operated in it. "Despite this fact," he said, "we are being told by all the publicity methods revolutionary partisans can devise, that in order to win the peace we must change our entire economic system and launch out into new and untried paths, under new and inexperienced leaders. The theorists and visionaries who preach these doctrines of an economic revolution may be thoroughly honest and sincere. But the fact remains that the principles they advocate can only lead, as a final and inevitable result, to a completely regimented economy, and on this point I cannot do better than quote the Editor of the London Economist, a well-known writer of liberal views:

". . . A wholly planned economy "is incompatible with any degree "of political freedom. The possibil-"ity of a man's earning his living "in his own way, without let or "hindrance, is the essential condi-"tion of there being any freedom "of discussion, any freedom to op-"pose. If more than a fraction of "the electorate come to depend for "their livelihood upon the tempor-"ary masters of the mechanism of "the State—that is, upon the poli-"ticians—then democracy is at an "end."

"I am more convinced than ever that the menace of socialistic teaching is one which closely affects everyone in Canada in both his business and private life.

"These advocates of a new order have an astounding scheme, which will result in nothing less than complete regimentation of Canada. As you know, one of their principal objectives, and the first plank in their platform, is to nationalize the banks.

SOCIALIST MENACE

"Naturally, we are interested in preserving our business, in which so many shareholders have invested, and to which so many depositors have entrusted their savings. But even more as citizens than as businessmen, we deplore the rise of this creed, because we firmly believe that implementation of the socialist plan would ruin this generation and set Canada back centuries.

"It is as a citizen as well as a banker that I put before you some further considerations to which I hope you will give your earnest thought.

"The course of the socialist party in Canada has been charted for us in several books which make clear that nothing short of complete socialization of the means of production and finance will satisfy the party. That means domination of every phase of economic life, including agriculture, labour and capital. Therefore, because we all fall into one or other of the classes, it means domination of every individual.

"What would the socialists achieve by nationalization of the banks? Their book on social planning says that they will form one board of directors for the national bank monopoly instead of the ten boards which now operate the competitive chartered banks.

"Socialistic literature suggests that access to the books of the bank and a consequent rupture of the confidential relationship that now exists between bank and depositor, would be of inestimable value in determining taxation policies. But would this appeal to the depositor?

"Furthermore, as we are organized today, a prospective borrower may go from one bank to another if he fails to convince the first bank of his probity, ability and prospects; under the socialistic system, unless the prospective borrower could convince the state bank of the soundness of the project for which he sought to borrow money, and also that the transaction to be financed was in harmony with socialist party objectives, he would be turned down and would have no other bank to look to for a loan. Do you think that such a system would assure the borrower of as fair treatment as he now receives?

"I believe the answer to these two questions, affecting depositors and borrowers, is a positive 'No.' On the contrary, history and experience lead us to expect that such a government monopoly of banking would lead to favouritism of party adherents. At the same time, we should witness a spread of that sterility of ideas and enterprise which tends to accompany every human activity that finds itself in a position of unchallengeable power."

PRIVATE BANKING BEST

Mr. Wilson suggested that it was not simply due to chance that banking the world over had continued in private hands, but that the people and the Governments had considered it advisable from every point of view that banking should be free of political and partisan influences. He reminded his audience that Canadian banks were already effectively controlled by the Bank of Canada and that further intervention by the Government in the banking business would, in his belief, be superfluous and would not be welcomed by the majority who deal with the banks.

Mr. Wilson again urged business to speak up on its own behalf. "Business will have only itself to blame if, through inaction, it vacates or fails to occupy fields of activity into which it later finds that public opinion has forced the Government to enter".

Mr. Wilson saw no reason for approaching the post-war era with any defeatist attitude and declared that the same energy, initiative and selflessness which had developed in the war years, could be used for constructive purposes after the peace.

In all plans for the rehabilitation of devastated countries the United States and Canada would be looked to as leaders, he said.

POST-WAR REHABILITATION

"I personally believe that large outright gifts of food, raw materials, finished goods and machinery to backward and devastated countries will in the long run, and even from the most selfish point of view, not only contribute most to human welfare, but both in the short and long run be in the best interests of those nations which can afford to make the gifts.

"If this is too much to expect of human beings in their present stage of development, the alternative must be loans on a very large scale on long and easy terms, or probably a combination of both loans and gifts."

GENERAL MANAGER'S ADDRESS

Sydney G. Dobson, Vice President and General Manager, in reviewing the bank's Balance Sheet said that the volume of business passing through the bank's books had been unprecedented during the past year. Total assets now exceeded $1,500,000,000, an all-time high in the history of the bank.

He reviewed at length the part played by the banks in assisting the country's war financing.

"There appears to be a misconception in the minds of some people that the banks purchase a substantial portion of the Government public issues and increase their earnings in this manner. This is not the case. During 1943 two Victory Loans were issued, realizing $2,692,000,000. The 4th Victory Loan floated in May last was purchased by 2,669,000 subscribers and the 5th Victory Loan in October, by over 3,000,000. In neither loan did the banks buy bonds for their own account. While their is naturally some change in the holdings of the original subscribers, relatively only an unimportant amount found its way into the banks.

"In common with the other banks, we have done everything possible to make these Victory Loans a success. Managers have encouraged customers to subscribe or to increase their subscriptions. All depositors considered capable of subscribing for an amount of $50 or more have been written to and advertisements have been inserted in the press urging depositors to subscribe to the full extent of their ability."

EARNINGS MODEST

Despite the tremendous increase in the business of the bank, earnings were modest, said Mr. Dobson. "I think that any fair-minded person will agree that the $2,100,000 paid to shareholders last year was a very modest amount to be paid to the proprietors of the bank, when we consider the size of the organization and the tremendous amount of business it is necessary to handle in order to earn that amount. Any other type of business working with assets of one and a half billion dollars would have been able to earn for shareholders a considerably larger return. If we consider this yield in relation to our two main earning assets, loans and investments, we find that the dividend paid to our shareholders was less than 1/5th of one cent on the dollar on the total of these two items, a very trifling handling charge, to say the least. I have never heard the claim made that Canadian banks are not efficiently run, therefore the answer must be that the profit in banking is small."

Mr. Dobson reported that the progress made by the bank's South American branches had been particularly gratifying and that its foreign branches were in a position to be of practical aid in promoting post-war trade.

The General Manager remarked on the efficient manner in which the bank's staff had dealt with tremendously increased business and provided new wartime services despite enlistments, and paid tribute to the enthusiasm and ability of the many young women who have joined the bank since the war began.

2,213 Enlistments

"The voluntary response of our staff to our country's call has been magnificent," said Mr. Dobson, "and there are now 2,123 men in the armed forces. Of this number 2,009 were employed in Canada, which is equivalent to 69% of our Canadian staff of military age at the outbreak of war.

"To these men the bank pays a portion of the difference between their bank salary and service pay. They retain their membership in the Pension Fund Society, and the bank pays their group insurance premiums. We shall welcome them when the time comes for them to return to their duties in the bank.

"Unhappily the number of casualties has doubled since I last reported to you; 67 of our young men have now given their lives in the cause. Their names, which we hold in honour, appear in the printed record of this meeting, and we extend our heartfelt sympathy to their families."

Vernon Foster Discusses Steel Compounds

The performance of electric sheet steel, one of the very many varieties of steel compounds used in industrial process and specially important for the manufacture of automotive products, was likened in several of its reactions to substances of the vegetable kingdom by Vernon S. Foster, C.G.E. engineer, in an address delivered to the Rotary Club Monday.

Discussing magnetic action, pliability and ductility of this type of steel, Mr. Foster, who is in charge of the Induction Motor Engineering Department at the C.G.E. plant, compared the metal's performance to the more familiar behavior commonly observed in wood when subjected to similar tests.

A graduate of Kansas University, for two years an instructor at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology and later at Penn State, Mr. Foster, who came to Peterborough for the C.G.E. in 1916, described to members of the club the bewildering array of chemical variations in the composition of alloy steels and the specialized needs many of these compounds have been designed to fill. There were, he said, some 110 varieties recognized by the Instittue of Automotive Engineers, and at the Peterborough plant of the C.G.E. the working list call for as many as 65 different steel compounds.

Not Much Help.

He said that as an aid to manufacturing industries the Wartime Prices and Trade Board had from time to time issued lists containing details of inactive steel piles located at various points across the country available to steel users but for the most part—and this was true of the local plant—this idle stock was of too highly specialized a nature to be of assistance in the normal run of production.

Mr. Foster related some of the difficulties that had arisen in patriotic and well-meaning projects of the war years designed to recover useable steel in large amounts by tearing down monuments and iron fences, by tearing up abandoned street railway tracks, and generally salvaging iron and steel products wherever they could be spared. It as found, he said, in almost every case that the cost of dismantling and scrapping would exceed by several times the cost of producing steel new. He revealed the present rate of steel production in the United States to be in the vicinity of 100,000,000 tons a year and that of Canada to be a little less than half the production per capital of the American industry.

In regard to electric welding, Mr. Foster had this to say: "Though now extensively applied to steel and replacing in many instances the older methods of riveting and bolting, welding cannot be employed indiscriminately. There are steels with which it will not work at all; steels where the weld simply won't take or where welding makes for a subsequent embrittlement of the product."

Introduced by Fred Reed, the speaker was extended the thanks of the club by George Roper.

The communique of Marshal Josip Broz (Tito) broadcast by the Free Yugoslav radio also reported the Germans were attempting to break through Partisan defence lines in Lika province, some 75 miles to the north.

Violent fighting was said to be taking place at Mrkonjicgrad, south of Banja Luka, where for three days Nazi motorized columns have been driving toward Glamoc.

There were sharp clashes in Montenegro and in one battle units of the Partisan 4th Division routed an detachment, killing 189 Nazis and wounding 170 more. Three field guns, 1,000 shells and stocks of war gear were captured.

Patriot forces were said to be operating within 25 miles of Zagreb, capital of Croatia, while other columns defeated a German force near Kocsevje, 30 miles northeast of Fiume.

Budapest dispatches, which reported the Partisan march on Zagreb, said also that the puppet chief of state, Dr. Ante Pavelic, had declared a state of emergency in the city and that 3,000 persons had been arrested while trying to flee to Tito's forces.

Interim Payment Of $10,000 Made To Nicholls Hospital By Council

Authorization of payment of an interim grant of $10,000 to the Nicholls Hospital Board by Council last night re-opened discussion of the civic hospital project, and was followed by the appointment of a special hospitalization committee composed of Aldermen Dutton, Sands and Glover and Mayor Hamilton to report to a committee of the whole council next Monday night.

By this immediate action the Council expected to be in a position to draft a definite policy next week and submit it to the Hospital Board as soon as a meeting can be arranged.

Three significant references to Peterborough's hospital problem seemed of salient interest in the discussion last night.

(1) Nicholls Hospital deficit this year was estimated at $40,000.

(2) The Hospital Board has been considering the terms of a private bill in the event of being presented to the Legislature.

(3) Peterborough has not enough hospital beds to qualify for the Drew Government's plan of assisted hospitalization which the Hon. Dr. R. P. Vivian, Minister of Health, is expected to introduce at the approaching sessions of the Legislature.

The Interim Grant

"The application of Nicholls Hospital Board for an interim grant of $10,000 was received at the last meeting of the Council, and was referred to the finance committee," Alderman Dutton said. "I am introducing it now in order that the Council can give it serious consideration."

Alderman Dutton said the Council had a responsibility to the hospital, and Mayor Hamilton interjected: "If we have, it might be better to take over the whole thing."

"The Board has no power to borrow money," Alderman Dutton explained. "They would have to go to the bank and increase their present overdraft."

"If Alderman Dutton makes that a motion to give them the $10,000, I'll second it," Alderman Glover agreed. "It brings more forcibly to attention the question that the whole situation has got to be considered as soon as possible. This council cannot go on passing accounts to the hospital without having more representation, or the matter must be cleared up in a manner more satisfactory to the majority of citizens."

Mayor Hamilton had briefly mentioned that the application was referred to the finance committee instead of being immediately disposed of as was the requisition from the two school boards and the Public Library Board. "They have no authority to ask for an interim grant."

Bank's Confidence

Alderman Dutton enlarged that reference to the Board's restricted financial position. "They have no borrowing power. The members would be individually and collectively responsible for any money borrowed. The fact that they have done so is a tribute to the confidence of the bank in the Board meeting its obligations."

Alderman Cotton:—"When will they be back again for another $10,000?"

Alderman Dutton: "They will be back for more than $10,000."

Alderman Ovens: "The deficit this year will be close to $40,000. The hospital is losing nurses all the time to other municipalities that are paying their nurses higher salares than we are."

Added to the Dutton-Glover resolution was a request to the Board to submit their financial statement for last year.

Alderman Sands and Curtis did not vote when Mayor Hamilton sounded the routine question "All in favor?"

"We have no legal right to give them the $10,000, and that's why I did not vote for it," Alderman Sands stated. The members of the council, he said, would be in the same position of liability as the members of the Hospital Board.

"We've got to get a private bill to do what we want," Alderman Cotton said.

Alderman Sands: "If we could get the two bodies in agreement, the Board and the Council, then we could go to Toronto."

It was Mayor Hamilton who relayed to the council the information which he received a short time ago from officials of the Ontario Department of Health that "Peterborough will not be in a position to accept the Government's hospital plans. We were told the Government is going to guarantee accounts, and with that there will be no deficits."

Alderman Dutton told the members the Hospital Board had been drafting a private bill and were just as anxious as the Council to find a solution to the hospital problem. "They feel there must be a new hospital."

Alderman Ovens, a Council representative on the Board, said the bill had not been advertised.

"I think they had better withdraw it," Mayor Hamilton said.

It was recalled that last year ex-Alderman Gordon had spent considerable time on a draft bill, but nothing came of it. Mayor Hamilton said he remembered that Dr. J. C. Cameron had telephoned him about the Board working on a bill, but His Worship said he did not think it had progressed far. "I felt that the Board should not be called in until the Council had agreed on some policy."

Alderman Ovens said some proposed changes were to be submitted to the Council.

Mayor Hamilton—"They weren't. We haven't agreed on anything, and I don't know how we are going to."

Need People's Support

Alderman Sands—"To get the support of the people we have got to have a civic hospital. If the Board wished to build a wing or something like that it would be all right. If they were confident of the fact that we were going to build a hospital, and leave them with an antiquated piece of machinery, they'd get out of it as fast as they could. Of course, in the meantime there is still the problem at the hospital."

Endowment Question

Conversation touched upon secondairy issues such as the ultimate disposition of the endowment to the Hospital by Mrs. Charlotte Nicholls, through the Protestant churches of the city and the trustees they were empowered to appoint; and also "where the $40,000 is to come from."

Alderman Dutton said he was convinced that, not religion, but denominationalism should be divorced from a new hospital.

"We don't want any more Protestant or Catholic about it," said Mayor Hamilton.

Alderman Dutton said the Board was in favor of a new hospital. "The only problem with the Board is the endowment," he added.

Alderman Sands suggestion as the next procedure, after the appointment of the special hospitalization committee, that this committee should meet first and then report to the Council "decide what we have in mind, and then meet the Nicholls Hospital Board and see whether they approve our plan."

That course effect agreement, and Mayor Hamilton arranged for the council to meet in committee of the whole next Monday night. The committee was named in a motion by Alderman Cotton, seconded by Alderman Curtis.

Mailing System Speeds Soldier Letters

LONDON, Jan. 18 — (CP). —(Delayed).—Sometimes men of R.C.A.F. squadrons in the Mediterranean theatres speak sharply of the activity—or lack of activity—of mail bag crews, but it's not the fault of Flt. Ltd. Al Davies of Prince Rupert, B.C., and his 25-man staff.

The service mailmen have welcomed inauguration of the R.C.A.F. airmail service for Canadian members of the armed forces. It enables them, said Sqdn. Ldr. John Clare to-day, to get mail to its intended recipients more quickly.

The mailmen combine many of the qualities of a missing persons bureau, a beagle and a friend from home. They work late night after night, and through Davies' office goes all the mail for men of the R.C.A.F. serving in North Africa, Gibraltar, Italy, th Middle East, Iran and Iraq and far-off India.

The same office handles army mail, but not in such great quantities, since the Canadian army has a supplementary establishment nearer to where the bulk of Canadian soldier personnel is stationed.

There are bound to be some letters which foil the efforts of the post office boys. These "no record" letters are held for 90 days and then returned to senders. The various sections even exchange lists of such letters and parcels in the hope that a clue may be obtained from this pooling of information.

Cable Another Donation Tuesday Students' Council Gives $300

Two important topics are connected with today's story on behalf of the Peterborough and District British War Victims' Fund, both of them concerned with each other, for one was made possible through the other, having considerably assisted to chalk up another record of achievement in the history of the funds operations.

On December 21, the largest amount of money sent at any one time was cabled to the Lord Mayor of London in an amount of £1,600, and this morning another £500 was sent to give further aid to the sufferers from air raids over Britain, a record achievement in point of time, for looking back for the same period last year, it was disclosed that not until March 4 was another gift sent, following the special donation sent at Christmas time.

Students' Council Gives $300

Taking a leading part in this, and also providing the final amount necessary to complete this latest objective, the secretary of the fund attended the morning assembly at the Peterborough Collegiate and Vocational Schools on Monday, where a cheque for the splendid amount of $300 was presented to the fund by Miss Phyllis Robinson on behalf of the Students' Council, an organization representative of all the students by virtue of its being the only one of its kind to which all belong.

This for the first time in its history is headed by a member of the fair sex in the person of Miss Mildred Spicer as president, while Donald Smith is secretary, and Miss Robinson the treasurer.

This represents another in a series of assists that have come to the fund from the same source, in which their War Finance Committee also had a hand, and is a timely reminder that the young folk today under the leadership of their principal and teachers, are very much alive to the opportunity for service, for it should be remembered they have done, and still are doing a splendid work in the sale of War Saving Certificates and Stamp besides having given two mobile canteens direct to the people of Britain, which they purchased as a result of their own efforts to take a hand in the successful prosecution of the war effort.

High Commissioner's Advice

Quite unintentionally given, one could discern an earnestness as to their desire to do the best possible with the funds they had available, when Miss Robinson in making the presentation disclosed that they had written to the Hon. Vincent Massey, High Commissioner for Canada in Great Britain, seeking his advice as to where they could best apply this money in the war effort, who had recommended that they give it to the Lord Mayor's National Air Raid Distress Fund, and in following his advice they add to, and one again play their part in bringing credit to their native city as well, by sending it through the local fund operated purely for that purpose.

In due recognition of the part that the students have thus played in this latest contribution (theirs being the largest single contribution in this particular gift), the cable to the Lord Mayor of London advising him of this despatch, contained the following phrase, "Final amount needed to complete this one gift, was given by High School students."

One could hardly take part in such a scene as was enacted by this presentation, without recalling days now long past, and hoping that all of the large group present would in the years to come have pleasant memories of having participated in a deed which was to do such good for the people of Britain, at a time when it meant a great deal to them, from out of which they might find inspiration to go on and excell in further deeds of good for others.

Two other contributions are listed today, one of them for $3 coming from Mrs. Bird, S.S. No. 5, Otonabee, and the other as a result of the sale of three of the remaining six Kaleidescopes donated by the Roy Powell family a short while before Christmas, which had already raised over $25 for the fund.

With this latest gift of £500 cabled today, the fund has now sent a total of £16,200 to help the thousands who have lost their homes in Britain, carrying its message of practical sympathy, and hope of better days to come.

200 Gas Coupons Are Stolen

The Shell gas station at Charlotte and Rubidge streets was broken into during the night and gas coupons representing between 500 and 600 gallons of gasoline, two batteries and a number of coppers were stolen.

Entrance was gained by breaking a window at the west side of the place. After the intruders had got inside they broke into the cash till and stole the coppers that were there and then forced open a tin box containing the gasoline coupons.

In addition to the two batteries that were taken the thieves had left a third one on a widow-sill as if they had been frightened off and left in a hurry.

Police think that one of them must have cut himself in forcing the window because there were blood stains there and around the cash-till.

An attempt had been made to ransack an automobile parked in the rear of the station and the handle of the car door had been broken.

The break-in was discovered at 3.40 o'clock this morning by Constable Percy Sexsmith.

James Dutton Is Re-elected Head Of Health Board

With D. V. Canning replacing D. G. H. Melton as representative of the Board of Education, the Board of Health elected Alderman Dutton as chairman for the year at its first meeting this morning.

The appointing motion by Alderman Sullivan was seconded by Dr. R. A. Kelly, M.O.H.

Engagement of a supervising Public Health Nurse as successor to Miss Geraldine Conley who went to Kingston at the turn of the year was one of the topics of organization discussed. Dr. Kelly reported that Miss Edna Moore, Toronto, Chief Public Health Nurse with the Ontario Department of Health, had informed him that no qualified nurse is at present available for the local vacancy, and also that none is expected until June when the present class of Public Health nursing students graduate. Then, Miss Moore suggested, arrangements might be then made to substitute a graduate in one of the municipalities now supplied with two qualified nurses, leaving one of them available for Peterborough.

In the meantime Dr. Kelly and Alderman Dutton were instructed to interview applicants for a position on the Board's staff but not as supervisor. It was said that none of the applicants has Public Health nursing qualifications.

Lauds D. Melton

Alderman Dutton thanked the members of the Board for again appointing him chairman. On behalf of his associates he welcomed Mr. Canning a new member, "No doubt he knows that Mr. Melton was a very valued member and made a splendid contribution of service. We feel sure that Mr. Canning will soon come to know and appreciate the importance of the Board's work."

Dr. Kelly in his December report expressed "deep regret" of the resignation of Miss Conley "as the firm foundation on which public health in Peterborough rests at the present time is due, I believe, in large part to her efforts. I must say that her advice and counsel has been invaluable in becoming acquainted with local conditions. Miss Conley will be missed. However, we wish her every success in her new duties in Kingston. Attempts to engage a replacement have been unsuccessful."

Flu Epidemic

Dr. Kelly mentioned the influenza epidemic which reached its peak in December. Its severity was not great and local mortality was low, but the disease was highly infectious, resulting in many cases and much lost time. "The staff of the Health Department did not escape, and most of the members at some time during the month were absent due to illness."

Sixteen patients were treated at the isolation hospital during the month for a total of 95 hospital days. Seven were discharged, eight remained in, and one died, a child with influenzal meningitis who expired after one day.

Tuberculosis Cases

"During December the Travelling Chest Clinic X-rayed 133 persons. Also three new cases were reported. Two of these are at present in sanatorium, and arrangements are being made for admission of the other."

Details of the clinic in Miss Conley's report showed that of the 133 persons 84 were residents of the city and 49 non-resident.

The number attending for the first time was 89, of whom 53 were resident and 36 non-resident.

Diagnosed as active cases 5, three from the city and 2 non-resident.

Suspect cases under observation 4, three from the city and one non-resident.

Arrested cases 4; attending as contacts 87; and as non-contacts 24.

This was only one phase of the public health work reviewed by Miss Conley. Others included health supervision visits; child hygiene clinics and immunization treatments in child hygiene clinics.

FIRE REPORT.

Defective wiring at the back of the house of Ernest Ferren, 516 Elm Street, according to Chief Gimblett, resulted in a fire that caused damage last night estimated at $150 Smoke was first noticed just before six o'clock by the Ferren children who were playing outside. The wall between the kitchen and garage was where the fire got its start. Two fires this morning occurred at 10:43 a.m. and 11 o'clock. The first, at 533 Harvey Street, was occasioned by overheated pipes and the other, at 188 Perry Street, was a chimney fire. No damage was caused.

ARRIVES OVERSEAS—Mrs. W. N. Foster and son David, 444 Dublin Street, have received word that Sub-Lieut. "Nels" Foster has arrived overseas. He is a gunnery officer.

Police Request Commission To Increase Pay

Action on a request from the members of the Peterborough police department for an increase in salary was deferred until the estimates are being considered when it came before the board of police commissioners at the annual monthly meeting of that body Monday.

The communication, signed by every member of force from Chief Newhall down, called attention to what it called the inadequate salaries at present paid in the local department and gave figures as to the scale paid in other Ontario cities.

At present first-class constables in Peterborough are paid a salary of $1,500 a year and in addition there is a cost of living bonus of $179 a year.

Figures as other cities showed the salaries paid first-class constables as follows: Sarnia, $145. per month with a cost-of-living bonus of $19.50 per month. Kingston $1550. with a bonus of $4.77 per pay. Woodstock $1450. with a 7 per cent bonus. Oshawa, $1800, with a bonus of $4.60 per week, Brantford, $5. a day, with a bonus of $18.42 a month, Sault Ste Marie, $135. a month, Belleville $1,700, St. Catharines, $4.75 a day with $17.60 a month bonus, Niagara Falls, $1782 to 1,800, a bonus of $3. a week for married men, Chatham, $1,700, no bonus, Owen Sound, $1,800, and North York $1,900 and a bonus of $206.10 a year.

The decision to defer action was taken with little discussion. Mayor Hamilton pointed out that under the new government orders cost of living bonuses were to be made part of regular salaries in February.

"We are dependent upon the city council for our funds; said Judge S. L. Smoke "We will have to consider this matter when we are striking our estimates."

On motion of Magistrate E. A. Gee seconded by Judge Smoke action was deferred until the estimates are being prepared.

On motion of Judge Smoke, seconded by Mayor Hamilton, no action was taken on a request from Officer Archie Menzies that he be raised to detective's pay. The communication pointed out that he had been acting detective for four years and added that his A. R. P. training had made him a better officer.

"We have another detective, Naples" pointed out Judge Smoke. "He would quite naturally expect to be also raised to detective status.

NEW WILMINGTON, Del., Jan. 18 (AP).—Army and navy cadets at Westminster College chuckled "It must be the Leap Year influence" when they noted a biology textbook entitled "Man." Rope For Nazis

BUFFALO, N.Y., Jan. 18.—(AP).—A customs invoice declaring 'clothes' was made out for 50 feet of rope sent to a German prisoner of war in Canada, Emil Auer, defence witness in the United States government's suit to denaturalize 11 alleged former members of the German-American Bund, admitted yesterday in Federal court. Auer, former leader of the Buffalo Bund, said he made out the invoice Oct. 23, 1942, while serving as head of the German prisoner-relief work here.

Peterborough-born "Flying Grandmother" Plans To Learn To Fly A Helicopter For Movie

OTTAWA, Jan. 18 (CP) — Mrs. Wallace P. Cohoe, the Canadian-born "flying grandmother" who obtained a pilot's licence after reaching her 61st birthday, is going to learn to fly a helicopter. Here on a visit from her New York home, Mrs. Cohoe, now 63, said that a movie company has asked her to learn to fly a helicopter. She said she planned to start her training course shortly.

Mrs. Cohoe, a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. David Rubidge, of Peterborough, said that she always wanted to fly but didn't get the opportunity until after Pearl Harbor. Then she signed up with the U.S. Civil Air Patrol.

She passed all medical exams and other tests and when she took the pilot's course she headed a class of 20.

Although somewhat reticient about her success, she admitted that her instructor has said she is a good flier and could do most of the advanced army and navy manoeuvre.

From here, she plans to go to Montreal and Toronto.

Legion Doubled Membership In Past Year

The first monthly meeting of the New Year was held on Monday evening in the Canadian Legion Hall, with a large turnout of members, President George Gimblett occupying the chair.

Discussion was very lively on the various matters brought before the meeting, and tended to show the interest that the members are taking in Legion affairs.

The year just ended proved to be one of the best years enjoyed by the branch, with membership being doubled, as 264 new members joined during that time.

Reporting on property, Peter Wallace said that work on improvements to the building will be under way in the course of a month or so.

Four ailing members were visited by the sick committee, and President Gimblett advised that Provincial Command at Toronto have been requested to do all possible in looking to the comfort of the branch padre, Rev. Dr. George S. Easton, who is at present very ill in a Toronto hospital.

Allan Wade said that the Christmas poultry draw in aid of the Poppy Fund showed a net gain of $664.09.

Robert Hotrum, reporting on bingo activities, said that during the month of December both Wednesday and Friday night bingos were very successful, the overseas cigarette bingo sending to the soldiers overseas 183 lots of 300 cigarettes for a total of 54,900, and that for the year of 1943, 1,299 lots totalling 389,700 cigarettes had been forwarded.

Seven members were initiated at the meeting.

Brooks Is Given Term In Jail

A sentence of one month in the county jail was imposed by Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., in police court this morning on Harold Brooks after the latter had pleaded guilty to a charge of having received four men's shirts, stolen from Zellers store, knowing them to have been stolen.

Brooks had originally been charged with stealing the shirts but that charge was dismissed this morning when the crown offered no evidence. Previously he had entered a plea to receiving.

Officer John Naples testified that investigating a complaint from the Hotel Champlain that there was a man there trying to sell shirts he had arrested Brooks and four shirts taken from Zeller's, had been found under the man's sweater when searched.

"That's quite true" said the accused when the officer had finished his evidence.

"I'd like a minimum sentence" said Brooks "This is the first time I have been mixed up in this kind of thing." The accused said that the shirts had been given him to sell by a friend who had got his discharge from the army.

"This record is not as bad as it looks" said Magistrate Langley in glancing over a document handed him by Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry, K.C., "Most of these have been liquor charges."

He then imposed a month's imprisonment but declined to date the sentence back to the date of Brooks' arrest.

Police Recover Stolen Butter

TORONTO, Jan. 18 — (CP). — Recovery of about half of nearly a ton of butter which police said was destined for the black market after it was stolen from the Stouffville Creamery Friday was made here today following the arrest of three men and a woman in connection with the case.

Held on charges of shop breaking are Fred Taylor, 28, his brother, James Taylor, 17; Murray Quinn, 18 and Evelyn Hicken, 34, all of Toronto.

The police said half of the stolen butter, wrapped in the Stouffville Company wrappers, was found in a raid on a garage. The rest had been sold on the black market, they believed. Five pounds of butter were seized at the home of one of the four arrested, police said, along with a radio stolen from the creamery. A loaded revolver was also found, they said.

Stouffville is about 18 miles to the northeast of Toronto.

Expect $500,000 For City Hall

Mayor Hamilton's reference in his address to the council at its inaugural to the necessity of increased action on some of the problems that are beginning to press upon the community's attention was translated into the first form of substance with the appointment of Monday night of several committees charged with the responsibility of getting on with these undertakings.

Even a city planning committee was mentioned, but no appointment was made.

City Treasurer Shaver estimated the W. G. Morrow legacy to the city for a new municipal building would probably amount to half a million dollars by the time work was begun. The members of the postwar plan committee are: Aldermen Glover, Dutton, Sullivan and Curtis.

Alderman Sullivan told the council that the enquiry into space needed for the various departments which would be housed in the city hall had been carried on by a special committee, and that its report would be ready within three weeks. The council would then be in a position to turn it over to an Architect, and from that stage the next information would be the area of ground required, and the site needed.

Farmer Is Charged With Abandoning Cats

John Maxwell Sandy, a Cavan Township farmer, pleaded not guilty to an unusual charge before Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., in police court this morning. The indictment, after being amended by the magistrate, charged the Cavan man with having "wantonly, cruelly or unnecessarily abandoned in distress two cats."

The charge was laid by Humane Inspector Gerald Dunford after a complaint had been received by him from a woman that on December 17, a car had stopped in front of her home on Reid street near Edinburgh street and two cats had been thrown out.

The prosecution was not ready to proceed this morning and the case was adjourned for a week.

out of their money, or make foolish investments, and lose it all in from 10 to 15 years.

It is true that a mother will nearly always divide with her children. Especially when they are in trouble or if they are greedy. Let John get in debt or in the clutches of a gold-digger woman, or Mary get the society bug, and Mother, without hesitation, takes the money that should have gone to her good children and pays John out of debt and finances Mary's social ambitions. The truest story in all the world is the story of the prodigal son.

As I see the will-making proposition, it boils down to just this: The man who is leaving a small estate should leave it all to his widow during her lifetime, tied up so she cannot spend it, then the children get their proportion of it. But if a man has a comfortable estate, as we say, or riches, he should divide it equally between his wife and the children. AND he should tie up the widow's and the girls' part tight and fast so that they cannot get their hands on the principal to either give away or speculate with, or even to buy them young husbands when they are old.

DEAR MISS DIX: I am a woman 36 years of age and have been going with a man for the past twelve years. We have always gotten along very well together and have made plans for our marriage after the war.

Recently he was inducted into military service and through a letter I have been informed that he is going out with some local girl from the town near the camp where he is stationed. He was always very wonderful to me, thinking of little things that would give me pleasure, so now I don't know which way to turn after giving him the best years of my life. What shall I do? LINDA B.

Time to Just Sit and Wait.

ANSWER: Do nothing. This is a time in which your best play is to show masterly inactivity. No woman ever fans the flickering flame of a man's fancy for her by reproaching him with his having gotten tired of her and showing jealousy of another woman.

Especially is this the case when the affair is one of the long-drawn-out ones which has dragged along without the man ever bringing himself to the point of asking the girl to name the day. Branch Cabell says that there are no other words in the world so terrible and that a man hates to listen to like having a woman say to him: "I have given you the best years of my life."

So you see you, at least, hold a strategic position. Don't jeopardize it by being jealous and demanding a showdown. It is your surest way of losing out.

Just ignore the girl episode. Do not write the man that you have even heard of her. Probably he is just having a little idle flirtation that means nothing. If you have waited twelve years for him, you can wait a little longer. Evidently he is no ball of fire as a lover, anyway, so why do you want to bother with him?

his family."

"This destroys the very idea for which we are now fighting," she went on, "because individual freedom and initiative is the essential part of democracy. Each Canadian should be allowed to make his own decisions, and to have a voice in the shaping of Canada's future."

Keep Up On News

Gordon K. Fraser, M.P., spoke briefly to the ladies, stressing the idea that they should read the papers, know the plans being made for the future, and form ideas of their own on the subject. He suggested clipping statements of different men in the public eye from the paper and keeping them, to give an insight into the trend of the times.

Harold Scott, M.P.P., also addressed the meeting for a few minutes, and reviewed the 22 points of the Progressive Conservative platform, telling of work being done and plans being formed for the future.

Discuss Problems

Mrs. John Cridland was in the chair for the meeting, and reports from the study groups which had just been formed by the ladies of the group were heard, and it was decided to continue. These groups were formed to discuss plans for Canada's future, and suggest ways and means of solving difficulties.

Senator Fallis was greatly in favour of them, and said that it would help women to keep interested in the future, and also help them become accustomed to expressing themselves in public. "They need not necessarily be party groups," she went on, "just any group of ladies who want to become better acquainted with the world today, and the better world of tomorrow which is being formed."

During the business session of the meeting, a resolution was read by the president, stating that a larger clothing allowance should be given to members of the armed forces being discharged, and also a sum of money in proportion to the length of service given to the country, and the members decided to support this resolution.

The president also announced that the next meeting of the group would be the annual meeting, and that the election of officers would be held.

The Stars Say

For Wednesday, January 19.

Operations of major significance with continued opportunity for attaining productive, progressive and pleasant aspirations and ambitions are still the vividly engrossing topic with much of an exceptional importance to challenge the resources, talents and above all good common sense, since there is a menace of sudden nature to undermine, hinder, or defeat the attained gain by reckless and high-handed activities, inciting to antagonism, quarrels and other definite opposition from desirable vantage points. Emotional, unreasonable and impetuous conduct would precipitate much loss, while friendliness, compromise and resort to social congeniality would offset threatened dangers.

Year of Importance.

Those whose birthday it is should be prepared to meet a year of outstanding importance in bringing to them promotion, progress, honors, and ambitious achievements, with much joy and gratification in accomplished hopes and wishes. It is a time for moving with keen and powerful resources to high goals, but with logic, sound plans and purpose, with wit, sagacity and vision, and not through excessive zeal or strenuous emotional urges, which are destined to aggravate those in place and power to resentment, antagonism or other gestures of opposition. Restraint of impulses, erratic outbursts or other rash indulgences, would be detrimental. Placade, compromise and sociability might offset powerful explosions or determined aggression. Maintain calm and be sensible in crises.

A child born on this day will be endowed with rich abilities and talents for exceptional success and happiness in life, with prestige and honors. It might profit by early training, and discipline in self-restraint and emotional control.

Light Sentences Given Draft Dodgers

TORONTO, Jan. 18 (CP).—Suspended sentence for six months today was granted to Maurice Mandel and Aaron Weber, found guilty of conspiracy to evade military service.

Judge James Parker, who convicted the men in county criminal court, also convicted Theodore Clavir on similar charges and remanded him till January 24 for sentence.

Clair is facing another charge on a similar offence and is to be tried on this charge by Judge Ian MacDonnell later in the day.

Spirit Of Religion Remains Unchanged

The "after church" service in the Regent Theatre Sunday evening had Harold Wardell, a baritone soloist from Islington.

The speaker, Reg Layzelles, a business man from Toronto, delivered a heart- searching address from the texts, "For I am the Lord, I change not" and "Jesus Christ the same yesterday today and forever." He pointed out that while conditions change and the world becomes more modern has never changed but can and does meet changing conditions.

The Divinity of Christ is the bedrock of Christian belief. Take that away and only an empty shell remains, he said. Mr. Layzelles referred to the testimony of science that the Bible is inspired and its revelation is true to the testimony of the late Queen Victoria that the greatness of the British Empire is based on the Bible and to the testimony of the greatest generals, Alexander, Montgomery and Dobbie, that they believed in the Divinity of Jesus Christ and his power to save men from their sins.

Finally, he pointed out, that all the churches were built by men who believed in the same truth that Jesus Christ is the same yesterday, today and forever.

Canadians Destroy 60 German Tanks

TORONTO, Jan. 18 (CP) Canadian tank units destroyed more than 60 German tanks in 35 days of fighting in Italy from the opening of the attack on the German Moro river line until the enemy's defences on the ridges running to Ortona were overwhelmed, Bert. S. Wemp, Telegram war correspondent in Italy, said in a dispatch published in his newspaper today.

Wemp wrote that one unit with most of its men from Oshawa, Ont., destroyed four enemy tanks in five minutes and 16 in the 35 days. The unit is commanded by an Oshawa business man and with him is Major Bruce Kerr of Brantford.

Drop Closing Period

TORONTO, Jan. 18—(CP)—The Globe and Mail reported in a newspage story today that A. St. Clair Gordon, chief commissioner of the Ontario Liquor Control Board, will tell the Hotel Association of Ontario when he addresses their convention here today, that the Board is considering dropping the two-hour closing period on Saturday and holidays. At present all beverage rooms close between two and four each afternoon.

Sporting Chili Con Carne: With the announcement from Navy headquarters that no Navy teams may participate in Allan or Memorial Cup playdowns the last of the service clubs pass out of the Dominion hockey picture....The finals will be a drab affair....Hon. With Boys In Services

The editor of this column will welcome extracts from letters from boys serving or any other information concerning them.

By JEAN STENTON

AW 1 VIOLET HOBSON

Having graduated from No. 2 Composite Training School, Toronto, as a clerk stenographer, AW1 Violet May Hobson of Peterborough has been posted to Prince Edward Island with the Women's Division of the R.C.A.F.

That shining new gold "Canada" badge on the shoulder of a Wren's uniform does not necessarily mean that she has been or is going to go overseas. All personnel of the Women's Royal Canadian Naval service now are to wear the new badges regardless of where they are serving, a new naval order says.

The best news Mrs. Charles Rose, 423 Driscoll Terrace, has received in a long time was contained in a letter from her son, Pte. Donald Rose, who is attached to the British North African force, telling her that his brother, Vern Rose, who was reported missing a few months ago, is believed to be a prisoner of war. Two or three men of his unit have told Pte. Rose that there is no doubt that he was captured by the enemy and he was being well treated the last news they had of him. It was officially confirmed today with the arrival of a prisoner of war card.

North Africa is proving a fascinating place, in the opinion of Pte. Rose. There are all kinds of fruit, including oranges, dates and figs, and the trees are mostly cork. Cactus plants are plentiful. Though cold at night, it is warm in the daytime, and every so often the men have a swim parade in the Mediterranean. Ninety per cent of the population is Arab, and the remainder French, but with the use of the sign language and a little French, the men manage to get around.

Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Withers, 370 Burnham street, have received the word that their second son, Gunner Kenneth Withers, has arrived overseas, with the Royal Canadian Artillery. His brother, LAC. Harry W. Withers, has been in Britain with the R.C.A.F. for a year, having formerly been with the C.G.E. Gunner Withers left the Johnson Motors to enlist in November, 1942, and he trained at Brampton, Petawawa, Sussex and Debert.

SGT. R. PARCELS

HAVELOCK, Jan. 18 (ENS). — Sgt. Reginald Parcels, son of Mrs. Minnie Parcels, Alexandria street, has arrived overseas, according to word received by his mother. He enlisted with the Canadian Anti-Tank, R.U., in February, 1942, at Peterborough and trained at Ottawa, Cornwall, Petawawa and Debert. Before enlisting he was employed at the Havelock Creamery. His only brother, Stoker Floyd Parcels, R.C.N.V.R., is overseas.

Another Hastings boy, Gnr. Pat V. Pettigrew, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Pettigrew has arrived in Sicily. He was with the 64th Battery, 21st Field Regt. and enlisted in Toronto in July, 1942. He took his training in Kingston, Petawawa and St. John's, Que., and went overseas in August 1943.

Permission has been granted to members of Canadian Women's Army Corps to wear the small red arrow circle "Mars" army badge insignia which is issued to trained soldiers. The insignia is the Mars zodiac sign.

Soldiers overseas are gratefully acknowledging receipts of Christmas parcels which were sent by I.O.D.E. and among the latest to get one is Dvr. W. Eastabrook, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. Eastbrook, of Western Avenue. Stationed in England for some time Dvr. Eastabrook wrote his sister, Mrs. Charles Rusk, Elm street, that the parcel contained the name of Mrs. C. L. Sackville, 20 Maria street.

A pleasant smile, a cheery greeting and efficient service greet the prospective members of the Women's Division of the R.C.A.F., when they report at the Recruiting Centre, 200 Bay street, Toronto. An attractive comrade-in-arms sits at the reception desk along with an airman, to guide strangers to the places where they have to report.

After passing through a series of offices, a girl wanting to become part of the Women's Division is placed in an attractive waiting room where the walls are lined with tables and it is here that she writes out her application form. After an interview with Flight Officer Kathleen Fitzmaurice, whose office is alongside, she is then shot into the sanctum which belongs to the medical officer.

The tall, grey-haired, serene faced, medico, Flt. Officer Betty Mahaffy, born in Ontario but who hails from Alberta, is one of the most popular people at the Centre and green recruits draw a good deal of reassurance from her matter of fact sallies. Nothing has been known to escape her eagle eye and if a recruit receives her O.K. on a physical, she is in tip top shape. Flt. O. Mahaffy took part of her training at the Toronto General Hospital and practiced in Red Deer, Alta. In addition she spent five years in India as a doctor.

Both men and women write the tests upon the fourth floor of the Bay street building under the supervision of an airman and a W.D. It is away from everything else and is quiet, so that the hustle and bustle of the down stairs offices will not disturb the applicants.

LAC. W. WILDMAN

LAC. William Wildman, R.C.A.F. has arrived overseas according to a cable received by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. Wildman, of 100 Morrow street. Before enlisting about a year ago, he was employed in the Tool Design at the Genelco.

A check up on Examiner records reveals the following figures for the city and district since the outbreak of the war as casualties, and doesn't include those wounded In the Air Force, 63 are killed or missing, believed dead; 47 in the Army have been killed; and six in the Navy are listed as casualties. Thirty-six boys have been reported as prisoners of war and 22 men and women have been decorated.

Farmers Discuss Hog Grading Prices

OTTAWA, Jan. 18 (CP)—Committees representative of Canadian farmers were in session here today reviewing the application of prices to different grades of hogs.

The conference, called by Agriculture Minister Gardiner, is expected to result in major revisions in the method of evaluating hogs by grade. Already the Dominion Government has announced it will pay a premium of $3 a head for "A" grade hogs and $2 for "B1" to encourage quality production.

The sessions are being attended by officials of the Canadian meat board and the agricultural food board, with the advisory committee of both.

The suggestion has been that a graduated scale of discounts might be established, authorities said. This would mean that a hog greatly overweight would be penalized more severely in price than an animal which was out of the select class by only a small margin.

Business Girls' Club Raises $2,150 For War

LINDSAY, Jan. 18 — (ENS). — Lindsay Business Girls' Club raised $2,150 for war service work during 1943 it was reported at the annual meeting. In addition to sending nearly one quarter of a million cigarettes, the club made contributions to Red Cross, Russian Relief, Chinese Relief, Salvation Army, Overseas Parcels League and Navy League. The club also aided in the campaign for war savings certificates and entertained several military forces that visited Lindsay.

Miss Florence Kay was elected president for 1944 with the following slate of officers, Vice president, Stella Graham; secretary, Rita Fox; treasurer, Leona Ryan; overseas cigarette fund, Grace Theroux and Mae Endicott.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

TRY TO AVOID FINESSE

THINKING in terms of finesse mars the game of many otherwise pretty good players. Thinking in terms of avoiding finesses is a much more profitable habit and one which marks an important difference between the fine cardsman and the general run of bridge devotees. It will pay you to strain more in the direction of making your opponents do part of the work for you, through leads that are bound to help your cause.

If South had deliberately tried to get his contract beaten, he could not have done better than one declarer actually accomplished. He won the spade K lead with the A, so that he could promptly set out on his plan of taking as many finesses as he could. To do this, he led then to the heart K and sent the diamond J through to the K. West returned the diamond 6 to the 10, and now the club 9 and 10 lost to the J.

The club came back, the Q winning, and South also cashed the club A, followed by the diamond A and Q and the heart A. With only little cards left, he sent the heart 10 to the J, and two spade tricks then finished him.

At another table, South let the spade K hold the first trick. A repeat of the suit would have given South two tricks, so West switched to the heart 2. The Q lost to the A. Deciding that West probably had the heart J, South counted nine tricks in sight without any diamond finesse. He laid down the A, then the Q to the K. The heart 3 came back, the 9 winning. Then he scored the diamond J and 10, finessed the club Q, as an extra trick try since game was now sure, scored the heart K, club A and spade A, giving up a spade at the end and scoring an extra trick.

Lone Officer Brings Ship To Port

MILLBROOK, Jan. 18 — (ENS) —Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Bridge who lived in Peterborough for more than 20 years received word from his sister in Hull, England, telling how their nephew Chief Officer Gordon Marshall, of the merchant marine, sole surviving officer saved his ship by sailing a course by the stars.

"His ship bombed and blazing, the captain dead, nine others of the crew killed or wounded, and the compass smashed, 28-year-old Chief Officer Gordon Marshal, the mate of a merchant ship, steered a perilous course by the stars. Next morning he found the convoy from which he had dropped astern when the enemy plane dived in the darkness. Then he made for the nearest port and saved his ship and cargo.

On leave at his home, near Hull, Marshall said that the first tragedy began earlier in the voyage when three of the crew died, and he as second mate, then became second in command. When the attack came he had to get the ship under control again quell the fires and tend the wounded.

Blown Off Bridge

"It was a miracle I did not get killed too," he said, "for I was with the others on the bridge, and was blown down by the blast, but escaped without a scratch. The whole ship was a shambles. I was the only officer left, and there were about eight sailors, one of whom I put at the wheel.

"We had not sufficient hose to play on the fires, but though we did not put them out we kept the fires down till we limped into the port. It was the first time I had ever steered by the stars."

Foolproof Coupons Coming For Motorists

TORONTO, Jan. 18 — (CP). — In an effort to halt an increasing flow of illicit gasoline coupons the Oil Controller's Offices will issue new "fool-proof" coupons on April 1, it was learned here today.

The coupons, of paper specially manufactured for the department, will be colored according to the motorist's category and drivers will be required to write their vehicle's number across each coupon before the service station operator is permitted to sell gasoline.

The book will be bound in such a fashion that it is believed it will be impossible for any person to present a detached coupon.

New Beauty Method can bring you smoother, softer skin!
PROVE IT IN YOUR OWN HOME!

Compare your shoulders with your face. Isn't it true they look years younger? You see, shoulders stay smooth, soft, elastic—while faces have pores clogged with make-up, unable to breathe for hours at a time. And when pores can't breathe, skin becomes lifeless and prematurely aged. But this needn't happen to your complexion. Palmolive can keep your complexion young.

Look younger in 14 days! Each time you wash, with a face cloth massage Palmolive's lather into your skin for—one full minute. Then, a quick rinse and pat dry! It's this 60-second Palmolive Massage that—in just 14 days—can give your complexion the elastic soft smoothness of shoulder skin.

Canadians Get Top Notch War Coverage

OTTAWA, Jan. 18 (CP)—Canadians receive as thorough and clear-cut a report on the activities of their army in Italy and Sicily as the people of any country have yet received on forces overseas, Joseph W. G. Clark, chief of information for the armed forces, said last night on his return from a lengthy visit overseas.

This happened, he said, despite many difficulties encountered by the war correspondents and the public relations officers in the forces.

Careful and detailed plans have been made for reporting Canadian participation in the new invasion of western Europe now believed to be in prospect, he added.

With the experience gained in the Mediterranean theatre he was sure the arrangements would work smoothly and that Canadians newspapers will receive a steady flow of live news from the fronts on which Canadian forces are engaged.

Mr. Clark had high praise for the newspaper and radio correspondents with the army and for the public relations officers with all three services.

In North Africa, Italy and Sicily he found air force public relations officers doing a "great job" covering air activities which war correspondents could not cover.

In London, Northern Ireland and in the Mediterranean area he found naval public relations officers covering news of the Canadian Navy and extending cooperation to newspaper correspondents.

Ortona Was Tough

"Before the assault of Ortona was launched by the Canadians I had a good look at the front from the roof of a house on a ridge overlooking the valley and hillside occupied by the enemy," said Mr. Clark.

"Two hours before dawn the next morning our barrage opened up. Terrific is the only word that fits it. Our men knew that the opposition would be tough and hard, as a crack German parachute division was opposite.

"Enemy resistance was tough, hard and vicious, but the Canadians were tougher and harder, just as vicious and more determined. The fighting in Ortona was from house to house, room to room. It was as grim as war can be and Ortona will be a proud name in the battle honors of many Canadian regiments.

"While much has been written and said about the part Canadian airmen are playing in the daylight raiding of Europe and the merciless bombing of Berlin and other targets in Germany by night, I sometimes wonder if the people of Canada appreciate the full sense of our participation.

"It is far beyond the comprehension of people so removed from contact with the war theatres."

In the Mediterranean theatre, Mr. Clark said he talked to Douglas Amaron, William Stewart and Maurice Desjardins of The Canadian Press; William Wilson of British United Press; Sholto Watt of the Montreal Star; Wallace Reyburn of the Montreal Standard; Maj. Bert Wemp of the Toronto Telegraph; Gregory Clark (his brother) of the Toronto Star; Ralph Allen of the Toronto Globe and Mail; Dick Sanburn of the Southam newspapers, and J. A. M. Cook of the Sifton newspapers.

Saw Them All

He saw Matthew Halton and Marcel Ouimet of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation.

While in London Mr. Clark saw, among other Canadian correspondents, Ross Munro of The Canadian Press.

"They have had plenty of trouble in getting the news back to the people of Canada," he said. "But it is well known that the role of a war correspondent in any theatre is dangerous and tough.

"In my opinion the people of Canada got as thorough and clearcut a report of the Canadian Army and its fighting through Sicily and Italy as any country has yet enjoyed since the war began. The people of Canada should take off their hats to the Canadian War Correspondents.

"The public relations unit in the Canadian army was called upon to provide services for war correspondents under incredibly difficult circumstances. From the lessons learned the hard way it is clear to me that war correspodents from now on can expect keen and intelligent help from our public relations in the field."

The Canadian Press News, the weekly published by The Canadian Press in London for the troops overseas is highly valued and 6,000 copies are being flown to Italy. Because of demand from the troops the number printed was recently increased by 20,000, which makes a total of about 52,000 copies being distributed among the three services.

Arrangements have also been made for improvement in quality and more rapid transmission of still and motion pictures from the front back to Canada.

The Cubs enjoyed a period of singing in which two new Cub songs have been learned, after which the Cubs gathered around the Red Flower and enjoyed another chapter of Kipling's Jungle Tale.

New Chums: Murray Lindores, Stirling Lindores, Joe Mathews, Jim Ridyard and Carl Grant are working diligently towards their Tenderpad tests.

The Tawny Six are leading in the inter-six competition with 220 bones.

Just before closing, the Cubs received their enrolment cards for 1944. The Pack gathered round the Council Rock and closed the meeting with the Grand Howl, followed by prayer, Cub silence and the National Anthem.

2nd Armour

The moon shone brightly at the Council Rock and Doug. Britnell led the opening Grand Howl. Test work was done in the Sixer corners and a game of "Man the Ship" was played. The Pack gathered at the Redflower to practise songs and Akela told the story of "Neddy's Thank You". Akela and Baloo visited Joe Burns and found him resting comfortably. He will have to be in bed for a month. On Tuesday night the Pack will meet as usual at 7 o'clock with their skates and toboggans for an evening's fun. Cubs are asked not to wear uniforms.

Two Airmen Die In Midair Crash

DUNDALK, Ont., Jan. 18 (CP) Two airmen were killed today when two R.C.A.F. training planes collided in mid-air over the farm of David Reddick, one-quarter of a mile south of Proton Station. Proton is six miles northwest of Dundalk.

Eyewitnesses saw parts fly from both planes when they struck and they landed about one-quarter of a mile apart and about on mile from where they struck. Both planes caught fire.

The pilot was removed from one plane by Walter Acheson, on whose farm it came down, and Ed. Stinson. Quite a number helped remove the pilot of the other plane As far as was known here, there was just one man in each plane.

One plane seemed to come up under the other and their wings touched, said an eyewitness. One went into a spiral drive and the other seemed able to right itself. Both were believed from No. 6 S. F.T.S. at Dunnville.

Next-of-kin have been informed and the names will be released shortly.

Government Moves

BERNE, Jan. 18 — (AP)— The Bulgarian government has established headquarters at Icham-Koria, a winter resort in the Rila mountains, 43 miles southeast of Sofia, as a result of Allied air raids which have caused complete confusion in the capital, the Budapest correspondent of the Basler Nachrichten said last night.

HOW TO RELIEVE PILE TORTURE
QUICKLY AND EASILY

If you are troubled with itching piles or rectal soreness do not delay treatment and run the risk of letting this condition become chronic. Any itching or soreness or painful passage of stool is nature's warning and proper treatment should be secured at once.

For this purpose get a package of Hem-Roid from McDermid & Jury or any I.D.A. or other drug store and use as directed. This formula which is used internally is a small easy to take tablet will quickly relieve the itching and soreness and aid in healing the sore tender spots. Hem-Roid is pleasant to use is highly recommended and it seems the height of folly for any one to risk a painful and chronic pile condition when such a fine remedy may be had at such a small cost.

If you try Hem-roid and are not entirely pleased with the results your druggist will gladly return your money —(Advt.)

Member Wants Probe In Irish Case

LONDON, Jan. 18 (CP). — Rev. James Little, member of Parliament from Ulster, yesterday asked for an investigation of reports that a German bomber carried two Irishmen from Germany to Eire and dropped them by parachute.

Dispatches to morning newspapers said it was common talk in Dublin that one man parchuted down one nihgt about a month ago. He was said to have landed near Kilrush, County Clare, and arrested.

The other was believed dropped a few days later near the same locality.

Little asked the Dominions Secretary if he had any information on the mission of the two men.

The Dominions Office yesterday had no comment.

The Daily Mail said the two men were John P. O'Reilly, who broadcast for the Germans as the Irish "Lord Haw-Haw," and Patrick Kenny, a worker inside Germany for 10 years. The newspaper gave this version of the incident:

O'Reilly landed December 16 three miles from his father's farm in County Clare. When he was arrested two days later he had permits to leave Germany and land in Eire—all of which were in order.

Kenny bailed out on December 19 in a gale. He was knocked out when his parachute dragged him through two thorn fences and against a gate and he was arrested that night.

"It is likely both men now are in Mountjoy Jail in Dublin," the Daily Mail said. The newspaper quoted Sir John Maffey, British Minister in Eire, as saying that the British Government was kept informed.

9 Dead, 30 Hurt As Trains Meet

LONDON, Jan. 18 (CP)— A toll of nine dead and 30 injured, including three American airmen killed and nine other U.S. soldiers injured, was counted today in the crash of two London-bound trains in the suburban station of Ilford.

Both trains were crowded with hundreds of troops on leave, including a number of Canadian soldiers, none of whom was hurt. Names of injured Americans were not immediately released.

Most of the casualties were in the rear coach of a train from Yarmouth, hit by the Norwich Express and catapulted atop the Norwich locomotive. Three coaches of the Norwich train were telescoped and at least two coaches of the Yarmouth train were wrecked.

The ninth victim, Father George Fressanges, Fellow of the Royal Geographical Society, died this morning.

It was Britain's worst train wreck in two years. Many of the coaches were wooden.

"All the seats in one coach were tangled up with victims pinned underneath the wreckage," a police constable said. "Some of the passengers were trapped under buffers of the following coach which crashed through. We had to jack the buffers up to get the people out."

Among the dead was Maj. Frank F. Heilgers, 51, Conservative Member of Parliament for Bury St. Edmonds since 1931.

Canadians, American and British soldiers aided railwaymen and Civil Defence squads in removing the dead and injured from the wreckage.

Grows Tropical Fruit

BRANTFORD, Jan. 18 — (CP).—Henry Russ has his own way of overcoming any wartime shortages in oranges, lemons, figs and limes—he grows his own. Set out two years ago, cuttings of the plants yielded during the last year one lemon (a giant, nine inches long and three and one-half inches wide), 18 oranges and four figs. The lime bush is bearing its second crop now, indoors.

Vokes Heads First Division

ALGIERS, Jan. 18 (CP) — Maj. Gen. Chris. Vokes, 39, of Winnipeg and Ottawa, Canada's youngest general, is in command of a Canadian division in Italy, it was officially disclosed today.

Vokes, a huge raw-boned man more than six feet tall, commanded the 2nd Infantry Brigade of the Canadian 1st Division in Sicily where he won the D.S.O. He had under him in that brigade the Loyal Edmonton Regiment, the Seaforth Highlanders of Canada, a Vaucouver unit, and the Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry.

Vokes took over the divisional command after the invasion of the mainland had begun.

Did Magnificent Job

His promotion from brigadier to acting major-general and the command of an infantry division was announced Nov. 5 and it was taken for granted that he would command the 1st Division, replacing Maj.-Gen. Guy Simonds of Kingston, Ont., who was appointed at the same time to command an armored division.

Commanding that Western infantry brigade in Sicily, Vokes did a magnificent job and his brigade saw the heaviest fighting of any Canadian formation.

At Piazzo Amerina, Leonforte, Nissoria and Agira, the Westerners fought splendidly under this big, sandy-haired man who showed at his best when the battle was toughest.

Vokes directed the fighting in the thick of battle and always was up forward encouraging the men and their commanders. On several occasions, notably during the bloody three-day battle for the Nazi stronghold of Leonforte, taken July 22 when the Pats stormed into the town to relieve a group of Loyal Edmontons, he showed great personal courage under fire.

For that exploit, perhaps more than any other, he was awarded the D.S.O.

3 People Die In Car When Gas Fails

LEXINGTON, Mass., Jan. 18 — (AP).—The bodies of two brothers and a girl companion were found early to-day in an automobile on an isolated road off the Concord turnpike by police who investigated the story of another girl who stumbled into her home here last night with frostbitten legs.

The dead were: James Keefe 24, his brother John 17, and Ruth Place 16, all of Waltham. Lexington police found the bodies while investigating the story of Grace Saunders 18, of Cambridge, who was taken to a hospital in a serious condition.

Police Sergeant John O'Brien quoted Miss Saunders as saying she had met the Place girl on Thursday and that they went riding with the Keefe brothers. The car ran out of gasoline on a lonely road, and all four remained in the automobile until Miss Saunders got out yesterday and made her way to the main highway. She "thumbed" a ride to Cambridge and then took a bus home. She said she had not eaten since Thursday.

Dr. Myer Harlin, the Saunders family physician, ordered the girl to the hospital for treatment of frostbitten legs. Police said all four had been reported missing since Thursday.

Autopsies will be performed to determine the cause of death.

Police believe the heater in the car expended the oxygen before the gasoline tank ran dry and the trio possibly died of carbon monoxide fumes. The Saunders girl survived, they believed, because she was sitting beside a window that was open "just a crack."

Canada's Grand Old Man Honored by Bar On 100th Birthday

STILL ACTIVE DESPITE HIS YEARS SIR WILLIAM MULOCK CELEBRATES HIS 100TH BIRTHDAY BY PAYING VISIT TO OSGOODE HALL

TORONTO, Jan. 19—(CP).—Sir William Mulock, Canada's "Grand Old Man," today celebrated his 100th birthday by visiting Osgoode Hall to receive the congratulations of judiciary and bar and by holding a reception at his home attended by friends from all walks of life, including Prime Minister Mackenzie King, who came from Ottawa for the occasion.

Still active despite his age, Sir William only yesterday officiated at a convocation at the University of Toronto of which he is Chancellor, conferring an honorary degree of Doctor of Laws on Crown Prince Olaf of Norway.

Born in the village of Bondhead in Simcoe county January 19, 1844, Sir William can look back on a life largely devoted to the service of his country and to his native province of Ontario.

Called to the bar in 1868 after graduating from the University of Toronto and Osgoode Hall, he was elected to the Dominion Parliament in 1882 as Liberal member for York North, which he represented until he retired in 1905. He was never defeated in an election contest.

Named Postmaster-General in the late Sir Wilfrid Laurier's Cabinet in 1896, he introduced penny postage and the Canada-Australia Imperial cable during his nine years in office. In 1900 he reorganized the Federal Department of Labor and became head of that department while retaining his

Beloved Padre F. G. Scott Dies In Quebec

QUEBEC, Jan. 19—(CP).—Archdeacon Frederick George Scott, beloved padre of the Canadian Corps in the First Great War, died in hospital today after an illness of more than three weeks. He was 82.

The end came while messages expressing hopes for a speedy recovery for "our grand old soldier," as many of them referred to him, continued to pour into Jeffrey Hale Hospital from all parts of Canada as well as from Britain and the United States.

Archdeacon Scott—better known to thousands of Canadians as Canon Scott, the designation he always preferred—entered hospital Christmas Eve, suffering an attack of influenza that later resulted in a lung congestion.

He had retained almost until the end that keen interest in current events that characterized his life, and throughout his illness asked for newspapers daily.

It is not too much to say that Archdeacon Frederick George Scott, or Canon Scott as he was then, was the most beloved figure in the Canadian Corps in the First Great War. Veterans remember him as a courageous, untiring padre who gave little heed to his own safety or comfort as he ministered to the troops on the battlefields of France.

Was Wounded

In the present conflict, turned down for active service at 78, he became a spokesman for service in the cause of his country.

From the First Great War he wore the scars of wounds, and the ribbons of the Distinguished Service Order and a Companionship of the Order of St. Michael and St. George.

Prime Minister Honors Mulock

OTTAWA, Jan. 19 — (CP). — Prime Minister Mackenzie King was in Toronto to-day to attend the celebration of Sir William Mulock's 100th birthday.

Mr. King is a close friend of the former Chief Justice of Ontario, who was responsible for his entrance into public life more than 40 years ago. When Sir William was Postmaster-General in Sir Wilfrid Laurier's Cabinet, he was given the task of setting up a Department of Labor.

He chose Mr. King, then a student of social problems and industrial relations, as the first Deputy-Minister of the new department. In 1908 Mr. King entered the Cabinet and succeeded Sir William as Minister of Labor.

Peace Proposals In News Again

By EDDY GILMORE
Associated Press Staff Writer.

MOSCOW, an. 19 — (AP). — The Russian press gave the people the news to-day of the British Foreign Office's denial of a peace proposal meeting as reported by Pravda's Cairo correspondent on Monday but made no editorial comment.

At the same time the press printed a story from London quoting the London Sunday Times, which said under an Ankara dateline that while it was true that Franz Von Papen, German Ambassador to Turkey, had not made peace proposals it was untrue that peace proposals had not recently been made by the Germans. The Sunday Times, a paper distinct from the Times of London, said peace proposals were in face made two months ago to Turkey, which refused to relay them to the Allies. It said similar proposals were made in Lisbon and Stockholm.

Many Russians who may have to some extent discounted the original story now are convinced that Britain has been listening—if nothing else—to peace proposals from Germany.

"What troubles me most," said one Russian, "is that part as reported by the Sunday Times correspondent where he said the Germans would reserve the right of limited freedom of action in the east. That means us."

Another term of the reported proposal by the Hitlerite government — still quoting the London Sunday Times' Ankara correspondent—was that dealing with Germany's— willingness to scrap her fleet and submarines immediately.

"Destroying her subs," said another Russian friend of mine, "would of course bring lots of satisfaction to the United States."

Nazi Commentator Scoffs At Invasion

STOCKHOLM, Jan. 19 — (AP). —A German military commentator Lt.-Col. Von Olberg, writing in the Danziger Verposten, scoffed to-day at the possibility of an early Allied invasion of the Balkans from Italy and asserted that the Allies could not make such a move until they get beyond Rome.

Olberg also asserted that the Allies must advance to the Po River in Italy before they can hope to mount an attack against the Southern French coast between Toulon and Marseille.

New Offensive Flames Near Leningrad

MOSCOW, Jan. 19 — (AP)—Red Army forces on the Leningrad and Volkhov fronts in northern Russia sprang forward today in a new offensive calculated to end the German siege of Leningrad, second city of the Soviet Union.

Two neighboring army groups, it was disclosed, launched simultaneous assaults several days ago to break through strong German defence lines and now are developing their drives on a large scale. (Previous German broadcasts indicated the new Russian attacks began last Friday).

Russian troops on the Leningrad front began their push south of the suburban town of Oranienbaum, 20 miles west of the city adjoining Peterhof, known as the Versailles of Russia and the former home of the czars. The town lies on the shores of the Baltic just south of the island naval base of Kronstadt and has been in Russian hands since the siege began 17 months ago.

At the same time Red Army forces on the Volkhov front attacked north of Novogorod, 100 miles southeast of Leningrad between Lake Ilmen and the Baltic.

The twin operations appeared to have been planned jointly to break the German semi-circle around Leningrad, under constant threat of enemy bombardment.

Blockade Broken

The blockade of Leningrad was broken a year ago by a Red Army thrust through the fortress town of Schlesselburg, which opened a narrow corridor to the east. The Germans, however, dug in close to the western and southern sides of the city, constructing an elaborate system of fortifications.

(Berlin broadcasts acknowledged reverses on both fronts and said the Russians were continuing their attacks with waves of tanks and strong infantry forces.)

The Germans in North Russia were already sorely harassed by another Soviet drive north of Novosokolniki toward the rear of their positions south of Leningrad.

A Russian war bulletin said that these troops, part of Gen. Ivan Bagramian's 1st Baltic army, yesterday captured 40 more towns in their slow but steady advance, including the railway station of Shubino, five miles north of Novosokolniki, which is still held by the Germans. Strong enemy counter-attacks were thrown back with heavy losses, the Soviet communique said.

As the frozen north flared into activity, front dispatches reported continued gains in the Western Ukraine despite unseasonable rain and mud. Here Gen. Nikolai Vatutin's 1st Ukrainian army increased its threat to the key communications centre of Rowne (Rovno), 110 miles south of Pinsk.

New Peace Story

NEW YORK, Jan. 19 — (AP). — David Anderson, NBC reporter in Stockholm, said today that Stockholm newspapers are carrying a story to the effect that Hitler had dispatched semi-official representatives to Ankara to discuss separate peace terms with Russia. The story was credited to the Geneva newspaper La Suisse.

Britain Designs Super Planes

LONDON, Jan. 19 — (CP). — Britain is designing a 50-passenger transatlantic transport plane to carry the nation's colors in the post-war race for civil air supremacy, Lord Beaverbrook, Lord Privy Seal, told the House of Lords today.

The new plane, to be named "Brabazon," will fly 250 miles an hour, weigh more than 100 tons, and will be able to span the Atlantic in 15 hours, said Lord Beaverbrook, in charge of co-ordinating civil air policy for peacetime. It will be able to carry two tons of mail in addition to 50 passengers, he added.

To fill the gap until the Brabazon is ready for flight, Britain is developing a 12-passenger, 32-ton transatlantic plane which it is hoped will be available before the war ends.

The plane, called the Tudor, will be suitable for military transport.

It was disclosed Monday that Britain is also developing a huge Avro York monoplane that can carry 56 passengers for journeys up to 1,250 miles.

10th Earthquake Shakes Stricken City

BUENOS AIRES, Jan. 19 — (AP). — The stricken city of San Juan last night experienced its 10th minor earthquake since a major tremor levelled most of its buildings and killed more than 1,400 persons during the weekend.

The new shock came just as President Gen. Pedro Ramirez, addressing survivors and broadcasting to the nation from a square amid the ruins, called for a minute's silence in respect for the dead.

The quake cut the wires connecting the microphone and caused some confusion. Ramirez was one of the first to ask for order and he then completed his address.

A Chilean army truck caravan bearing medical supplies is expected to arrive at San Juan today and Brazilian Red Cross workers also are expected to arrive by air to join Chilean and Uruguayan doctors and nurses who are assisting Argentines at the scene. A United States offer of assistance was gratefully accepted by the Argentine government yesterday.

Survivors arriving from the stricken zone on refugee trains meanwhile gave graphic descriptions of Saturday night's catastrophe.

"I heard a terrible noise," said one. "Everything was moving around me and in the streets it looked like a tidal wave. The Andes Mountains, as far as we could see, looked like they were collapsing in a cloud of dust which covered everything."

Another witness said he saw a statute "dancing" and a five-storey modern theatre moving around like a castle "made of cards."

Total number of dead and injured still is uncertain.

Barrage Fails To Budge Nazis

By DOUGLAS AMARON
Canadian Press War Correspondent

WITH CANADIANS IN ITALY, Jan. 19—(CP Cable).—Canadian troops returned to patrolling activity Tuesday following a fierce one day flare-up Monday which died down almost as soon as it started.

The Adriatic front was as quiet on Tuesday as it was noisy on Monday. Guns which fired 100,000 shells at the Germans in 36 hours were still active but for them too there was a comparative lull.

The position of the Canadians and Germans Tuesday night was the same as before the Canadians launched their attack at dawn Monday against German defences south of the Arielli River.

The Canadians had made some of their objectives against the fiercest machine-gunning, then, having tested the Germans in front of the Arielli, they returned during the night to their original positions.

Lose Few Points.

One result was the enemy was driven from some of his many strongpoints — thick-walled houses dotting the rolling countryside and dugouts 20 feet deep.

During the flare-up the gunners had their biggest day since the Canadians came to this front early in December. A Canadian medium regiment under British command gave large-scale support to the Canadians for the first time. Its second in command is Maj. E. C. Tate of Guelph, Ont.

"The men enjoyed every minute," said Sgt. Cyril Edwards of Saskatchewan, whose crew includes George Smith of Picton, Ont., and Jack Herbert of Windsor, Ont., gunners.

This crew fired 250 shells in 12 hours Monday and was still on the job yesterday. It was the longest and most concentrated firing yet for them.

Tribute Is Paid Canadian Navy

LONDON, Jan. 19 (CP Cable)—A. V. Alexander, First Lord of the Admiralty, paid tribute today to the men of the Royal Canadian Navy. He was replying in the House of Commons to a question by Sir Percy Hurd (Cons.), concerning the part played by Naval vessels, aircraft and personnel in the anti-submarine campaign.

"Remarkable expansion of Canadian Naval and Air Forces engaged in the battle of the Atlantic, and their skilful deployment and gallant handling in appalling weather conditions have been important factors in the United Nations' efforts to get the measure of the U-boat," he said.

Canada has provided more than two-fifths of the ocean-going escorts in the North Atlantic while the R.C.A.F. has undertaken one-quarter of the operations against U-boats in that theatre.

Many Canadians are also serving in the Royal Navy he said. The R.C.N.'s manpower - strength now approaches that of the Royal Navy in peace-time.

One of the most remarkable features of the work of the R.C.N. was the facility with which its members—many of whose homes were inland—had adapted themselves to naval service, as shown in the high degree of enduring courage and personal gallantry in the face of the enemy.

He enumerated the many decorations awarded Canadian Navy men and added that Canada and the United Kingdom now were mainly responsible for the control and protection of the great North Atlantic convoys.

Secure 3 River Bridgeheads Under Storm Of Shells Drive Toward Key Highway

Fighting In Cassino Sector Stalemated By Concentrated Hun Defence Coastal Lowland Push May Bypass Town

By WES GALLAGHER—Associated Press War Correspondent

ALGIERS, Jan. 19—(AP).—British troops of the Allied 5th Army, advancing under intense mortar and machine-gun fire, have crossed the lower Garigliano River at three points converging on the ancient Appian Way, for centuries the main coastal highway to Rome.

The attack was launched at 9 p.m. Monday, Allied Headquarters announced today, and all three bridgeheads were secured despite violent enemy resistance which included rain of fire on the river itself, 80 miles southeast of Rome.

The first crossing was made near Suio, a village seven miles inland from the Tyrrhenian coast and located on a hill 500 yards beyond the river. Headquarters said heavy fighting still is in progress there.

The second bridgehead was established along the railroad running from Capua to Rome, four miles from the coast.

The third was at Argento, almost on the coast itself, where the Germans countered with a tank attack in a desperate but futile effort to drive the British back across the river.

Preparations for the crossing apparently were made by British raiders who made a leapfrog landing north of the estuary of the Garigliano less than three weeks before and delivered heavy blows behind the enemy's lines in the Minturno area.

This penetration on the night of December 30 destroyed an important highway and railway bridge used by the Germans, cut other communications and resulted in capture of prisoners who were brought back to the 5th Army headquarters for questioning. The raid force withdrew after stiff fighting, after accomplishing its aims.

Probe Gustav Line.

The new offensive on the coastal lowlands came while American and French troops probed vigorously at the so-called Gustav line around Cassino, 20 miles inland from the mouth of the Garigliano.

American patrols had crossed the Rapido River in the Cassino area, but were forced to return with reports that the Germans apparently were concentrating their defences for one of the most furious battles since the fall of Naples. French forces operating in the mountains on the right flank of the Americans increased their bag of prisoners to 600 in six days.

(A Reuters News Agency dispatch from the 8th Army front said the Canadians had slightly improved their positions and that the Germans were digging in to avoid heavy artillery fire. The correspondent said that up to the time his dispatch was written no German counter-attacks had developed. "The Canadians have met stiff opposition and have suffered casualties," he reported.)

Canadian troops on the Adriatic coast advanced against fierce opposition to take limited objectives, but then were forced to withdraw by German counter-attacks and headquarters said the Canadians still are engaged in heavy fighting

The Canadians are driving against German defences on the south bank of the Arielli River, a minor stream guarding the highway to Pescara, main immediate objective of the 8th Army. From Pescara an important highway runs across Italy to Rome. Present fighting is three to four miles northwest of Ortona, captured by Canadians December 27, after heavy street fighting.

Communist Tito Dominates Yugoslav Scene

By ROSS MUNRO
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Jan. 19 (CP)—Around the heads of two army leaders and a young king has swirled the tempest of Yugoslav political and military controversy while a mysterious British figure hovers in the background

The principals in this southeastern Europe drama that has consequence to all the continent in the drive to the peace and after it are Marshal Josip Broz (Tito), an astonishing Communist who leads the Partisan movement against the Germans in Yugoslavia, Gen. Draja Mihailovic, leader of the Chetnik resistance force, and 20-year-old King Peter in exile with his government in Cairo.

The Briton who plays a big but hidden hand is 32-year-old Brig. Fitzroy Maclean, head of the British military mission to Tito's headquarters and adviser to the British Army and government on inside affairs of Yugoslavia.

Tito's government is left wing, to put it mildly, and many of his military and governmental leaders are Communists but Tito has not sought to impose radical Communism on territories he has liberated, according to his supporters here.

COMMUNIST TITO

Yugoslavs Trap Panzer Division

LONDON, Jan. 19—(CP)—Yugoslav Partisans have trapped a German division of 400 vehicles near Lipovac in western Bosnia and wild fighting now is progressing through rugged hill country against the encircled Nazis and a second division rushed to its assistance, Marshal Josip Broz (Tito) announced today.

The Nazi relief expedition, Tito's broadcast communique said, broke through Partisan lines toward Jajce, Tito's former headquarters, 30 miles south of Banja Luka on the Vrbas River. Bitter fighting ensued and the issue apparently was still in doubt at the time the bulletin was issued.

Meanwhile units of the 3rd Yugoslav Corps, suddenly taking the offensive, were reported pushing the Germans back in Eastern Bosnia. The heaviest fighting was in the Tuzla area, where the Partisans were attacking in force.

Continued fighting against Germans and Chetniks in southern Hercegovinia was reported. In Lika province in Croatia the Germans were still attacking in an attempt to breach Yugoslav line guarding liberated territory.

Finland Stands on Brink of Catastrophe

Complete Relief Of Leningrad Assured As Drive In North Gains

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst

The information bulletin of the Soviet Embassy in Washington makes the blunt and grim assertion that "having staked all on the fate of Hitlerite Germany, Finland now stands on the brink of catastrophe."

When you look at to-day's news of the new Russian offensive in the Leningrad area, you feel the quotation is the epitaph of Finland's hope to achieve victory by linking her fortunes with those of Germany. That catastrophe is certain, there is no doubt that it may be near is quite possible.

This is the sixth day of the Red offensive on the Leningrad front, and from the Germans' own admissions thier line in this strategic sector has been cut in at least two places. This great assault extends along a front of some 250 miles, from the neighborhood of Leningrad southward to the Nevel sector. Berlin claims the Russians are employing 250,000 men, and the attack is growing in intensity.

The Russian objective is to force a general German withdrawal from this northern sector. This would mean the complete raising of the siege of Leningrad. It would mean Hitler's evacuation of the Baltic States, with the consequent threat to the entire Nazi line in Russia.

And achievement of these objectives would automatically knock Finland out of the war, compelling her to accept Moscow's terms. That is the reward for picking the wrong horse.

The relief of Leningrad must rank first in the hearts of the Russian troops. This historic city of some 3,000,000 population—the second largest in Russia — has undergone tortures which few, if any others, have endured in the long history of war.

For two years and five months Leningrad has been under siege. True, a year ago yesterday a Red Army forced the Hitlerites back —with the aid of the civilian population—and broke the blockading ring which had been garroting the city. But the invaders formed their line in a half-circle about the southwestern approaches to the metropolis, close enough to continue the merciless gunfire and bombing.

When the Germans first swung their blockade about Leningrad, Hitler flung out at the world in his harsh gutterals:

"Leningrad forces are at their knees. The city will perish."

But the people of Leningrad picked up the challenge and they hurled it back at the Fuehrer. The defenders are credited with having killed more than 400,000 German soldiers during that awful period.

Since the blockade was broken things naturally have been made easier for the population. But the awful hammering of bombs and of shells has never ceased, and the casualties among the residents have been terrible.

LONDON—The Royal Air Force has dropped 400 times more bombs on German this year than the German air force has dropped on Britain.

Want Lower Rural Rates

Quebec Members Discuss Housing Shortage

QUEBEC, Jan. 19—(CP)—Members of the Legislative Council and Assembly today begin debate on the speech from the throne, read by Lieutenant-Governor, Sir Eugene Fiset, at the opening of the fifth wartime session of Quebec's 21st legislature yesterday.

The throne speech, delivered during brief, simple ceremonies, said that the "setting up of a provincial Hydro is the only solution for the problem of lower rate and rural electrification." It also announced that the number of Quebec's commercial agencies will be increased, "as soon as circumstances permit," and forecast amendments to the sales tax.

It added that the Government "is endeavoring to implement various plans to stimulate the construction of dwellings," but it did not amplify on details of the administration's plans. It forecast the creation of a labor relations' board, the revision of the code of civil procedure as well as the establishment of a settlers' credit law.

Franco To Get Stern Warning

Time Bombs In Oranges Anger Parliamentarians

LONDON, Jan. 19 — (CP). — Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden told Commons today the British ambassador to Spain, Sir Samuel Hoare, had been instructed to make "further strong representations to the Spanish government" over fact that a number of the Spanish volunteers still were now fighting for Germany on the Russian front.

Another issue, which is likely to bring about Anglo-Spanish complications, was brought before the House when Eden said the British government had renewed strong representations supporting the Italian government's request for release of all Italian ships in Spanish ports.

Eden said that while the greater part of Spain's "Blue Division" had been withdrawn from the Russian front, some volunteers were still giving "un-neutral assistance" to the Germans under the name of "Spaish Legion."

Eden made his statement in reply to question by John Loverseed Common Wealth Party member, as to what was being done about this strain on British-Spanish relations, which he said, have been increased by the explosion of the bombs in cargoes of oranges shipped to Britain.

Belmont Reeve New Warden Of The County

By a division of 10-8 Reeve Isaac Anderson of Belmont and Methuen was elected warden of Peterborough county Tuesday afternoon at the opening of the January sessions.

His opponent after three other other nominees had withdrawn was Reeve Gilbert McIlmoyl of Smith.

The nominations received by Mrs. J. A. Spurway, clerk and the treasuser, were as follows:

Anderson by Reid and Lean.

Martin of Dummer by Curtin and Seeney.

McIlmoyl by Johnston and Archibald.

Curtin of Chandos and Anstruther by Hall and Mather.

Hall of Chandos by Martin and Flynn.

Reeves Hall, Curtin and Martin withdrew in that order, and Reeve Anderson suggested to his proposers that his name also be removed from the list.

"I find it difficult to get help and I feel I cannot afford the time," Mr. Anderson said.

Harry Reid said he considered Mr. Anderson should accept nomination. He consulted Mr. Lean, seconder, and then said "let it go" signifying that they wished Mr. Anderson to continue as candidate.

Supporting Warden Anderson were: Anderson, Reid, Lean, Martin, Humphries, Seeney, Mather, Flynn, Curtin, Hall.

The other members whose vote was not culled in the face of the majority were: Scriver, Mahoney, Ferguson, Johnston, Archibald and Gifford, Pearson and McIlmoyl.

"I wish to thank whoever had enough confidence in my ability to propose me," Warden Anderson said. "I had no idea of running for the wardenship when I came here today. I feel I have a responsibilty in the east that will take a lot of my time. However, you have elected me and I ask for your support in trying to carry out our work this year."

The members of the council are the following reeves: Rork Ferguson, Norwood; Robert Martin, of Dummer; P. J. Mather, Otonabee; David Curtin, Galway and Cavendish; Norman Lean, Burleigh and Anstruther; Charles Flynn of Harvey; Ernest Seeney of Havelock; James Humphries, Asphodel; Gilbert McIlmoyl, Smith; Isaac Anderson, Belmont and Metheun; J. Polish Dispute Delicate Problem

LONDON, Jan. 19 (CP)—Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden told the House of Commons today that the Soviet-Polish border problem is "extremely difficult and delicate" but said the British government is keeping in close touch with both Moscow and the Polish government in London in an attempt to effect a settlement.

"Our prevailing desire," Eden said, "is to bring about a friendly settlement between the two countries, and this achievement would be of the utmost consequence to the future of Europe."

Replying to a remark by Morgan Philips (Lab., Forest of Dean) that the differences between the Russians and Poles are fraught with extreme danger," Eden declared:—

"We are not without the hope that a favorable solution may be attained. I am sure the House will feel the utmost reserve should be practised at this particular moment."

Eden also told Commons that Britain would not ask the United States to bear an investigation of Japanese internment camps in the United States in retaliation for Japan's refusal to permit a similar probe of conditions affecting Allied prisoners in Japanese hands.

He referred to a report that the Japanese government had asked the Spanish government as a protecting power to make an investigation of Japanese internment camps in the United States.

Eden said the matter of whether such an investgation should be permitted in view of Japan's attitude was "clearly one for the United States to decide."

MORE ABOUT—

Beloved Padre

con Scott led the well-ordered life of an Anglican clergyman, except for the four years of the First Great War. Apart from his ministerial duties, he had two great interests; he wrote poetry that won for him the title of "the poet of the Laurentians," and was a student of military history.

He returned from France to Quebec in 1919, and was made an Archdeacon in 1925. In 1933 he retired as rector of St. Matthew's, but continued as Archdeacon of Quebec.

Went To Vimy

His thoughts remained with the men who fought in 1914-18, and three years after his retirement he went with them on the great pilgrimage to Vimy Ridge and blessed them at the Vimy Memorial.

From the outbreak of the present war he followed keenly the fortunes of battle, the new generation of Canadians gone overseas, and at great moments wrote poems of tribute and inspiration.

He was happy that the Canadian 1st Division of this war wore the red patch that marked the 1st Division of the other. He was grieved when Hong Kong fell and with it men of the Royal Rifles of Canada, of which he had been chaplain since 1905.

He saw the Quebec conference of last summer and had a private interview with Prime Minister Churchill and President Roosevelt, and in his closing days felt the confidence of victory once more in sight.

Personal sorrow came to him in the same year, with the death of his wife, the former Amy Brooks of Barnet, England, whom he had married more than 56 years before.

With 1st Contingent

When the First Great War broke out, Archdeacon Scott as chaplain of the Royal Rifles volunteered for service overseas in August 1914 and at first served as chaplain at Valcartier Camp, Que.

In his book "The Great War As I Saw It," he wrote that he sailed from Canada with the 1st contingent, Sept. 29, 1914. He was attached to the Andania with sections of the 14th and 16th battalions and other details aboard.

Archdeacon Scott served as chaplain at Salisbury Plain and on the departure of the contingent to France he was notified of his posting to No. 2 General Hospital. He wrote that he didn't know where the hospital was located, but made up his mind to "hunt for it in France."

Attaching himself to brigade headquarters he crossed to France being compelled with other officers to bunk on the saloon table, for want of better sleeping quarters. Arriving in France, he reported for duty and from then on had no trouble finding his job. He acknowledges he never did find out when No. 2 General Hospital crossed the Channel.

By 1918 the padre had become senior chaplain of the 1st Canadian Division.

He married in 1887 Amy, daughter of the late George Brooks of Barnet, England, who died in 1943. He is survived by four sons, and one daughter: Prof. Frank R. Scott of McGill University, national chairman of the C.C.F.; Prof. Elton Scott of University of Bishops College, Lennoxville, Que.; William B. Scott, Montreal lawyer; Arthur E P Scott, Quebec notary; and Mrs. A. R. Keily, Quebec. One son, Henry Hutton, was killed in the First Great War. A brother, Frank Scott, Montreal, also survives.

Liberals To Back Sound Policies

TORONTO, Jan. 19—Sound legislation, regardless of its sponsorship, will be supported by the Liberal group in the Legislature. This was the view concurred in by the majority of Liberal members and defeated party candidates who held a presession caucus at the Royal York Hotel yesterday. Former Premier Mitchell Hepburn did not attend, though invited.

W. L. Miller, member for Algoma-Manitoulin, was chairman of the meeting, which lasted from 2 o'clock to 5.30 p.m. Harry C. Nixon, party Leader, was given a vote of confidence.

At previous meetings, confined to elected Liberals, the question of policy in the Legislature was stated in specific terms. It was decided upon those occasions to support the Drew government in every possible way consistent with Liberal principles.

Legislation Is Yardstick

Yesterday's meeting, embracing defeated Liberal candidates as well, was not quite so specific, though it was generally felt that support of the Government's legislative program would be forthcoming from a majority of the Liberals. Some of the defeated Liberal candidates questioned giving full support to the Drew Government, and took the position that the only yardstick should be the merit of the legislation itself. Legislation in the best interests of the Province, no matter where it came from, should be supported, it was claimed. This found favor with most of those present.

"Legislation inconsistent with Liberal principles will be opposed," one member said. He added: "I am inclined to doubt whether we will be faced with such a situation."

Favor Nixon Leadership

It was the view of the caucus that the shaping of policy should be left to the elected members, led by Mr. Nixon. It was emphasized that the degree of support accorded the Government would depend on the type of legislation introduced in the House.

"Another election could scarcely be justified," one member said after the meeting. "Nobody wants an election, anyhow, and there would be no gain in defeating the Government This is no time for party politics, and unless Liberal principles are at issue there is no reason why the Government should not receive our support for legislation in the best interests of the Province."

County Council Plans Dinner For Aldermen

Reciprocation of the city council's hospitality as advocated by Reeve David Curtin of Galway and Cavendish at the opening of the county council's sessions Tuesday afternoon, and readily endorsed by the members as a whole, led to the appointment of Reeves Rork Ferguson, James Gifford and Melville Johnston, a committee to arrange for a dinner with Mayor Hamilton and his aldermanic associates as guests.

Mr. Curtin said that in his six years as a member of the county council, the city had been the county's host on various occasions. He suggested it was time the members of the county council did something to show their appreciation of the friendly spirit of the city council.

"It is about time we gave them a dinner, in my opinion, and maybe the other members agree with me." Mr. Curtin said. His suggestion met with immediate approval and he expanded it into a motion which Reeve Martin seconded and the Galway reeve also named the committee which was instructed to take charge of details.

For Barnard: Barnard, Bickel, Bigelow, Carruthers, Chapman, Davidson, Finlay, Gordon, McCubbin, Pickell, Stephen, Stephens, and Warttman.

Reeve W. Cole of Hamilton Township was to have contested the Wardenship, but due to pneumonia he was unable to be present, and Reeve Barnard ran in his stead.

Urges Co-operation

"During the six years that I have been privileged to serve as a county councillor I have tried to work for the good of these United Counties," the Warden said.

"It was just twenty years ago that Walter Fowlds, the Reeve of the village of Hastings at that time, had the honor of being elected the Warden of these Counties. The thought uppermost in our minds is the successful conclusion of this war. No doubt we will be called upon to make greater sacrifices in 1944 than we have in the past and we all hope that 1944 will bring a successful end to the war for the United Counties, for the United Nations, and that our gallant soldiers will be returned to a happy civilian life.

"To the new members may I say welcome to you as members of this Council, and I feel that I will be accorded the co-operation of every member of the Council. I hope that 1944 may be a successful year for these United Counties," declared the new Warden in his inaugural address.

Congratulates Warden.

Reeve Barnard congratulated the newly elected Warden. He declared 1944 would be a year which would go down in history and he was sure that the Counties Council and all the counties residents and officials would co-operate in playing their part in this important year. He thanked his supporters and asked them to join with him in giving the new Warden every cooperation. "With the consent of my mover and seconder, I would like to make the election of the Warden this evening unanimous," declared Reeve Barnard.

The new Warden is 59 years of age and has been a resident of Hastings for 35 years. He was a grocer in the village for 25 years and then went into business as an agent selling bonds, insurance and farm implements. He has been elected a member of the Village Council.

For fifteen years in succession, of which six have been in Counties Council, the Warden has been active in public affairs. By religion he is a member of the United Church and by politics a Conservative. Warden Kelley is the son of the late Mr. and Mrs J. W. Kelley and was born in Warkworth. He is president of Hastings Red Cross and has been on the School Board for ten years.

Reds Broadcast Denial From Britain

LONDON, Jan. 19 —(CP)—British newspapers, which yesterday expressed high indignation over Pravda's publication of a rumor of British-German peace talks, appeared placated today by the Moscow radio's broadcast of the official British denial.

At the same time, Moscow dispatches said Britons and Americans in the Soviet capital also expressed relief at the broadcast, which went to the whole nation and was transmitted to the Russian press.

The London Daily Mail, which yesterday called the Communist party organ's account "an insult to the British people," headlined its story today: "'Peace' lie is now dead." The News Chronicle said the Germans were spreading peace talk rumors, "hoping to gain respite."

In broadcasting Britain's denial, the Moscow radio also gave the first inkling of a possible explanation for the Pravda story by quoting a London Sunday Times dispatch of Jan. 16 from Ankara which said that the Nazis were fishing for terms. The London Sunday Times is a newspaper distinct from the Times of London.

German propaganda broadcasts meanwhile harped on the theme that the Pravda story was intended by Moscow to draw a renewed British and American pledge of allegiance toward Russia "regardless of how the Polish question is being solved by the Soviets."

The News Chronicle said in a Stockholm-dated dispatch today that a "German peace move — on conditions — is on the way." The dispatch said the nature of the alleged terms was not known and added, "that they will be rejected goes without saying."

Refugee Policy Likely To Engage House

By FRANK FLAHERTY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA, Jan. 19 — (CP). — Indications accumulate that the problem of the stranger at the gate may be more in the minds of the members of parliament during the coming session than for some years past.

While it is not yet certain that any formal discussion will take place, members are hearing about the question of admitting refugees from Nazi persecution and suggestions for Canada's post-war immigration policy.

The refugee question is an immediate one of small proportions, the immigration question one of less urgency but possibly larger proportions. On the first question the Canadian National Committee on Refugees, in which Senator Cairine Wilson is actively interested, plans to submit a widely-signed popular petition to parliament.

On the second Premier George Drew of Ontario, following his return from a trip to Great Britain, has taken a stand in favor of encouraging migration from Great Britain after the war.

Claims He's Fraud

His critics on the other hand say he's a fraud and is accepted by none except under terroristic pressure.

Mihailovic's history of resistance goes back to the autumn of 1941 when he became leader of the Chetnik band and the embodiment of the first Yugoslav resistance to the German invaders. He tried to conserve what was left of the Yugoslav army. At one time he had 100,000 in the force. Now it has dropped to less than 40,000.

Some Chetniks collaborated with the Italians and even with the Germans against the Partisans.

Mihailovic became war minister of King Peter's government and his military policy during the past six months or more has been one of waiting for the Allied invasion before rising to meet the Germans. Mihailovic has received British recognition as a member of the Yugoslav government and as leader of the Chetniks but now he's exclipsed by Tito, whose Partisans have been getting British support.

Has Eden's Support

King Peter is embroiled in this internecine strife between the Yugoslav guerilla leaders.

He and his government still have Allied recognition. But the whole situation is becoming untenable. The King may dismiss the government which now is in Cairo, having moved there from London, and offer to cooperate with the new provisional government of Tito. He may go to Yugoslavia, treat with Tito and become what some have described as the "first Red king." He may stick with his present government—die-hard, nationalistic and Serbian as it is.

Undoubtedly he will seek British advice. Peter personally has Foreign Secretary Eden's sympathy which Eden voiced in the British Commons.

Police Recover 2 Stolen Cars

Two automobiles stolen here during the night were recovered later by the police and in the case of one of the machines the officers came close to catching the car-thief red-handed.

Sergt. W.-E. Wigg and Constable Percy Sexsmith were patrolling in a police cruiser and near George and Perry streets they noticed a car that had been reported by W. H. Girven. 577 Waterford street as having been stolen from that address. Before the officers could stop the police car and turn on the slippery road, the driver of the other machine had abandoned it on the street and made his getaway.

The second car reported stolen was the property of Irving McIntosh, 255 Rubidge street and was taken from that address. Constables Leo Murphy and John Morrow recovered the automobile later at Sherbrooke and Stewart streets.

A Lucky Flier

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J., Jan. 19—(AP).—When they told Pte. Richard A. Lackie of Buffalo, N.Y., that he would have to make a flight from Peru to Panama on a strange Flying Fortress with a strange crew, the 26-year-old radio operator tried vainly to get permission to have the trip with his buddies in his own plane. When he arrived at Panama, he saw his own ship come through the clouds in a swift dive and crash 50 feet away. All 14 men aboard were killed.

Appointment Of Town Clerk Causes Lengthy Debate At Session Of Cobourg Council

COBOURG, Jan. 19 — (ENS) — Tempers flared last night at the town council meeting over the application of Roy Dodge, last year's reeve, for the position of deputy-town clerk and treasurer. Reuben Jackson and Judd Kennedy took up the cudgels on behalf of the returned men while the remainder of the council favored the appointment of Mr. Dodge. Mayor Jack Burnet had no vote in the matter but indicated that he favored holding the job open for a returned man.

Reuben Jackson, veteran town councillor, suggested that the job be thrown wide open and held open until some Cobourg boy overseas could apply for it.

"Put an advertisement in the local papers and I will pay for a hundred of them to be sent over to Italy to Jack Ewart and the boys so that they will have a chance to apply for the job," advised Councillor Reuben Jackson. "Jack Ewart" was mayor of the town when he enlisted and went overseas and was given leave-of-absence from his post of mayor.

Substitute Job

Last year the town council drew up a by-law appointing Roy Dodge as deputy town clerk and treasurer, to act in the absence of town clerk Alex Young, who is seriously ill and may not return to his duties. The local Selective Service authorities informed the council that Mr. Dodge did not have a permit from his employer and that the council erred in appointing him to the position. Council was advised to notify the Selective Service office that the position was open and this was done. Mr. Dodge subsequently obtained a permit.

Mayor Jack Burnet at this week's council meeting pointed out that four applications were before the council. Councillor Alan Field told council that the by-law had been passed and was still in force and would be valid now that Mr. Dodge had got his release from his employer.

"We didn't call for any other applications," said Councillor Field.

"The by-law is all shattered now," commented the mayor. Councillor Field repeated that the by-law was in effect and Mr. Dodge had got his release. Council couldn't very well drop Mr. Dodge between the City Dairy and the town hall, Councillor Field declared. Mr. Dodge has been employed at the City Dairy.

Councillor Jackson asserted that the by-law was unlawful.

"Mr. Dodge only had to walk 25 feet from here to the Selective Service office to get his permit but he chose instead to lobby on the other side of the house. The by-law is broken and if it passes in this council, I will oppose it as far as I can go," Councillor Jackson said.

Councillor Field said that the council had "innocently made an error" in framing the by-law and that it was not an intentional violation of the Selective Service regulations. Reeve Robert Love stated that he couldn't understand where the other three applicants got the idea that the job was open as the by-law was still in force. Mayor Burnet pointed out that the applicants had gone to the Selective Service office and applied.

Advertise Job

"Why not throw the job wide open and advertise it? In the last war there was an opening here in the customs office. Dave Burn was in France and applied for the job and got it. When the war was over he came back here and took the job and still has it. It should be thrown open to the Cobourg boys now overseas. What will Jack Ewart and his boys think of it if the job is filled here without giving them a chance to go after it?" Councillor Jackson asked.

"I move we open the applications and settle it here and now," suggested Reeve Love.

"I move an amendment that we throw it wide open and advertise it. I'll pay my shot to send the papers overseas. Advertise it in the Naples News too. Leave the job open for two months so that the lads over-

Farmers Elect Archer Leader For 2nd Term

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 19 (ENS) —Director of the Seymour Agriculture Society viewed one of the best financial statements they have seen in many years and recommended R. G. Curle for a Certificate of Merit when they met for their annual meeting here Tuesday afternoon. So well pleased were they by the reports, which showed the Society at least $200 better off than it was at the end of 1942, that they shattered a twenty-year-old precedent by naming Ward Archer for a second term as president.

At the opening of the meeting a brief summary of the year past was given by President Archer, who expressed his thanks to directors and to the town of Campbellford for the use of a street making possible a dance which proved nearly as profitable as the fair itself. He spoke of the improvements made at the grounds during the year and thanked those who had turned out in a bee to assist with this work and he foresaw the need for further improvements in 1944.

Appoint Delegates

During the general business four delegates, the president, V. Irwin, R. G. Curle and John Locke were named delegates to the Central Ontario Association of Agriculture Societies meeting in Belleville on January 28 when so far as Seymour is concerned the chief business will be to hold the last Tuesday and Wednesday as the date for their annual fair.

"That is something worth while as it brings good seed into the district," said R. G. Curle during a discussion of the Field Crop competition which will again be sponsored by the Society.

A letter from Agriculture Representative R. C. Banbury gave details of registered seed grain available and he quoted a top price of $1.90 for Ajax oats. To interest farmers in this competition a committee comprising Percy Oddie and Robert McCulloch was named. It was decided also that the Society should sponsor Foal and Calf clubs again in 1944 since both of these had attracted considerable interest during the fair.

Fair Reports

Reports were given by the superintendents in various classes and these began with Victor Irwin and a statement on the display of horses which he said was the largest the fair had ever had. There had been a great deal of interest in the drawing contest but he saw the need for more adequate control of spectators during this event. The report of E. A. McCook, director of dairy cattle, was less enthusiastic as exhibits had declined even though the quality of the animals was good. He thought more accommodation should be provided for cattle and that a little more prize money should be offered. Mr. McCook also referred to the empty displays in the domestic science section at the fair and suggested some remedial action such as offering to provide contestants with the necessary flour. Other members were of the opinion that sugar was the problem despite Mr. McCook's contention that other fairs in the district had good displays of home baking.

Secretary-treasurer G. G. Stephens presented the financial statement that despite a $458.38 balance showed the Society would have been in the red without the dances it sponsored. Though gate receipts were up $107 to $880.65 the general prize list had been increased by a nearly equal amount to $1,334.30 and on top of this was another $206 increase for horse racing prizes which last year totalled $478. Grants and expenditures were approximately the same as in 1942 and slightly less than $100 was used for mainteance and repairs.

The election of officers resulted as follows: Honorary directors, Mayor F. F. Long, W. A. Goodfellow, M.L.A., H. N. Carr, W. A. Fraser, M.P., Reeve William Rowe; president, W. W. Archer; 1st vice-president, J. A. Murray; secretary-treasurer, G. G. Stephens.

Junior Commando Gets Bullet In Back

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Jan. 19 — (AP). — Ten-year-old John Wilm kept his secret of three days, but X-ray photographs forced him to tell the truth—that he was shot last Wednesday during a "commando raid" in an alley near his home.

When John failed to recover from what he told his parents were cuts suffered in a fall, a physician made the examination and found a bullet lodged near his spine. Police said the bullet was fired accidentally from one of four pistols young Wilm and three playmates had taken from an unoccupied house.

Guild Increases Year's Receipts By 50 Per Cent

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 19. — (ENS).—The most successful year in their history was indicated by the financial statement presented to members of Christ Church Parish Guild at their annual meeting this week. Total receipts for the year amounted to approximately $900, which was a fifty per cent. increase over 1942. Rev. W. J. Lennox, the rector, paid tribute to the women for their excellent work during the past year and commended them on the spirit of co-operation that prevailed in the society.

Miss Ethel Bedford gave the report of the secretary-treasurer, stating there had been twenty-one meetings during the year and that the membership of the Guild was twenty. Theier activities included holding thirty bingos and one euchre; a draw on a quilt and centre piece; sponsoring a lecture by Rev. A. C. Herbert; making fourteen quilts. Miss Bedford expressed satisfaction at the response made to the 'five cents a week envelopes' which had been handed out to 148 members. One hundred and twenty-one responded. In October, the Guild served soup to "B" Comany Midland Regiment who were on manoeuvres. In concluding she said, "This sums up the activities of the Parish Guild and through the efforts of all, the wardens have been enabled to pay the mortgage on the parish hall in full."

Bingos Raise Funds.

The financial statement revealed the most lucrative source of revenue had been the weekly bingos which yielded a total of $385.02, while the "five cents a week" plan brought in another $269.51; tickets on quilts made them $72.80 and quilts sold outright brought $61. Miscellaneous receipts brought the total for the year up to $927.97. Expenditures included $48.97 for quilt material, $2.44 for stamps and envelopes, $23 to the Red Cross and $825 to the wardens of the church, which paid of fthe mortgage.

Rev. G. W. Lennox presided for the election of officers which resulted as follows: Honorary president, Mrs. G. W. Lennox; president, Mrs. R. A. Linton; vice-president, Mrs. Hilton Beatty; secretary-treasurer, Miss Ethel Bedford; social committee. Miss G. Maynard, Mrs. J. O. Benor; pantry committee, Mrs. Nelson Lloyd and Mrs. W. Higginson; sewing committee, Mrs. William Shaw, Mrs. Chas. Shaw, Mrs. W. D. Wood, Mrs. H. Pryke.

During the meeting members discussed plans for observing the ninetieth anniversary of Christ church here this coming June

Red Cross To Appeal For Funds In March

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 19 (ENS) —Announcement of their annual appeal for funds to be made during the first fifteen days of March, was made at the weekly meeting of the Campbellford and Seymour branch of the Red Cross Society held here Tuesday. According to the secretary, citizens will be again asked to "give to the limit" as parcels for the prisoners of war "must not fail, hospitals must be equipped and supplies made available for soldiers, sailors and airmen.

About thirty ladies spent the afternoon making dressing gowns, hospital gowns and sheets and anyone desiring to assist with this work can obtain the material at the Red Cross rooms. The branch is awaiting a shipment of wool that will enable them to begin on a new knitting program. Members were asked to look through sewing books for scraps of print, wool, or flannelette required for making quilt tops as these are urgently needed.

Movies For Children

We see that the local Home and School Council intends to write to the Provincial Treasurer, suggesting that a woman be included on the Board of Motion Picture Censorship for this Province; the Council may spare itself the trouble, for Maud Canning has done good work on the Board, assisting the Chairman, O. J. Silverthorne, for some years. The Council's object, as we understand the matter, is to urge that films unsuitable for showing to children be barred from exhibition in Ontario.

We do not believe that any such proposal would be seriously considered by the Board of Censors. The moving pictures are patronized by people of all ages, and it is impossible to restrict what they see to children's fare; to do so would be as silly as to decree that restaurants should serve no food which was not digestible by children. It is expected that parents will keep their children from eating foods which are unsuitable for them; similarly it may be expected that parents will keep their children away from movies which may have a bad effect on them. It must be understood that the proprietors of movie houses are not running day-nurseries, to which children may be sent whenever they are in the way at home. They are running places of public entertainment, and the adult public may fittingly ask to see films which would be unsuitable for exhibition to children.

The child whose film fare is supervised is not likely to come to any harm from seeing a weekly movie; on the contrary, the stimulation of his imagination will probably be good for him. Experiments in making films primarily for children have not been unqualified in their success. Snow White contained a Witch who was too horrible for the smaller and more impressionable children; Lassie Comes Home excites such sympathy for the dog who plays the chief part that children are reduced to tears; the films made for children are usually more disturbing than those prepared for general release. Our own opinion is that children like slapstick comedies best of all, then thrillers, and then sentimental films; sex dramas come low on the list of preferences for the plain reason that children scarcely comprehend what they are about.

We must not lose sight of the fact that the movies are a form of art, and are indeed the only form in which drama reaches millions of people on this continent. To attempt to limit drama to subjects suitable for consideration by children is sheer nonsense. Great drama and great literature are rarely suited to the needs of the very young; they are produced by adults for the entertainment of adults and children must wait until they are grown up to appreciate them. We cannot impose infantilism on the whole Province by limiting the movies to the needs of children.

Associations of parents are often excellent things, but they have a bad habit of wanting other people to do work which properly belongs to parents themselves. If parents want to protect their children from unsuitable movies let them keep their children at home, and supervise their movie fare carefully. They must not try to bully the censors into doing their job for them, and they must not try to dictate the movie fare which shall be offered to the majority of movie-goers, who are adults and must be treated as adults.

A Knowledge Of Geography

An elementary knowledge of geography is a very useful thing, particularly at present, but the geographical information possessed by most of us is scant and vague. The Brantford Expositor comments with surprise on the fact that the London Daily Mirror has included Mr. George McCullagh, the publisher of the Toronto Globe and Mail, in its welcome to a group of four 'American' editors, and apparently does not know that the city of Toronto is within the British Empire!

We are not surprised. Large numbers of people in Britain,—we venture to say a majority—know very little about Canada, nor are they all to be found among the uneducated classes. They are also the people who call us either Americans or 'colonials' when we visit their country. They are not at all sure how we are governed, and when we say that we live in Peterborough they are quite likely to ask us if we know their cousins in Calgary, and if not, will we look them up? Their ignorance of Canada is abysmal and almost insulting.

We say 'almost' advisedly, for we offset it with a sturdy Canadian ignorance about Britain. How many Canadians can name the Home Counties? How many can name the counties which comprise the Principality of Wales? How many know what is meant by the North Riding, or East Anglia? How many can tell a Highlander from a Lowlander by his accent? How many can give the location of York, Nottingham, Wolverhampton and Exeter without a map? How many believe that Englishmen say "Are you there?" into the telephone and that all English houses are bitterly cold, and that it rains all the time in England? English ignorance of Canada is disgraceful: so is Canadian ignorance of England.

We often say these days that the world is growing smaller. That is a pleasing but deceptive thought. It is just as large as it ever was, and our ignorance of the people outside our own confines is as astonishing as ever.

Sir William Rounds Out a Century

Today Sir William Mulock celebrates his 100th birthday. Together with so many other institutions and persons in Canada, the Examiner presents its congratulations and its admiration. The admiration is not, of course, merely for Sir William's feat in living for a century but for the great service which he has given to Canada, for the optimistic wisdom with which he looks at Canada, and for the distinction with which Sir William has practised the art of living in Canada.

Living is an art; perhaps it is the greatest of the arts. To blend the varied elements of a life into a coherent and satisfactory whole is a gigantic task, requiring constant attention, unusual self-knowledge, a sense of propriety, a sense of values, and a sense of humour. Sir William has been a great public figure, but he never allowed public life to absorb all his energies to the point where he ceased to have a private life. He has worked very hard, and has borne great burdens, but he has never been so busy that he had no time for enjoyment. He has lived a full life, and there can be few pleasures which he has not savoured, but he has never allowed pleasure to dominate his life. To live a hundred years and to maintain so fine a proportion in living is a truly remarkable achievement.

Sir William has expressed his confidence in the future of Canada, saying: "Canada's greatest achievement as a nation has been in this war; it's marvellous; Canada has made herself a world power". His optimism should be pondered by those who see the future as a period of darkness and struggle. Sir William has lived so long that he has passed through the pessimism of later middle age, which darkens the last years of many men; he has been so long an onlooker that he has had time to weigh all the influences of the time.

Although it has been widely reproduced we should like to include here the words of the card which Sir William is sending to his friends to mark this anniversary:

> "I bring to thee, my beloved Heavenly Father, a grateful heart, for my long years of happiness, for the kindness and affection of my fellow-citizens, for the lavish devotion of a widowed mother and the fond regard of dear relatives. All of these have given me unbroken contentment and a happy life."

The history of this country has never included so striking an example of the beauty of noble old age.

A Fellow of Infinite Jest

By
SAMUEL MARCHBANKS

IN 685 pages, with countless quotations from letters, newspaper articles and books, Maisie Ward has produced a life of the late Gilbert Keith Chesterton which will undoubtedly be the standard biography of that remarkable man. Whether it will be the most valuable book about Chesterton to those who want to learn the truth about him is a different question. Mrs. Ward knew G.K.C. for many years, she knew his friends, she sympathized in his political views, and she shared his religious belief; she is herself a woman of keen understanding and sympathy, and she writes clearly and directly, never allowing herself to get off the track and never giving way to the biographer's habit of theorizing: but it may be this aversion from theorizing which keeps her book from being completely satisfying; a first-rate book about Chesterton should really be full of theorizing. But who would write such a book? Not Bernard Shaw, for his book about Chesterton would probably be as brilliant and as misleading as Chesterton's book about him. Not Hilaire Belloc, for the back legs of the Chesterbelloc writing about the front legs would be as useless for our purpose as Chesterton's own "Autobiography." Not Dorothy Collins, who was too near G.K.C. to be anything but his devoted slave. Not Mrs. Cecil Chesterton, who has always been so eager to prove that G.K.'s brother was a greater man than he. No, we shall have to wait until some unknown writer, in the 'English Men of Letters' series, illuminates G.K.C. for us as he himself illuminated Robert Browning. Meanwhile we must be grateful for Mrs. Ward's excellent work.

THE most impressive single characteristic of this book is its strong Catholic bias. Now a book about G.K.C. with a Protestant bias is unthinkable; it would be useless. Chesterton was a profoundly religious man and his gradual pilgrimage from the Secularist atmosphere of his Kensington home to full acceptance of the Catholic faith was the most remarkable thing in the intellectual development of a very remarkable man. In the Catholic Church he said that he found true intellectual freedom; he also found the dogma for which his soul hungered, and in dogma, he insisted, the salvation of the world would be found. Understandably many people disagreed with him, and Mrs. Ward is inclined to treat their disagreement merely as though it were a result of ignorance: it is unthinkable to her, as it was to G.K.C., that anyone could really understand Catholic doctrine and reject it. As a result the non-Catholic reader will find passages in her book rather hard to swallow. It is this quality too which makes her quote, in derision, an opinion on G.K.C. which seemed to me the soundest in the book; Dr. Bridges, with whom Chesterton had a friendly debate on psychology in the U.S., said of him that he had "a certain intellectual recklessness which made him indifferent to truth and reality....fundamentally, perhaps I should say unconsciously, he was a thorough-going skeptic and acted upon the principle that, since we cannot be really positive about anything, we had better believe what it pleases us to believe."

THE undeniable facts about Chesterton are these: he was a man of superlative brilliance of mind, and he could argue the hindleg off a donkey. He was also a man of infinite kindness and goodwill; his career is free from those quarrels in which so many writers delight and it abounds in acts of great kindness and understanding. But if G.K.C. undertook to show that black was white, only two men in England could stop him—Belloc and G. B. Shaw: but of course Belloc was a great shell-and-pea man himself, and was always ready to back up any confusion about black and white, and Shaw usually had other fish to fry. Consequently G.K.C. had a free hand as a general thing, and made the most of it. As Edward Anthony put it:

O Gilbert, I know there are many who like
Yours talks on the darkness of light,
The shortness of length and the weakness of strength
And the one on the lowness of height.

But Chesterton was no mere fabricator of paradoxes; "God made them, not I," he insisted, and he stirred up the muddy depths of commonplace thinking as few men have done.

CHESTERTON'S greatness as a writer has suffered from his journalistic activity. In his lifetime he wrote more than 90 books and in addition he poured out articles for several periodicals, including the one which bore his name and was the organ of the Distributist movement. There is no space here to say anything about Distributism, but is is a political philosophy which deserves the attention of those who are not contented with matters as they are, and who cannot stomach the aridities of socialism; its essence is that as many people as possible should be property-owners and producers. A man who writes much is not valued so highly as the writer who drops an occasional pearl, and it is true that Chesterton squandered himself. But he was a man of great humility, and he valued the causes he served highly, and his own fame he held cheap. He could have devoted himself entirely to works of imagination and philosophy, and by doing so he would have gained a reputation as a sage; instead he chose to enter the political arena and fight like a wildcat for the country he loved and the things which he believed were right. As the years pass the trivial writing and the political quarrels will be forgotten, and his important works will emerge from the ruck. Then we shall see Chesterton as the great man he was; to those who knew him it is clear that he was one of the greatest men of his time.

Radio Licence Fees and CBC

Radio listeners must be getting pretty sick of hearing, every night after the ten o'clock news, warnings to people who have not paid their radio licence fees. Why does the CBC persist in advertising its inefficiency? Nobody is alarmed at the constant "wolf-wolf" cry. People who pay their licences promptly on the first of April every year are beginning to wonder if they are not foolish to do so, because it is quite evident that if they do not they will receive nothing more harmful than a warning over the air.

There has long been a suspicion in the minds of radio listeners that thousands of people are not paying their licence fees. It would be interesting if the CBC would publish a statement of the amount it loses every year through the non-collection of radio fees. This hullabaloo over the air every night is nothing but an advertisement of inefficient business management on the part of the CBC. If a lot of radio licences due last April are still outstanding, there is something wrong somewhere.—Kingston Whig-Standard.

ADOLF ON THE MOUNTAIN —By Thomas

A Story of Confederation

(STRATFORD BEACON-HERALD)

HECTOR CHARLESWORTH, veteran newspaperman, has just made a discovery of historic importance. Writing in the Hamilton Spectator, Mr. Charlesworth tells of going through some old political records and coming upon an occurrence hitherto unknown to him. It recorded a chat—on a train in 1864—between two eminent public men of the day, strongly opposed to each other politically, that ended in the birth of Canadian Confederation.

One was the Hon. George Brown, holding by uncertain tenure the post of Leader of the Reformers in the Parliament of Upper Canada, and also editor of a most powerful newspaper, the Toronto Globe. The other was the Hon. John Carling, a staunch Conservative and perpetual member for London, Ontario, who had, in 1862, become Receiver-General in the Macdonald-Cartier Government.

Brown supported the move for a change in the Act of Union to grant Ontario better than equal representation with Quebec in Parliament, increased population, especially in Western Ontario, giving rise to the demand. The result was a deadlock in Parliament, a considerable group of Macdonald's supporters creating this situation by voting for an Opposition amendment to the address embodying the demand, on condition that it was not to be regarded as a want of confidence motion.

That was the situation, early in 1864, when Brown and Carling met on a train journey, Mr. Charlesworth notes. Carling, a man of splendid personality, was liked and trusted by everybody. The talk necessarily turned to politics, and finally Brown said: "Macdonald has the opportunity of his life. He can solve the situation by bringing about Confederation of all the provinces of British North America, and thus effect an entire change in parliamentary representation." (Or words to that effect.)

Carling asked: "Would you support him if he took steps to that end?" Brown replied emphatically that he would.

"Very well," said Carling. "I will inform Macdonald of your position at once."

That was the origin of negotiations which resulted in Brown's entering the Cabinet of a man with whom he was not on speaking terms, for the express purpose of implementing Confederation. As Goldwin Smith said long ago, Mr. Charlesworth writes: "Confederation was the offspring of deadlock."

'Unregulated Private Enterprise'

(OTTAWA JOURNAL)

IN a week-end speech in New York, C.C.F. Leader M. J. Coldwell said that under a Socialist Government in Canada "economic planning for abundance" would supersede "unregulated private enterprise".

Here is a perfect example of a curse that has come to our political discussion: The propensity of doctrinaire theorists to confuse and bedevil issues with phrases that are meaningless.

Unregulated private industry! Where in Canada does that exist?

Not in our banks. Canadian banks operate under a Bank Act passed by Parliament, revised every 10 years by Parliament. Their interest rates are fixed by Parliament, their functions determined and limited by Parliament, their existence made dependent on Parliament. Regulation is over their every act.

Not in our insurance and trust companies. They operate under an Insurance Act, with their powers and functions determined by that Act. They are accountable to the Dominion Insurance Department, subject to its superintendence, amenable to its edicts. Regulation is their very existence.

Not in our railways. Canadian railways (one of them, the greatest in mileage, is owned by the Government) operate under the strict supervision of the Federal Board of Transport Commissioners. Their rates are fixed by them. They cannot open a new branch line or close an old one without Government approval. They are regulated to the last degree.

Not in general industry. No manufacturer in Canada today but feels the hand of the State. He must have licenses or permits for imports or exports. He must get his raw material with Government approval. He has his prices fixed for him, and the wages he pays fixed for him; and upon everything he does or doesn't do, he must report to a Government authority. In the end, he has his profits regulated; limited to a minimum.

So all down the line. Instead of "unregulated private enterprise" we have regulation with a vengeance, with what is loosely called "free enterprise" all but become meaningless. Just a phrase. C.C.F. Leader Coldwell, harping upon "unregulated private enterprise", is but mumbling Socialist nonsense, descending to the mumbo-jumbo of the soap-box orator.

The times are too serious for that sort of fakery.

Culled From Our Contemporaries

Rancher's Difficulty

The western cattle rancher who, seeking government permission to slaughter a number of steers, was recommended to keep some of them "for breeding purposes" would probably like to know how. It isn't just a simple matter of filing out forms.—Toronto Saturday Night.

She's Doing Her Best

There's a girl stenographer out in Phoenix, Arizona, who writes 400 letters a month to service men, all in longhand, and never in the firm's time. If she does not 'get her man" no one can say she has not done her derndest. —Midland Free Press.

Post-War Taxes

We have paid our share of the war's cost, and we expect to bear our share of the succeeding burden, but the costs of the readjustment to peace must be related more closely to our abilities, or backs will weary of burden bearing. The old fable of the man who killed the goose that laid the golden egg has a present applicability. If taxation stifles the effort and the initiative and the spirit of those who work, and those who provide work, what then becomes of this orphaned burden of taxation, and from whom will it be collected? The people of this country have done their best for war. They will continue to do their best. But they have a sound reason for expecting that with the coming of peace will come a measure of relief from almost impossible tax burdens. They cannot continue to live in a delusion.—Leamington Post and News.

Censor Defined

Definition: A censor is one who gets hold of a fact like "the U.S. Navy now totals 14,072 vessels," and spends the rest of the day wondering, "Will this comfort the enemy?"—Stratford Beacon-Herald.

Badly Needed Action

The Prices Board is reported to be weeding out inferior types of chocolate and confectionery bars. And not before such action was badly needed. All sorts of trash has been masquerading in such guise and, under the circumstances that have prevailed, has commanded a ready sale. If the same board will proceed to eliminate a lot of other rubbish that is being offered the public as merchandise, it will be conferring a great favor upon the consumers as a whole.—Brockville Recorder and Times.

Whiskey Profit

If a grocer sold a pound of sugar at a profit of 100 per cent he would come into serious conflict with the Price Board, possibly might lose his licence.

If he made a profit of 200 per cent, he would not only be guilty of gross profiteering, he might find himself in jail.

If, in addition, he substituted an adulterant for 20 per cent of the sugar, he would find himself faced with a list of charges sufficient to keep him in jail for a long time.

But when governments make a profit of at least 200 per cent on liquors and "cut" the product by 20 per cent, they are not only within the law but regard the whole thing as a legitimate and worthy practice.—Calgary Herald.

A Bible Message

Mine heart within me is broken because of the prophets.... For both prophet and priest are profane; yea, in my house have I found their wickedness, saith the Lord.... And I have seen folly in the prophets of Samaria; they prophesied in Baal, and caused my people Israel to err....

Thus saith the Lord of hosts, Hearken not unto the words of the prophets that prophesy unto you: they make you vain: they speak a vision of their own heart, and not out of the mouth of the Lord....

Behold, I am against them that prophesy false dreams, saith the Lord, and do tell them, and cause my people to err by their lies, and their lightness; yet I sent them not, nor commanded them: therefore they shall not profit this people at all, saith the Lord. (Jer. 23: 9, 11, 13, 16, 32.)

Beloved, believe not every spirit, but try the spirits whether they are of God: because many false prophets are gone out into the world.... They are of the world: therefore speak they of the world, and the world heareth them.

We are of God: he that knoweth God heareth us; he that is not of God heareth not us. Hereby know we the spirit of truth, and the spirit of error. (I John 4: 1, 5, 6.)

Unconsidered Trifles

Earth flew in all directions as the crimson-faced would-be golfer attempted to strike the ball.

"My word," he blurted to his caddie, "the worms will think there's an earthquake."

"I don't know," replied the caddie. "The worms round here are crafty. I'll bet most of them are hiding under the ball for safety."

As Smith and Jones were waiting at the bus stop, a passer-by stopped and asked Jones the time. Jones did not reply.

After the stranger had passed on, Smith asked:

"Why didn't you answer him?"

"Well, it's this way," Jones replied. "If I told him the time, he might have got chatting then we might have had a drink together, and in the end I might have asked him home to supper.

"There he might have met my daughter—and she's a very pretty girl—and they might have fallen in love. Finally they might have got married."

"And let me tell you, I don't want a fellow for my son-in-law who can't afford to buy a watch."

People of Poland

Among the many untrue and unjust things that have been said of the people of Poland, none are more false and unfair than the Poles are a quarrelsome race, that they have coveted the lands of their neighbours, and that they have done nothing to help win the war of world freedom.

The Poles throughout their long history have been a fighting race, not because they are quarrelsome or envious or land-hungry, but simply because they have been compelled by force of circumstances to live dangerously, defending their homeland from powerful and unscrupulous neighbours. The Poles are in very truth a friendly, democratic, law-abiding people, anxious to live at peace with their neighbours. It has been their misfortune for hundreds of years to be completely surrounded by three very powerful and thoroughly unscrupulous neighbours who, in an unholy alliance, seized the raiment of Poland and divided it among themselves. Three times they invaded Poland, without pretext other than their own covetousness, and divided more and more of the country among themselves, until the Poles, with a thousand years of history behind them, became a people without a country.—Timmins Press.

Too Thin and Too Thick

A year or more ago the Berlin radio station referred to the R.A.F. bombings of Germany as "nuisance raids," but now describes them as "terror attacks." Both terms represent official attempts to mislead listeners, but neither has ever deceived anyone. "Nuisance raids" was too thin, as "terror attacks" is too thick. Other descriptions than "nuisance" and "terrorism" must be used to indicate the process by which Germany is being reduced to that state of "cinders and rubble" which Hitler at one time threatened against all other European countries. —Sydney Post-Record.

Bazooka Firing Joint Task Force Terror Of Germans In Battle

By FOSTER BARCLAY
Canadian Press War Correspondent

WITH THE 5TH ARMY IN ITALY, Jan. 19 (CP Cable)—Group of men "with funny pants and dirty faces" has been acclaimed the "best outfit" in the 5th Army.

They are highly-trained fighters from Canada and the United States who operate as a special task force for which the German foot-sloggers have developed a more than healthy respect.

These men "with danny pants and dirty faces"—a name the Germans have bestowed upon them because of their unique get-up—combined the best qualities of a paratrooper, a commando, an infantryman and a guerilla. They are killers equally at home with a rifle or a knife, and they haven't failed in any assignment yet given them.

Ruthless Fighting

The battles this combined force has fought have been bloody and fierce. They are credited with slashing a 10-mile wedge into one sector of the German line. In all their engagements, they have enhanced their reputation as fearless mountain fighters.

A pair of Kitchener, Ont., youths who are deadly with Tommy-gun, rifle and dagger are among the unit's ace fighters. They are Fred Molson and Vet Veitenheimer, who together have slain more than a dozen Nazis and wounded many others who later died on the battlefield.

The need for secrecy has been drilled so deeply into these fighters it is almost impossible to get them to describe their experiences on this front. It took a lot of wheedling to get this information from a group of Canadians bivouacked on the side of a hill close to a German anti-aircraft position.

First Story

I was the first Canadian War Correspondent to visit them, and they were surprised to learn the news that they had come to grips with the enemy had been published.

All wanted to know what other soldiers thought about them and when I told them everyone agreed they were tops, big grins split bearded, dirty faces.

"We don't get time to shave in these parts," apologized Pte. M. J. Overall of Niagara Falls, Ont., running a hand over the bristles. "After a patrol with heavy packs through the mountains, we just want to sleep and rest up for the next skirmish with the Germans."

Bazooka Puzzles Huns

Men grouped in front of a pup tent laughed as someone recalled an action involving Cpl. Tommy Gott of Niagara Falls, Ont. He went after a German sniper who had killed a lot of Canadians and shot him with a Bazooka, an American anti-tank gun.

"That surprised the Germans and they wondered where we got artillery," grinned Sgt. Kenneth Chapman of Amherst, N.S., who was with Sgts. B. G. Carson, Montreal, Kenneth Lavery of Brockville, Ont., William Stubbs of Mooretown, Ont., George Robinson of Ottawa and Pte. Gerard Lafleche of Sturgeon Falls, Ont.

Battle casualties so far are light considering the number of engagements against fierce opposition. The force specializes in close combat fighting, prying the Germans from positions delaying advancing Allied infantry and beyond the reach of effective artillery fire. The unit has taken more than 200 prisoners and it is believed no Canadian or American of this force has fallen into the enemy hands.

Full Co-operation

The men wear the same uniform—for security reasons it cannot be described—and an American officer who said they are 'the best unit in the 5th Army" asserted that the spirit among the men is unsurpassable.

Capt. John Shaw of Moose Jaw, Sask., 25-year-old former football player with Moose Jaw Millers, explained that when the force was initially formed there were some hard feelings over difference in pay and Lieut. V. C. Jackson of Winnipeg and Grimsby, Ont., interjected that "we seldom think about those things nowadays."

"I wish you could see the way the boys work together in those hills rooting out the Germans and you would see what I mean," he said.

Like pay, punishment is also under separate law. An occasion often arises where an American has to apply Canadian rules while a Canadian officer finds himself applying American regulations to in apprehended soldier.

"The lads understand and accept it as something which cannot be avoided in such a unique force," said Capt. Walter Wilson of Prince Albert, Sask.

FIRST DOG FIGHT

The first air combat occurred in the First Great War when a British pilot flew over a German plane and shot at it with a revolver.

Draft Dodgers Hide In Woods

COCHRANE, Ont., Jan. 19.—(CP). —Between 40 and 50 cases of draft-dodging and arm desertion are reported in this area of Northern Ontario every month, Magistrate E. R. Tucker said here yesterday.

Provincial and Royal Canadian Mounted Police confirmed that inaccessible bush areas are scoured constantly for draft dodgers and deserters. Many of these are trying to hide out for the duration, they said.

Magistrate Tucker said the evaders usually are rounded up at logging camps or are found in cabins built at a distance from towns.

"There seems to be a real confusion between compulsory employment (under National Selective Service regulations) and compulsory military training," he said. "Some perhaps think that it was sufficient for them to report to Selective Service for allocation to bush work, and that they thereby complied with the law on reporting for military service.

"I have no doubt that there are still many young men in the bush who should be in the army," he concluded.

Soviet Claims All Bessarabia

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19 (AP)—An official Soviet publication said today that any hopes which ex-King Carol of Rumania may have for a restoration to power face "the most bitter disappointment."

The Soviet Embassy information bulletin, referring to Carol as 'this strangler of every manifestation of democracy, this comic opera field marshal who dreamed of annexation of foreign territory long before Antonescu (Rumanian Premier Ion Antonescu) came on the scene," charged the former king with a share of the blame for converting Rumania to Hitlerism.

Carol, now living in Mexico, has been described by his American public relations counsel as a friend of the United Nations and a supporter of democratic principles.

The bulletin, Washington embassy publication, attacked the united stand which it said had been taken by some Rumanians in exile "in justification of Rumania's piratical 'right' to Bessarabia," border province to which the Soviet Union lays claim.

"Antonescu's regime has not long to live," the bulletin said.

SAYS "WATCH YOUR SMILE"
Without doubt the effect of many an otherwise attractive smile is completely spoiled by the "lack lustre" appearance of the teeth. In these modern days, that condition—to say the least—is rather inexcusable in view of the easy procurability of the many and most excellent products designed and prepared for the correction of that fault. These preparations are indeed varied as to form and application, but practically all of them will give most gratifying results if used with a properly shaped and firm bristle Tooth Brush, without which, however, complete satisfaction cannot be hoped for. So may we suggest a closer examination of that "tooth brush of yours." Very likely you will be completely surprised — upon rigid inspection — at its dilapidated appearance and condition, and will probably also wonder why its replacement had not occurred to you at a much earlier date. Your Tamblyn Drug Store this week is again stressing "Tooth Care," and as always has available for your selection a most complete assortment of popular and proven brands of Tooth Brushes and Dentifrices—a number of which are included in this list of OSHAWA GENERALS A GOOD TEAM—Oshawa Generals, junior hockey's "big" team in central Canada, met Marlboros in the Maple Leaf Gardens, Toronto, last night and recorded their 14th win in 16 starts, winning 5-2. Here are some of the stars of the Ontario Hockey Association champions.

Macdonald Expected To Be Ranger Spark Plug

TORONTO, Jan. 19—Breathing easier since Rangers snapped a seven- game losing string by rolling up a victory count over the Boston Bruins in Sunday night's 8-6 contest in New York, Coach Frank Boucher is Toronto-bound.

Although winners of only five games in 28 starts this season, one of them a surprise decision over Leafs on their last Toronto outing, the Rangers have somehow managed to accumulate a scoring record as impressive as that of Detroit and Chicago.

What Boucher regards as an important acquisition reinforcement for the Rangers is the weatherbeaten Kilby Macdonald, recently discharged by the Canadian army. Rangers got him via Buffalo Bisons in a wholesale player deal with Eddie Shore.

Macdonald was a hustling freshman with Rangers in 1939-1940, won the Calder Rookie Trophy, and helped the New Yorkers knock off Leafs in the Stanley Cup finals. Stomach ulcers ruined everything but Kilby's clippings the next season and he was sold down-river to Hershey. He next paused at Buffalo before receiving his army call.

Last winter Kilby was with the Montreal army team, greatly improved in health, and enjoying military table fare well enough to pick up 25 pounds in weight.

Against the Bruins, Boucher tossed Macdonald in at centre as playmaker for Hextall and Hiller. Kilby signalled his return to the Rangers by bagging the first goal of the game, serving up a pass for another.

Boucher messages from New York he's shopping for a couple more "Macs," be they MacIntoshes, MacPhersons or MacSweeneys, to round out the first "All Mac" sextet in National League history. He's well on the way now, with Ken McAuley in the nets; Bucko McDonald on the defense, Kilby Macdonald and Jack McDonald on the forward line.

28 Rinks Play In Morrow 'Spiel

By HERB MARTIN

Play for the "Wes Champ" and "Morrow" Trophies commenced this morning at 9.30 under weather conditions that were none too favorable for good curling. With a full entry of twenty-eight rinks from clubs in the district, the boys started out as if they meant business.

In the early stages of the first round the Peterborough boys were more than holding their own.

Up in Lindsay on Tuesday Peterborough tankard rinks lost to Lindsay by seven shots. M. Cruthers was down four shots to B. Everson and Tom McArthur lost to P. Skitch by three shots. The boys say the games were good and close all the way.

Rotary Club Sponsors School Hockey Night

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 19 (ENS)—With supervised hockey being provided for school pupils here during the winter by the Rotary Club, members are counting on their 'Young Campbellford Night' at the arena on Saturday to be a big affair.

This opinion was expressed by Rotarian Bill Hogle at the club's weekly luncheon when he gave an outline of program arrangements and drafted members to assist in various ways. The program is scheduled to start at 7.30 and will include four separate games of hockey by school teams as well as races for students. One of the highlights of the evening will be a game of broom hockey between Rotarians and a picked local team.

From Cecil Stephens, a former Campbellford resident, who is now in charge of an Indian school in the Georgian Bay, Rotarian A. K. Loucks read a letter of thanks for the pictorial magazines forwarded by the club during the past year. It was decided to continue this service to the school and members were asked to continue turning suitable publications over to Rotarian Loucks for shipment.

seas can get in their applications," said Councillor Jackson.

The motion carried and the applications were opened. The applicants were E. A. Hircock, tax collector; Roy Henley, former Cobourg boy who was honorably discharged from this war and is now in Saskatchewan; Miss Hattie Hawkey, who has been acting town clerk in Mr. Young's absence and the fourth application was Roy Dodge. Mr. Hircock is a veteran of the last war. Miss Hawkey in her application said that she would be willing to resign as soon as the war was over.

"Has the tax collector obtained a release from the town?" demanded Reeve Love.

"He doesn't need a release. He would still be working for the town," commented the mayor.

"Then the least he could do would be to consult the chairman of the Finance Committee before applying for the job," replied Reeve Love. "If Mr. Hircock is not satisfied with his job maybe we should throw his job open," added the Reeve.

"Anyone has the right to better himself," commented Councillor Jackson.

The matter was left hanging in mid-air with the decision of council to consult the town solicitor to see if the by-law still was valid.

SPORTS—Day by Day

By FRED D. CRAIG

From A. O. Phillips, former member of the news-room staff of The Examiner and known to the public generally as the former official weather observer in Peterborough comes a copy of the souvenir program issued in connection with the annual Lily Bowl football game played at the B.A.A. Field, Bermuda on January 2 between United States Army and Navy teams. Mr. Phillips is located at Hamilton, Bermuda and as always takes a keen interest in sporting events. This was the second Lily Bowl game between United States service units. A year ago the Army team emerged in front by the close score of 19 to 18 but in the recent game the Navy got ample revenge by winning 19 to 0 in a game in which they had all the advantage. Incidentally the program is a most elaborate affair with photogrphs of both teams, the names and numbers of all the players, the list of officials, even to the names of the cheer-leaders. The game was staged with the co-operation of the U.S.O. (United Service Organization) the outfit set up by the American public to serve the armed forces of the Allied Nations and doing a real job where ever it is located—and that is about everywhere.

One of the closest bowling races of the season is going on just now in the Ladies' Five Pin League and the battle is so tight that every game counts plenty. A week ago the Outboard Marines were leading the parade with a margin of one game over the Westclox. Monday night the Outboards put together the highest score of the week, 2848 pins, against the Generals and yet they find themselves now shy of their narrow lead for in spite of their big total they lost one of their three games to the Generals. As a result the Westclox team who cleaned up three games at the expense of the Corvettes are now tied with the Outboards for the top spot, each of the outfit having 30 points to their credit. Brintons who were a bangup third, only three points behind the leaders, are still in the third slot but they slipped considerably this week, dropping three straight games to the Commandos and they are now five games off the pace.

Chick Wants To Know

Chick Appel, sports editor of the Stratford Beacon-Herald propounds a question a lot of fans have been asking in the following: "Those interested in junior hockey are wondering how long the young men holding "essential jobs' "in war plants at Oshawa, St. Catharines and Port Colborne are going to evade military service. Reports have it that Bill Ezinicki and Kenny Smith of the Generals have already been granted two deferments. Loss of Ezinicki and Smith would play hob with Oshawa's ambitions to garner their seventh straight junior "A" O.H.A. title. That army authorities mean business in their recently announced ban against all soldiers playing for or against civilian teams in O.H.A. and C.A.H.A. competitions was evidenced Thursday night, when the Petawawa Grenades, an army club, was prevented from taking the ice against an Ottawa civilian team. Down in St. Thomas the order even affected a player with the London City entry in a game of the St. Thomas and District Hockey League against the London Army team, because he is a member of the Canadian army. Goalie Moffat of the London City team was ordered to play with the London Army team, despite the fact that the Flower City loop is not affiliated with the O.H.A. or the C.A.H.A. Evidently members of the Canadian army will not be permitted to play any hockey except in garrison circuits against other teams composed of personnel of the armed forces. If this action is to be continued in other groups and leagues it should not be very long before a lot of O.H.A. clubs are going to find themselves minus the services of some of their stars."

Ken Colling has the following in his Belleville sport column: "The old bug-bear of "new uniforms bring defeat," was knocked for the proverbial loop Friday night when "Toots" Holway's kids blanked the "Combines" 4-0. Actually both squads looked natty in their new jerseys and there is no use denying the fact uniforms make a vast difference in the entire set-up of the game. A much larger crowd than opening night saw the juniors in action and judging from the favorable comments there'll be increased numbers again next week when the Flyers invade the Market St. ice palace. The bouquets went to Goalie Dick Fitzpatrick last Friday, with Al Gordon, Holway's new find from No. 5 I.T.S. picking up three points in his first appearance. Another local player who is looking better each time out is Doug Day. The "Combines" were anything but happy when the whitewash brush was applied and in their dressing room after the game they vowed vengeance and revenge when Belleville journeys to Stirling on January 31st. Now if the Belleville fans would support and follow the locals like the Combines' faithfuls, well there would be quite a few Belleville supporters in Stirling for the return game."

Hockey coaches everywhere will appreciate the following written by "G.B." in the sport column of the Lindsay Post for it expresses naively the experience most of them have had in trying to mould the future of their teams and at the same time to stay in the good graces of all and sundry. Listen to this: "Around the town a lot of talk has been tossed in the direction of the Lindsay Silverwood's and the way they lose their games. Everyone of course, has his or her opinion, and each and every opinion is different from the other. Now some of these suggestions that are tossed around are very good ones, but most of the time we have a guy that never has played hockey and doesn't know anything about how to coach a team because he was never on one to be coached and has never seen a team work out, comes and tells you what you should have done. Constructive criticism is the greatest thing in the world, when and only when the person on the giving out end has had experience in the field, and when and only when he tells you how to do and not how he did it when he was a kid. We have had literally thousands of suggestions tossed our way as to how the team should be run, we've listened to all of them and in all that talk, we've only had 4 men who have known what they were talking about."

Toronto Maple Leafs handed the Bruins an artistic trimming in Boston last night, winning in hollow fashion 7 to 2 and thus strengthening their hold on second place in the N.H.L. race. Lorne Carr spear-headed the Leafs' attack by registering three goals and assisting in another marker and his effective performance put him up at the top of the N.H.L. scoring list. Leafs put the game away in the first period when they ran in four markers and there wasn't much chance for the Bruins after that. Art Ross's club has fallen upon evil days. The outfit is riddled by injuries with such stars as Bill Cowley, Johnny Crawford, Harvey Jackson and Goalie Bert Gardiner on the sidelines and although they are still in third place the Bruins will have to get fitting adequate reinforcements soon or slide down the ladder.

Fan Trouble

CHICAGO—(AP) — Earl Davis, ice-man of the Chicago Hockey Stadium boasted yesterday he had ducked more paper airplanes, shot by rabid fans toward the playing surface, than any other man in the world. He said the ice crew scooped up more than 300 pennies, as well as nickels, dimes and quarters, during a recent game—and complained of the danger to the players.

Earl McCready Defeats Doughty Texan

Early McCready got his revenge over Texan Karl Davis in the feature bout on the Tunney wrestling card at Brock Street Arena Tuesday night when before the biggest crowd of the season he scored the only fall in an hour's hard battling.

With Referee Ernie Powers of Hamilton in charge the record attendance saw more real wrestling than the two previous battles between the two big rivals produced put together. There was not nearly so much of the wild battling that marked the other McCready-Davis clashes but on the other hand the two grapplers settled down to show something of the science of the game, with punishing holds and clever releases and the result was an exhibition of wrestling that caused some of the old-timers in the crowd to recall the old days.

Powers was boss of the job and although Davis tried his best to introduce his favorite brand of skullduggery, mixing in the odd punch, doing some hair-pulling and gouging and using a bit of rope pulled from one of the ring strands to work on McCready's eyes, on the whole he was kept under control and Powers quickly made him break when he caught him at any of the back-alley stuff. At that McCready interjected a few lusty rabbit punches himself and showed a readiness to meet the Texan on his own ground.

It was a tough, hard bout with the men on the mat a good deal longer than usual. McCready took the only fall after 32 minutes of even action in which both battlers were in trouble frequently but managed to escape from the jams without being tossed for a loss. Both were on their guard against their opponent's favorite strategy. Davis took good care to keep away from the Moose's effective rocking-chair hold and on the other hand McCready was wary about the Texan's pet strategy of a step-over toe hold attack.

An Unexpected Fall

The fall came rather unexpectedly for Davis had had the Aurora farmer in trouble for some minutes with an effectively applied figure four hold that sooner or later threatened to end disastrously for the Canadian. However McCready resisted the grip stubbornly and finally with an adroit reverse he turned the figure four into a shoulder press that pinned Davis' shoulders to the mat. It was a fine recovery on the part of the Moose and the Texan was probably the most surprised man in the Arena for he was thrown just at a moment when he looked certain to take the fall himself.

Davis came back in the second round determined to square the match. He did not succeed but he had an edge in the battling and McCready was in frequent difficulties. However he fought back gamely and had his moments on top too. The final bell came at a most opportune time for the Canadian. Davis had him softened up with a series of headlocks during which he paid particular attention to McCready's eyes. In fact the crowd roared that he was using a bit of rope to do the trick but Referee Powers failed to detect the secret weapon. Whatever the Texan was using however had the Moose in distress and it looked as if he were all ready for the slaughter when Timer Fred Scates' gong ended the battle.

The disappointed Davis attempted to fight it out with the winner after the bell but Referee Powers quelled the incipient riot. The fans swarmed around the ring and one over-enthusiastic spectator climbed up the steps and took a swing at the Texan but it failed to land and the storm blew over quickly.

Another Tough Battle

The semi-final was another hard tussle. It brought back to Canada for his first visit in five years Tom Zaharias, the Los Angeles Greek grappler and one of the four wrestling brothers whose name are known wherever the mat game flourishes. Zaharias was matched against the popular former marine, Wilbur Toar Morgan, and the two went thirty spirited minutes to a draw. Zaharias, an experienced wrestler who knows all the answers, gave the people's choice a pretty heavy mauling over most of the route. For the first 25 minutes he did most of the attacking, specializing on a wrist-lock with which he combined a little secret hair-pulling and he gave Morgan a rough passage. However the Fighting Marine came into his own toward the end of the bout when he suddenly picked up the Greek, held him high over his head and then slammed him to the mat, following up with a series of drop-kicks that the whole Zaharias family must have felt. Zaharias went out through the ropes to escape the barrage but he was back in again as quickly as he went out and the gong found both men still going strong.

Al Bunny Dunlop who has lots of luck but most of it usually bad ran afoul of Referee Powers in the opening bout and was finally disqualified after 16 minutes of his battle with Jerry Meeker, the Indiana mat artist. The two gladiators were staging a merry battle but when Dunlop tosshis opponent into the ropes and then knocked him off the apron of the platform, Powers promptly awarded the bout to the American. Dunlop was disgusted. "It took two of them to beat me" he declared as he stormed back to the dressing-room. At that the Toronto strong man lost two decisions. After he had been disqualified he tried to outslug the winner but Meeker dropped him twice to the entire satisfaction of the big crowd.

Referee Powers handled all three bouts satisfactorily and the bell solos and silver-tongued announcing were by Fred Scates.

Sailor Harry Low who had asked the management for a chance to box his old Peterborough opponent, Dutch McIlmoyle as an added attraction on the card failed, for some reason, to put in an appearance. McIlmoyle was on hand ready to go on but there was no opponent for him.

Mudders Win

MIAMI—(AP)— Long shot mudders yesterday captured both divisions of the Tamiami purse at Hialeah track. The first "heat" of a mile and one furlong went to Stinging Bee which paid $21 for $2, while Alaflag took the other half of the feature to pay $13.50.

Berger Wins

CLEVELAND—(AP).—Two Canadians won their 10-round semi-finals at the Cleveland arena boxing show last night. Maxie Berger, 147, of Montreal, knocked out Pete Galiano, 148, Baltimore, in the second round while Len Wadworth, 160, scored a six-round technical knockout over Fitzy Fitzpatrick, 165, of Cleveland.

Leafs Wallop Bruins 7-2; Carr Takes Lead

By The Canadian Press.

Lorne Carr has battled his way to the top of the National Hockey League's individual scoring race, proving that Coach Happy Day knew what he was talking about when he labelled Carr the "ace" in the Toronto Maple Leaf lineup.

Carr last night reached top spot for the first time this season by registering three goals and an assist to move ahead of Bill Cowley as Leafs overwhelmed the Boston Bruins 7-2 before a capacity 13,500 crowd at Boston Garden. The veteran right winger may be hard to displace, for Cowley will be absent for at least two more weeks as a result of the shoulder injury he suffered against Leafs 11 days ago.

Jackson Hurt.

The loss left Bruins four points behind Toronto in the duel for second place and the game cost them the services of Harvey (Busher) Jackson, versatile veteran who suffered a wrenched knee and an elbow injury when he crashed into the end boards in the first period.

The calamity was another in a series of misfortunes for Bruins. Besides Cowley and Jackson Bruins are without the services of star defenceman Johnny Crawford, who had a head injury.

Boston also used rookie Maurice Courteau from Boston Olympics of the Eastern Amateur League in the goal instead of Bert Gardiner, detained in Philadelphia where his wife is ill.

In achieving a conquest which lifted them within 5½ games of the leading Montreal Canadiens, Leafs jumped into a four-goal lead in the first period, scored again in the second before Art Jackson scored the first of his two goals for Boston, and then outscored the Bruins 2-1 in the last period. Babe Pratt, Elwin Morris, Bob Davidson, and Ted (Teeter) Kennedy produced the other Leaf scores.

Lloyd Marshall Defeats Bolden

CLEVELAND, Jan 19 — (AP).— Lloyd Marshall returned to his native Cleveland last night to pound out an easy 10-round decision over Nate Bolden of Chicago in what Matchmaker Larry Atkins billed as a duration light heavyweight title bout.

The win was Lloyd's fourth in five Cleveland appearances and it earned him a March engagement with Joltin' Jake Lamotta, the rough-housing Bronx middleweight.

Rated by Ring Magazine as the number one active light heavy, Marshall caught up with the backpedalling Chicagoan enough times to unleash a slashing assortment of rights. One of these sent Bolden to the canvas for a nine count in the third round after Nate temporarily ceased his bicycling to stagger Marshall with a left hook.

Bolden was the aggressor in only one heat—the fourth. He landed two hard rights that rocked Marshall on his heels and continued with an assault that forced Lloyd to cover up.

Marshall weighed 168¼, two and a quarter pounds less than Bolden. The 5,910 customers contributed $13,394.

NEW YORK, Jan. 19—(AP)— Looks as if round two of that battle of the minor league convention would begin when baseball's post-war planning committee meets next month. Judge W. G. Bramham, the minor league boss, didn't spare anyone's feelings in his "suggestions"—least of all the chain operators . . . and as the first reply, President Shag Shaughnessy of the International League pointed out that local ownership of minor league clubs may be the ideal situation, but only such smart baseball men as Earl Mann, Mike Kelley, Jack Dunn and Charley Graham have made it work. . . . The chain system has its faults, but it does provide the best "baseball brains" for the little clubs. . . . Wonder where that puts Shag? He's a right smart and independent man but he heads a league in which every club is owned by or closely associated with a major league outfit.

Shorts and Shells

Bob Dill, who hit .264 in the American Association last summer and hit a referee in the American Hockey League this winter, isn't the first athlete to make the grade in double-A baseball and big league hockey. Babe Dye and Lionel Conacher, two of hockey's biggest stars, played in the International League. . . . The A.B.C. lists 28 past and present major league baseball players who run bowling establishments. Apparently they're all familiar with strikes.

TORONTO, Jan. 19 — (CP). — Quick Hemmingway, the salts. Either bowling or curling are quite complicated enough for this operator, but the citizens of Abernethy, Sask., have devised a combination of both. Pat Ferguson turned out a set of bowling pins in his carpenter shop and, with the fellow conspirators, devised the new game.

The pins were set halfway down the curling ice with two players stationed at each end. Strikes, spares and all bowling counts were possible with rocks going from end to end. Either five pins on 10 pins could be used.

The report of Dave (Regina Leader-Post) Dryburgh did not give the new game a name, but we suggest "durdling," a combination of trundling and curling, and hope the fans don't sour on us.

Puck pastor:

Remember the case of George Abbott, the unknown who substituted in Boston Bruins goal when Bert Gardiner was ill last November? Trainer Win Green of Boston says: "You know he turned out to be a high-class guy and the boys felt their necks when they discovered later he was an ordained minister. Some of the dressing-room language was pretty steep."

Disrespectful:

Syl Apps, Billy Taylor, Gordon Drillon, and Hank Goldup should have introduced themselves as former National Hockey League stars when they played for the Simcoe Army team against Brantford No. 5 S.F.T.S. the other night. The Brantford boys apparently didn't know they were supposed to be smothered by the big stars, and Brantford won 13-10. They played rough, too, and Taylor was taken out with an injury early in the game. Apps scored four goals and Drillon five.

Round and about:

Lieut. Terry Reardon, former Boston and Canadiens hockey star, has arrived overseas.....Now the Winnipeg R.C.A.F. team has been broken up by Headquarters order, name players Pete Langelle, Wally Stanowsky, Alf Pike, Paul Platz, Butch Marchant, and Scotty Milne are playing in the R.C.A.F. Inter-unit Intermediate League at Winnipeg....Connie King, 34-year-old former Drumheler, Alta., hockey amateur who had quite a minor professional career, has entered the thoroughbred horse breeding business in Victoria. Connie has bought "Little Argo" as a stock horse....Lieut. Alan Kuntz, former New York Rangers player now located at Camp Borden, Ont., is reported to have hung up his skates although he is coaching a service team at Borden.

Oshawa Juniors Score 14th Win In O.H.A. Game

By The Canadian Press

Oshawa Generals chalked up their 14th win of the season in 16 starts by disposing of Toronto's Marlboros 5-2 in half of the junior O.H.A. doublet at Maple Leaf Gardens last night. In the second encounter, Stratford Kroehlers were trailing Toronto Young Rangers 4-3 at the end of the second period but registered three goals in the final frame to win 6-4.

In the junior "A" fixture at Port Colborne, the Galt Kists forced the Recreationists into overtime before conceding the verdict 5-3. There was no first-period scoring and Port Colborne held a 2-1 margin at the close of the second stanza, only to have Galt tie it up before the 60-minute mark. In the overtime Simpell broke the deadlock with his second counter of the night and Gravelle added his second goal. Podolsky of Galt was also a two-goal scorer.

Scoring honors in the Toronto duet went to Scilizzi of Stratford in performing the hat trick while Tindall accounted for two. Imonti starred for Young Rangers in collecting a brace. Five Oshawa puck hounds, Love, Chenier, Ezinicki, Smith and Curry, all scored one in measuring Marlboros, for whom the successful sharpshooters were Harding and Lawlor. Last night's results failed to change the respective club positions in the standing of the two groups.

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS

By The Canadian Press

President Frank Shaughnessy of the International Baseball League had a reply last night to President W. G. Bramham of the Minor Leagues' Association who urged against farm clubs in his proposed post-war program for baseball. Returning to his New York office after a holiday in Montreal, "Shag" expressed the view the minor loops found assistance from major clubs essential and added: "eliminate the chains and you take the best brains out of the game."

Shaughnessy declared the Minor Leagues were "just about through after the 1932 season" but the development of the farm-club system saved the situation. The small leagues needed major backing to survive and not many minor league towns could afford independent club ownership. The only possible control of the chains would be to restrict the number of farms a major league club could possess. This would prevent any owner from gaining a monopoly of players.

Sgt. Barney Ross of the U.S. Marines, Capt. Jim Braddock of Army and Lt.-Cmdr. Jack Dempsey will be among the representatives of 4,100 boxers in the armed services to whom the Edward J. Neil Memorial Plaque will be formally awarded at New York tonight as boxing's "men of the year."

Kilrea Joins Up

The last appearance of Wally Kilrea, leading sniper of the American Hockey League, in a hockey uniform with the Hershey Bears will take place Jan. 26 in the exhibition bond-selling game with Boston Bruins at Hershey. He joins the U.S. Army Jan. 27.

Following the discovery of Sam Langford, the "Boston Tar Baby," living blind in a cheap Harlem rooming house, a committee has been organized in New York to organize a fund so that the former great heavyweight boxer may spend his days in modest ease.

Bill Klem, veteran baseball arbiter, urged at New York yesterday the adoption of the practice by the major leagues of having four umpires for a game.

Although, at one time, he used to go through two to three dozen golf balls in a 72-hole tournament, Gene Sarazen said yesterday at New York he had played through the recent Miami tourney with a total of five balls, all of which were still in good condition.

Knows His Ball

CHICAGO—(AP)—President Phil K. Wrigley of the Chicago Cubs yesterday called Clarence Rowland, new 10-year president of the Pacific Coast League, "the best posted man in baseball" and predicted great success for the former White Sox manager.

Liberal Chooses King For Peace Table

SASKATOON, Jan. 19 (CP) — Canada, "virtually the leader of the smaller countries among the United Nations," should be represented at the peace conference by Prime Minister Mackenzie King, said Senator Wishart Robertson of Halifax here last night.

Mr. Mackenzie King is "beyond a shadow of a doubt the man most likely to open up the free channels of trade," he told the annual meeting of the Saskatchewan Liberal Association Council.

Senator Robertson, president of the National Liberal Federation, declared that the Prime Minister could well be the master architect of the future and maintained that no other party was so well equipped as the Liberals for the task ahead.

Canada, he said, was in a position to exercise a profound influence on larger nations. She was "virtually the leader of the smaller countries among the United Nations" and occupied a unique position as the only country among smaller nations to extend mutual aid and a free-will relief fund to Russia.

Senator Robertson claimed that the other two parties, Progressive Conservatives and C.C.F. would not be effective at a peace conference.

"The Conservative party in Canada have displayed very little interest in trade agreements with the exception of the Ottawa agreements and they almost wrecked the British Commonwealth in the process," he said.

"The C.C.F. leader and his followers have attached so little importance to the subject that their influence, under these circumstances, would be of a very ineffective nature."

Association Elects Mrs. Lackey President

FRASERVILL7, Jan. 19 (ENS)——The annual meeting of the Women's Association was held at the home of Mrs. Percy Mancrief, when reports showed a fine year for the group.

The election of officers took place, with the executive as follows: President, Mrs. F. Lackey; vcie-president, Mr. P. Moncrief; secretary, Mrs. J. O. Pue; treasurer, Mrs. R. Finlay; Missionary and Maintenance committee, Mrs. W. Waterman.

British Troops

The Canadians are attacking about a mile inland from the Adriatic and a little more than a mile north of Villa San Tommaso, a hamlet west and south-west of captured Ortona.

Douglas Amaron, Canadian Press war correspondent, reported the attack attained its preliminary objectives. It was launched into withering machine-gun fire but gained a few hundred yards. Don Campbell, Reuters News Agency correspondent, reported the Canadian barrage which prepared the way for the infantry was devastating. There also was close air cooperation.

Aerial targets included rail yards at Pisa, Pistoia, Poggibonsi, Pontedera and Certaldo. The airfields at Pistoia also was hit. American heavy bombers scored 15 bomb hits on a 3,000-ton merchant vessel off Leghorn, leaving it sinking.

The air communique, describing Monday night's heavy bomber attack against Pisa, said the rail yards were well covered with bomb hits.

The Germans met the thrusts across the Garigliano with fierce opposition, but the British maintained their bridgeheads.

Lighter aircraft kept pounding the Nazis in the battle area, and also carried out numerous attacks against communications in northern Italy and damaged shipping off the Dalmatian coast.

Seven enemy planes were destroyed for a loss of three Allied ships.

Refugee Policy

on the refugee question by announcing that a certain number will be admitted, and by sending an immigration official to Lisbon, Portugal, to examine those who wish to come to Canada. The admission proposed is on a temporary basis.

So far as can be learned, however, little consideration has yet been given to any post-war immigration policy, and some authorities believe there is little practical value in making any decisions now.

It is suggested that for some time after the war ends all available ships will be required to return members of the armed forces of various nations to their home countries.

In the case of the Canadian forces many men have married in Britain and have children there, and these young families will have to be moved to this country.

There will also be the problem of re-establishing service personnel in civilian life, which may take considerable time and lead to a disposition to avoid complicating the employment situation by bringing in additional people while that task is in progress.

The Canadian National Committee on Refugees started its petition in October with the object of obtaining 500,000 signatures. The campaign closed last week and it is not known yet how many were obtained.

It is believed there are several thousand refugees from Nazi Europe in Spain and Portugal who have been unable to get further, and whose plight in those countries is serious. The committee's proposal is that Canada admit a fair share of those who are there.

The group stranded in Spain and Portugal is believed to include the people of many nationalities and various faiths, although the majority are understood to be Jews.

Canadians Wear Service Ribbons

LONDON, Jan. 19 (CP Cable).—Canadian service personnel overseas have started to wear the five striped ribbon of the Canadian Voluntary Service Medal, awarded to all ranks of the navy, army and air force who have voluntarily and honorably served on active ser and honorably served on active war service for 18 months. Persons who have served outside for at least 60 days wear a single clasp of a small silver maple leaf on the ribbon.

The ribbon—made up of vertical green, scarlet, royal blue, scarlet and green stripes—already has been called in good nature the "Sussex and Surrey Star" for the Canadians who in past years spent long periods in those Southern England counties.

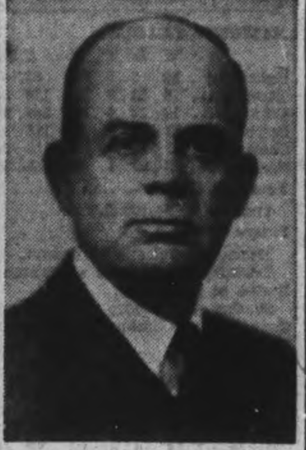
Army personnel are the first to wear the ribbon here. It is appearing in London and in troop camps. The navy and air force will follow suit soon.

Supplies of ribbon have arrived in the Mediterranean theatre for the thousands of Canadin troops there.

INFLUX SUDDEN

The population of El Reno, Oklahoma, jumped about 145,000 persons in a single day in 1901 when the last free land in Oklahoma was opened to white settlers.

New Director of The Bank of Toronto



Mr. John R. Read, President of the Canadian Westinghouse Company, Limited, who has been elected a Director of The Bank of Toronto.

Mr. Read was born at Wytheville, Virginia. He commenced his business career as a junior in the office of the Aluminum Company of America and, after a wide experience as an electrical engineer with a number of important concerns in the United States, came to Canada as District Office Manager for the Canadian Westinghouse Company, Limited, at Vancouver, and as General Manager of the Bridge River Power Company, Limited.

In the year 1937 he was transferred to Hamilton, Ont., as Vice-President of the Canadian Westinghouse Company, Limited, and was promoted to the Presidency in 1939.

Mr. Reid is also President of Hamilton Munitions, Limited, and Atlas Plant Extension, Limited, and, in addition, is a Director of B. Greening Wire Company, Limited, and Canadian Radio Patents, Limited.

RCAF Squadron Bags Five Nazi

LONDON, Jan. 19 — (CP). — The City of Windsor squadron, which until recently seldom caught sight of an enemy aircraft, desstroyed five of the first 25 Nazi planes shot down by desert air force Spitfires since start of the Sangro River battle in Italy.

Providing air cover for the 8th Army, the Windsor units shares with other squadrons of the desert air force the task of maintaining continuous patrols over the front line. In the most intensive air fighting since Alamein, the Canadian squadron repeatedly has intercepted formations of enemy fighter-bombers intent on dive-bombing and strafing forward troops.

Often, the Nazis have been forced to jettison their bombs — sometimes on their own troops — and streak for home.

congratulated Reeve James Humphries the only new member who was elected in an Aphodel contest. He said Belmont-Metheun had the wardenship only three times since 1880, and Mr. Anderson, now beginning his sixth year in the county council, had proved his ability.

"Mr. Martin, Mr. Anderson and myself," said Reeve Curtin, 'have been elected six successive years, and it is up to one of us to be elected." He nominated Robert Martin saying in part. "Since he became a member of this council in 1939 he has been elected each year by acclamation. That is a good indication that he is very capable in his own municipality. He has been a member of the roads committee, and has been fair and wise in his transaction of county business."

In proposing Mr. McIlmoyle, M. H. Johnston of North Monaghan said Smith township had not received the wardenship in a good many years. "It has gone pretty well around the board. The township has been in second place of assessment for a long time, and for a while was up in first place. Reeve McIlmoyl has been quite a little while with us and has shown his ability."

Albert Hall put in a word for Galway and its representative, Mr. Curtin saying "The township has been a long time without a warden."

And in proposing Mr. Hall, Reeve Martin said: "Chandos has had only one warden as long as I can remember."

Four In Gallery

The public was represented at the opening of the sessions by a former warden, Harold B. Rye; County Solicitor E. A. Peck, K.C.; and Public School Inspectors Downey and Copp.

Warden Anderson invited Mr Rye to address the council, and the former doughy municipal leader of North Monaghan (silent "g" please) remininsced briefly about other days in the county council of which he had been a member eight years. Humorously but with a little note of defeat he recalled that he had tried to have the name Monaghan pronounced properly, "but I noticed this afternoon that even our clerk slipped."

"My apologies, sir," Mrs. Spurway replied.

If Mr. Rye had any other purpose in his visit than to pay his respects to the new warden and his associates, he did not disclose it. Something might have been expected from him on the question of North Monaghan annexation, but he did not mention it although those who have known him through the years when he was battling along the township border perhaps believe that in the recent months of agitation, and some controversy, he surely was not content to remain a passive bystander.

"But, he, the chieftain of them all,
His sword hangs rusting
on the wall."

Illness in the last few years has impaired his vigor and induced a resignation to the physical toll of time although he looks fairly hale and apparently fit and ready to take on verbal adversaries in debate as he was wont to do in both the township and county forums in which he invariably stood, well prepared with cogent facts. Tuesday afternoon he seemed a memory of those other councils and their kindred personalities who have passed into activity from the county's storied seat of government.

The Canadian Way Of Life

Opinion of F. H. Marsh, President of The Bank of Toronto

Mr. F. H. Marsh, President of The Bank of Toronto, in his annual report, said:

"The people of Canada are possessed of the ability to think clearly when aroused to the point of being concerned about any subject. There is then little fear in contemplating our national future if people stop to consider what a socialistic form of Government would mean. The common sense of most Canadians, including labor, who would not be immune but would also have to conform to such a system and its regimentation, will, I am confident, remain proof against any such plans as would overturn Canada's entire system of individual freedom in growing, producing, manufacturing, marketing, export, import, wholesale and retail trading, banking, investment and ownership.

Totalitarian Government and regimentation is what our sons are fighting against while the advocates of socialism are trying to have that very form of Government placed in control of Canada.

There are many hundreds of thousands of Canadians who own their farms or homes: there are the owners of 5,000,000 bank accounts and some 4,000,000 people who own life insurance policies, all of whom are in reality capitalists.

Such ownership is the result of years of toil and thrift in a free country. It represents the stake that men hope to hard down to their widows and children, whose safe future is their keenest human desire. In the rural parts of Canada especially, I believe, this heritage of home and ownership and freedom and the right to pass it on will be held with determination and tenacity and will never be surrendered in favor of any socialistic, centralized state control of property and civil rights.

It is reasonable to suppose, in contemplating the future, that these millions of people will not be dormant where their own interests are affected, and when they realize what socialism means in the way of totalitarian power."

Small Businesses Must Be Preserved

Mr. Marsh, in his report, emphasized the important contribution small industries would make in the post-war period. He pointed out the importance of the smaller businesses in relation to the life of the towns and villages throughout Canada. He said:

"It is generally known that post-war planning of a constructive nature is under way on the part of governments and large scale enterprises, but there is some question as to whether the medium sized and smaller concerns are able to do much in this direction under the present tax structure. Many of them started with little after the last war, and in the relatively prosperous twenties built up adequate working capital, which was seriously depleted by losses in the depression of the early thirties. During the 1936-39 period, profits were comparatively small. The basing of standard profits on the average of these years has resulted in many instances in little being left to build up the cash reserves necessary to effect the change from wartime to peacetime conditions, thus making it essential that definite assurance by way of tax adjustments or other remedial measures be provided. I believe that an announcement of governmental policy in this respect would be most helpful.

Clearly the job of industrial conversion cannot effectively be undertaken by concerns which, though possessed of well-equipped plants, experience and organization, are without the working capital which is essential to forward planning and to the continuance of operations, during any disruption of business following the cessation of war production.

These smaller manufacturers and traders, scattered throughout the length and breadth of the country, furnish an important backbone of employment. A recent study of industry made under government direction shows that as of the year 1941, there were 107,903 establishments in the manufacturing, wholesale and retail fields, and that no less than 161,904 or 94 per cent of these were small businesses, employing less than 15 persons each, the total number employed by them being 529,626 persons. They are not only important in the aggregate, but are essential in the life of the towns and villages throughout Canada."

No details of the capture were available here.

Minister Claims Negroes May Turn Tables

HALIFAX, Jan. 19 — (CP). — Rev. Dr. R. G. Barrow, pastor of Zion African Methodist Episcopal Church, addressing the Christian Youth Federation here last night, charged that negroes in Halifax are not permitted to receive a medical doctor's degree at Dalhousie University; that negro girls are excluded from training as nurses in this city; and are discriminated against in the teaching profession here.

Dr. Barrow said these were facts to be faced, and if world peace were desired there must be justice. "In Canada," he said a black man from a British island finds it easier to get through the eye of a needle than through your British port of entry."

The speaker warned that in the West Indies retaliatory measures might be taken against whites who wanted to enter universities there if the discrimination against negroes were pushed too far, adding, "the negro does not carry animosity in his heart, and must be pushed hard before he becomes vengeful."

PROPERTY COMMITTEE
CITY COUNCIL

Ernest Howson President Of Cemetery Board

At the annual meeting of the Little Lake Cemetery Company held in the Toronto Savings and Loan Company, Monday afternoon, E. H. Howson was elected president, Mayor James Hamilton, vice-president, Miss E. J. Saunders, secretary-treasurer, and C. F. Kitney, superintendent. Mr. Howson takes over the position occupied by Dr. J. E. Middleton during the past three years.

Elected also was the following Board of Directors for 1944: E. A. Peck, R. J. Kidd, H. A. Morrow, W. J. Thompson, Dr. J. E. Middleton, Mayor James Hamilton, E. H. Howson, W. A. Richardson and H. I. Bradburn.

In his address to the owners the retiring president made reference to the profit of $548 shown by the financial statement for the past year, as compared with a loss of $767.15 in 1942. Considering the higher wages that had been paid, this was a creditable showing, he said.

Use Chapel

The chapel had been re-decorated and painted on the outside and was being used during the winter season for the committal services, Mr. Middleton said, a fact which was greatly appreciated by the people. He felt that the chapel could be used more often to advantage, especially on wet days in the summer to avoid tramping of the grass on the lots and graves, during the burial service.

He mentioned that the new seeding on Sections E and O overlooking the river was coming along nicely and that lots there would soon be open for sale. Steps were being taken, he added, to secure a plot for storage purposes so that all unsightly spots would be removed from the cemetery.

The report of C. F. Kitney, superintendent, was read and adopted at the meeting. Chief expenditure of the year consisted of an outlay of $338.60 for redecorating and painting of the outside and the installation of new eave troughs. Cost of repairs and maintenance on the chapel figured to $151.90.

Secured Help

Mr. Kitney stated that the company "was fortunate in getting enough help to keep the grass cut and the general appearance of the cemetery fairly respectable. This many cemeteries in the province were unable to do."

During the year there had been 304 interments, 48 lots sold, 72 single graves sold, 47 foundations for monuments and 29 lots put under permanent care, Mr. Kitney summarized.

A resolution was passed at the meeting expressing the appreciation of the lot owners for the interest taken by the directors and staff in making the cemetery one of the foremost in the province. It was also decided that hereafter the office of the Company would be closed on Saturday afternoons.

Police Relate Capture Of Four Youths

The story of an 80-mile-an-hour chase along Highway 2 in pursuit of an allegedly stolen car ending in the arrest of four youths and the recovery of around $400 worth of goods stolen from a Lakefield store was told by Provincial Traffic Officer J. R. Pollard of Port Hope in police court this morning.

Officer Pollard was a witness in the charges against John Caride, Joseph Wassilyn and Alfred B. Watts, Toronto, and Douglas Bunnette, Belleville, of breaking and entering the store of Theodore Crawford, Lakefield, on January 11 and committing theft. The four pleaded guilty to the charge.

Chief Garnet Samis of Lakefield testified to being called to the Crawford store on the morning after the break-in and finding the glass in the front door broken and the door open. He noticed that a quantity of goods was missing.

Goods Valued at $400

Theodore Crawford, owner of the store, swore that the goods taken, clothing, overshoes, etc., represented a value of around $400.

Constable Pollard testified that he was patrolling Highway 2 and on information received had taken up the chase of a car that had been reported travelling west on Highway 2 at a high rate of speed. Just west of Newtonville they had caught sight of the tail-light of the car which was going at a rapid rate. Constable Pollard said that the police car was stepped up to 80 miles an hour in pursuit of the fugitive machine. Near the Curve Inn they had come across a car that was stopped but before the two officers could get out to investigate the other machine again drove off at high speed.

Near the railway bridge at the west of Bowmanville, the officer said, the car in front failed to make the turn and went into the side of the approach.

The four youths were taken under arrest and a quantity of the goods, afterwards identified by Crawford was found.

Constable Pollard said that on the car in which four had been riding were two markers, one over the other. The one on the outside was found to have been taken off a damaged car from the premises of a car wrecker on Highway 2; the one underneath bore the number of a car stolen in Toronto.

At the request of Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry, K.C., the four youth were remanded until Wednesday of next week for sentence. They were also remanded on charges of stealing gasoline from the garage of Clarence Foster of Lakefield to wrich they had also pleaded guilty. Evidence in that case was supplied by Provincial Constable Price Morris who said that he had found purple gas in the tank of the car in which the youths were arrested, similar to that taken at Lakefield.

W. R. Philp appeared for Caride in court this morning while the other three youths were not represented by counsel.

School Children To Buy Bomber

The appeal to the school children of the city and county to pay for a bomber to be called "Young Peterborough" was outlined to the county council yesterday afternoon by Public School Inspectors R. F. Downey and Leo W. Copp.

"We are being asked to raise $26,000 between the 1st of February and the end of June by the buying of War Savings Stamps," Mr. Downey told the council. "Mr. Copp and I have been asked to help, and in our turn we are asking you gentlemen of the council to help us."

It was suggested that if the council would pay for the last War Savings Stamp in the book of each girl and boy attending the rural schools of Peterborough the total cost to the county would be only $300.

Each child attending the city and country schools is going to be asked to begin on a book of stamps, which are a form of lending to the Dominion government, and for their four dollar loan they will eventually received $5 each.

Gordon Monkman is chairman of this branch of the war financing.

Must Occupy Berlin

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19—(AP)—President Roosevelt, appealing for support of the $14,000,000,000 Fourth United States War Loan drive, said yesterday "until we have actually ocupied Berlin and Tokyo we cannot indulge for a moment in the pleasant day dream that the war is almost over."

Car Knocks Down Elderly Couple

Two elderly persons, Mr. and Mrs. H. Goodwin, 336 Mark street were injured Tuesday night when they were struck and knocked down by a skidding automobile at Charlotte adn Stewart streets.

R. B Wilson, driving his automobile east on Charlotte street, told police that as he approached the Stewart street intersection he saw Mr. and Mrs. Goodwin crossing the street from the northeast to the southeast curb. The driver stated that the two at first started to go back and then turned and tried to run to the other side of the street.

Wilson declared that he applied his brakes but that his car skidded on the icy surface and struck Mr. and Mrs Goodwin, knocking them down. The two were taken to the office of Dr. Clark where Goodwin who is 81 years old was suffering from a bump on his head and Mrs Goodwin had sustained an injured leg and shock.

Children's Aid Costs County $6,431

Only a few years ago the county was contributing $1,000 a year to the Children's Aid Society, but on the per diem basis of payment for wards the amount charged to the county last year was $6,431.62.

This information was quoted to the county council this morning in connection with the re-appointment of Deputy Reeve A. W. Archibald as representative to the Society. It tended to acidulate the passing humor largely created by Reeve Gifford after Mr. Archibald had proposed him for the Children's Aid post. And when Reeve Mather seconded the motion Mr. Gifford exclaimed emphatically, "No, sir! No." The resulting vote indicated that the council had no serious intention of replacing Mr. Archibald, but Reeve Gifford was taking no chances. He thought up various compliments to the credit of Mr. Archibald in a persuasive recommendation that there should be no change in the council's representation to the Society.

"Mr. Archibald is the most convenient man I know for this position," said Ennismore's reeve. "He is not only handy, but he has done an excellent job, and it would be a shame to take it from him. Besides we are the best of friends, and I wouldn't want to see this go to a vote."

Mrs. Spurway, county clerk, brightened the humor of the incident by relating that Mr. Archibald was virtually the supervisor of plumbing and with fine success and realism played the role of Santa Claus for the wards of the Society. After such a compliment Mr. Archibald loomed more indispensible than ever.

"Although we are treating this a bit lightly at present, it is a very serious matter," Mr. Gifford said. "We used to pay the Society $1,000 a year, and now on the per diem basis our cost is more than $5,000."

Mrs. Spurway turned up the financial statement and read the figure of $6,431.62 for last year.

Mr. Gifford resorted to an appeal to his mover and seconder to withdraw their motion, and manifestly he did not regard his nomination as serious. After the division, he said to Mr. Archibald: "You just wanted to show how popular you are."

The overtone of the Society's cost to the county remained after Mr. Gifford's pleasantries had subsided.

A Gifford-Mather motion just before the noon adjournment was directed to W. A. Anderson, chairman of the reforestation committee, asking for a report "as early as possible" for 1943.

Reeve Ferguson informed the council that the rehabilitation committee on post-war work, re-appointed without change of membership, had held several meetings with County Engineer D. A. Macivor, "and has things in fairly good shape."

Fourth Term Drive Starts For Roosevelt

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19 (AP) — An unofficial fourth-term "Draft Roosevelt" movement was started here today by Culbert L. Olson, former Governor of California, with a prediction that his State's Democratic convention delegates will vote solidly on the first ballot for renomination of President Roosevelt.

"We feel it to be essential," he said, "that President Roosevelt's leadership be continued in the war and during the period of transition to the peace."

Club At Norwood Gives Aid For War Victims

A newly-formed group at Norwood under the name of the Get-Together Girls' Club, under the leadership of Mrs. Lionel Edmunds, have begun making their association together the means of also giving some assistance in the war effort, by giving part of their share of a dance held in that place recently, to help the victims of air raids in Britain through the Peterborough and District British War Victims' Fund.

This club is really an offshoot of the Women's Institute of Norwood, and was formed primarily that the girls might learn some of the many useful things, the teaching of which has been sponsored by the Department of Agriculture.

At the moment the group comprises only seven girls ranging from 13 to 19 years in age, which includes Betty Andrews, Grace Brown, Muriel Andrews, Alice Montgomery, Bernice Clements, Jean Baker and Jeanette Elliott, who in forming the club, set up an organization of their own within the jurisdiction of the Women's Institute, and elected the first three named as president, secretary and treasurer respectively.

Today their initial contribution to the fund in an amount of $10 is recorded in the list of receipts, this having been forwarded by Grace Brown, and there seemed every evidence that from this good start, they were going to move forward in doing further work on behalf of others.

Bailieboro Group Helps.

Another group of ladies from the district are also represented in today's receipts, the W.A. of the United Church at Bailieboro through Mrs. Fred Jewison sending in $10, which in their instance represents a repeat of help given on former occasions to the fund.

Then to make it a day in which the whole of the returns comes from ladies' groups, the Thursday Afternoon Club through Mrs. F. E. Jackson of Adaline Street add another 35, which also happens to be their first contribution as a group to the fund.

Like the first mentioned group, they were meeting for other purposes, and raise their own funds by assessing themselves a small weekly fee, out of which this money was raised, and now having so to speak got their feet wet, and found the water fine, they plan to continue in the good work, and raise funds in a wider sphere which will allow them to take care of a number on active service overseas, and also give further help to the fund.

Band Concert January 30.

By kind permission of Lt.-Col. W. Bapty, O.C. of the local Training Centre, the band of the Royal Canadian Army Medical Corps from Camp Borden will give a concert in the Collegiate Auditorium on Sunday, January 30, at the close of the evening services in the various churches, at which a silver offering will be taken on behalf of the fund.

The band was quite favorably received on its previous visit to the city at the time of the last Victory Loan campaign, and this evening they are giving a concert to be followed by a dance in the Drill Hall at the Training Centre commencing at 8.15, to which an invitation is extended to the general public to attend. The proceeds are for welfare improvements at the Centre itself, and especially canteen work.

Second Brother Killed In War

DOURO, Jan. 19 (ENS)—John Allen of Douro and Peterborough has received word that his second son, Lieut. Edmund Bernard Allen, has been killed in action with the Loyal Edmonton Regiment in Italy.

Although he was born in Douro, Lieut. Allen went to Edmonton in 1937 where the rest of the family is still living. He enlisted shortly after the outbreak of war as a private with the R.C.A.M.C. and went overseas with the 1st Division, and transferred to the Loyal Edmonton Regt. After 2½ years in England and taking part in the Spitzbergen raid, Lieut. Allen was sent back to Canada for his officer's training and received his commission at Gordon Head.

Completing his training at Currie Barracks, he returned to England in May, 1942, where he was attached to the P.P.C.L.I. and later went to Africa with them. The new warden was born in Bexley township and has followed the occupation of a farmer. A cousin, Clifford Benson, as reeve of Eldon township was elected warden of Victoria county two years ago.

Grant Benson has had four years' experience in county council during which time he served on the finance committee, board of management for the home for the aged, game and fisheries committee and as a member of the patriotic committee and ration board.

Soldiers Mourn Canon's Death

"Every man of the First Division in the last war will mourn the death of its old Padre, Canon Frederick Scott," said Lt.-Col F. E. Birdsall of Birdsall, Asphodel township, whom the Examiner telephoned this afternoon.

"He was beloved by all the men, and although he was afterwards appointed Archdeacon of Quebec city, he was known to everybody as Canon Scott," Lt.-Col. Birdsall said. "We will always remember him as long as any of the First Division survive him. It was almost impossible to keep him out of the front lines. He wanted to be with the men, and you would never know the hour, day or night, when you might meet him in the front trenches. I remember one day above Kemel when he held a brief service for men who had to be buried behind the front lines because we could not get them out of there.

"That was characteristic of him. There are many things I would like to say about him. He never forgot the men after the war was over, and was willing to attend their gatherings throughout the country no matter how small those gatherings might be. He had a wonderful memory, too, for names and faces. The last time I met him was in the Royal York, Toronto, a year ago, and just as always he knew me immediately. It was his desire to keep in touch with the men of his old Division as much as possible, and their esteem for him is more than I can express in words. His death will be felt as a personal loss by the men who came back with him and still survive the years between."

Current Events Topic

At the regular meeting of the George Street Young People's Union, this week, talk on current events, dealing particularly with the effects on home, and adjustments which must take place after the war, was given by Mrs. R. J. Kearns. The meeting opened with a singsong, led by Viva Harris, and the Christian Culture group, with Mary Stewart as convener, had charge of the worship service, in which the following took part, Margaret Edmison, Olive Beatty, Hilda Northey and Marion Devinney.

Kinettes Rank In 11th Place

The fact that the Peterborough Kinettes, as of December 1, rank eleventh among the Kinette Clubs across Canada in contributions to the Milk for Britain Fund, was brought out after the treasurer's report, made at the first business meeting of the club for 1944, held at the home of Mrs. N. Elliott, 300 Boswell avenue.

The report showed that $400 has been sent to headquarters in Toronto since October 1, and is sufficient to buy 4,000 quarts of milk for the children in the bombed areas of Britain, and, since December 1, an additional $200 has been sent to Toronto.

The milk bottle collections have proved to be a very successful source of revenue for the Milk for Britain Fund. These bottles are placed in stores, homes and offices throughout the city and district, and from them $70.63 has been collected from December 1, 1943, to January 18, 1944.

Recently an attractive afghan and pillow were donated to the Kinettes by Mrs. E. Hurry, and Mrs. R. Lewis and Mrs. A. Lewis were appointed co-conveners in charge of the distribution of tickets. The draw will be made at the next Kinette bingo, to be held some time in April.

The next meeting of the group will be held at the home of Mrs. W. P. Gordon, 166 Brock street, when Mrs. J. Wharry will be guest speaker, and have as her topic, "Parliamentary Procedure."

St. Andrew's WMS Elects Mrs. H. Tremain

The January meeting of St. Andrew's W.M.S. was held in the ladies' parlor, with the president in the chair. This being the annual meeting most of the time was taken up with the hearing of various reports from the different secretaries. These were all very interesting and very satisfactory, showing real interest and much good work accomplished during the year.

Mrs. A. Porteous brought in the slate of officers for 1944, which is as follows: Honorary President, Mrs. E. W. Young; President, Mrs. H. Tremain; 1st Vice-President, Mrs. F. W K. Harris; 2nd Vice-President, Mrs. A. Porteous; 3rd Vice-President Mrs. C. M. Scott; Recording Secretary, Mrs. F. E. Johnston; Treasurer, Mrs. A. Munroe; Corresponding Secretary, Mrs. A. Pilling; Missionary Monthly Secretary, Miss J. R. Ferguson; Christian Stewardship, Miss M. A. Moir; Christian Citizenship, Miss M. A. Ferguson; Associate Helpers, Mrs. W. F. Nelson; Supply Secretary, Mrs. E. F. Reid; Press Secretary, Mrs. Robert Allan; Literature Secretary, Mrs. J. A. H. Campbell; Pianist, Mrs. D. R. Morrow; Local Council of Women, Mrs. B. McNeeley; Alfa Mission Circle, Mrs. E. W. Young; Mission Band, Miss Margaret Harris.

Mrs. B. Fowler sang a solo which was much enjoyed, the word being a prayer for our Air Force.

After the business session, Dr. E. W. Young gave a brief address on missionary work in some of the South Sea islands, speaking especially about Samoa and Papua. It was in Samoa where the poet, Robert Louis Stevenson, went to try to recover his health. While his health did improve for a time, he finally died and is buried there. Stevenson had a prejudice against missions when he went there but was convinced of their value before he died. The religion of Jesus Christ went very deep into the lives of the natives and many of them studied for the ministry.

Dr. Young also spoke of the work accomplished by Robert Chalmers, a Scotsman, by birth, who wanted "to be sent among savages." His work was among pirates on a pirate ship and among cannibals and beer gangs on the Island of Papau, which is one of the Fiji group. Though his work was difficult and dangerous he accomplished a great deal in the transforming of the natives from barbarians to civilized people and many to Christians. Many former cannibals became firm friends of the missionary and his wife.

Dr. Young closed the meeting with prayer. A cup of tea was served and a social half-hour enjoyed after the meeting.

Mignon Mayneord Circle President

Miss Mignon Mayneord was elected president of the Living Link Mission Circle of Trinity United Church at the regular meeting, held Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. Jack Gibson, Simcoe street. Mrs. J. W. Pierce conducted the service of installation, and the past president, Miss Helen Parkinson, expressed her appreciation of the help and co-operation received from the officers and members during the past year.

Reports on the year's work were read to the meeting, and the treasurer, Miss Jean Moore, reported that the allocation for 1943 had been met. The devotional period was taken by Miss Margaret Wolstenholm's group, with Miss Margaret Skitch taking the Christian Stewardship. Miss Mayneord read a letter from a missionary, Miss Boyd, and at the close of the meeting refreshments were served by Miss Margaret Wolstenholm's group.

Nineteen "Bundles for Britain" went directly from chapters, and 6,271 garments and 890 quilts and afghans were sent overseas to British mothers. There were 1,987 parcels sent to those on active service overseas, and 1,276 distributed in Canada. New Homemaking Service Discussed for Peterborough

Plans for beginning a home-making service in Peterborough were discussed at the regular meeting of the Children's Aid Tuesday and the superintendent, Miss R. Young, was instructed to write to St. Catharines, where a service of this type exists, to determine the scope of the work, and the service rendered by the plan.

The discussion arose from the superintendent's report, given by Miss Young, and Mr. James Dutton, president, stated that he felt very strongly that a need for this existed in Peterborough. However, plans will be held until a definite report of the activities of the St. Catharines service reaches the Society.

In her report, Miss Young said that 37 families had come to the attention of the Society during the month, with the problems to be faced in these cases, involving delinquency of children, children without supervision or insufficiently clothed and dirty, marital discord, non-attendance at school and illness.

Too Busy.

Miss Young explained that since a part-time worker had taken over the investigations for the Dependents' Board of Trustees, more time was left to the rest of the staff to give to family problems. However, she went on, since more families have come to the attention of the Society, they are in exactly the same position as before.

Speaking of the family problems, Miss Young stated that poor housekeeping, sometimes resulting from lack of knowledge of the proper way to do it, was a challenge to the worker, who found that constant visiting was necessary. This point was later brought up in the chairman's remarks, and the discussion about the installation of a home-making service followed.

The shelter report showed that the children had enjoyed a happy Christmas, made possible in large part by the generous donations of citizens of Peterborough, each of whom received an expression of thanks from the Society. The children were most grateful, and sent their thanks, through the shelter report, to the committees and friends. Three older boys and girls visited the shelter during the Christmas holiday, and one boy, who is in the armed services, spent part of his New Year's leave there.

The question of children under 16 being found on the streets, and in places of entertainment after 9 o'clock was brought up, and it was decided to visit theatre managers to see what could be done about the entertainment problem. The budget for 1944 was also presented at this meeting, and was adopted.

Y.W.C.A. Planning Health Week

"The Gateway to Health Through Y.W.C.A. Recreation" is the slogan for the Y.W.C.A. Health Week, held under the auspices of the health department of the Y.W., from January 24 to 29. The idea of this week is to make the people of Peterborough health conscious, and to this end demonstrations of slimming and relaxation exercises, flying rings, basketball, swimming and dancing are given nightly at the Y.W., starting at 8 o'clock.

The idea of a health week has been used all over Canada by the Y.W.C.A.'s, and this week was chosen by our local "Y" to demonstrate the benefits of exercise and relaxation. The Peterborough Y.W.C.A. has the largest attendance in Canada for a city this size, a fact of which they are justly proud, and they are anxious that other girls see their methods and come and join in the fun.

The "Y" gym auxiliary is planning these nightly programs and Miss Caroline Littlefield is the instructress.

DOROTHY DIX

MOTHERS JEALOUS AS WIVES
Woman Born Without Green Eyes Could Get Job as a Freak in Museum.

A PSYCHOLOGIST, who must have scant personal knowledge of the dispositions and ways of women, recently asserted that mother love was the only love that had no jealousy in it. Far be it from me to question the conclusions of such an eminent scientist, but I wonder where he was when Mamie had her first beau and it dawned on Mother that her darling child was more interested in a little freckle-faced boy than she was in her; or when Tom broke the bad news that he was going to get married; or Grandma took possession of the baby and practically shouldered its mother out of the nursery?

Jealousy Brings Heartaches

Why, women are the jealous sex and any one of them who is born without green eyes could get a job in a museum as a freak of Nature and people would come miles to see her. Furthermore, women don't confine their jealousy to the tender passion, or to people. They extend it to things and all the minutia of life, and it gives them more headaches than anything else in the world.

Of course, wifely jealousy is such a common complaint that we expect every married woman to have it. With cause, or without. No matter how homely or dull and boring a man may be, nine times out of ten his wife is obsessed with the mania that every woman who sees him is trying to take him away from her.

About the first thing a man learns after he gets married is never to praise another woman to his wife, and especially never to say a kind word about his secretary. One of the reasons why there is so little conversation in our homes is because husbands dare not open their mouths for fear of putting their feet in them.

It is jealousy that is at the bottom of the in-law trouble, over which women have shed enough tears to float the Queen Mary. Mother simply can't bear the thought that some mean, scheming adventuress, by underhanded and nefarious ways, has kidnapped her innocent, trusting little boy, who is only 30 years old, and is going to take him away from her and marry him. She knows that the way a man feels towards his mother and the way he feels towards his wife do not conflict any more than his fondness for both roast beef and ice cream but she wants to be all-in-all to him. She doesn't want any other woman to have any part in his life whatever. And so she carries a knife in her sleeve where she can get at it handy for his wife.

Family Conflict Over Son-Husband

And, as the daughter-in-law reciprocates these sentiments, they start a family feud that keeps them both miserable and wrecks the happiness of the man over whom they fight.

If you should tell mothers that their jealousy is what makes them shut their fathers out of their children's lives and is responsible for a lot of juvenile delinquency, they would bitterly deny the charge. But it is true, nevertheless. Many mothers are so monopolistic, so determined that their children shall love them best, that they practically never let the youngsters get acquainted with their fathers, or permit their fathers to have any hand in rearing them.

Think of the mothers you know who teach their children to hate and fear their fathers by holding up Father as a sort of ogre who will get them and beat them up if they don't watch out. Don't you know mothers who curry favor with their children by always representing themselves as the intermediaries who propitiate Father and get the things the youngsters want out of him? Father never gets any credit for the bicycle or the automobile or the formal that his money pays for. The children are led to believe that Father is a tightwad who cares nothing for their pleasure. It is only Mother who loves them and wants them to be happy.

And think of the mothers whose jealousy makes them nullify all the father's efforts to control the children or discipline them, because they want to be supreme with their youngsters. Haven't you heard a woman say: "Come to Mama. Mama loves you. Mama will give you another slice of pie that bad Papa doesn't want you to have," when a father was trying to teach a child self-control and to keep him from making himself sick?

Haven't you known mothers who would slip extra money to children when their fathers were attempting to teach them how to handle an allowance? Haven't you known mothers who would connive at their children doing things that their fathers had absolutely forbidden, until Father's discipline was made a mockery?

You have. Plenty of them. And you have seen many a broken-hearted father paying the wayward children, who were the victims of their mother's jealousy, out of the scrapes they have gotten into.

No jealousy in mother's love? Guess again, Mister.

Peterborough Boy Wed At Glace Bay

Knox Church manse, Glace Bay, N.S., was the scene of a pretty wedding recently, when Rev. John MacDonald united in marriage Betty Hillier, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Hillier, Glace Bay, and Bandsman Kenneth Stanley Mills, R.C.N.V.R., son of Mr. and Mrs. James Mills, of Peterborough.

The bride was dressed in a suit of brown wool tweed, a white sheer blouse, brown hat and veil and brown accessories. Her corsage was of baby 'mums and Sweet Briar roses and fern, and her only ornament was a gold chain and locket. Over her ensemble, she wore a camel-hair topper.

Mrs Ruth Hillier MacMullin, sister of the bride, was matron of honor, in a two-piece suit of American Beauty crepe, black accessories, and a corsage of baby 'mums and Sweet Briar rose. Bandsman Robert McLeod, R.C.N.V.R., of Donkin, was best man.

Following the ceremony, a wedding supper and reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, where the bride's mother received, wearing an imported gown of white and blue figured crepe, with navy redingote, and a corsage of white baby 'mums. Also receiving was Mrs. Robert Hooper, of New York, cousin of the bride, who wore a black gown trimmed with white, and a corsage of pink and white roses.

Prior to his enlistment, Bandsman Mills was employed at the Canadian General Electric Company, Peterborough. The young couple will live in Glace Bay for the present.

Guerilla Bands Fight In Malaya

CHUNGKING, Jan. 19 (AP). — Guerrillas are operating in the mountains and forest of Malaya, led by British officers who survived the fall of Singapore, Rev. Marcus Cheng, prominent Chinese Christian who escaped from Singapore last year, said yesterday.

The guerrillas outnumber the Japanese forces six to one, and consist mainly of Chinese troops with some British, Australians, and Indians, he said in an interview on his arrival here.

Crack Japanese troops who seized Singapore were transferred to other fronts, he continued, and Malaya is garrisoned mainly with sailors who lost their ships.

Cheng declared that unless Malaya were recovered within the next year or two most of the Allied prisoners would die of slow torture or starvation. Thousands of natives have died because of scant rations, he said, and Australian prisoners receive only two bowls of rice a day.

Cheng said Australians were being forced to build railroads and perform other hard labour, while British prisoners are assigned humilitary tasks formerly done by coolies.

Many Malayan natives have joined the guerrillas rather than enlist for military service with the Japanese, he added.

Family Subsidy Likely Session Topic

By JACK WILLIAMS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA, Jan. 19 (CP)—Family allowances may become a topic of discussion at the forthcoming session of parliament as a result of the anticipated publication of reports of the National War Labor Board on its 1943 general enquiry, it is believed in well-informed circles.

While the reports have been kept confidential pending the release of a new labor relations code now nearing completion, it is known that the majority report signed by the chairman, Mr. Justice C. P. McTague, and Leon Lalande, a board member, suggested either widened freedom in the negotiations for wage increase by low-income workers or family allowances.

In its recent revision of the wage control regulations no action was taken on the proposal for relaxation of wage controls on unskilled workers. During the enquiry labor organizations urged that workers earning up to 50 cents an hour or $25 a week should be exempt from the wage restriction.

The general tendency of the new order was to tighten all controls, with no distinction made between wage groups. This step has led to speculation whether the government proposes to implement the second proposal of the majority report and bring in family allowances.

Since the board's reports were received family allowances are known to have been the subject of a number of Cabinet discussions, but so far there has been no indication of any definite decision.

Studied in 1929.

The matter of family alolwances was studied by a Parliamentary Committee in 1929. The committee, after hearing a number of witnesses, reported that "as this proposal is new in Canada and requires more careful consideration no immediate action should be taken."

The committee also recommended that consideration be given to the division of jurisdiction between the Dominion and the provinces.

More recently Dr. Leonard C. Marsh, in his report on social security for Canada presented to the Commons Social Security Committee last March, dealt with family alowances, which he described as "a redistribution, on better principles, of national income."

Dr. Marsh proposed that allowances should be paid to all families with more than one child.

While minimum living standards called for an allowance of about $14.50 a month per child, he suggested the plan be introduced on a lower schedule, and mentioned the proposal of the British Beveridge plan for an allowance of from $8 to $9—roughly equivalent to the $108 a year income tax exemption allowed in Canada.

EARTHQUAKE WRECKAGE—A general view in the Calle Mendoza, principal street in the city of San Juan, Argentina, showing the ruins which resulted from the series of earthquake shocks which visited the region January 15 and 16. An estimated $150,000,000 in property damage, and three thousand lives were lost.

Mustering Out Pay Discussed

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19 (AP). — The United States House of Representatives faced a new hold-the-line fight today with its military committee spearheading a drive to keep a $300 ceiling on the mustering-out pay for discharged service men and women.

On the outcome of the issue, expected to be settled by tonight depends not only how much war veterans shall receive to tide them over between their discharge and their return to private jobs, but also the amount of bonus or adjusted compensation they will get under legislation almost certain to come as soon as the war ends.

Chairman Andrew J. May (Dem. Ky.) of the military committee said he would resist efforts of a bi-partisan group to boost the amount of mustering-out pay to as much as $700.

"The $300 we recommended will cost about $3,600,000,00 and is five times as much as was given up discharged men after the last war," he said.

This compares with an estimated $5,500,000,00 which a Senate bill would cost with payments running from $200 to $500 depending on length of service and a minimum of $50,000,000,000 which Representative Hamilton Fish (Rep. N. Y.) said would be billed to the taxpayers in veteran's legislation growing out of the Second Great War before Congress disposes of that subject.

Work For Veterans

ALBANY, N.Y., Jan. 19 (AP) — Governor Thomas E. Dewey signed into law yesterday a bill freezing a $140,000,000 New York state surplus to provide work for war veterans and other postwar jobless persons. The measure is a Dewey proposal.

Claims 5,000 One-Room Rural Schools Out Of Place In Modern Education Scheme

TORONTO, Jan. 19 (CP). — Although one-third of Ontario's population is in rural areas only six out of 56 technical and vocational high schools in the province are devoted to agricultural training, Dr. George Langford of the University of Toronto told Forest Hill Progressive Conservative Association.

Ontario's 5,000 one-room rural schools "are as out of place in our modern state as oxen would be on the Queen Elizabeth Highway," he said in an address last night. "Until their standards are raised we are making a mockery of democracy."

L. McNaughton, former commander of the Canadian Army overseas, was in "uncertain health." He was unable to say if Gen. McNaughton was returning to Canada soon.

decisions. The easiest way seems the road to take but it is beset with fraud, duplicity and sinister circumstances likely to have an unhappy reaction on position, reputation and health. There may be consolation or sound advice to be had from the domestic, social or affectional associates. Keep firm control on sudden or illicit promptings.

Those whose birthday it is may encounter a year of singular and difficult experiences, with urges and impulses not to be indulged or given unbridled leash as this will lead to pitfalls, snares and complications of a deplorable nature. Peculiar entanglements may prove powerful enough to reflect on the character, reputation, health and social prestige. A safe and sane policy should be rigidly maintained, in business, finance, domestic, social and all other alliances. An undercurrent sinister and sordid is also accompanied by erratic and strange impulses or emotions. Seek wise counsel from true friends.

A child born on this day should be given an understanding and practical analysis as to its inner urges and emotional responses, lest these grow into future menace and defeat.

Friends Honor Petherick Pair

HAVELOCK, Jan. 19 (ENS). — Members and friends of the Faith Mission Hall honored Mr. and Mrs. Donald Petherick on their recent marriage. Mrs. Petherick was formerly Miss G. Stafford, the superintendent of the local mission for the past two years.

A program was given, with Mr. Bernard Smith acting as chairman. Community singing was enjoyed under the leadership of Mrs. C. E. Snider. Two vocal solos were given by Mrs. W. J. Corneil, "My Shepherd" and "Together With Jesus." Two Bible quiz contests on "False or true" and "Who Said This" were conducted by Mrs. R. W. Goheen. A vocal trio by Ruth and Jean Peters and Betty Holdcroft "Only Shadows." Miss Mary Seeney gave a reading "The Turning Point," and Mrs. Fred Chase sang "The Wedding Hymn." A unique feature was a mock marriage, in which Evelyn Goheen acted as the bride, Billie Lang as the groom, and Winston Goheen as the minister. Miss Betty Holdcroft played the wedding music, and Mrs. D. J. Holdcroft sang "I Love You Truly." Following this, Mr. and Mrs. Petherick were called up to the platform and presented with a bouquet of $1 bills.

Burnbrae Young Folk Have Variety Program

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 19. — (ENS). — Members of Burnbrae Young People's Society held their regular meeting on Monday with Mrs. Donald Walker presiding for the varied program presented during the evening. The topic of the evening was given by Mrs. William Craighead and this was followed by a piano solo by Dorothy Eagleson and a guitar solo by Mrs. Fred Thompson. The boys and girls were pitted against each other in contests one of which was conducted by Enid Hay and the other by Charlie Carter, and they broke even in the two. President Kenneth Milne conducted the devotional period with the assistance of Marjory Wallace and during the business Enid Hay and John Coggins were appointed to arrange the program for the next meeting, when the society will be guests of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Walker.

Committee Resumes Deliberations Jan. 19

OTTAWA, Jan. 19 (CP) — H. Cleaver, Liberal member of parliament for Halton, said today sessions of the House of Commons War Expenditures committee, of which he is chairman, will resume Jan. 19, with the prospect that three reports to be presented to the House will be adopted this week.

The committee broke into subgroups for examination of particular subjects last year, and held numerous sittings during the fall. The major report is expected to be that of the sub-group which looked into operations of the Aluminum Co. of Canada and the taxation concessions granted by the government.

Ship-building contracts were examined by another sub-group and a possible enlarged supply of farm implements by a sub-group headed by W. H. Golding (Lib. Huron-Perth). The latter group studied the possibility of labor and equipment in war plants being used for making implements.

Reports Glider Bomb Weighs 2,500 Pounds

LONDON, Jan. 19 (AP). — An airplane recognition magazine published tentative details today of a radio-controlled rocket-powered glider bomb which the Germans were said to have employed in several attacks on shipping in the Atlantic and Mediterranean recently without notable results.

The bomb, known by the Germans as the "Henschel-293," was said to be about six to ten feet long with a wingspan of 10 to 15 feet. It weighs about 2,500 pounds and has a maximum speed of 300 miles per hour.

The whole contrivance is carried under a regular plane—usually a Dornier-217 of Heinkel. 177—and is controlled from it.

Zero Weather Hits Prisoners

HEARST, Ont., Jan. 19 — (CP). —Four German prisoners of war who escaped at the week-end from a lumber camp at Mead were lodged in jail here Tuesday after being recaptured eight miles south of this Northern Ontario centre.

The capture was made by Provincial Police Constable William Griffin and three railwaymen operating two railway speeders in 30-below-zero weather on the Algoma Central Railway.

"We cornered the Germans in a shack near the railroad and they gave up without any sign of a fight," said Constable Griffin. Sectionmen V. Peterson of Weyburn and E. Fortier and Vic Dupuis of Stavert were his helpers.

Peterson and Griffin, patrolling southward, saw the Germans as the other speeder, operated by Fortier and Dupuis, came from the other direction, cutting off their escape.

"They saw us coming and ran for a shack," said Constable Griffin. "The snow was two and a half feet deep, but we cornered them without any difficulty."

"We're cold," was about all the Germans could say, although they explained they escaped from the lumber camp at Mead, 24 miles south of here, after roll call Sunday night. None of them could speak English well.

The four prisoners are Werner Scharmbeck 24, Carl Jaeger 25, Johann Wolthe 24, and Fritz Engelhardt 23.

The operation was started at 2 a.m. by Capt. H. L. Stop of Twin Falls, Idaho, assisted by Capt. Dubose Eggleston of Augusta, Ga. It was completed two hours later.

The General was given blood plasma after the operation and is making a good recovery.

Dep't Engineer Given Blame For Poor Sewer

COBOURG, Jan. 19—Council last night discussed the tannery sewer, over which there have been many complaints from storekeepers who claim that gas from the sewer, where it runs under the business section, has been very offensive in the past week or two.

Major Jack Burnet pointed out that the sewer was built according to the recommendations of an engineer of the Ontario Department of Health, years ago, the size being 12 inches. This apparently was too small but it was not the town's fault and much unwarranted abuse had been received by council. A new sewer of the proper size tile is the only remedy, the mayor said.

Councillor Clara Delaney suggested that the tannery be compelled to build a cess pool to take care of the hide refuse. She declared that when the recent block-up of the sewer occurred, she saw pieces of hide in a cellar. Councillor Reuben Jackson told the council that he had already built three or four septic tanks at the tannery. The gratings are too wide to catch the pieces of leather and in cold weather the grease on the hides congeals and sticks to the sewer causing it to block up. Caustic soda had been used to break up the grease but it only reformed again. It was not a case of the sewer being too small, he said.

Mayor Burnet stated that apparently the joints had not been cemented as quicksand had been found in the sewer. Some years ago council tried to get the creek and sewer cemented over where it goes under the stores but nobody would do the job, due to scarcity of labour.

"It should be a good post-war job" suggested Councillor Jackson.

"I agree," said the mayor. "It will make a good post-war job."

The tender for collection of garbage for the period of Feb. 1, 1944 to Feb. 1, 1945, was awarded to Lyle Hie, who tendered for $2,700. The expiring tender had been held by Harry Jenkins at $1,500 for the half year. Others who tendered last night were Mr. Jenkins, $3,000; Hilton Ferguson, $2,700 and Nick Pasnick, $3,500.

The tender of Hilton Ferguson was turned down after the mayor pointed out that Ferguson was the man with whom the council had trouble over his wrecking yard.

"He agreed to put a fence around his wrecking yard and didn't do it. He also failed to clean the place up," said the mayor.

Mr. Hie told the council that he would be using horses and that the M.O.H. had agreed that it would be all right to take five or even six days to cover the town. It was his intention to collect garbage in the morning and look after the dump in the afternoons. Last year the town paid a man to look after the dump.

First requests of the year for tag days came when permission was given to St. Joseph's Orphanage to hold a tag day on May 22 and to the Eastern Star to hold a tag day on June 10.

Committee accounts passed were Public Buildings and Printing — $471.98; Police—$46.00; Fire, Water and Light—$56.56; Finance—193.08; Relief—$209.15 and Highways and Streets—$316.61.

SCOTT'S SCRAP BOOK —By J. R. Scott

Says Churchill At Marrokesh During Illness

LONDON, Jan. 19 (CP-Reuters). It was disclosed officially today that Prime Minister Churchill's illness occurred at Carthage near Tunis and that after 16 days there he was able to fly to Marrakesh. Morocco, where he convalesced.

At the time he became ill of pneumonia it was merely stated that he was "in the Middle East," giving rise to a general speculation that he was in Cairo at the time.

Now, however, it is revealed that the prime minister arrived at Carthage from Cairo, on Dec. 11.

He was taken ill and only on Dec. 27 was he sufficiently recovered to make a journey by air. On that day he flew over the Atlas Mountains to Marrakesh, south of Casablanca, on the invitation of the commander-in-chief, Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower.

At Marrakesh a villa with a beautiful garden kept by United States authorities for the use of distinguished guests was placed at his disposal. It was the same at which he stayed with President Roosevelt after the Casablanca conference of February, 1943.

Lord Beaverbrook, Lord Privy Seal, stayed with Mr. Churchill throughout his visit. Gen. Eisenhower, Gen. Sir Bernhard Montgomery, former commander of the 8th Army in Italy and now commander of British armies preparing for the western invasion were other guests.

Gen Charles de Gaulle, chairman of the French Committee of National Liberation, lunched with the prime minister one day and spent the afternoon with him.

National Debt Soars In Great Britain

LONDON, Jan. 19 (CP)— Britain's national debt December 31 was approximately £19,237,000,000 (about $85,604,650,000) compared with £8,026,000,000 in 1938, the House of Commons was told today by Sir John Anderson, Chancellor of the Exchequer.

Sir John said press reports of an invitation by the United States treasury to 44 countries for a monetary conference were "premature."

In reply to another question he said the U.S. Government had advised that lend-lease terms no longer apply to certain goods for civilian use ordered after November 15, but added that the scope of the decision still is under discussion.

Anzacs Planning To Garrison Island Screen

CANBERRA, Australia, Jan. 19 Prime Minister Curtin of Australia told a conference of Australian and New Zealand cabinet ministers and other officials today that Australia and New Zealand should jointly help in garrisoning the screen of islands to the north after the war as one basis of post-war security.

Defence of this screen, he said would entail co-operation with Britain, the Netherlands, Portugal and France, all of which have territory, now occupied by the Japanese, in the area concerned.

The defence would entail sea-power, garrisons, docks, air fields and fixed defences. He said the strength of the Australian and the New Zealand forces needed as the garrisons could not be determined as the postwar situation could not be foreseen.

H. V. Evatt, Australian minister for external affairs, announced that the conference had agreed upon the necessity of active Australian and New Zealand participation on any body established to carry out armistice terms.

The conference also agreed upon joint action in all matters of common concern both in the south and southwestern Pacific after the war, such as control of territories native welfare and communications.

It is understood that Dr. Evatt in documents circulated to members of the conference outlined a comprehensive plane for furture comprehensive plan for future security in the Pacific which visualizes creation of an area in which Australia and New Zealand would be responsible for protection of a number of islands not all included in their present territories.

This protection would mainly be ensured by a system of striking bases in advanced area.

In the wider area in which sea power would be of particular importance close collaboration between Australia, New Zealand, Britain and the United States would be expected.

Accused Admits Slugging Woman

HAMILTON, Jan. 19 — (CP).— As the trial of Joseph Kennedy on a charge of murdering Mrs. Betty Edwards resumed Tuesday Justice A. W. Greene in Supreme Court ruled admissable evidence by Det. Sgt. Stanley Gaylard regarding statements by the accused. The jury was recalled to hear the detective's evidence.

Gaylard testified that Kennedy, 52-year-old candy maker, told the police on the morning of October 13 that he hit Mrs. Edwards with a milk bottle and that the bottle was then "in the cellar where she is."

Mr. Justice Green in allowing the evidence said the truth of the statement "was proven afterwards by the finding of the bottle where accused said it was."

Another statement given by the detective in the absence of the jury and later ruled admissable, was that he heard accused tell his son, on October 13, "I did it — I had to do it; I couldn't stand it any more."

The battered body of Mrs. Edwards was found in the basement of her home October 11. Her husband, LAC. Bert Edwards of the R.C.A.F., was stationed in Guelph at the time.

STOPPERS NOT ENOUGH

TO MAKE any No Trump contract requires something more than just safe stoppers of each suit. Equally important is a large enough number of trick takers of all kinds. When the bidding gets you up into the slam zone, that means 12 or 13 tricks, depending on whether the contract is to be a small or grand slam. Sometimes one trick less than that number will be in sight at No Trump play, but an extra one or two might be picked up by ruffing in a suit contract.

North: ♠ 7 3; ♥ K J 10 7 2; ♦ A J 5 2; ♣ 7 6

West: ♠ Q 9 5 2; ♥ 9 6; ♦ Q 10 9 4; ♣ Q 8 3

East: ♠ J 10 8 4; ♥ A 3; ♦ 8 3; ♣ J 10 9 5 4

South: ♠ A K 6; ♥ Q 8 5 4; ♦ K 7 6; ♣ A K 2

(Dealer South. North-South vulnerable.)

South	West	North	East
1 NT	Pass	3 ♥	Pass
5 NT	Pass	6 ♦	Pass
6 NT

Notice that hoggishness of South, stealing the contract at No Trumps by grace of the fact that it is the ranking declaration. North had warned him that he had quite an unbalanced hand, when he bid his second suit at the level of six. South pleaded later that he thought the same number of tricks could be taken at No Trumps as at hearts, since he himself had a balanced distribution, with no place to pick up any extra tricks by ruffing. He didn't stop to think that maybe North might do some ruffing.

At No Trumps, South won the club lead with the K, drove out the heart A, won the club return with the A, scored the diamond K, won the diamond J finesse, led to the spade K and then tried for a squeeze by running hearts. But West held on to the last diamond and two clubs, and East guarded the spades, so the squeeze failed.

At hearts, game would have been easy, with the diamond finesse working, as reverse play, using North to ruff out the spade 6 and club 2, would have set up the entire South hand except for the heart A.

Health Services To Be Available

OTTAWA, Jan. 19 (CP) — Plans making medical and dental services available to all persons, regardless of the ability to pay, are being considered by the government, Dr. J. J. Heagerty, Director of Public Health Services for the Department of Pensions and National Health, told members of the Ottawa Dental Society.

Speaking on a Health Insurance Bill likely will be introduced at the coming session of parliament, Dr Heagerty said medical and dental services will be offered to children up to a designated age, however, adults will be expected to make a financial contribution toward the cost if able to do so.

He said the plan would not interfere with the individual freedom of the patient or doctor, leaving both free to make their own choice.

Any Estate Plan today must take account of Taxation

IN 1944 . . .

The progressive increase in taxation has put many Wills out of date even where they were drawn only two or three years ago. In certain cases it has even made them unworkable. Heavier succession duties means a greater need for ready cash and will reduce your net estate; income tax at present levels will cut down the income to your beneficiaries. Bishop Scores Divorce And Birth Control

LONDON, Jan. 19 (CP) — Most Rev. Bernard Griffin was enthroned Tuesday as Roman Catholic Archbishop of Westminster in a ceremony marked by absence of the sacred Pallium, a vestment which is the traditional symbol of the Archbishop's Metropolitan jurisdiction.

The Pallium did not arrive from the Vatican because of the war. It was believed to be the first time the vestment, which usually is placed on the high altar for public veneration before being worn by the Archbishop, has been missing from such a ceremony.

The new Archbishop delivered an outspoken sermon against what he termed the causes of divorce and the manufacture of birth control devices. He advocated stricter censorship of films and books which attack the sanctity of marriage and the sacredness of the family

The new head of the Roman Catholic Heirarchy in England is 44 years old, one of the youngest prelates ever to be chosen for that high office. He succeeds the late Arthur Cardinal Hinsley as Archbishop. He was born in Birmingham, served in the Royal Navy and the Air Force in the last war and was Auxiliary Bishop of Birmingham since 1938.

Although little known outside his native Warwickshire, he has been active in youth movements since he was ordained in 1924. He has announced support for the Sir William Beveridge plan for Social Security after the war.

The son of a bicycle dealer, he is the second youngest man ever appointed to the Archbishopric of Westminster—only Francis Cardinal Bourne, 42 at the time of his appointment, was younger.

Archbishop Griffin's energy apparently is unlimited. He rises at 6 a.m. In Birmingham he served as an air raid warden.

Casualty Lists Reported Heavy

By ROSS MUNRO
C.P. War Correspondent

LONDON, an. 19 (CP Cable) — Canadian casualties in the Moro Valley and Ortona battles in December were not light and possibly were higher than in Sicily, it was learned tonight from reliable sources.

(Canadian casualties in Sicily were 2,395—454 killed, 1,783 wounded and 158 missing.)

In the Ortona battle it was believed the Canadians suffered heavily.

Canadian troops overcame the most stubborn resistance of their Mediterranean campaign in winning the battle for the Moro Valley, which ended Dec. 28, when the Germans withdrew from the Adriatic coastal town of Ortona.

For three weeks from the time two Western battalions crossed the narrow, muddy Moro River, the Canadian 1st Division hurled the full weight of its man and tank power against the Germans, who were under orders to fight to the last man and last bullet. The Canadians mauled one German division so viciously that it had to be replaced and hammered a second until it withdrew.

Western troops were credited with cleaning the Germans out of Ortona in a vicious, week-long fight. Allied headquarters said the 48th Highlanders of Canada, a Toronto unit, and the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment from Trenton, Ont., were "in the line" Christmas Day just before Ortona fell.

Sweden Snubs Huns Cuts Down On Visas

STOCKHOLM, Jan. 19 (AP). — Sweden in effect broke off cultural and scientific relations today with Germany.

Because of Swedish indignation over Nazi deportations of Norwegian university students, Sweden will now curtail visas to German scientists and cultural experts who have been some of the Reich's best propagandists. Announcing this, Foreign Minister Christian E. Guenther told the Riksdag:—

"They are no longer welcome. The deportation of Norwegian students showed that Germany really is trying to cripple Norwegian cultural life and Germany can no longer expect the former generous treatment on visas for German scientists and cultural representatives."

Joe Goebbels Likened To Squander Bug

By DOUG HOW
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

LONDON, Jan. 19 — (CP). — This is by way of being a note of sympathy to Joe Goebbels because old Joe must be getting somewhat disgusted and even a bit discouraged with the English after all these months of frustration.

Joe has worked hard. You have to say that for him. But look what happens.

He makes a particularly stout speech. He bloats the press and the air with tales of London skulking in her undergrounds or shivering in her homes, of The City plotting Germanic destitution, of Prime Minister Churchill being at the very minimum a scoundrel.

And what do the English do?

The odds are they print his speech in full or in part on the front pages of their newspapers. They've done it time and again.

Joe threatens reprisals for the bombing of Berlin. London, Joe says, will pay a grisly price

And what do the English do?

Always a Bet.

They jump on his words with a quiet zest as the basis for another bet. They gamble that there will be an alert to-night or that there won't be an alert to-night. They gamble on the time Joe's planes will get here and how many of them won't go back.

Or they gamble that the R.A.F. will push the words down Joe's throat and raid Berlin again.

If he wins, the Englishman will inwardly rate Joe a passing good bloke. And if he loses, he probably won't rate Joe in a category any lower than he assigns a disappointing greyhound or a newspaper editor who ends an editorial with a word he wasn't betting on.

This betting is a sombre business for the Englishman and anything Joe can do to help is appreciated. After all, a fellow does have to keep this war-making in perspective.

The status Joe holds in the affections of the English at the present time has a good deal of kinship with that of the squander bug. Some bureaucrat brought this scrawny symbol of waste into the world to promote the frugal life.

The Englishman, ever the unpredictable, took it to his heart with a chuckle. He thought the loathsome qualities of the squander bug frightfully quaint.

And so it is with Joe.

There is a considerable basis for the parallel, too. After all Joe does possess many of the lesser qualities of the insect.

VICTORY BY AIR

In the last six months of the North African campaign ending in May, 1943, the R.A.F. had destroyed more than 1,600 enemy aircraft. The Allied losses over the same period were less than 700.

British Take Minturno On Highway

Three Large Villages Also Captured Along Appian Way

LONDON, Jan. 20—(CP)—The German radio announced today the evacuation of Minturno to the Allied 5th Army, driving up the Appian Way toward Rome.

By EDWARD KENNEDY
Associated Press Correspondent

ALGIERS, Jan. 20—(AP)—British troops of the 5th Army have enlarged their bridgehead above the Garigliano River to three miles in depth at places, capturing three villages, and today are storming the outskirts of Minturno.

Allied Headquarters announced the advancing forces have enveloped the villages of Argento, Tufo and Suio. Capture of Tufo carries the thrust across the Appian Way—ancient road to Rome—and within a mile and a half of Minturno itself.

In the area north af Cassino, now under fire of United States artillery, American patrols again crossed the Rapido River to probe German defences there. Still farther inland French troops of the 5th Army made contact with the enemy, but no details were announced.

The Allied communique did not mention the Adriatic front where correspondents in the field reported that a lull broken only by patrol activity and shellfire had developed following a one-day thrust Monday by Canadian troops at the German defences south of the Arielli River guarding the road to the port of Pescara.

Yesterday Douglas Amaron, Canadian Press war correspondent, reported that the Canadians returned to their original positions after the Monday attack during which they attained some of their objectives and erased a number of German strong points — heavily - defended houses in fields south of the Arielli.

Land On Coast

The British crossing of the Garigliano, the first action on this sector in two months, was achieved under cover of a smoke screen, and was supported by an amphibious operation in which some troops were moved by sea to a point on the Tyrrhenian coast just above the river's mouth.

Some troops moved across the stream on rafts and small boats while others swam the river. The

Farmhand Carried Secret To His Grave Fiancee Tells Jury At Delayed Inquest

TIMMINS, Jan. 20—(CP).—David Palmer, 32-year-old farmhand, who was murdered last May 11, had something "very important" to tell his former fiancee but the message was never delivered because of his death, a coroner's jury holding a delayed inquest into his death was told yesterday.

Mary Burns, of Timmins, who was engaged to Palmer until a few months before his death, testified he had told her in a telephone conversation May 12 that he had something important to tell her which he didn't want to mention on the telephone. They were to meet the evening of May 14, but that morning Palmer's battered body was found in the furnace room at the Gold Ridge stock farm at nearby Golden City.

The inquest was adjourned until February 4 because Mrs. John Decosse of Timmins, last person known to have seen Palmer alive, was ill in hospital and unable to testify.

Provincial Police have been investigating the death ever since Palmer's body was found but have given no indication whether they have found any clues.

Serb Leadership Declines Tito Unites Slavic People

By ROSS MUNRO—Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Jan. 20—(CP).—The struggle in Yugoslavia, the principal seat of organized resistance to the Germans inside Europe, crystalizes into a conflict between the new and the old.

Marshal Tito and his Partisan army, supported by the Allies, is the military expression of a new order which has obtained an unusual unity among Slav people. Tito's provisional government is the political expression.

On the other hand Gen. Draja Mihailovic represents the old order of Serbian leadership and domination in Yugoslav affairs. His Chetnik force has been essentially Serbian. The Yugoslav government-in-Cairo in which he is war minister is an old-order government. Balkan authorities here in London say it has never been representative of Yugoslav opinion. As constituted at present it is only a group of appointed officials.

No Small Squabble.

This clash of interest between these two factions is no insignificant Balkan squabble exaggerated by propagandists. The concern shown by the three great Allied powers in the Yugoslav affair and their interest in the fight against the Germans in that country is proof enough of the importance of the issue.

To many Balkan experts here the role Britain, Russia and the United States play in this situation and the policies formulated will provide the yardstick for tackling a multitude of European problems in the post-war settlement.

Encourage Battle

The Allies' immediate aim undoubetdly is to maintain, encourage military resistance in the Balkans. This would be of immense help to Allied troops who might be sent into Yugoslavia or Greece in the final attack on Europe.

In Greece there are two guerilla bands, much smaller than anything in Yugoslavia. They have practically ceased fighting the Germans and now are fighting each other. A triumph for German political warfare.

The Greek government in Cairo and King George of Greece are doing their utmost to promote unity between the groups. There is also some guerilla activity in Bulgaria with Russian backing.

In the long run, however, the Allied view goes deeper than this military aspect. British foreign policy in this regard is broadly to restore the liberties of these countries, great and small, so they can play thehir part in the new Europe.

From this could stem the great political question of Balkan unity, as delicate a problem as there is.

Millbrook Man Leads Attack

By DOUGLAS AMARON
Canadian Press War Correspondent

WITH CANADIANS IN ITALY, Jan 20 — (CP Cable). — Canadian infantrymen who hit the Germans hard in a sharp one-day thrust on Monday against the enemy's well-defended positions in front of the Arielli River, now are resting from the sudden lunges across a gully before the enemy line.

Central Canadian soldiers who with Maritime Province troops led the attack told of some of their experiences in the battle, fought a mile inland from the Adriatic coast. The consensus was that the enemy was "we tickled up" before the Canadians returned to their original positions.

"My lads put on a wonderful show," said Capt. W. J. (Sammy) Ridge of Millbrook, Ont., a company commander. "They had all the guts in the world and fought just as you expect Canadians to fight."

Officer is 22.

Capt. Ridge, who is 22, led his men across the gully on to a road atop an opposite height. The whole area was under observation of the enemy machine-gunners and the Germans laid a mortar barrage up and down the bed of the shallow stream in the gully every five minutes.

3,500 Perished In Earthquake

SAN JUAN, Argentina, Jan. 20—(AP).—Authorities announced today that 3,500 bodies have been cremated since the devastating earthquake last Saturday.

This toll was expected to be increased by the finding of additional victims as the work of clearing away debris continues and by deaths among 300 persons known to have been critically injured.

Evacuation of four blocks surrounding the main plaza in the centre of San Juan has been ordered and the government, fearful of epidemics, has urged all who can to leave the city. However, many persons have refused to relinquish their search for relatives.

Russians Capture Novgorod Launch Drive To Engulf Nazis Besieging Leningrad

Long-Range Batteries Used On City Already Captured By Reds Two Armies Close Seven-Mile Gap

By HENRY C. CASSIDY—Associated Press Staff Writer

MOSCOW, Jan. 20—(AP).—Gen. Leonid A. Govorov's Leningrad offensive, rolling across fields wet with a January thaw, today threatened with encirclement a great German siege army of perhaps 250,000 men—dug into a vast honeycomb of defences to hold the eastern tip of Nazi lines which formerly embraced the landward approaches of the city of Peter the Great.

The northern Red Army seized the bulk of the specially-designed long-range guns which had hurled steel and destruction into the former Czarist capital of Russia for more than two years of siege.

The troops joined forces after striking out in two powerful prongs south of Leningrad and from Oranienbaum, the Soviet bridgehead on the Gulf of Finland to the west of the city.

(This juncture, closing a seven-mile gap between the two spearheads, either trapped Germans who had held a narrow stretch of the Gulf of Finland coast just west of Leningrad, or drove them out.)

City Isolated.

At the same time a third thrust just north of Lake Ilmen, 100 miles southeast of Leningrad, had virtually isolated the German base city of Novgorod.

(The German communique announced that Nazi forces had evacuated Novgorod.)

The Red Army units, which carried through one of the best manoeuvres of the war, drove to within 13 miles of the east-west railway from Tallin in the Baltic state of Estonia to Vologda, a junction on the Moscow-Leningrad line.

Except for one highway this railway was the only communication line available to the Germans holding the German salient reaching to within a few miles of Lake Ladoga, east of Leningrad.

In the push immediately before Leningrad, the Russian communique said 20,000 Germans had been killed since Saturday. In addition to recapture of the two fortresses, the Russians took Peterhof, summer home of the Czars, captured more than 1,000 Germans, smashed seven German divisions and took many of the great 16-inch guns with which the Nazis shelled Leningrad.

In the region of Pulkovo, 10 miles south of Leningrad, site of Russia's celebrated astronomical observatory, the Russians gained grim revenge by capturing 36 of the 152 heavy siege pieces that have been shelling Leningrad for more than 27 months, the bulletin said.

Empire To Be Stronger After War

By ROSS MUNRO
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Jan. 20—(CP Cable)—The Empire will end the war stronger than ever, Lord Beaverbrook said yesterday in an address to the House of Lords on post-war civil aviation in which he said "it is our aim to make civil aviation a guarantee of international solidarity and the mainstay of world peace."

There are vital issues of post-war flying for which it will be necessary for the great powers to prepare a preliminary agreement, said Lord Beaverbrook who is Lord Privy Seal in the Churchill government and charged with drawing up Britain's post-war aviation plans.

Britain is ready to undertake such discussions at any time, he said, but at present she is waiting for the United States to complete its survey.

Speaking of the Empire's place in post-war aviation, Lord Beaverbrook said:

"Our empire can be made to yield to the new science of transportation over the sea and through the air. I hope we shall make good use of our opportunities. We did not in the past.

Will Master Peace

"We have mastered the art of war and we are determined to master the art of peace. We have an empire of solidarity and single purpose with strength that may not be challenged; respected by all nations that will be free from bondage; trusted by the United States and Russia.

"Our Empire will end the war stronger than ever before, firmly established and determined to extend and develop our latent resources to the utmost.

"The youth who fought the battles must be in our minds Development of airways of Empire must be their instrument of the future."

Lord Beaverbrook, who was making his first House of Lords speech since taking on his new responsibilities, said Britain has many bases at her disposal, scattered over the Empire and other lands.

"I don't of course propose to deal today with bases in the Dominions," he said. "Necessarily they must be separately dealt with. They will be the subject for discussions between Britain and the Dominions. But as for bases under our control, the government has no desire to exclude aircraft from other nations. we demand no prescriptive rights for the use of airfields for ourselves. Rather we mean to use them for the purposes of steadily developing civil aviation throughout the world."

Need More Planes

Lord Beaverbrook praised the skill of Britain's aircraft industry and forecast a great performance in

Severely Hurt In Raid Courageous American Pilots Bomber Back To Base Without Help

A BOMBER BASE IN ENGLAND, Jan. 20—(AP)—With the body of his co-pilot slumped in the cockpit and painfully wounded himself, Lieut. Dean M. Radtke, 22, of Morrice, Mich., stuck to his battered controls and brought a Flying Fortress 300 miles back from a raid on Germany Jan. 1, practically one-handed.

Radtke collapsed the moment the big ship rolled to a stop and the other members of the crew had to pry his fingers loose from the controls. One hand had been sliced by fragments of the same German cannon shell which killed co-pilot Lieut. Robert J. Digby, 23, of Battle Creek, Mich. Radkte also suffered slight fragment wounds on his neck and arms.

Inside the Fortress, after its battle with 10 Nazi fighters, was a mess of blood-spattered broken controls. One engine had been shot out of the fuselage and the wings were shredded to ribbons.

The fight with the German interceptors took place before the target was reached, but Radtke, brushing the blood from the shattered instrument panel, refused to turn back without dropping his bombs and he also managed to hold his ship in tight formation during the greater part of the rest of the trip.

Canadian Losses In Italy Tripled In Last Four Weeks

OTTAWA, Jan. 20—(CP).—Unofficial tabulation of Canadian Army casualty lists, issued since the last official report covering the period from the start of the Italian campaign to November 23, confirms a London dispatch January 17—passed by British censors—from Ross Munro, Canadian Press war correspondent, that casualties in the Moro Valley and Ortona battles in December were neavy.

Within the last four weeks casualties have been roughly three times greater than in the previous four weeks. The comparative figures are 284 for the four weeks ended December 21, compared with 695 for a similar period ended January 18. This was an indication of the rising tempo of the Italian campaign which began September 3.

An unofficial casualty total for the Italian campaign up to yesterday was 2,073. In the 38-day Sicilian campaign the army reported a total of 2,439 casualties.

Yesterday, compilation was based on official defence headquarters totals up to November 23 and a check of casualty lists issued since that time. Headquarters have not issued a breakdown of casualties suffered in the various war theatres since the November 23 totals.

Here are the comparisons:

Official — Sicily, 475 killed, 1,814 wounded, 150 missing—total, 2,439. Italy (to November 23), 238 killed, 811 wounded, 45 missing—total, 1,094.

Unofficial—4 weeks to December 21, 64 killed, 204 wounded, 16 missing—total, 284. 4 weeks to January 18, 138 killed, 532 wounded, 25 missing—total, 695.

Italy total to January 18 (includes official and unofficial): 2,073.

Censorship Bans Invasion Yarns

OTTAWA, Jan. 20—(CP)—Canadian censorship authorities issued yesterday to the press and radio a memorandum reminding them of their extremely grave" responsibility of seeing that nothing is published or broadcast which will give the enemy information about Allied plans for the coming invasion of Europe.

The note, similar to one issued in Washington yesterday by the United States office of censorship, referred specifically to "the time and place of attack, the strength of the attacking forces, or their technical make-up and equipment."

It called attention to existing censorship directives against invasion

Canadian Army Enlists 869,321

OTTAWA, Jan. 20 — (CP)—The total intake of men into the armed forces from the start of the war to last Sept. 30 was 869,321, it was disclosed today in statistics compiled by the Wartime Information Board and published in its monthly handbook "Canada At War."

The figure does not indicate present strength of the forces as it makes no allowance for discharges, retirements and casualties. After allowing for 1,731 men taken on strength outside Canada the total enrolments, compulsory and voluntary in Canada, were 867,590, 35.1 per cent of the male population between the ages of 18 and 45.

The tabulation breaks down the enrolments by military districts and shows Military District No. 2, Toronto, leading the others with a total intake of 197,335 men or 42.7 per cent of the male population of military age in that district.

Intake in other military districts, with percentage to male population 18 to 45 in brackets, follows:

72,3186 in This District.

M.D. 11 (Victoria) 68,262 (42.4); M.D. 6 (Halifax) 59,325 (41.8); M.D 7 (Saint John, N.B.) 38,803 (41.3); M.D. 10 (Winnipeg) 77,776 (39.5); M.D. 3 (Kingston, Ont.) 72,316 (38.7); M.D. 13 (Calgary) 67,884 (38.1); M.D. 12 (Regina) 68,262 (35.7); M.D. 4 (Montreal) 104,141 (23.5); M.D. 5 (Quebec) 37,855 (17.7); M.D. 1 (London) 64,232 (27.3)

The Navy's total intake was placed at 75,757; Army, 589,106 and Air Force, 204,458.

The Army total was broken down to show voluntary enlistments, call-ups under the National Resources Mobilization Act and transfers to other services and volunteering of called-up men.

Japanese Counters Fail On Burma Front

NEW DELHI, Jan. 20.—(AP). — Allied forces holding new advance positions on the Arakan front of western Burma have fought off Japanese counter-attacks again, a Southeast Asia communique said today.

In Northern Burma, Chinese troops continued their eastward advance along the route of the new Ledo highway by Capturing the enemy-held village of Gumga in the Hukawng Valley, and pushing on across the Tanai river.

Six Jap Ships Sunk In Rabaul Port

40 Dive-Bombers Smash At Simpson Harbor

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, New Guinea, Jan. 20.—(AP).—Forty Allied torpedo and dive bombers covered by 60 fighters smashed through heavy Japanese plane interception and anti-aircraft fire to sink three big merchant ships and damaged five more in Simpson Harbor at Rabaul, New Britain, Monday, an Allied communique reported to-day.

More than 100 enemy planes tangled with the raiders in the assault, the communique said. Eighteen of the Japanese planes were knocked down and probably 15 more. Allied losses were 10 fighters, one dive bomber and one torpedo plane.

Besides the three ships which were seen to blow apart and sink, two others were left burning and probably sinking while three more were seriously damaged, the communique said Some returning pilots expressed belief six ships were sunk.

Sweep the Harbor.

Pitching their attack at low level, the Allied planes hurled 1,000 and 2,000 pound bombs to score hits on every vessel in the harbor. The planes came from fields recently completed at Bougainville in the Solomons, and pilots described the assault as the most devastating air blow ever made by land-based planes on shipping at the enemy's big base.

(Japanese Imperial Headquarters' version of the raid, as reported by Tokyo radio, said around 200 American planes came over Rabaul and 102 of them were shot down, but the raiders sank two vessels.)

Allied air raids on Rabaul harbor and airfields since Jan. 1 have cost the Japanese 152 planes shot down with 42 more probables, and 11 merchant vessels sunk or left in a sinking condition, against the loss of 32 Allied planes.

Meanwhile, United States planes, striking westward into the Japanese held Caroline Islands, have attacked Kusaie Island, an air base midway between Tarawa and Truk, major Japanese base in that area, it was reported yesterday.

Jap Resistance Is Weakening

By WILLIAM FRYE
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20 (AP) — An indication that Japanese resistance may be collapsing in Northern New Guinea was reported today by War Secretary Henry Stimson, who said that Allied troops were making steady progress throughout the southwest Pacific.

In Northern New Guinea, Australian veterans have captured Sia and advanced beyond Vincke Point, and Australian and American troops are squeezing Japanese forces in the vicinity of Saidor.

"There are indications that some of the Japanese are trying to escape by barge at night," Stimson said. "Several troop-laden enemy barges have been sunk by our aircraft and light naval vessels."

In New Britain, Allied troops are constantly enlarging their beachheads, the Secretary reported. He said that in the Cape Gloucester area 3,100 Japanese dead have been counted, against United States losses of 228 killed and 694 wounded.

British Pressure on Franco Increases

Want Release Of All Italian Ships Held In Spanish Ports

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst

Spanish Gen. Franco's policy of playing both ends against the middle, in his relations with Hitler and the Allies, has landed him in another jam with Britain, thus adding to the many problems which are complicating his increasingly difficult fight to maintain his dictatorship.

This time British Foreign Secretary Eden has indicted Spain on two counts. He told the House of Commons that Sir Samuel Hoare, ambassador to Spain, had been instructed to make further strong representations over the fact that Spanish volunteers still are fighting with the Nazis against Russia. Britain also has renewed her support of the Italian governmnt's request for release of all Italian ships in Spanish ports.

Mr. Eden made no effort to conceal his Government's annoyance with the Spanish support of the Hitlerites. However, this only adds one more to the long string of Allied protests against Franco's attitude.

Franco's troubles don't travel singly. One of his serious difficulties seems to be that he can't quite make up his mind whether his bread is spread with Nazi or with Allied butter.

The General's dilemma is complicated by Spain's explosive internal situation. The Leftists and the Rightists are pulling against each other so heavily that they are rocking his dictatorial chair.

Didn't Pick Winner

Franco started in the conflict as a "neutral" but committed to give "all aid to the Axis short of war." There were two reasons for this stand. He felt he owed a debt to Hitler and Mussolini for the support they gave him during the Spanish Civil War of 1936-39 and, perhaps more to the point, Germany looked like a winner.

However, this changed and by the end of 1942 the non-interventionist, pro-monarchist army officers became the dominant force in the regime in place of the fiercely pro-Nazi portion of the Falange party. That really turned the Franco government in the direction of neutrality.

With passing time the Falange party has lost ground in Spain, and there has been a corresponding swing to the right in the direction of a monarchy and the old form of government. Naturally this has weakened Franco's position on the home front, and he is under heavy pressure from both the Allies and Hitler as the belligerent powers line up for the last big battle.

Lewis-Green Hold Parley

Union Chief's Bitter Enemies Meet Secretly

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 20.— (AP).—After an eight-year estrangement, John L. Lewis and A.F.L. President William Green have met secretly on the question of re-admitting Lewis' United Mine Workers to the A.F.L., it can be revealed to-day.

Green and Lewis parted company when Lewis founded the C.I.O. in 1935. The break was confirmed a year or so later when Lewis had Green expelled from the Miners Union. After that, their speaking terms were epithets at long range.

The ultimate results, and the details, of their meeting remain to be disclosed. It cannot yet be called a reconciliation.

Green refuses to discuss it. This much is known: The meeting was held in Washington recently, strictly on an off-the-record basis. The conference was not sought by Green. It was proposed either by Lewis or by an A.F.L. intermediary who was interested in expediting the return of Lewis to the Federation. There is evidence of pressure being brought to bear in Lewis' favor, not only by his friend on the A.F.L. executive council, but by leaders of A.F.L. unions who are putting pressure on the Council.

One evidence of such pressure is a letter sent to council members by an official of the A.F.L. United Auto Workers, who said that many members of the C. I. O. United Auto Workers, the world's largest union, held Lewis in great respect and that his return to the A.F.L. would start an A.F.L. movement among the union of more than 1,000,000 members.

64 Win Bargaining Rights

31,000 Workers In Unions Accredited

TORONTO, Jan. 20 (CP)—Sixty-four labor organizations were granted certification as collective bargaining agencies in applications heard by the Ontario Labour Court from June 14, 1943, to Dec. 31, it was stated today in a summary of court activities issued by the office of registrar J Finkleman.

The 64 certifications affected approximately 31,000 workers, said the report, adding that 32 of the unions involved were affiliated either with the Canadian Congress of Labor or the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada and that the other 32 were unaffiliated. The certifications of the affiliated union, affected 18,000 persons and the unaffiliated 13,000.

Total applications in the period were 129, involving about 80,000 persons. Seventy-five applications came from organizations affiliated with either of the two major Canadian labor organizations and 55 from unaffiliated agencies.

Eighty-six applications were heard, in whole or in part, by the end of the year and 69 completed.

The court had held votes in 33 cases and out of approximately 27,000 eligible voters 24,000—89 per cent—exercised their franchise. Only about one-half of one per cent of the ballots were rejected because they were improperly marked, said the report.

Britons Warned Against Nazi Overtures

LONDON, Jan. 20—(AP)—Britons were warned today to be on guard against a wave of insidious peace-talk propaganda inspired by the Germans as rumors printed earlier in the week by the Russian Communist organ Pravda continued to have repercussions in both London and Moscow.

The warning, voiced by the London press, coincided with a similar admonition by the Moscow magazine "War and the Working Class" which called for cleansing of the political atmosphere from "poisonous gases" spread by the Nazis in an effort to split the Allies.

The article appeared on its face to be an attempt to dispel the impression created by Pravda, which on Monday published a rumor that the British had secretly been discussing possible peace terms with German Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop.

Although the rumor was denied immediately by the British Foreign Office, a dispatch from Associated Press Correspondent Eddy Gilmore in Moscow last night said the relationship between Russia and her Allies — Britain and the United States—was the biggest single topic of conversation in the city and foreign observers were disturbed by the situation—chiefly because they did not know what to make of it.

Soviet Silent

Russian newspapers have informed their readers of the British denial of the Pravda rumor, but the Soviet government has remained silent.

The London Daily Express, owned by Lord Beaverbrook, led the British press in warning Britons to be on guard against German peace-talk propaganda.

"Manoeuvres that emanate from the brains of Nazi leaders require our closest observation and our open discussion," the Express said. "Let us come right out into the open on these machinations. Confident that the discussion will serve a good purpose."

The Moscow radio broadcast early today Foreign Secretary Eden's statement to the House of Commons yesterday on Russian-Polish relations, in which he emphasized that Britain was hopeful of bringing about a friendly settlement between the two countries.

The broadcast, recorded by the Soviet Monitor, was at dictation speed for the benefit of the Russian provincial press.

Channel Duel Damages Dover

LONDON, Jan. 20.—(CP).—British coastal batteries opened up on a German convoy in Dover Strait shortly after dawn to-day, touching off a duel with Nazi long-range guns on the French coast which continued sporadically for almost three hours.

Shells fell in the Dover area during the exchange, which was the heaviest in weeks, and residents of that area huddled in basement shelters for nearly four hours before the alert was lifted.

The Channel was shrouded in mist when the British batteries opened fire. Within a minute after they had lobbed over the first shell German guns between Boulogne and Calais replied.

It was believed the British bombardment was directed against a convoy which had been sheltering in a French channel port for several days and had tried to slip out under cover of the most. The British

George Street Church Reports Year Of Increased Endeavor

The annual congregational meeting of George Street United Church was held Wednesday in the Sunday School hall and was presided over by the pastor, the Rev. H. L. Roberts, assisted by G. D. Carlisle, the retiring chairman of the board of stewards. Charlton McBride was appointed secretary for the evening.

The members of the congregation were thankful that their pastor had been sufficiently restored to health to again resume his pastoral work. L. M. Richardson, on behalf of the congregation, expressed their appreciation for the splendid work done by their pastor during the past year. He also mentioned the help which Mrs. Roberts had given him and this was enthusiastically acknowledged by those present. It was a matter of deep regret that certain of the officials of the church—William K. McGee, the envelope steward; Alex. Stewart, the secretary of the official board, and H. G. Walker, the church treasurer — were absent through illness.

G. C. Staples in presenting the report of the session, stated that through various causes many vacancies had occurred during the year but in every case a man of God had been found endued with sufficient Power of His Spirit and the necessary energy and ambition to keep functioning the charge placed in his hands. He reported that at the end of the year the total membership was 1,205. There were received during the year 81; removed by death 24 and by certificate 48, making a net gain of 9.

Altogether 21 organizations of the church presented their reports to the congregation. The reports showed all organizations carried on their splendid work and achieved good results.

The financial report was presented by Miss Joy Walker in the absence of her father. The local church receipts showed a credit balance over disbursements of some $136; the missionary givings totalled some $2,868. The total givings to local church activities amounted to $11,564, besides this the members contributed to the United Church Deficit Fund $3,306 during the past two years. This exceeded their allotment by $67. The pastor reported that as a result of the splendid contributions made to the United Church Deficit Fund that the deficit of one and three-quarter million dollars had been wiped out.

The report of the nominating committee by Charlton McBride resulted in the following members being elected to the session: For a four-year term: G. C. Staples, L. M. Richardson, B. W. Manning, W. Burns, F. J. Redpath, C. D. Munro, J H. Rowe; for one-year term: Q. McKinney; for a two-year term: Henry Batten; for a three-year term: Harold Rogers. To the board of stewards for a four-year term: W. J. Hamilton, W. H. Girven and Ross Dobbin; for a two-year term: Haig Kelly.

E. L. Sackville moved a vote of thanks to the choir and Mr. and Mrs. C. Renault, the choir leader and organist.

A vote of thanks was also tendered by Sidney Ward to the sexton, Alex. Northey, for the faithful manner he had carried on his work.

G. C. Staples expressed the thanks of the congregation to L. M. Richardson and his committee for the splendid work they had done in connection with the church deficit fund.

Rev. and Mrs. J. H. Sutcliffe of Murray Street Baptist Church, were guests for the evening. E. L. Sackville, presented Mr. Sutcliffe with a club bag as a token of appreciation of the harmony that had existed between Murray Street Baptist Church and George Street United Church during the past years they have carried on united services.

The congregation stood for a moment's silent prayer in respect to Dr. George Easton, the pastor of Trinity United Church, who is ill in Toronto.

At the conclusion of the business session the president, Mrs. W. G. McLaren, with the executive of the Women's Association, served a light lunch under the convenership of Mrs. J. Tinney and Mrs. W. K. McGee. Mrs. H. L. Roberts and Mrs. W. Y. Harris poured coffee.

The thanks of the congregation to the ladies for the lunch was expressed by Mr. Cole and suitably replied to by Mrs. McLaren, the president.

Reports for the following organizations were given: Junior Congregation by Miss June Spicer; Sunday School by Wilbert Frise; Women's Association by Mrs. William Morris; Women's Missionary Society by Miss Emma Might; Evening Auxiliary by Mrs. Eva Adams; Fidelis Mission Band by Mrs. Winnifred Frise; Young People's Association by Miss Margaret Edmison; Board of Stewards by D. G. Carlisle; Choir by Henry Batten; Benevolent Fund and United Church Deficit Fund by L. M. Richardson; Men's Association and Bible Society by Everett Hales; Cubs by Miss A. Stewart for Quirt McKinney; Boy Scouts by A. Olmstead; C.G.I.T. by Mrs. Leo Copp; Ladies' Bowling Club by Miss F. M. Anderson.

That total was increased by 791 men taken on outside Canada and reduced by 37,930 men who transferred to the Navy or Air Force or after being called up volunteered for general service and thus counted again in the total of volunteer appointments and enlistments.

Figures on transfers from the Navy and Air Force to other services were not given but a note attached to the table says the numbers were small.

the manufacture of civil aircraft in peacetime.

"We will need machines for great trunk routes which will link the Empire but also aircraft of smaller sizes for internal and feeder lines," he said. "We shall want to operate from the snows of the north to the heat of the equator. Those are our objectives. How many aircraft shall we need? I set down the figure at 2,000 as a tentative proposal but I cannot really suggest any figure."

Earlier in the debate the Marquess of Londonderry said the British Overseas Airways Corporation is a "monopoly instrument" and said that its usefulness is coming to an end. This brought a reply from Lord Beaverbrook that the B.O.A.C. has no monopoly. It has a monopoly of subsidies for overseas air traffic but nothing else, he said.

TORONTO, Jan. 20.—(CP).—Dr. Ken Rogers, general secretary, told the annual meeting of the Big Brother movement here yesterday, that greater effort was needed to make Canada "youth conscious." He said an increase of 54 per cent. in juvenile crime had taken place in the Dominion during 1939-1942.

PUEBLO, Colo., Jan. 20 — (AP).—Two women saw the "very pair" of shoes at the same time and each grabbed one. When the store manager arrived each demanded that the other relinquish the mate. The manager stared helplessly as they sat for three hours, firmly grasping a shoe. Finally he prevailed on them to leave the shoes while he ponders a solution. He wonders what Solomon would do.

Nazis Launch New Drive

LONDON, Jan. 20 — (AP). — Marshal Josip Broz (Tito) reported today heavy fighting was now spreading along the Croat coastal area below Fiume, where the Germans have sprung a new drive apparently aimed at preventing the Yugoslav Partisans from developing a threat to the naval base from the south.

Tito's communique, broadcast by the Free Yugoslav radio and recorded by The Associated Press, said the Germans had launched two drives toward the coastal area one in Croatia and the second in western Bosnia and that fighting was mounting in intensity.

One German column lashed out from Gospic, 12 miles from the Adriatic coast in western Lika province toward Otocac, 30 miles to the north, and the port of Senj, 12 miles west of Otocac, other German forces apparently were attempting to drive through toward the Adriatic from the western Bosnian town of Mrkonjecgrad.

400 Casaulties

Partisans troops threw attacking Germans back near the Croatian town of Banova Jaruga with heavy losses, Tito's bulletin said and repulsed all enemy attempts to breach their lines near the town of Oalj. West of Zagreb. German motorized columns were attacked near Ljubljana, Slovenian city 35 miles from the Italian frontier and more than 400 German officers and men were killed.

Further to the south in the Ogulin-Karlovac sector, 40 miles to the east of Fiume, units of the 370th German division were defeated with heavy losse. Railway wrecking Partisan detachments cut the Pletdrnita-Katela-Batrina line in Croatia and wrecked the Zagreb trunk railway at five more points.

Three hundred Germans were reported killed in continuous fighting around the town of Gacko in Hercegovinia.

gully we were not more than 50 to 100 yards from the Germans," Ridge said. There were many instances of bravery. Ridge cited two of the most outstanding, concerning Pte. Russ Turner of Hamilton, Ont., and Cpl. M. J. Pickens of Gooderham, Ont.

Turner, a Bren gunner, was racing across open ground when a machine-gun opened up on him. Instead of taking cover he whipped around and let go a burst which silenced the gun.

Pickens led a section which was pinned down several times by machine-gunners and snipers. On each occasion he went forward alone across open country and reconnoitred a safe route, then returned and led his men forward.

Destroyer Lost

LONDON, Jan. 20.— (CP).—The Admiralty announced to-day the loss of the destroyer Tyndedale, a new ship completed in 1940.

A member of the Hunt class, the Tynedale displaced 904 tons and was armed with four four-inch anti-aircraft guns and eight smaller guns. No further details are available.

Tribune Appeals Decision In Press Case

NEW YORK, Jan. 20—(AP)—The Chicago Tribune, a defendant in the government's anti-trust suit against The Associated Press, announced last night it would appeal the Federal Court judgment on the ground that it pointed toward "complete censorship."

The judgment, by a 2-to-1 vote of three circuit court judges of the southern district of New York, would restrain The Associated Press perpetually from observing by-laws under which members might consider competitive aspects of applicants for membership.

Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor and publisher of the Tribune, said in a statement made public here:

"The opinion of the majority paralleled the reasoning of Justice Scroggs of England who held in 1679 that the Crown had the power under its prerogative to censor the press. In this case the court arrogates to itself this power by judicial legislation which it claims similarly to have had conferred upon it by the anti-trust law. This opinion, in the opinion of all our counsel, would grow into complete censorship."

Wants Trial by Jury

"The Chicago Tribune," McCormick said, will appeal this decision because it believes it to be the worst decision that has ever been made in the history of the fight for freedom of speech and the press.

"For hundreds of years it has been recognized that the press was entitled to trial by jury when sued by the government under such laws as were in existence affecting the freedom of the press.

"The government avoids the right to trial by jury by bringing an equity action for violation of the Sherman anti-trust law which enabled the court to render summary judgment mostly on affidavits with no chance to determine the truth of the allegations therein by cross-examination and to reach decisions of fact in what was really a freedom-of-the-press case, which decision violates the first amendment to the constitution and deprived the defendants of their right to trial by jury."

"No newspaper institution can be free," the statement continued, "when operating under a permanent injunction . . ."

Torso Murderer Loose In Berlin

MADRID, Jan. 20 — (AP). — A Berlin wartime horror, a torso murderer who apparently strikes during bombing raids, was disclosed yesterday by a police appeal in the German newspapers for aid in discovering two missing heads.

Workers cleaning up bomb debris have found in different houses the torsos of a woman of about 30 and a girl about 8.

Two days earlier a customs guard at the Swiss frontier found their arms and legs in a suitcase aboard the Berlin-Basel express. The gruesome work apparently was done by someone with a knowledge of surgery, said the German accounts.

Without disclosing how the conclusion was reached, the police placed the time of the crimes as during a British bombing raid on November 24.

A reward of 20,000 marks is being offered for information in the cases, according to the German papers received here.

speculation and said everyone must be on the alert to avoid printing either speculation or authorized reports which will throw light on such matters as:

"1. Secret war plans;

"2. Movement of ships and troops (including movements or shifts of high officers and personnel known for specialized activities);

"3. Allied or enemy secret weapons and equipment and countermeasure of defence (weapons and defence measures of the enemy are included because it would be to his advantage to know how good our intelligence is);

"4. International negotiations which concern military operations".

The memorandum concluded:

"There has been a great deal of general speculation about the invasion and it will probably continue to appear from various sources, but no device of speculation or prediction should be used as a cloak to introduce restricted information possessed by the writer.

"Even incoming messages from neutral countries if they appear to be exclusive to this country and not generally publicized elsewhere should be critically examined and advice of press censorship obtained if editors are in any doubt."

More Gunners From Canada In Italian Battle

By ROSS MUNRO

LONDON, Jan. 20.—(CP).— Some fresh Canadian units now are in action for the first time on the Canadian sector of the 8th Army's front in Italy.

Douglas Amaron, Canadian Press war correspondent with the 8th Army, mentioned a Canadian medium artillery regiment in a story on action south of the Arielli River, and this was the first indication that these mediums with their 5.5 guns firing 100-pound shells are supporting the Canadian 1st Division. Previously the division had its own 25-pounder field regiments.

This Canadian medium regiment went to Italy with a large contingent which landed last November, and is part of the Canadian Corps Artillery there.

It is possible, though there is no official confirmation here, that some fresh Canadian infantry and possibly some armored units now may be engaged in the Arielli fighting. There is a possibility some new troops from the Maritime Provinces, Central Ontario and Western Canada have relieved some of the veteran units, particularly the Westerners—the Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry, the Loyal Edmontons and the Seaforth Highlanders—who fought the stern action for Ortona.

These fresh troops also could have been drawn from the large force which went to Italy for the formation of Lt.-Gen. H. D. G. Crera's Canadian Corps. The Ariellia River fighting would give them battle experience before going into line with the full corps.

Vatican Warns Against Sterility

NEW YORK, Jan. 20.—(AP). — The Vatican radio said in a broadcast to Germany last night that Pope Pius told members of the Catholic nobility in Rome yesterday how they could work for "the salvation of human society."

The broadcast, reported to the Office of War Information, gave this version of the Pope's statement at a special audience:

"You wish to be guardians of the true tradition that honors your families by beloved sons and daughters. If that is so, then the duty and honor fall to you to contribute toward the salvation of human society by preserving it both from the sterility to which wretched minds—falsely jealous of the past — would like to condemn it, as well as from the catastrophe into which it would be guided and led by reckless adventurers and prophets with hallucinations of a vain and false future."

SASKATOON, Jan. 20 (CP). — John Bracken, National Leader of the Progressive Conservative Party, said here Tuesday the "society of yesterday left on the doorstep a load of problems to be solved by the society of to-day and we propose to solve them by rational reform."

He spoke at a nomination convention at which Alfred H. Bence, member of Parliament for Saskatoon, was named candidate for the riding in the next general election.

Hon. L. M. Frost Speaks For Mining Industry

OTTAWA, Jan. 20.—(CP).—Taxation adjustments are necessary to save the mining industry from destruction and permit it to provide employment and taxation revenue in the post-war years, Hon. Leslie M. Frost, Ontario Provincial Treasurer and Minister of Mines, said in an address to the Ottawa branch of the Canadian Institute of Mining and Metallurgy last night.

Mr. Frost saiad the provision which permits Dominion taxes to be deducted before the Ontario royalty on mines is calculated should be eliminated. The royalty should be allowed as a deductible item before Dominion taxes are imposed.

Dr. W. C. Clark, Federal Deputy Minister of Finance, who spoke later, said the provincial levy could be deducted first under certain conditions, but Mr. Frost replied that he had been unable to work out this system.

Resources Minister Crerar said the full story of the Canadian mining industry's contribution to the war effort could not be told until peace, but "a magnificent job' had been done in providing both common and rare metals to meet the needs of mechanized war.

Must Protect Public.

Mr. Frost said that the depletion allowance for a metal mines under Dominion tax statutes should be 50 per cent. for both company and shareholders so there would be reasonable opportunity to regain the capital investment.

Reciprocal agreements between provinces were necessary to ensure succession duties were charged in only one province, except in the case of real property. Ontario had made advances to other provinces on this proposal.

Security laws should be revised to protect the public without "strangling" the promoter and developer.

Mining taxation in general must be revised so that initiative and enterprise are not destroyed.

A preliminary report by the Ontario Mining Commission on taxation matters was expected to within the next few days.

Because of increased Dominion taxes, Ontario's revenue from the royalty on mines had been reduced.

Counties Council Studies Plan To Establish Juvenile Court

COBOURG, Jan. 20.—(ENS). —Establishment of a juvenile court in the counties was recommended Wednesday at the meeting of the Legislative and By-laws committee of Northumberland and Durham Counties Council. The council heard a letter from Judge J. C. M. German on the subject on Wednesday morning, which was referred to the Legislative and By-laws committee for consideration.

In brief, Judge German's letter suggested that the counties petition the Attorney-General to declare the Juvenile Delinquents' Act, (Canada) to be in effect in these counties. The letter pointed out that juveniles under the age of 16 when charged with offenses under the present system, had to be tried in Criminal Court with adults and sentenced when found guilty to institutions with adults. Offenders sentenced in Cobourg have in more than one instance blamed their continued bad record on the fact that they were sent to institutions while youths, which were peopled wtih adult criminals, contact with whom caused them to become hardened criminals.

A juvenile charged in the ordinary criminal court and found guilty had the stigma of his court record against him in future life, whereas in a juvenile court he would not bear the same stigma. Trial of juveniles in Juvenile Court is held in camera and the parents of such juvenile may be ordered to attend such trial. Where juveniles cause damage to property, the parents may be ordered to pay the damage by a juvenile court judge, which is opposite to what would occur in criminal court. A juvenile may be placed on probation with a business man or Big Brother, who will take some interest in him and endeavour to make him a respectable citizen.

Outlines Organization.

"It is a definite precedent to the bringing in of the Act that a municipality must name a probation officer and a house of detention. Mr. Lorne Anderson has indicated his willingness to act as probation officer without remuneration ,and in discussing the matter with the mayor of Cobourg he has informed me that it will be possible to get some citizen who would be willing to have his home named as a house of detention and to be remunerated on the basis of a par diem allowance while the juvenile was detained therein.

"It is my view that very few, if any, juvenile will ever be so detained. Magistrate R. B. Baxter has indicated that he is willing to act as a deputy judge without remuneration and I am prepared to act as judge without remuneration also. I would recommend that I be appointed judge, Mr. Baxter deputy-judge and Mr. Anderson as probation officer. In this way, the Act would be in force in ever municipality of the counties, and if juvenile delinquency becomes prevalent in, say Campbellford or Bowmanville, the matter would not be confined solely to the towns of Cobourg and Port Hope," stated Judge German in his letter.

Want More Pay.

The Finance committee endorsed a resolution of Deputy-Reeve E. Saunders of Port Hope and Reeve J. Grimes of Brighton, that the rate of pay for council and committees be increased, and recommended a 20 p.c. increase in the per diem allowance.

Speaking in connection with the increased pay, Deputy-Reeve E. Saunders of Port Hope pointed out that when the matter was brought up last June it had been considered too late in the year to be put into effect. It was a case of the council seeing the needs of others but being blind to their own, stated Deputy-Reeve Saunders. Many who attended the sessions had to pay from $3.50 to $5.00 a day to someone to replace them in their work while they were away. If the present conditions were allowed to continue it might be in the not too distant future, a case of only retired men or men of financial means being able to attend counties council. There should be no hardships placed in the way to keep any citizen from representing his municipality, Mr. Saunders declared. The resolution was as follows:

"That in view of the sharp advance in all costs, which affect the majority of the members of this council, we are of the opinion that the finance committee should make a study of the present renumeration received by the members of the council and if in their judgment an advance is neccessary that they embody it in their report.

Finances

Following is the financial statement presented at counties council on Wednesday.

Revenues totalled $374,657.18 and were made up of the following items: General county rates, $238,-812.03; school rates, $80,177.04; returns of fees, $113.94; licenses, $364; road subsidy, 1943, $37,740.95; administration of justice, $7,211.09, anti-corn borer act, $63.19; bank loans unpaid, $10,000 (pending receipts of 1943 road subsidy); sundry $42.32; balance as of December 31, 1942, $132.72.

Total expenditures amounted to $275,424.15 and included the following:

County roads, net, $85,181.11; adminstration of justice, $24,314.20; registry offices, $1,629.13; public welafer $33,191.30; municipal adminsitration, $18,583.38; patriotic grants, $13,050; agricultural grants $3,565; interest on loans, $3,375.81, (to November 30, 1943); county road loans $22,000; education $89,-286.25; debenture debt paid off, $74,678.62. Reforestation $1,155.75; miscelaneous $15.66, total $374,151.-11; balance $506.07. Debenture debt December 31, 1943, $275,424.15; bank loans unpaid pending receipt of provincial subsidy, $10,000; interest accrued on bank loans to December 31, 1943, $709.15. The clerk pointed out that the amount of the various rebates were not as yet known and for that reason it was impossible to arrive at a surplus or deficit.

The Road Superintendent's report recommended a $100,000 program for 1944 but the Roads and Bridges committee recommended that it be $90,000 the same as for last year.

Reeve T. A. Reid of Clarke township opposed the increase at yesterday's session pointing out that the rate was going up each year with the possibility of an increase in the school rate. Last November the Road Commission was considering purchase of a $14,000 used stone crusher, but the deal had not gone through. He noted that it was now proposed to fix up the old crushers. There was a saving therefore of what had been intended as purchase of a crusher. There had not been the expense either in clearing snow this year, Reeve Reid pointed out.

Headed by Reeve C. R. Carveth, of Newcastle, the striking committee drew up the following committees:

Red Cross GroupReviews Year

HASTINGS, Jan. 20 — (ENS).—The annual meeting of the Hast-Chambers when reports were given ings Branch of the Red Cross was held this week in the Council indicating a successful year.

In her annual report, the secretary outlined the work done during the past year pointing out the difficulties of carrying on since 85 per cent of all money raised is sent to head office that their international work might be carried on. This left only 15 per cent for local needs. And as the money raised was not large, the difficulties of the branch were many. Due to the untiring efforts of the members, the generous contributions of the citizens the year was most satisfactory.

Parcels are sent to the men in the service at Christmas and at Easter and letters received from the men show their appreciation.

Over 20 from Hastings attended the blood donors clinic in Peterborough and arrangements are being made for more to go early in February. The sewing committees reported 1,275 articles were knitted or sewed and this number includes those sent in by the organizations in the different churches and from the groups in neighboring districts.

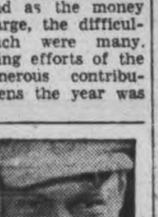
Are You a Sufferer From Rheumatic Pains?



These pains come from an inflammation in the muscles and are generally caused by a deposit of poison in the blood called uric acid which produces the irritating and painful effect that causes many days and nights heavy with pain.

During the past 60 years Canadian people have found that by purifying the blood stream, Burdock Blood Bitters aids them to enjoy freer body movement with less rheumatic pain, as B. B. B. helps to tone up the system and clear up the uric acid in the blood, and probably help fortify the system against future attacks.

New X-Ray Unit Reduces Soldier Losses

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Jan. 20 (AP).—An X-ray super-sleuth designed to expediate and simplify removal of bullets and shrapnel from the wounded was displayed here yesterday with the prediction that it would play an important part in reducing the United States Army's mortality rate.

The device locates within sixty seconds all the fragments in a man's body and marks him for the surgeon's incision — one of the most difficult and painful of operations.

"When an American soldier, wounded by gunfire or a fragmentation bomb, is brought into a field hospital, his life may depend on the rapidity of diagnosis," said Col. Alfred A. de Lorimier in the first public demonstration of the unit. "How many fragments have penetrated his body, where they are and what is the pattern the surgeon's knife must follow to remove them?. This X-ray unit rapidly and accurately answers all of these questions."

With the device, the wounded soldier is visualized by fluoroscopy in a few seconds. The fragment is localized in both the horizontal and vertical planes, the depth of the fragment ascertained and the skin marked with iodine for surgery. Triangular charting also is possible, permitting the surgeon to enter from a third point.

Other instruments place the patient in the same position on the operating table as in X-ray. Still another measures the incision's depth to determine whether the surgeon must cut deeper or has erred directionally.

De Lorimer said he hoped the device through its accuracy and speed would lower the mortality rate—2¼ and 3¼ per cent for the wounded in this war, compared to 16 to 18 per cent for the First Great War.

Red Shield Auxiliary Makes 325 Articles

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 20 (ENS)—More than 325 separate articles were made by members of the Salvation Army Red Shield Auxiliary during the past year according to a statement made by Captain Earl Jarrett this week.

Meeting each week with an aggregate attendance of 723 the group under Mrs. John Duck, president, knitted 234 items, made 33 quilts, filled 24 ditty bags and sewed fourteen other articles including a layette. A complete list of the articles made and sent to Salvation Army headquarters in Toronto was 76 pair socks, 43 sweaters, 7 scarves, 8 pair mitts, 24 large quilts, 9 crib quilts, 2 helmets, 5 skull caps, 11 pair gloves, 17 pair children's socks, 28 pair children's mitts, 8 children's sweaters, 9 baby sweaters, 2 baby jackets, 3 pair slippers, 10 pair sleepers, 1 girl's dress, 7 pair bootees, 8 baby bonnets, 1 layette, 2 pair boys' pants, 24 ditty bags.

Their financial statement showed they had begun the year with a balance on hand of $16.87 and ended with $27.82 after paying out $143.84 for material and supplies. The sale of quilts was their chief source of revenue during the year.

Moscow Mystery

Something of a mysterious nature is on foot in Moscow and until the puzzle is solved we must be content with guesses about its nature. Until last week-end the relations of Russia with the other United Nations appeared to be excellent; then suddenly Moscow appeared to take offence at the Polish reply to the Russian proposals about a boundary, and not long afterward Pravda printed a patently erroneous report that high British officials had met von Ribbentrop in Spain to discuss with him the terms on which Germany would be willing to make peace. This was at once denied in London, and in making public the denial the Russian radio gave a great mass of detail about other German peace attempts which had come to nothing.

This is mystifying, but we need not assume that Russia is playing some deep game in which the other United Nations have no part. This may be a shrewd manoeuvre in the war of nerves. The Russians know all that there is to know about propaganda, and they may have some scheme on foot for disheartening the Germans on the home front. It is worth remembering that these reports of peace negotiations appeared at the same time as the news that Germany had lost 46 divisions, or about 550,000 men on the Eastern Front during the last two months.

There have been several rumours of German peace moves, supposedly coming direct from Hitler, during the past two months. Even the terms which Germany would accept have been made public, and they are of some interest: Germany would retire behind her prewar borders at once, relinquishing her claim to colonies but—mark this—asking for a free hand in the east; Germany would scrap her fleet and her submarines at once; Germany would continue under her present rule until these conditions had been fulfilled, after which Hitler and the Nazi party would hand over their power to the army. Obviously these are not terms which the United Nations would accept; they make it too easy for Germany to get busy at once on plans for a future war.

Russia has struck out on a new propaganda line which is still baffling. Of one thing we can be sure, however; it is not designed to help the Germans. Considering the excellent terms on which the Big Three of the United Nations met at Teheran, we think that we may wait in confidence to learn what it is all about.

The Story Of Lease-Lend

The former American lease-lend administrator, Edward R. Stettinius, has written an account of that remarkable venture in a book called Lend-Lease: Weapon For Victory. The story which he tells is a great one; at present we all glory in the great Russian drives against the enemy, but we do not know how direct a part our own western countries are playing in those drives; much of the equipment which has made it possible for the Russians to push inexorably forward was supplied to them through lease-lend, taking the perilous voyage around the North Cape to Murmansk, a journey on which 25 per cent. of all shipping was lost. But Russia is only one of the warring countries which has benefitted through the plan.

In any discussion of lend-lease we must bear in mind that it works in more than one way. That is to say, not all lease-lend goods are manufactured in the U.S. and shipped to the fighting fronts; very often U.S. troops are outfitted in foreign lands by British, Australian, New Zealand and Indian supplies. A few weeks ago a striking letter appeared in the news magazine Time in which a U.S. soldier told of his experience in being outfitted with Indian equipment for fighting in the tropics. Lend-lease is not a charitable fund administered by the U.S.

But for the obvious reasons that the U.S. is a very great manufacturing country and that it is not directly threatened by enemy action, it has done a very large share of lease-lend production. During the period covered by Mr. Stettinius' book the cost amounted to $12,900,000,000, of which slightly less than one-half was spent on tanks, planes, guns, ammunition, ships and trucks. A great part of the balance went for foods and it is possible that life on the British Isles could not have been sustained without American dried eggs, vegetables and milk.

Lease lend works now with the greatest efficiency, but perhaps its most glorious period was in 1940, when its affairs were conducted in a scramble. After Dunkirk Britain was cleaned out of equipment, and the U.S. came to the rescue with 500,000 Enfield rifles, 900 75-mm. field guns, 80,000 machine guns, 130,000,000 rounds of rifle ammunition and 1,000,000 rounds for the 75s; those supplies were reaching English ports six days after the fall of France.

That is a story which cannot be told too often, for it shows what Anglo-American friendship really means, and it should silence much petty criticism on both sides. The equipment was of 1918 vintage, and it had been in store for 22 years, but it was all the U.S. had to give, and they gave it without question; that was a critical moment in the history of the world, and American generosity was not wanting in the crisis.

Wars are won by organization as much as by fighting. Lease-lend is a great example of what organization and a real will to victory will do.

Intemperate Language

Scanning the columns of the newspapers and the livelier magazines these days, we are struck by the intemperance of language which characterizes so much of our political and social argument. It is not that the capitalists and the socialists come right out and call each other blackguards and scoundrels; it might be better if they did; but they cloak their opinions of one another in words which are meant to sting and infuriate, and which usually have exactly that effect. Nothing valuable can possibly come of an argument run on these lines.

The argument might get somewhere if a set of rules were imposed on it. If the parties to both sides of the quarrel, for instance, were bound to use no words which they were not prepared to justify on oath, and if they would agree to use no figures which they were not ready to submit to the inspection of a neutral group of auditors, we might hope to clear the air. Many cherished theories on both sides would vanish into air if they were once touched by the probing finger of reason; many accusations which are now accepted on one side or the other would be proven groundless.

We are rapidly approaching the point where the socialists will maintain flatly that all proprietors are exploiters, fattening on the labour of the workers, and the capitalists will maintain with equal vigour that all workers are parasites, leeching on the acumen and brains of the proprietors. Unless the language of the argument becomes more temperate, we shall never discover the balance which lies between these two dangerous half-truths. The dispute at present is like nothing so much as that in Aesop's fable of The Belly And The Members.

Noise In Modern Life

We live extraordinarily noisy lives, even when we think that we are surrounded by a reasonable degree of quiet. In what way the noise affects mankind we cannot say; some people seem to thrive on it, and when any other noise is lacking then make some themselves; certainly our tolerance of noise must have increased greatly during the past century. Possibly Sir William Mulock could tell us something on this subject.

A news item from New Delhi tells us that in India men who are training to be Army officers undergo rigorous physical and mental tests to determine their fitness for command. They have to prepare plans and make decisions in the midst of the loudest noise possible, which is supposed to represent the distractions of the battlefield. The noise is produced by amplified gramophone records. And what do you suppose those records are? They are noises recorded on the battlefield, to begin with, but the most nerve-racking irritant of all is a record of a London Underground train!

The noise of the Underground is borne bravely every day by hundreds of thousands of people who have no desire to test their nerve. Noises comparable to it fill the air in every large city. One of the advantages of living in smaller cities and towns is that such nerve-testers are lacking. But even at that there is noise enough. Perhaps in the next fifty years or so something practical will be done to reduce the noise of modern life, before we all fall victims to nervous complaints. Or, alternatively, we may develop stronger nerves. Who can say?

The Chatham News says that some people fail to recognize opportunity because it is disguised as hard work.

The Swan Of Pesaro

By F.S.M.
In the Montreal Gazette

ROSSINI, master musician of gaiety, was born in Pesaro in 1792. When he became famous his admiring countrymen named him the Swan of Pesaro, but it was not an apt description. The song of the swan, such as it is, cannot be classed among pleasing sounds, whereas Rossini' melodie are irresistible. His fellow-citizens meant well, however, and Rossini accepted the label as a compliment. He was not unduly modest, anyway. He once addressed a letter for his mother to "the Signora Rossini, Mother of the celebrated Maestro in Bologna."

From 1810 on he composed some 40 operas. The most important are Tancredi, the immortal Barber of Seville, written in 1816 when he was 24, Cenerentola, Gazza Ladra, Moses in Egypt—which includes some of the most magnificent choruses ever composed—Semiramide and William Tell (Paris 1829). In sacred music there is the Stabat Mater and the Petite Messe Solonnelle, with other minor scores.

He was supreme as a writer for the human voice which he considered the most beautiful of all instruments of music. He knew the trade of a vocalist, and sang very well himself in a high baritone. His rendering of the Largo al Factotum from the Barber of Seville was said to excel that of most professionals. When he visited England (the visit was a triumph) he sang duets with George IV, who fancied himself as a basso profundo. Rossini was indemnified financially for this trouble, and the King also paid him much gracious attention.

ROSSINI was careful not to demand from his interpreters too many notes at the top of their voices, and he put an end to the singers' habit of embroidering his scores with inventions of their own. These were sometimes so numerous that he had difficult in recognizing his own work, so he wrote what he considered sufficient ornamentation and insisted that nothing more should be added.

The Barber of Seville still delights the world after 125 years. Richard Wagner spoke admiringly of it in the only interview, a very friendly one, that he had with Rossini. A greater than Wagner also praised it. "So it is you, Rossini, who wrote the Barber. I congratulate you. I have read it with pleasure and satisfaction. As long as there is Italian opera it will be played. Be sure to write us more Barbers." Thus spoke the mighty Beethoven.

There are those who despise Rossini's music; many others enjoy it. It is a question of taste. Those who long exclusively for draughts of heavy German beer from the brewery of Wagner and Sohn have a right to their preference. So have those who prefer the sparkling Asti Spumante from the Rossinian vineyard, though, unfortunately, this wine is difficult to obtain nowadays.

There can be but few who have heard Semiramide or La Gazza Ladra in recent years for the reason that singers are not available who can do justice to the music in the full-throated bel canto style that it demands. There are absolutely none who can sing Semiramide as it was sung two generations ago by Patti, soprano, and Scalchi, contralto. Their surpassing voices, the finest of their kind and their easy, faultless execution left with their audiences "an impression of infinite beauty."

An exceptional artist occasionally appears. Baccaloni is splendidly efficient in Rossini's buffo roles, and some 20 years ago the lamented Conchita Supervia breathed new life into La Cenerentola. She was perhaps the last inhabitant of the old world of opera where consummate vocal ability and agility were essential, where there was a habit of excellent singing, a habit which is unknown to the over-advertised vocalists of today.

ROSSINI deliberately ended his active career when he was 46, and during the latter years of his life he composed no opera, only occasional scores. On the title pages of these he added some sly remark, as when he wrote on a "Perpetual Canon for four sopranos of the Sistine Chapel" the words "da capo jusqu'a l'exinction de la chaleur naturelle." On a piano Fanfare for Four Hands he scribbled, "je prie mes interpretes de vouloir executer avec amour (des mains et des genoux) ma petite fanfare."

At 40 years of age he had reached the high place in the world of music. He was rich. He was indolent. He was popular. There was no need for further effort, and besides, his health was poor. He had become a hypochondriac. Nevertheless he managed to enjoy life. He was a famous amateur chef (tournedos Rossini), and he delighted to entertain his friends.

Every Saturday night in his apartment on the Boulevard des Italiens there was a reception when he dispensed good music and good cheer. Every notable singer, Patti (his little Pattina), Alboni, Viardot-Garcia, and Mario among them, gladly sang for the company though he once refused to allow the great tenor Tamberlik to display his wares. "Tell him I will be delighted to see him, but he must leave his high C in the cloak-room. He can take it away when he goes."

La Taglioni, goddess of the Dance, would come down to the Boulevard from her house in Montmartre, and Meyerbeer, fellow-composer, would overflow periodically into exaggerated flattery. A. Rothschild sent him claret from Chateau Lafitte, and a Metternich supplied him with white Johannesberg, while an Italian marquis provided cheese from Gorgonzola, and there was always the inevitable mortadella sausage from Bologna and olives from everywhere in Italy.

HIS humor was mischievous. To a singer of very ardent temperament but of mediocre voice he said, "Madame, you sing with your soul, and you have a beautiful sour." In the ear of a great lady from England who had asked him whether she should call him Maestro or Divine Genius he whispered (Olympe was somewhat jealous) "I would much prefer that you should call me mon petit lapin." The French Government had appointed him Inspector-General of singing, and one day a friend found him listening solemnly to a street singer. "But what are you doing?" "Please, do not interrupt. I am carrying on my official duties." Like Dumas, also a frequenter of the salon, Rossini was a master of la blague.

Gioacchino Rossini was extremely handsome as a young man. There is a story that Wagner, seeing a portrait of him as a youth, opined that Gioacchino's good looks must have played havoc among the impressionable ladies of Naples. It was the judgment of one expert in such matters on another, though Wagner with his profile of an old witch could lay no claim to be handsome.

ROSSINI died in Paris in 1868, to the profound regret of the Parisians. Patti, Alboni, Nilsson, Faure, and Tamburini, the greatest voices of the day, sang at his funeral service, and a band which included the interesting new instruments of a certain Monsieur Sax played Beethoven's Funeral March. In London Sir Michael Costa led an orchestra and chorus of more than a thousand in the Stabat Mater, while in Leipsic "the austere Gewandhaus Orchestra graciously condescended to shed an official tear."

His last days had been days of acute suffering. Towards the end his voice rose into a shriek of agony as he implored the help of heaven. "What are you doing, Blessed Virgin? Since a long time I have been calling you. You hear me. You can do it if you will. Come now, be quick!" Then he became unconscious. After a few moments the doctor turned to his faithful wife and said, "Madame, Rossini has ceased to suffer."

"SWORD OF STALINGRAD"

Baltic Drive Is Serious Threat

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON

A NEW Russian pincer threatening to encirlce all Nazi troops in the Volkhov River bulge below Leningrad to Lake Ilmen is developing rapidly.

Coupled with the co-ordinated Russian offensive already at a point west of Novosokolniki on the Lovat front, 200 miles southward, the new Russian attack in the north is obviously rocking the whole German Baltic flank. It could force an immediate Nazi retreat, abandoning all Northwestern Russia.

Of major significance is the Russian capture of Krasnoye Selo, a key road and rail junction point in the Leningrad communication network. Moscow said it was taken in five days despite the fact that the Germans held it since they drew their siege ring about Leningrad in the early days of the war.

The position is vital to all northern communications for heavy German forces deployed in the Volkhov River bulge below it. At that point, where a 25-mile-wide gap has been ripped in the most critical sector of Nazi lines about Leningrad, the Russians were less than 10 miles from Gatchina. Its capture would cut the last link of the Narva-Leningrad rail system and virtually seal off the Narva gateway to Esthonia.

The Moscow report that the Red Army captured heavy German guns, recently used to bombard Leningrad, indicates the nature of the fortifications through which the Krasnoye Selo breakthrough was achieved. That northern arm of the Baltic flank pincer appears aimed still southward toward a possible junction with the second jaw, driving westward from the Russian bridgehead on the middle Volkhov between Novgorod and Chudovo.

Just where the southern breakthrough came and how far it had been driven is still undisclosed. The Russians appear to be already west of the Kerest tributary of the Volkhov, approximately paralleling the larger river 10 miles to the west. If that is the extent of the Russian penetration, it offers a deadly threat to one link of the Leningrad-Odessa railroad, and even to the Pskov-Leningrad railroad beyond.

Russian cutting of those roads would leave German forces still in the Volkhov bulge without any escape route except for trails and minor roads. The southern jaw of the Russian pincer drive is within 20 miles of the Dno-Leningrad line and only 53 miles from the Pskov-Leningrad system. Nazi forces in the depth of the Volkhov bulge are 50 miles or more east of the Dno-Leningrad railroad, but could reach it only northwestward and in the face of the Russian close investment from the north of Gatchina Junction, 10 miles south of Krasnoye Selo.

As far as the battle on the Baltic flank in Russia has yet developed it appears to be a full-scale major Russian offensive long planned and timed to offset the obstacles that go with the unseasonable rainy weather in the Northern and Central Ukraine, which is helping delay completion of the Russian effort there.

The first swift success of the Russian onslaught tend to confirm the impression that Nazi reserves on all fronts in Russia have been thinned out to meet the succeeding crisis in the centre and south, in Italy and in the Balkans. They also fortify the conclusion that the Russian siege of Vitebsk and the drive that by-passed Novosokolniki, far to the south, are linked elements of the great northern winter campaign only now beginning to roll in full force.

Among other immediate results of the opening of the Baltic flank campaign must be its effect on Finland. The Moscow press has been warning the Finns recently that their time is short for seeking escape from their dubious war partnership with Hitler.

'Denizens'

Unfamiliar words tend to stir my curiosity. Such a one is "denization," which occurred in a report, in last Saturday's Times, of a libel action brought by the Prince of Pless against Lord Castiereagh, M.P. He had, he said, applied for letters of denization, but found that the process was obsolete.

Research throws an interesting light on this procedure, which is obsolete only in the sense that it has fallen into desuetude, not that it has ever been legally abrogated. It consists in the right of the Sovereign to confer on an alien by letters patent certain limited rights of British citizenship—to make him technically a "denizen." Such a denizen may not sit in Parliament, or receive a grant of land, or hold 'any civil or military office of trust.'

Since denization has not been granted to anyone for half a century or more it seems unlikely that any denizen survives.—London Spectator.

Bomber of 1918

In these days of Lancasters or Liberators almost around every other cloud, it is a startling contrast to read of the flimsy crates in which intrepid pilots flew against the enemy during the last war—the FE2B, for instance.

The FE2B was a two-seater pusher fighter, but assumed the role of night bomber later, for good reasons. It was horribly vulnerable from the rear; my sketch shows how the field of fire in that quarter is blanked off by the engine, airscrew, struts and wires. It was capable of the magnificent speed of 75 m.p.h.

A pilot of an FE2B would bring the nose of the 'plane up sharply to allow the gunner to fire over the tail. One observer, standing up to fire backwards, was shot in the head and fell over the side, but the pilot grabbed his coat as he fell and pulled him back into the 'plane.—Yorkshire Post.

Park Land For The Nation

The buying of Mam Tor and the Winnats by National Trust is the latest step towards making the Peak District a national park. The new property covers an area of 473 acres and includes the land above the famous Blue John, Speedwell, and Treak Cliff mines, but not the mines themselves.

Mam Tor, which is 1,700 feet high, is crowned by an ancient British camp and commands magnificent views across the Kinder Scout as it rises above Castleton and Edale. It has long been known as the "Shivering Mountain" because of the shaly screes which are constantly weathered from its face. The Winnats is a limestone gorge ranking perhaps second in grandeur to the famous gorge of Cheddar.

The purchases have been possible by a legacy of £1,000 from Miss Ethel Marples, generous gifts from her relatives, and money raised by the Sheffield and Peak District branch of the Council for the Preservation of Rural England and the Manchester Ramblers' Association. Mam Tor will be held as a permanent memorial to Miss Marples.—Manchester Guardian.

A Bible Message

Then said Jesus to those Jews which believed on him, If ye continue in my word, then are ye my disciples indeed; and ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free. They answered him, We be Abraham's seed, and were never in bondage to any man: how sayest thou, Ye shall be made free?

Jesus answered them, Verily, verily, I say unto you, Whosoever committeth sin is the servant of sin. And the servant abideth not in the house for ever: but the Son abideth ever. If the Son therefore shall make you free, ye shall be free indeed.... I speak that which I have seen with my Father: and ye do that which ye have seen with your father.

They answered and said unto him, Abraham is our father. Jesus saith unto them, If ye were Abraham's children, ye would do the works of Abraham. But now ye seek to kill me, a man that hath told you the truth, which I have heard of God: this did not Abraham....

Ye are of your father the devil, and the lusts of your father ye will do. He was a murderer from the beginning, and abode not in the truth, because there is no truth in him. When he speaketh a lie, he speaketh of his own: for he is a liar, and the father of it.

And because I tell you the truth, ye believe me not. Which of you convinceth me of sin? And if I say the truth, why do ye not believe me? (John 8: 31-36, 38-40, 44-46.)

Unconsidered Trifles

Pretty Nurse—"Every time I take the patient's pulse, it gets faster. What shall I do?"
Doctor—"Blindfold him."

Teacher—"And so you see, children, love is the one thing you can give in abundance and still have plenty left."
Jimmy—"How about measles?"

Bill—"These are the ruins of a castle built by William the Conqueror."
Wealthy Aunt—"Yes, but why on earth did he build it so far away from the railway station?"

On a recent Sabbath, when Sonny, age 4, reached home, his mother inquired: "And how was Sunday school this morning, dear?"
"Not so good," he said, and looked very sober. "Daniel's in the lions' den again."

"Are you intending to make a purchase, madam?" asked the exasperated assistant.
"Certainly," replied the customer, acidly.
"Well, I'm glad to know that, madam. I thought you were stocktaking!"

Snow Shovels

The fellow who invented the broad-beamed, flat-bottomed snow shovel probably thought he was a very clever friend of mankind. He may even have considered himself a public benefactor. But after due deliberation in the midst of a soggy snowfall we can state quite firmly that he was neither friend nor benefactor, but merely an ingenious man who sat down one July day to invent something—anything.

What is a snow shovel, anyway? It is a contrivance by means of which a man willing to cut a footpath is forced to carve a canyon wide enough to accommodate a jeep. It is a device which, in wet snow, enables a man to get three times the exercise he needs in half the time he should take to get it. It is an instrument of bulldozer capacity designed to run on one manpower.

The snow starts to fall, and what happens? Someone says the walks should be cleaned off or a few paths cleared. Obviously, if the snow gets more than two feet deep something should be done about it. A path should be shoveled to the woodshed, if one is a countryman, and to the front street if one is a metropolitan. But what is a path? With a snow shovel a path is the width of a very wide sidewalk. Yet if one makes a path by simply wallowing through the snow, a path is the width of a man's boots. There you are. And there's that snow shovel, dictating the dimensions of the job.

If the snow is deep enough people will stay at home and no paths will be needed. If it is shallow enough it will melt or wear away. Or it would if there were no snow shovels. All right, the argument is hopeless. But do you mind if we ponder on the beauty of unshoveled snow while we puff?—New York Times.

Institute Given Instruction About Vitamins

LAKEFIELD, Jan. 20 (ENS) — Miss R. Rorke, representative from the Department of Agriculture, Toronto office, spoke of vitamins at a special meeting of the Women's Institute held in the nursing class rooms on Monday evening.

Mrs. Percy Spence introduced the speaker and Rev. George Kelly showed slides on nutrition, the subject for the evening.

Miss Rorke in her address stated that Canada is now shipping 45,000,000 eggs to Britain to every million she shipped before the war. To save weight and space, eggs are rendered to dried powdered form, 1 dozen eggs being reduced to a 5-ounce package. Modern packing plants have doubled and in some instances tripled their output since war began and are now shipping millions of pounds of meat overseas, she said.

Proper Foods.

Miss Rorke stressed the importance of people knowing and eating the proper foods. Foods cannot be relied on for an adequate amount of vitamin D and it is important that it be provided in a concentrated form. Vitamin A was referred to as the "dim-out" vitamin. This vitamin keeps the eyes in condition so they can adjust from dark to light. Carrots provide this particular vitmin, as do also the whole grain cereals.

Vitamin C was described as having a cementing quality, in holding cells and tissues together and is obtained from the citrus fruits and tomatoes. Rose hips are used in the European countries and are an excellent source of this vitamin. Spruce bark also contains vitamin C. and possibly with war-time developments may be used in the future.

Some source of vitamin D, such as fish liver oil is essential for children and advisable for adults.

At the conclusion of Miss Rorke's address Mrs. Spence and Mrs. Dracup expressed their appreciation to the speaker.

Jolliffe To Start Child Labor Probe

TORONTO, Jan. 20 (CP).—E.B. Jolliffe, Ontario C.C.F. leader, today issued a statement saying he would "initiate an investigation into the whole subject of child labor in Ontario."

The statement quoted a Toronto newspaper "Help Wanted" advertisement published yesterday by a baker firm (George Weston Bread and Cakes, Ltd.) saying: "Boy under 16, tall and husky, with school permit, to learn bakery business. Hours, five p.m. to two a.m...."

In addition to starting an investigation, Mr. Jolliffe's statement said he would seek "legislation to make such practices impossible in future."

United States Railway Men Are Given Pay Increases

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20 (AP)—The nation's rail transportation system was back in the hands of private operators Wednesday but Senator B. K. Wheeler (Dem. Mont.) warned that it still faces a critical manpower problem.

President Roosevelt announced settlement of the wage dispute, with raises all around, late yesterday, and War Secretary Henry Stimson ordered the seized railroads returned to their owners, effective at midnight.

The roads, once threatened by labor disputes of the 350,000 members of five operating unions and of 1,100,000 non-operating workers including shopmen, clerks and the others, were taken over by the government December 27, three days bofer a strike-call deadline.

Cost 240 Millions

The settlement and some earlier agreements, which labor and management sources estimated would cost the roads approximately $240,000,000 annually, plus retroactive pay awards, provide generally increases of from nine to 11 cents for the "non-ops."

The 15 non-op unions originally had asked for 20 cents an hour more and the operating brotherhoods a 30 per cent time, or $3 a day, whichever might be greater.

In his announcement, Secretary Stimson said the agreements, which were approved by Wage Stabilization Director Vinson, "provide assurance that there will be no stoppage of rail service and that the employees of the roads will continue to discharge their responsibilities faithfully and conscientiously so that there may be no diminution in the rising tide of our military might."

Senator Wheeler, chairman of the Senate Interstate Commerce committee, said the military draft and the lure of higher wages in war industry are thinning personnel ranks to dangerous levels.

"If something isn't done to relieve this situation," he said, "we are in for serious trouble."

"Railroad men are being drafted every day and there are thousands of experienced railroad men in the armed forces."

Wheeler and Senator Clyde M Reed (Rep., Kan.) are awaiting war food administration action on their request for withdrawal of an order diverting 200 box cars daily to Canada for moving Canadian wheat into this country.

Reed said W.D.A. Administrator Marvin Jones "has indicated that the order will be vacated and the railroads left to work it out themselves."

Election Looms In Britain As Allies Gain

By DOUG HOW
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Jan. 20—(CP).—There is belief in Britain that the defeat of German arms in the field will bring to a head the domestic problem which has its crux in the fact that the present House of Commons was elected nine years ago.

Without waiting for the fall of Japan, say those who hold this belief, Britain must go to the polls. In preparation for that day, a new electoral register is being compiled and a Speaker's conference will examine the whole field of voting rights and rules.

But once that assumption is accepted, there is confusion and argument, and in recent weeks the argument beyond that point has grown with quiet vigor.

The differences lie in the simple problem of the lines on which the election is to be fought. Of the several which offer themselves to speculation these are among the prominent:

An election based on continuation of the present national government, an election in which candidates will campaign as individuals representing parties pledged to a new coalition or opposing such a plan; an election on the familiar straight party lines.

Churchill Dominant.

In massive emphasis in the background rise the obviously over-riding considerations of both the war and the peace. It is a hard point of those who preach coalition that a Britain torn by the stress of renewed party politics could not hope to cope with the difficulties that will come through her responsibilities to a bewildered, liberated and starving Europe.

"They take strength, too, from the towering influence of Prime Minister Churchill who has said of his four-year plan to bring homes, work and food to all that it must "be presented to the country by a national government representative as this one is of the three (major) parties in the state, or by a national government comprising the best men who are willing to serve."

Regardless of the issues on which the election turns the Churchill name will possess heavy sway. It is to this man of war that the Conservatives look for the decisive momentum to return them, with whatever colleagues, in the first general election since 1935.

W.I. Considers Citizenship Topic

WESTWOOD, Jan. 20 — (ENS). —A paper on "Citizenship—Life's Greatest Asset" was given by Mrs. William Post this week in the town hall, when the January meet of the Women's Institute was held. Mrs. Post made a plea for the youth of the country on whom the future depends.

With the president, Mrs. S. Graham presiding, the roll call was answered by members giving bits of world news. A discussion on "Ways in which this war is leading men and women to work more closely together and to solve social and economic problems" was conducted by Mrs. F. E. Birdsall. The life of the English poet John Milton was reviewed by Miss Jessie Davidson concluding with one of his later poems "On His Blindness."

31 Parcels Sent

The war work treasurer, Mrs. Hilliard Neilson, reported that from 31 Christmas parcels sent to boys and girls in the armed forces overseas and in Canada 16 letters of appreciation had been received. These included: James Cummiskey, Lorne Archer, Douglas "Scottie" Richardson, Vernon Warr, Donald Cameron, James Humphries, Leslie Sargent, Fred Clysdale, Earle Kidd, Harold Bray, Lachlan Locke; Misses A. McKeown, A. McColl and J. Kidd.

It was decided to hold a Bingo Party in the hall on Friday evening, January 28. A word quiz prepared by Mrs. E. W. Sargent, was won by Mrs. Birdsall, with Mrs. Post receiving a second prize.

The Associated Press Directors Appeal Federal Court Judgment

NEW YORK, Jan. 20 (AP). — The Federal Court judgment in the Governments civil anti-trust suit against The Associated Press, non-profit news co-operative, will be appealed to the United States Supreme Court, the association's board of directors announced last night.

The board said in a statement "no newspaper, no press service can operate successfully under a court injunction."

The judgment, which would restrain the AP perpetually from observing by-laws under which members might consider the competitive ability of an applicant for membership, already is under temporary stay. The appeal, to be taken "without delay," will stay it pending the highest court's ruling.

By coincidence, the directors' statement was adopted about the time that President Roosevelt said at his press-radio conference in Washington he did not think he wanted to comment on the judgment. The board at the time of its action did not know the reference to the AP suit in the President's conference, nor did the President know when asked for comment that the AP board had decided on an appeal.

When asked whether he had noted the judgment, the President inquired whether the Supreme Court had handed it down and what was new about it. Later, he smiled and asked: Does the country club still exist?

Voted 2 To 1.

In referring to the AP as a country club, the President may have had in mind that the AP, a non-profit co-operative, is organized under the membership corporation laws of the State of New York, as are some fraternal, social and charitable organizations.

The judgment was based on a 2-to-1 decision of three circuit judges in the southern district of New York, who heard the case on the Government's motion for summary judgment. This proceedings denied the AP request for a trial on its merits. Justice Department officials have said this move never before was employed in Sherman Act cases.

"No newspaper, no press service can operate successfully under a court injunction," the AP directors' statement said. "The Associated Press is a non-profit co-operative organization dedicated to giving an unbiased, factual report of the news.

"The decision of the statutory court in New York would subject the world's greatest news gathering organization to suit and harassment and to a perpetual injunction which would render it subject to future whims of administrative officials and continued supervision of the Federal courts.

"The court found The Associated Press was not a monopoly. It found that it was not a common carrier. Yet the decision, if not appealed and overthrown, would impose a method of doing business upon The Associated Press which would hamper its efficiency and weaken its co-operatiture. There is no course open except to appeal from such intrusion."

Speaker Says Baseball Is Handicapped

CLEVELAND, Jan. 20 — (AP). — Tris Speaker, one of the original electees to baseball's Hall of Fame at Cooperstown, N.Y., is doubtful about the major leagues' ability to operate this year.

Now a member of a local draft board, the famed Gray Eagle says he "would like to see baseball go on and if it can overcome the manpower handicaps more power to it. But I'll have to be shown.'"

Speaker doesn't want anyone to deduce from his statement that he's lost his enthusiasm for the game. But he's pessimistic about the coming season.

"They played last year with a lot of 3-A's and a few 4-F's," he explains. "This year there won't be any 3-A's. The boys will either be 1-A or they'll be given 2-A or 2-B deferments because of jobs contributing to the war effort. If they leave those jobs to play ball they'll be 1-A so quick it'll make 'em dizzy."

The man who piloted the Cleveland Indians to their only world's championship in 1920 isn't one of those old-timers who believe present-day ball players are inferior to those of his generation.

"Sometimes I think big money comes too easily nowadays and so lessens incentive but don't let anybody tell you all the great ball players are dead."

Hamilton Team Swamps Navy Crew 12-1

By The Canadian Press.

Hamilton Majors scored 11 goals against Toronto Navy before the Seamen found the net for their lone tally and the civilian team romped to a 12-1 victory in the single senior set-to of the Ontario Hockey Association at Hamilton last night. The victory placed the Majors only a point behind St. Catharines Saints for league leadership. Majors led by a modest two goals for the initial period, stretched it to seven in the second and wound up 11 to the good at the final curtain.

Johnny Conick fattened his scoring figure by notching four counters; Stan Robertson turned in three for his night's work; Shillington registered two and Doug Runions, Davey and Dinning were good for one counter apiece.

If it hadn't been for Cliff Maundrell, with his one Naval score only five minutes from the finish, Goalie Art Childs of Hamilton would have earned credit for the first Senior O.H.A. shutout of the current season.

Oshawa Players Dominate Race

TORONTO, Jan. 20 — (CP). — Domination of the Oshawa Generals, Eastern section leaders, was reflected in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series scoring summaries released here to-day. Smith and Ezinicki have identical records, each with 24 goals and 15 assists, while 15 goals and 24 assists comprise Love's total. Fourth place is also shared, teammates Bob Schnurr and Joe Sadler of St. Michael's each trailing the Oshawa trio by one point with 38. Another point back with 37 is Johnny Ubriaco of Galt, occupying his lowest position to date in the league scoring parade

The leaders:

Transports, leading team in the Ladies' City League at Y.W.C.A. will be idle tomorrow night as it is their turn for the bye but the other four teams should supply plenty of action for the Friday night crowd. St. John's, still in second place in spite of the fact that they were beaten by Transports last week, clash with Y Cadets who also lost their last start so that both teams will be gunning for a win on this occasion. The game will get under way at 7.45 o'clock. In the second game the C.G.E. team who need a victory to pull up on the second-place St. John's outfit will find themselves opposed by the Normal School team, still enthused with their triumph over the Cadets, the first Normal School win in three years of basketball and they may discover that the future school teachers are still on fire from that welcome feat. Now that Normal have found the winning touch they would like nothing better than to hand a trimming to the Electricians tomorrow night. The second game will be staged at 8.45 o'clock. The two fixtures should provide some interesting basketball.

There is a chance that Peterborough wrestling fans may get an opportunity next Tuesday night to see the British Empire champion, Whipper Billy Watson in action in a return bout with the tough Texan Karl Krippler Davis but it all depends upon tonight's clash in Toronto when the Whipper meets that redoubtable Hard-Boiled Hannigan who has been battling not only his mat opponents but most of the Queen City wrestling enthusiasts. Offered another match with Davis, Watson declined to accept definitely until the outcome of his battle with Hannigan was known. Two weeks ago the big rowdy from Brooklyn did a bit of carving on the classic Watson profile with some secret weapon and as a result of the slicing the Whip has done no wrestling since. In fact he retired to the Laurentians with Coach Phil Lawson and forgot the groan-and-grunt business in an orgy of skiing. Now he's back in as good shape as ever and if he weathers the storm in Toronto tonight will be all set to meet the Texan menace here on Tuesday. Davis, of course, is eager for the match. Not a bit castdown over his defeat by McCready here, the Texan brushes that loss off with the remark that the hour time limit beat him. He claims he finished away in front of the Moose and would have taken the Canadian to the cleaners eventually, if the time had not expired.

Some More Questions

Chick Appel in the Stratford Beacon-Herald continues to pose some embarrassing hockey questions. Here is what he says: "It is quite understandable why former pros were permitted to revert to senior and junior hockey, once they joined the armed forces. That is little enough we can do for the boys who may eventually be fighting our battles for us, but it's hard to fathom why discrimination was apparently shown in some cases. Take for instance, "Red" Tilson, Pat Powers and William Jordan, who desired to return to junior hockey ranks, after playing for pro clubs. The former, now a member of the Canadian army, was refused the privilege to return to the Oshawa Generals' fold, while Powers and Jordan, met the same fate when they wanted to re-join their old clubs, Toronto St. Mike's and Owen Sound Greys respectively. The reason given was they had played more than three games in senior company. But there are parallel instances where former juniors have been granted identically the same privileges denied Tilson, Powers and Jordan. Take the cases of Ross Johnstone, Frankie Dunlap, Evanshen, Paul Waldner and Andy Brown. All of these youngsters, still eligible so far as age is concerned, were granted the right to join junior clubs after they had played more than three games with pro clubs."

Not satisfied with the progress that is being made to develop junior hockey in the Quinte town, Belleville enthusiasts are now hard at work trying to get the juvenile department hitting on all eight cylinders. Ken Colling tells about it as follows: "Now that the junior hockey picture is pretty well established in Belleville, Bill Dennis announced the first Juvenile hockey workout will be held at the Hume Arena Wednesday evening commencing at seven. "Players eligible for juvenile hockey must be 17 years and under on Jan. 1st of the playing year. Any boy who becomes 18 years of age after Jan. 1st is eligible, but if they were 18 prior to Jan. 1st, then they're taboo," explained Bill. There should be a galaxy of juvenile hockey material in Belleville maybe enough for a couple of good teams. At any rate the present plans are to operate one juvenile team. Efforts to procure a couple of exhibition games with clubs from the surrounding district are being made, so as to interest the kids. In the meantime the first Juvenile practice will be held tomorrow night when its is expected the ice will be cluttered with aspiring material."

A Boost For The Navy

Bill Westwick in his sport column in the Ottawa Journal has this boost for the Navy's participation in sport: "The Royal Canadian Navy, last of the services to be heard from along the hockey policy front, has checked in with rules governing the future ice activities of its personnel. Since the start of the war the Navy has continued its athletic policy on one of the soundest bases of all, encouraging sport wherever possible and feasible within the ranks and to this department's knowledge incurring no criticism whatever. They've developed some fine hockey teams in various centres, lent support and encouragement to football and some of the men have written back in most enthusiastic terms of the introduction of Canadian brand of football on the east coast last fall. Last fall the Navy entered a squad in the O.R.F.U. and played out the string in most creditable fashion. Now comes their hockey policy and it is bound to meet with approval. It is merely a continuation of Navy policy, but it is unique in the light of recent services statements inasmuch as leagues will not be disrupted. Naval personnel will move as the line of duty demands. Meanwhile they may finish out their schedules in sectional play. When their schedules are over there will be no playoffs. Ottawa is not affected, but other centres are. None acquainted with the Navy's fine record in athletics, the excellent conduct of its program and absence of criticism throughout the war years, can cavil at the latest decision reached."

Toronto Navy hockey squad took a sad shellacking at the hands of the Hamilton Majors last night, going down to defeat 12 to 1. Incidentally it was the first win registered by the Majors since December 10. Pick Hines' team, weakened by the departure of several stars including Garrett and Scotty Mair who were drafted out the other day for duties elsewhere were no match for the Hamilton crew who led by Johnny Conick who scored four goals were always in front of the parade. The Navy started the season with none too many stars and as the silent service seems to be concentrating on winning the war instead of winning hockey games, some of the best of the crop have already been moved on for training elsewhere or on active service. Unless some reinforcements blow in soon H.M.C.S. York appears to be out of the hockey picture.

Braund Rink Captures Champ Trophy

By HERB MARTIN

Gar Braund, the local lad who began his curling right in Peterborough as a junior and then graduated up into senior company to become one of its foremost skips, and his rink captured first place and the "Wes Champ" trophy at Peterborough's first 1944 open bonspiel.

Wm. Potts' rink from Cobourg, which won first place last year took second position and the "Morrow Trophy". Dr. McKee, who came down from the north country a couple of seasons ago, full of hope and enthusiasm guided his rink into third place.

Fred Nicholls, that old veteran of the Oshawa Club took fourth, while the two consolation prizes went to C. Gray of Campbellford and C. Lawrence of Peterborough. Such was the distribution of the prizes at the open bonspiel Wednesday afternoon and evening.

Starting out on ice that was fairly keen and fast 28 rinks began play around 9:30 o'clock for the two beautiful trophies. However it was not long under way before the ice began to get sticky, then heavy, water began to show and from then on it was nothing but a "slugging contest.

The art of curling soon became a lost art. It was just a case of stepping into the hack block, taking a firm hold on the handle of the stone, giving her a good swing and hope for the best. However, in spite of all this the bonspiel went off in good style and already many entry's have been received for the next one scheduled for Wednesday Feburary 9th.

The ladies added greatly to success of the 'spiel by serving refreshments on the third floor. Their efforts were well rewarded and they wish to thank each and all.

We are pleased to say that the condition of our good friend R. F. Downey, who was hurt in a car accident last night, while on the way home from the rink, is not as serious as first reported. Mr. Downey, however, will be confined to his home for a few days. We along with all the curlers and many other of his friends will be pulling for his speedy recovery.

The Sports Round-Up

NEW YORK, Jan. 20 (AP) — Following up President Abe Greene's recent blast at Sammy Angott and Beau Jack for not having at least one of their world lightweight titles on the line in their fight here next week, Col. Heinie Miller, executive secretary of the National Boxing Association, today pointed the finger at the promoters for staging such affairs . . . The Colonel wisely figures that the customers can't be blamed for going to see a good scrap even if there is something ridiculous about the situation . . . It seems from here that the N.B.A. has a remedy in a simple declarative sentence: "The N.B.A. will consider this as a championship bout." . . . It might be a technical violation of the rules, but they're natural lightweights and once they knew the title would be at stake, regardless of weights, the promoters, managers, etc. would get busy and make it a real championship fight.

Dropping one of their three games with Generals this week proved costly for the Outboard Marines in the Ladies' Five-Pin League for Westclox by taking three straight from the Corvettes climbed up into a tie for first place with Outboards.

The leaders were short one player and had to use a dummy score but at that with Betty Castle setting the pace with 673 and Marion Timm toppling the pins to the tune of 642, the four regulars with the assistance of the dummy 375 managed to put together a total of 2848.

TORONTO, Jan. 20 — (CP). — Indications are the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association will attempt to carry on its Allan Cup play-offs this year despite withdrawal of all srevice clubs with the cream of the Dominion's amateur talent.

In Alberta, for instance, the only senior teams were from the services but Bob (Calgary Hreald) Mamini reports the C.A.H.A. is attempting to line up civilian challengers in Edmonton and Calgary for an Alberta final and subsequent cup play-offs. One of the objects negotiation is the Calgary Buffaloes team which won the Western intermediate title last season. Buffaloes are chiefly a collection of ageing amateurs and reinstated professionals.

The signals are out in Ontario too. Only remaining O.H.A. senior civilian teams are St. Catharines and Hamilton. Clayton Browne of the St. Catharines Standard reports Saints have already been approached regarding their attitude to Allan Cup play-offs. Browne reports a new blow to C.A.H.A. plans. Saints players are engaged in war work and President Harry McArthur has stated the club will definitely not consider a trip West because "such an absence of two weeks gallivanting would be unthinkable to Ottawa and the war-conscious public."

Further, says Browne, if the Quebec League is a finalist they will insist on one or more of the cup games on Montreal ice. He believes, therefore, that the Allan Cup final will be staged in the East as planned originally, even though the junior final will also be staged in the East.

Browne discloses the C.A.H.A. still has an eye for the big money. He reports the national association has informed St. Catharines it will demand a $2,500 guarantee to stage one Allan Cup play-off game in that city. Browne estimates it would be necessary to charge $2 to $3 a seat to swing the guarantee.

In a discussion of hockey Hall of Fame candidates at Kingston, Manager Jack Adams of Detroit Red Wings subscribed to a selection of the seven outstanding centres of all time — Howie Morenz, Frank Nighbor, Cyclone Taylor, Frank McGee, Joe Malone, Jack Walker, and Milt Schmidt. There was no attempt to rank the seven in the order named....Red Dutton N.H.L. managing director, has offered the Hall of Fame several hockey relics, including small hockey stick autographs by Howie Morenz and the puck with which Nels Stewart scored his 300th big-time goal. HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS

By The Canadian Press

Col. Matt Winn, 83 year old director of the Kentucky Derby, declared yesterday at New York he wanted more unity among the horse-racing associations, asserting that his desire for co-operation was one of the reasons he had become head of Empire track, New York, in addition to running Laurel in Maryland, Churchill Down and Chicago's Lincoln Fields. The turf had become a great sport and big business, he said, and the tracks from coast to coast "have to get together not only to insure good racing but also to guarantee the best interests of the fans," this being the responsibility of the racing associations themselves.

The Incorporated Canadian Racing Associations, governing body of racing in Ontario, announced yesterday that all horses 10 years of age or older will be barred from racing on Ontario tracks in 1945 if they fail to win at least three races in 1944. Any thorough-bred which reaches the age of six in January, 1945, without having won a race will also automatically be barred from racing on I.C.A.A. tracks, it was announced.

Pitcher Jim Bagby, who won 17 games for the Cleveland Indians last year, yesterday wrote from Marietta, Ga., where he is employed as a tool designer, asking that he be traded to some other club because he could not "get along" with Manager Lou Boudreau.

Glenna Collett Vare of Philadelphia, who as Glenna Collett was six-time winner of the U.S. Women's golf championship, yesterday intimated she had been forced to relinquish active competition because of her duties as a ration board clerk for the duration and as a Victory gardener. She has also dropped trap-shooting.

Announcement was made at New Haven last night Phil Terranova, NBA featherweight champion, and Snooks Lacey of New Haven will meet Monday night in a 10-round non-title bout in the New Haven arena.

Ed Levy Back

The New York Yankees will try out Ed Levy as an outfielder in their training at Atlantic City next spring, it was stated at New York last night. Levy failed to make the grade at first base a year ago. Word was received that Pitcher Spud Chandler, classed 1-A, would shortly be called for army examination at his Moultrie, Ga., home.

Norman Brown, pitcher acquired by the Philadelphia Athletics last season, yesterday reported to the army induction centre at Fort Jackson, S.C.

Florian Bibeau of Montreal, recognized Canadian flyweight champion, proved to be the loser on points in a 10-round bout at Quebec last night against Fernando Gagnon of Quebec. Gagnon, weighing 120 pounds, held a four-pound advantage over the titleholder. It was a non-title affair.

Winners of the 1943 Ontario Tankard, P. G. and B. C. Hall of Kitchener skipped separate rinks to victory at Kitchener last night in the provincial series, defeating double rinks from Ayr and Waterloo by 13 and 11 shots respectively. The brothers earned the right to represent the Kitchener district in the coming bonspiel.

Boxing Experts Frown On Politics

NEW YORK, Jan. 20 (AP)—Boxing began to count noses today after one of its biggest stock-taking jobs, and the score card showed praise for the nose-smashing industry as the "place where democracy works best" and a warning that it's time to get politics out of the fight game."

These bouquets and belts-in-the-eye were tossed around last night by a collection of such experts as former Mayor Jimmy Walker, National Boxing Association President Abe Greene and Ring Magazine publisher Nat Fleischer. The tossing was done at the annual award dinner of the Boxing Writers Association of New York, at which the Edward J. Neil Memorial Plaque was presented to the 4,100 boxers in the armed forces in appreciation of what they've done for the sport.

Greene and Fleischer both pleaded to have control of the sport free from politics. Fleischer, after receiving an award from the boxing writers for long service to the sport, reviewed recent appointments to the New York State Athletic Commission—revamped under a new state administration — and maintained that governing bodies should include men who know boxing and not men named to commissions "merely because of their political significance."

Both he and Greene suggested that one way to iron out this matter would be to have regular boxing writers—"men with practical experience"—named to every boxing commission in the country.

"I'll tell you the story of how democracy works in the fight game," Walker said. "There's little Barney Ross—Sergeant Ross of Guadalcanal—sitting over there. He won his lightweight championship from Tony Canzoneri and the welterweight title from Jimmy McLarnin. He lost the welter crown to Henry Armstrong, who dropped it to Fritzie Zivic. Nobody cared where they were born or where they went to church—as long as they were championship stuff."

For "Mrs. Parkington" Greer Garson will undergo 34 changes of costume, wear 20 different styles of hairdress and change her facial makeup any number of times. The span of her life in the film will be 65 years. . . Paul Muni will add Victor Hugo to his gallery of screen characterizations. . . Many stars have business interests beyond the studios. Brian Donlevy's is a gold mine—actually. . . Gregory Ratoff of the juicy Russian accent was given the assignment to direct "When Irish Eyes Are Smiling." Why? Because, the studio says, he is an expert at Irish folk-lore and has a large collection of clay pipes. . . Patrons have often commented about the magic way music comes out of nowhere when an actor or actress is ready to sing in a film. In "The Gang's All Here" Alice Faye is ready for a vocal takeoff and the music of a 100-piece orchestra suddenly starts. "Where's the music coming from?" asks James Ellison. "Can't you use your imagination?" is the answer from Alice. . . Disney's next will be "The Three Caballeros," which combines cartoons and live characters.

Francine Bordeaux, the French-Canadian beauty who has appeared in "I Married An Angel" and "Women in Bondage," will probably tour Canadian army camps in February with her press representative, Christo Christy. Before enlisting in the American army, from which he was honorably discharged recently, Christy was the motion picture commentator of a Quebec station. . . Those Hollywood players who can't do a vaudeville routine but refuse to turn down the request of the troops that they visit them deserve praise. They approach their tasks with misgivings but soon find that the boys and girls overseas just want to be exposed to that familiar personality they knew on the screens at home. So the stars, at ease, are game for anything. Gary Cooper, for instance. He couldn't think of anything to do before the boys in the south Pacific so he learned "Pistol Packin' Mama," "Oh, What a Beautiful Morning" and other songs. When it came time to sing he got cold feet but the soldiers insisted and cheered when he had finished.

Favorite story of Jack Carson, Manitoba-born screen star, is about the colored preacher who talked to his congregation about how free salvation was, then took up a collection. Brother Smith protested: "I thought you said that salvation is free—free as water." Replied the preacher: "It's free and water is free, but when we pipes it to you, you have to pay for the piping". . . Movie stars have catch names for their ranches. Eric Blore's is "Inn Disposed," Edward Everett Horton calls his "Belly Acres" and Helen Broderick's is described on the sign as "El Rancho Costa Mucha". . . They'll make a film of Phil Baker's "Take It or Leave It" radio show. . . Two things became obvious to fans who saw "Riding High"—Victor Moore has lost weight and Dorothy Lamour has gained it. . . William Bendix is learning to dance for "Greenwich Village". . . Those Rogers' girls, Ginger and Lela, are smart. Lela, Ginger's mother, will act as producer of Ginger's next picture.

Big Dit Clapper Eligible For Hall Of Fame

DETROIT, Jan. 20—Aubrey (Dit) Clapper, Boston Bruins' defenseman, is the one player still in National Hockey League action who should be honored when Hockey's Hall of Fame is established at Kingston, Ont., according to Manager Jack Adams of the Detroit Red Wings.

Shore and Cook

Adams also named Eddie Shore and Bill Cook, two other players of the modern era, on his list of 10 nominees for the Hall of Fame.

"I shouldn't have to detail any reasons for picking Shore, the Mr. Hockey of modern times," said Adams.

Other Adams selects as standing nominees, with a capsule comment, are:

Favors Oldtimers:

George Vezina, Montreal Canadiens' goalie: "The measuring stick of all goaltenders."

Howie Morenz, Montreal Canadiens: "A great centre who was probably the most sensational one-man hockey show in history."

Aurel Joliat, Montreal Canadiens: "One of the best left wings who ever played, especially considering the fact he never weighed more than 135 pounds."

Frank McGee, Ottawa Silver Seven: "An all-time, all-great at centre. A scorer who couldn't be stopped. McGee was killed in action in France after having a friend take his physical exam because he had only one eye."

Fred (Cyclone) Taylor: "One of the most colorful defenseman to come out of the West. A great rusher who would make most modern hockey defenses look helpless."

Scotty Davidson: "Another of the hockey immortals who was killed in action in the last war. He was a great right wing with the old Chicago Blue Shirts of the National Hockey Association in an era of great right wings."

Joe Malone: "One of the best centres. Holds many scoring records. One of hockey's finest gentlemen."

The Detroit manager, like most other officials in the National Hockey League, is a member of the committee to help establish the Hall of Fame.

Howe Nearing Detroit Record

By The Canadian Press.

Three goals stand between Syd Howe and the prestige of becoming the highest goal producer in Detroit Red Wing history.

Now in his ninth full season with Detroit, the 32-year-old Ottawa boy has blinked the red light 146 times—two below the club record of 148 goals in 11 seasons held by Herbie Lewis.

Howe can crack the record tonight when Detroit plays host to Chicago Black Hawks in the only National Hockey League game scheduled Thursday. If he fails then, he gets another opportunity against New York Rangers at Detroit Sunday.

Howe's lifetime record with four N.H.L. teams is 195 goals. This season he has 11 goals and 13 assists.

Detroit, whose last five starts have produced four victories and a tie, can climb within one point of the third-place Boston Bruins by a victory over Chicago, now in the clutches of a slump which has dropped them four points behind Detroit.

GALT— (CP). — Curlers have qualified for group honours in the Ontario Tankard by eliminating Fergus and Guelph, it was announced last night, and are scheduled to play the next round Feb. 3. Local winning rinks are Sid Smithers and Doug McCallum.

Chicago Cubs Threat In '44

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR., Associated Press Sport Writer.

NEW YORK, Jan. 20—(AP). — If there's safety in numbers — and some of baseball's best minds figure that mere numerical strength may have an important bearing on the 1944 pennant races—you may be hearing a lot about the two Chicago clubs, the Cincinnati Reds and Washington Senators before the 1944 season ends.

The way the "brains" reason the clubs controlling the greatest numbers of players will have the best chances of securing replacements when their regulars go marching off to the war. And judging from what's happened since last October plenty of them will go.

Right now, the Cubs, with 36 players on the active list, and the White Sox, with 35, are the best fixed. Washington, with 32 players now available, expects to fill its roster to the limit of 40 men before spring training starts and the Reds plan four additions to the 30 now listed.

As Washington's Clark Grifitth pointed out, this year's squads differ from the usual spring training groups in that they're composed largely of slowed-down veterans and untried rookies.

Most of the clubs would be glad to try out promising youngsters, but Brooklyn's Branch Rickey remarked: "Not many are the kind to take to a major league camp. Even some of the men we have now aren't too hot."

Barons Take Top Position

By The Canadian Press

Cleveland Barons gained undisputed possession of first place in the American Hockey League last night when they defeated Pittsburgh Hornets 4-3 on home ice.

The victory — their 20th — gave Barons a two-point lead over Hershey Bears, who have 43 points stacked up as a result of 19 wins, five draws, and six losses. Cleveland has five draws and seven losses.

The Hornets took a 2-0 lead on shots by Tom Forgie and Tony Hemmerling in the first, but Cleveland drilled in three counters in the second period, with Tommy Burlington, Pete Horeck and Lou Trudel doing the honors.

In the third period Phil Hergesheimer added a fourth counter for Cleveland, and late in the period Edward Quackenbush added Hornets' third tally.

Petition For Annexation Fails To Have Sufficient Support North Monaghan Council Reports

Insufficient support to the pro-annexation petition from residents of the area bounded by Monaghan Road, Lansdowne street, Park street and the Otonabee River, temporarily suspended last night progress of the deliberations of the three municipal bodies directly interested, the councils of North Monaghan, the county and the city.

This petition was received by Bruce Johnston, Thursday night, January 13, on the eve of the conference of the representatives of the three municipalities in the county council chamber last Friday afternoon. Monaghan delegates, including Mr. Johnston, explained to that meeting that the council did not have time to ascertain whether the number of petitioners was enough to give it validity and force.

However, as the signatories seemed numerous enough, the members of the council met that afternoon during a recess of the conference and expressed assent to Monaghan Road becoming the westerly boundary of the whole area of the township, south of Lansdowne street to the river, to be proposed for annexation. The city agreed, but the county's representatives held out for further extension westerly to Erskine Avenue, the first street west of May's School running south from Lansdowne street, or No. 7 Highway.

Scrutinized Petition

Reeve M. H. Johnston told the resumed meeting last night that on poring through the pages of petitioners' names he came to the opinion that their number was insufficient. He then requested Bruce Johnston, township clerk, to "check" the names of the applicants with the last assessment roll for that section of the township, and the result confirmed Reeve Johnston's doubt.

"The only subdivision of the township that had signed sufficiently was Brioux Avenue," Bruce Johnston said. "On Edison Avenue only 47 of 106 voters signed the petition. Since then, and that includes today, we understand that some of the women of that area who are in favor of annexation are continuing the circulation of the petition. For the present we do not know whether the petition will get enough signatures."

Could Mark Time

Alderman Dutton suggested, at an early stage of the meeting, the course which ultimately followed. "In view of what has transpired, that there is an inadequacy of petitioners, it seems that all we can do now to let the resolutions of last Friday stand in abeyance until we get complete information."

Alderman Dutton said North Monaghan council had assumed in the circumstances of last Friday's meeting that there were sufficient signatures on the petition. "The Clerk, after investigation, reports that there are not enough. What else can we do but withhold further decision until it is definitely determined whether the petition is sufficiently signed?"

From that precise statement of the immediate development of the negotiations, incidental discussion ranged over much the same ground that was surveyed Friday afternoon, including questions of sectional assessments, school age children, market gardens, school accommodation, and so on.

"Why can't we accept the area that is already agreed on, east of Park street," Alderman Cotton suggested. "Then we could take up the area west of Park street any time its residents decide they wish to be included."

Councillor J. S. Roberts of North Monaghan, evidently thinking of the county council's insistence upon Erskine avenue as the western boundary, said "We've had practically no expression from the people of that area" (west of Monaghan Road to Erskine avenue and south from Lansdowne street to Cameron street).

Gardeners Protest

Bruce Johnston told the meeting that some of the gardeners and other owners of 10 acre lots in the lower part of the area east of Monaghan Road had protested strongly to the council Monday against annexation. Mr. Roberts, continuing his reference to residents in that category of property, said "we have been only just getting the expression from residents of that southern section, mostly on Howden Avenue and McKellar street, and in that area."

"Well," said Mayor Hamilton, "it is up to the township to decide what area they want. In any case, I don't think the city will consider going west of Monaghan Road, south of Lansdowne street."

In regard to school matters, Mayor Hamilton said, they would have to be considered on a business basis. The city would be taking over the two schools in S.S. No. 2, May's and Confederation. Part of the school section lies to the west of the area proposed for annexation. The proper course would be to calculate the amount of money the people of that part of the section had paid to those two schools, and "decided what we should allow them once the schools are taken over. There are other matters, too, which we would like to discuss with representatives of your council. However, I think that the first thing is that if we can agree on boundaries we had better do so."

Cemetery Detail

Councillor W. J. Grady stated that Bishop MacDonald was concerned about the annexing of part of the property on the south side of Lansdowne street, westerly from Monaghan Road, which had been purchased for future cemetery needs. He understood that it was not permitted now to open a cemetery property within an urban area.

Mayor Hamilton said there was need to worry about that detail. All that would be required would be to declare it cemetery property.

"We would be in honor bound to respect any existing agreements," Alderman Dutton remarked.

Referring to the objections of the gardeners in the southern part of the Park Street-Monaghan Road division, Alderman Glover said he thought it would be all right if the part to be annexed did not go south beyond St. James street.

"I'm satisfied to have it cut off anywhere they want," Mayor Hamilton added.

Reeve Gifford, chairman of the meeting, "We were definitely told, from the assessment act, that those lands had nothing to fear."

"We were willing to agree to an assessment for five years," Mayor Hamilton replied.

Bruce Johnston returned to the township and local school section problem which would ensue from annexation to Erskine Avenue, as sought by the county council.

Pursued by Clouds

"It is unfortunate," said Alderman Dutton, "that as we go along the issue, instead of becoming clearer, becomes clouded because something else is interjected. From what Mr. Roberts said there seemed to be a question mark as to whether the township council has been as careful as it might have been in enquiring about the wishes of the people. Apparently some people have been included and now wish to stay out."

Reeve Melville Johnston said the township council was between two fires, and both of them were making it hot. He explained that the Park street-Monaghan road petition of last Thursday was reported to have been signed by 90 per cent of the voters. That was the main factor in the Friday afternoon attitude toward Monaghan road as a west boundary. It was afterwards, on examination of the petition, that a doubt arose in his mind, with resulting realization that the petition was not sufficiently signed.

"There are 68 pupils in the Erskine avenue district and the rest of the west end of School Section No. 2," Mr. Johnston said. He was referring to the part of School Section No. 2 extending west from Monaghan road to its westerly limits. "In the area from Monaghan road to Erkine avenue there are 40 pupils. So if you annexed to Erskine there would be 28 pupils left in the rest of the School Section. Arrangements might be made to have them attend the city schools for five years until we could see what the developments were. We could build a school for the children from that part of the township where it would best serve the needs.

If you leave out the Erskine avenue area and the part south of St. James street (east of Monaghan road) then we would need a two-room school right away. It might go out on Erskine avenue. I have tried to play fair with everybody, and it is a hard thing to do."

Manifestly in sympathy with the township council and its complicated problem, Mayor Hamilton suggested that the council take all the time that was needed to satisfy itself that it was on the right course and also to meet the wishes of the residents.

County's Disposition

Reeve Mather declared that the county council was prepared to stand behind its boundary outline as given, that meant to Erskine avenue. On the one hand it would relieve the county of the cost of so many more pupils attending the Collegiate Institute from the township.

(The county's proposal for annexation, apart from the area to the west of the city, is all south of Lansdowne street and east of Erskine avenue to the river.)

As to the proposal that the south boundary of the division between Park street and Monaghan road should be other than the river, McKellar street, or one of the other east-west streets which the city members said was agreeable to them, Reeve Mather mentioned, what he termed, the drainage problem, presumably on Park street south.

If the south part of that division was not included in annexation, then it would remain part of the township, up the west side of Park street to McKellar or some other street; and that would only scotch the drainage problem, leaving the southern reach of the drain still within the county. Mr. Mather frankly affirmed that the county would like to get rid of the drain and education "problem."

Alderman Glover questioned the chairman:—"What action will the county take if the city and township agree?"

"Very definite" was the smilingly defensive answer by Reeve Gifford.

"How deinite? Would you oppose us?"

"I'd think so."

"To the Municipal Board?"

"Yes."

That was a precise, clear cut assertion of the position of the county council.

Faith In City

Bruce Johnston said he had always found the city fair in its dealings with North Monaghan. He believed it would be only a small matter to get together and settle the details. Residents of the township had a right to declare their wishes, and the majority should rule.

"We're a hundred per cent with that," Alderman Cotton commented.

"This last petition is still out," Mr. Johnston said. "It will take a day or two until the petition is brought back to the council, and to have the question (relating to all or part of the Park street-Monaghan road division) settled by petition."

"I'd suggest," Mayor Hamilton recommended, "that Monaghan and the county try to arrange definite boundaries."

Mr. Gifford enquired of the members of both councils whether they were willing to proceed at once in a joint session, and that was done, beginning about 9.30 p.m.

river averages 700 yards in width in its lower reaches and is too deep for wading.

Suio, seven miles inland from the coast, and Argento, almost on the coast itself, lie just beyond the stream. Two of the three bridgeheads won in the British advance early Monday night were forced across the river at these points.

To-day's communique reported patrol actions elsewhere on the 5th and 8th Army fronts.

Smash Rail Lines

American forces are shelling Cassino, presumably in preparations for a direct assault on this central German bulwark, it said.

Following up the successful blocking of the major rail routes from the north into Rome by air bombardment, Allied heavy and medium bombers yesterday struck directly at a chain of airfields in the vicinity of the Italian capital itself. The blows were directed against the Campino airdromes just outside the city and against the nearby Centocelle field.

Escorted Liberators also swung up to Perugia airfield, 85 miles north of Rome, and scored many hits in the landing area.

Night bombers in strong force attacked rail yards on Tuesday night at Pontassieve, 10 miles east of Florence.

Stores, barracks, and dispersal areas were hit by medium bombers at Viterbo and Rieti, 40 miles north-west and north-east of Rome respectively, while light bombers attacked rail facilities at Sulmona, in advance of the 8th Army front, and at Colleferro.

Fighters and fighter-bombers attacked gun positions over the battle area as well as rolling stock in Central Italy and shipping on the Yugoslav coast, the communique reported.

Mishap Kills R.A.F. Air Ace In Italian Area

ALGIERS, Jan. 20 — (AP). — Lance C. Wade, R.A.F. squadron leader from Tucson, Ariz., and top-ranking ace of this theatre, was killed in a flying accident in Italy on January 12, it was announced to-day. He had shot down 25 enemy planes in combat.

Wade had been decorated with the Distinguished Flying Cross and Two Bars. He fought with the R.A.F. all through the Middle East campaign and had many an adventure in the desert. Once he was rescued after a 27-mile walk after his plane was shot down in combat.

He narrowly escaped death many times. Perhaps his closest call occurred last November 4 in Italy.

With a fellow Spitfire pilot Wade was patrolling forward positions for the 8th Army. They sighted an enemy formation and discovered themselves pitted against 20 enemy fighters. Wade damaged three and his companion destroyed one.

Suddenly Wade found himself being chased by seven enemy planes. He dropped into a valley and streaked along for miles before the enemy planes gave up the chase, presumably because they had run out of ammunition.

Cut Rail Line

On the Volkhov front north of Novgorod and on Lake Ilmen directly south of the city, the Russians announced that Gen. K. A. Meretskov's forces had cut the Leningrad-Novgorod direct rail line at Bolotnaya, a more easterly line at Podberechye, and both the highway and railway between Novgorod and Shimsk to the southwest.

To celebrate the northern triumphs, Premier Marshal Stalin ordered a 20-round salute from 224 canon in Moscow last night. Units which took Krasnoye Selo and Ropsha will bear the names of those towns.

(The Moscow radio said last night warships of the Soviet Baltic fleet had shelled German positions on the Leningrad front to help open the offensive. Coastal batteries joined in the bombardment, said the broadcast, recorded by the United States office of war information.)

Build New Hospital

TORONTO, Jan. 20—(CP).—The civic hospitalization and welfare committee yesterday recommended to City Council a grant of $150,000 be given the Salvation Army for the construction of a $900,000 general hospital on Davisville Avenue, in the north end of the city.

Grants Approved By Committee County Council

Reeve James Humphries of Asphodel presided for the first time this morning in his new appointment as chairman of the finance committee of the county council.

The first request dealt with was from the Canadian Institute for the Blind for $200. Reeve Gifford moved, seconded by Reeve M. H. Johnston, that the assistance this year be $150. An amendment by Reeve Curtin proposed the grant be $200; and in an amendment to the amendment Reeve Lean limited the aid to $100. The motion for $150 was adopted.

$100 To Salvation Army.

Grants of $100 to the Salvation Army, for war work; $50 to the Peterborough Fish and Game Protection Society for co-operation in restocking district waters; $25 to the Conservation and Reforestation Association were also approved. The request of the Ontario Association of Assessing Officers that the council make a determined effort to enrol as many of such officers in its area as possible in the Association was dropped after some discussion. Reeve Mather stated that the proposition was more a matter of concern to the municipalities individually than to the county as a whole.

Municipal Association

It was moved and carried that $25 should be forwarded to the Ontario Municipal Association and that either the warden or the chairman of the Finance Committee, along with the county clerk, should be sent as delegates to their convention. The convention was attended last year for the first time by a member of the council, Reeve Gilbert McIlmoyl of Smith, who stated that he considered it quite worthwhile, advising, however, that the county clerk, as one experienced in the details of business taken up, should be regularly included in any delegation to the conventions of this Association. It was so moved and ordered.

A $10 fee was voted to be paid to the Ontario Educational Association, and Reeve Rork Ferguson of Norwood was chosen as the delegate to attend this convention. On the motion of Reeves Gifford and Mather no action was taken in regard to the request of the Ontario Agricultural Council for support and attendance at its convention in February.

Lengthiest discussion of the morning session developed over the question of operating the County Home at Lakefield, which is presently in charge of Mrs. Garbutt, Matron, and her husband. It was said they were being overworked through lack of help and that the rights of the matter called for drastic action to supplement their services at the Home. For this reason it was moved by Reeve Mather that everything possible in the way of advertising be done to secure help for Mrs. Garbutt; to provide her with an assistant matron if she were agreeable or at least with some help, even though inexperienced. "I know that the cost will go up substantially, but we'll be doing the only rght thing," Mr. Mather said. Seconded by Reeve McIlmoyl, the motion carried.

The council resumed to discuss insurance matters, with Leslie Evans, of A. E. Wilson Co., Toronto insurance brokers. The policies up for renewal were three in number and included road liability insurance, truck coverage and non-ownership liability for vehicles driven by County employees.

Decline In Rate.

Due to a favorable trend in accident claims, premium for the coming year for the road liability insurance had been pared considerably, and now stood at $652.50 in comparison with about $900 last year. Mr. Evans revealed that for a long time prior to the past few years experience with the county had not been good and premiums were accordingly high, reaching $1,593 in 1939. More recently the trend had been reversed. Ten year's experience in the County, Mr. Evans said, showed total premiums of $9,844 paid and claims amounting to $12,440. Nearly half of the latter amount—or $5,945 had been represented by the heaviest year, 1940.

Decision in this matter was referred to the Finance Committee as also was the case with the other two policies, in both of which premiums did not differ to any substantial amount over those of the previous year.

Coal Receipts Show Decline

Receipts in Canada of anthracite coal are less than the control authorities expected, according to a report from the Department of Munitions and Supply.

"Due to loss in production at the mines in November with the loss over the holiday period that we will not receive over the balance of the season as much anthracite as we had anticipated.

Therefore, every dealer should urge his customers to take part of their requirements of some suitable substitute fuel in order to spread the available supply of anthracite around as far as possible."

It was recently stated here that the Fuel Controller has authority to cancel the license of any dealer who ignores the regulations which have been devised mainly for the purpose of a more equitable distribution of hard coal among consumers.

Several dealers here have been reported as indifferent, and playing into the hands of 'chisellers,' and control authorities have become apprised of the information.

Central Ontario Leads Agencies

The Central Ontario Agency of the North American Life Assurance Co., with headquarters at Peterborough, has been successful in winning the company's premier award, Nalaco Cup, emblematic of the highest acomplishment of any agency on the continent for North American Life. To win this trophy not only requires the largest volume of new business, but also business of a type that produces the greatest increase in force. This offers a real test and marks a real achievement.

A new chapter was written in the history of the trophy a few years ago when Central Ontario Agency scored three successive victories, the first time this feat had ever been performed in the sixty-odd years of competition by all agencies of the company on the continent. Since that time this Agency has consistently maintained a leading position, relinquishing the premier position only to Montreal and Vancouver. This year they defeated Vancouver to again take the leading position.

The members of this progressive Agency force are to be congratulated on a job well and thoroughly done, which resulted in such a fine record of achievement.

The presentation of the cup will take place at Toronto when all those associated with the Agency will foregather with the directors and officials of the company to celebrate the occasion and as a fitting tribute to the men and women who put this Agency among the foremost of life insurance agencies anywhere.

Those associated with the Agency at Peterborough are: Dave Ketcheson, manager, Central Ontario Division, Jack McLaren, Charles Taylor, Viola Payton, T. Blanchard, P. A. Martyn, Jean Gillespie, Margaret Hamley, Alma Hancock, Helen Ballard, Jean Bench and Zola Warr.

Merchant Sailor Has Adventure On Convoy Trip

BAILIEBORO, Jan. 20—(ENS)—The Merchant Marine is no place for a man whose nerves are not in good shape, particularly on an ammunition ship which develops engine trouble half way to its destination, making a splendid target for enemy U-boats. This was one of the experiences of James Strange, formerly of Peterborough and Bailieboro, whose boat was loaded with 3,000 pounds of TNT and other explosives when trouble broke out.

"Although the Merchant Marine has not yet been recognized as one of Canada's Armed Forces, it nevertheless deserves that honor, since many of its men have died in this war and face the same risks as the men in the Navy. When our ship developed trouble, the repair work was made additionally dangerous, because we had to lag behind out of sight of the convoy. But the engineers went to work removing cylinders and making repairs as calmly as if they were in dry dock," Mr. Strange declared.

JAMES STRANGE

After serving in a number of jobs aboard ship, Mr. Strange said he found he liked the work of deck hand best of all. Mess boys proved interesting but there were long tedious hours, and as for cook, that was the worst punishment imaginable.

Care for Seamen

Praising the Allied Merchant Seaman's Club in Halifax, the sailor declared it excelled any in the British Isles and that it was the finest in any port. He explained that great credit was due to the women of the Garrison City whose voluntary work made the quarters attractive with a homelike atmosphere and said that it was the one place sailors of every national could come to after a rough trip, without meeting jibes, and be made to feel at home.

"A good meal and a clean bed can be had for a reasonable charge and perfect order is kept at all hours by kindly policemen, who allow no rowdyism. The rotunda furnished by a branch of the Royal Canadian Navy brings comforts to the men and movies are shown free of charge two or three times a week. The best variety shows with top notch artists are also regular features. The Club in addition, is staffed with nurses, sick bay attendents and a house doctor. In spite of the idea of many Ontario people, Halifax residents are not cool and aloof, but friendly and hospitable."

Visits Old Home

On one of his trips to England Mr. Strange spent the time revisiting his old home which he had not seen for 30 years. He was disappointed to find that the district in which he lived had been so severely bombed that it was hardly recognizable and old landmarks and dwellings were drastically demolished.

After some inquiry, the seaman discovered his old school was still standing, and when he prepared to pay it a visit, he met a former schoolmate who had been there at the same time. The school had been turned into an A.R.P. station, which was heavily guarded, and they were refused admittance. Sentiment triumphed over regulations however, and permission was granted for the two to make a tour. Not even the blackboards were changed he found, as memory carried him back over the interim since he had left.

Although he was born and brought up in England, Mr. Strange worked for some time at Roy's Studio here, had a farm in Emily township, lived in Smith township with T. T. Milburn and at Bailieboro.

R. F. Downey Is Hurt In Crash

Two men received head injuries, $600 damage was done to two automobiles and a verandah was badly smashed in a traffic accident at Rubidge and Charlotte streets about 9 o'clock Wednesday night.

The injured are County School Inspector R. F. Downey, 298 Boswell avenue, suffering from a blow on his forehead, a cut over his left eye and concussion, and Arthur Hill, 478 Monaghan road, injury to his forehead.

Police have not been able to get a clear picture of just how the accident happened. R. Kitchen, employed at Genelco and living at 478 Monaghan road, was driving his automobile west on Charlotte street and at the Rubidge street intersection his car and that driven by Inspector Downey came into collision. Kitchen told police that the Downey car came south on Rubidge street. Wally McKenzie, Lake street, an eye-witness of the affair, stated, however, that the school inspector had been driving east on Charlotte street. Inspector Downey, whose head had come into contact with the windshield of his car after the crash was suffering from concussion and unable to tell the officers just what happened before the collision.

After the cars met the Downey automobile crossed the sidewalk at the northeast corner of the intersection and crashed into the verandah of 308 Charlotte street, owned by L. G. Webster. The other machine came to rest against a tree at the northwest corner.

Inspector Downey and Hill who was a passenger in the car driven by Kitchen were taken to the Clinic and given first aid by Dr. A. Moir, afterwards being removed to their homes.

The police estimate of the damage to the Downey car was between $400 and $500 and to the other car in the neighborhood of $200. The Webster verandah was knocked down by the crash.

Concert And Dance Attended By 1,500

The concert and dance at the Training Centre attracted fifteen hundred people last night. The band of the R.C.A.M.C., Camp Borden, under the direction of Albert Crosdale, was renewing an acquaintance that deepens with each meeting. The dance floor was crowded throughout the later part of the program, and quite a large crowd was seated when the concert began at 8.15.

The band is remaining for another week, and will probably be a feature for the officers and men of the camp, and may be heard again by the general public. It is understood that Fred Mann has enlisted their abilities for a concert whose proceeds will go for the British War Victims' Fund.

Sunday Schools Give Aid To War Victims

Not so very long ago, in fact right up to the time that this present war commenced, generous help from the various christian bodies in Britain flowed to this country to help and sustain the work of the various churches, from which even some benefit came to this city in the early days of its history.

This in a large sense was made up of countless small gifts for that purpose from people in all walks of life, who contributed through the various missionary societies not only to promote the spread of the Gospel, but also to sustain those who had migrated to this land and support those who ministered to them in this particlar.

Little did those who helped in days gone by to support this in the old land, ever think that this would be returning to them in such a large measure as these latter days have seen through such funds as is operated by the Peterborough and District British War Victims Fund, which more than demonstrates the scriptural writings, "Cast your bread upon the waters and it will return after many days."

In support of this help, nothing could perhaps be more appropriate than that all the various christian bodies in the country should play a leading part, and one of the finest avenues for doing so could be their Sunday Schools, for one of the greatest teachings of christianity is to be found in the three greatest virtues, Faith, Hope and Charity, the greatest of which is Charity, also interpreted by love, and young folk of to-day are very quick to appreciate the genuiness of all teaching when it is accompanied by works that fully demonstrates it relability.

Three Sunday Schools Help

Rising to this opportunity to serve and take part in this good work, no less than three different Sunday Schools in the city and district are recorded with donations to this fund today, two of them owing allegiance to the United Church of Canada as represented by Knox United Church with two separate donations that came from their White Gifts service, and the United Church at Westwood, while Park Street Baptist Church through Mrs. J. K. Benson, accounts for the other, all of whom have helped on previous occasions with work of this fund.

Boys and girls in these schools who are learning the tenets of their Christian faith, cannot but help learn through this the true value of its teachings, when it is accompanied by such deeds as true followers of the Great Master, Who went about doing good for others.

Auchinleck, commander-in-chief in India, and Generalissimo-President Chiang Kai-shek of China, commander of all Chinese forces.

School Board Holds First Meeting

LAKEFIELD, Jan. 20 (ENS). — The b;rief inaugural meeting of the Public School Board was held this week. For the first time in over a year the full number of trustees was present and E. H. Northey presided.

Miss Grace Yonge was re-appointed secretary-treasurer for 1944 at the same salary by trustees M Kingdon and W. Whetung. M. Kingdon was named chairman of the property committee, with a committee of Rev. S. A. R. Wood and Wilbert Frankish, two new members to the board, and the finance committee is made up of Roy Bulock and W. Whetung. W. Adamson was appointed attendance officer at a salary of $10 a year and Mrs. J. W. Ridpath was appointed to the Library Board frow 1944 to 1946.

It was moved by Trustees Frankish and Whetung that Roy Bullock repair the seats instead of purchasing new ones.

Principal E. Sloan reported that 243 pupils were enrolled for December with an average attendance of 76.21 per cent. This was a lower attendance than usual, due to a number of students being ill with the 'flu.' During December the children purchased $38.75 worth of War Savings Stamps.

Miss Yonge reported the following expenditures for January: Telephone $2.50; lights, $23.80; W. S. Remnant, making cupboards, $18.50; E. J. Millage, repairs, $8.50.

CANADIANS REPULSE ATTACK — Writing glorious chapters into the history of the war, Canadian troops in Italy have met the flower of the German Army and sent enemy divisions reeling back after grim battles. These two pictures, just in from Italy, show two phases of the fight. Left—The war is over for these German soldiers captured by Canadians on the Italian front, and Cpl. W. R. Hardy of Winnipeg is telling their sergeant-major in fluent German how they should behave on parade. Right — The Canadian soldier shown crouched at the corner of the building, had the road covered during a German counter-attack repulsed by Canadians near San Leonardo.

Colonel Refutes Evidence By Colleague

FREDERICTON, Jan. 20—(CP)—Evidence given by Major Peter Berbrayer was contradicted by Lt.-Col. H. E. Baird, when the latter testified in his own defence Wednesday at his general court-martial on charges of neglect as commanding officer of Fredericton Military Hospital.

Berbrayer, only medical officer on hospital day duty, Sept. 17, had stated Baird was responsible for Pte. Charles Fraser Smith, a patient on that day. Baird denied having assumed any such responsibility.

The accused is charged with negligently failing to assure proper medical attention for Smith, who died three days after his admission into the army and after medical officers disbelieved his claim of suffering diabetes. One charge adds that omission of such attention endangered Smith's life. Baird was the only witness heard this morning. The prosecuting officer, Capt. A. S. Ferguson, gave a brief summing up. P. J. Hughes, K.C., defence counsel, started his closing address after the luncheon adjournment. The court will consider its finding after conclusion of Mr. Hughes' address. Two army medical officers were acquitted in previous hearings.

Answering questions about Berbrayer's statement that Baird undertook to take over Smith's case, the accused said Berbrayer had always co-operated previously. "I never had any trouble before that and do not know why he would make that statement."

There was no understanding that Berbrayer, contrary to his evidence would handle only surgical cases, said Baird.

Many Canadians In Mediterranean War Theatre

By ALLAN NICKLESON
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

LONDON, Jan. 20 — (CP). — The Mediterranean war theatre appears to be a large area surrounded and inhabited by Canadians.

Anyone knows that other nations are represented there, too, but as a Canadian just returned from an 8,000-mile, three-week trip to Africa, Italy, Malta and a couple of intermediate points, the number of fellow-countrymen I saw remains amazing.

I visited eight air stations which contained all sorts of units ranging from fighters to coastal bombers, and each had Canadian personnel. One Air Force officer told our party of Empire correspondents he believed Canada was represented in every squadron in the theatre except perhaps one or two complete Australian or South African units.

Canadian soldiers, too, were everywhere. In Italy, as we drove from Foggia to the Sangro River for an interview with Gen. Montgomery, the Canadian 1st Division was strung along the road and in olive groves. It was waiting to relieve a British division and the next day it moved into the line. Other Canadian soldiers camped around the Naples district on the other side of the front.

Met Schoolmate.

In Bari, Italian town on the Adriatic, I met a one-time schoolmate Pat Mills of Toronto, tank commander with the Three Rivers Regiment. By a strange coincidence, the last time we met was in Barrie, Ont. That was six years ago.

"It's a long way from Barrie to Bari," said Pat, now a major. Our conversation was interrupted, however, by German bombers which decided to attack the harbor that night. Two ammunition ships blew up and a total of 17 vessels were destroyed. We had a drink in a blast-shattered hotel bar. Pat decided it wasn't a very quiet way to spend a leave.

In an R.A.F. station on Malta we met Canadian airmen, including FOS. Murray Hendershott of Windsor, Ont., an observer.

Has Good Score.

In Italy, only a few minutes by air from the front line, we stood on an airfield of the tactical bombing force and chatted with airmen. A Boston bomber pilot was FO. Ross Lipsitt of Grimsby, Ont., who joined the Air Force three years ago in Vancouver.

In an orange grove near the 5th Army front we had lunch in a mess tent with members of the crack City of London (England) Beaufighter Squadron which had destroyed 124 enemy aircraft up to mid-December. We chatted with a slim flying officer, John Turnbull, D.F.C. and bar, of St. Thomas, Ont., who has shot down 11½ planes.

The City of Windsor Spitfire squadron, of course, is made up of Canadians. Led by Sqdn. Ldr. Bert Houle of Massey, Ont., who celebrated his recent appointment as commanding officer by shooting down two German fighter-bombers with in 15 seconds, the unit daily patrols the Eighth Army front.

Among other City of Windsor pilots were Flt. Lt. Hedley Everard, Timmins, Ont., and WO. Walter Chittenden of St. Catharines, Ont. There are no non-commissioned pilots on the squadron with the exception of a couple of warrant officers.

Back in Africa we met plenty of other Canadians including FO. Ted Farah, one-time Toronto colleague now a public relations officer with the R.C.A.F.

MILLBROOK, Jan. 20 — (ENS) —The W.A. of St. Thomas Church met for its annual meeting and election of officers Monday evening, at the home of the president Mrs. C. M. Westmacott, the hostess taking the chair, and Mrs. W. E. Massey-Cooke leading in the W. A. Litany. It was decided to make a donation to the Chinese and Indian famine relief fund, which is to be received in all churches on January 30.

The supper hostesses, Mrs. H. M. Trick and Mrs. G. Bell served light refreshments, each one present placing a small offering in the W. A. mite-box.

Soldier's Wife Guilty Of Bigamy

HAMILTON, Ont., Jan. 20 —(CP). — Ivy Mattice, 29, to-day was remanded one week for sentence after she pleaded guilty before Magistrate H. A. Burbidge, to a charge of bigamy.

Evidence showed that in August, 1933, she married Harry Ramsay Mattice, now serving with the Canadian Army, and was drawing his dependents' allowance for herself and their four children. In March, 1942, she went through a form of marriage in London, Ont., with Jack Burns Kaufman, a sailor, and, police said, was supporting their 13-months-old child on Kaufman's Navy pay.

Two Hun Prisoners Reported At Large

OTTAWA, Jan. 20 — (CP)—Internment officials disclosed to-day that search has been under way for two weeks for two German air force prisoners-of-war who escaped Jan 4 from a lumber camp on the Quebec province side of the Ottawa river near Chalk River, Ont., approximately 100 miles northwest of Ottawa.

The men, both of whom speak poor English, are Hans Hein, 32, and Heinz Schrodt, 26.

Royal Canadian Mounted Police officers are conducting the search.

Mosquitos Wreck Large Flying Boat

LONDON, Jan. 20 — (CP). — Several large German flying boats were discovered sitting like ducks at a base at Stavanger, Norway, and one was destroyed today by British Mosquitos on offensive patrol over the Norwegian coast.

This was the first report of aerial activity from Britain in three days. The Air Ministry described the flying boats as three-engined Blohm Und Voss 138s. Long-distance patrol craft and said cannon hits were seen on several of them.

The patrol shot down another of the enemy aircraft in flames before coming home unscathed.

THE IMPERIAL LIFE

Record of Service

in 1943

ANOTHER year of war has emphasized again the value and importance of life insurance to the individual and the nation alike. In providing the cover of protection for family and person, life insurance helps to stabilize our national economy under war-time conditions, and aids substantially in financing the national war effort.

● The Imperial Life shares, with other life insurance companies, the responsibility of furthering these essential objectives in the Dominion. Therefore the Company is happy to report, for the year 1943, a record of successful service in the encouragement of thrift, through an increased sale of life insurance, and by the willing co-operation of its officers and representatives in promoting the sale of Victory Bonds to the extent of many millions of dollars.

● This record of service is one of which our policy-holders may well be proud. It is a striking example of achievement under a system of free enterprise, wherein individual forethought and thrift, wisely directed and co-ordinated, can provide a maximum financial return in the hour of need, and also help to furnish the sinews of war to our fighting forces.

● The sound financial position of The Imperial Life as shown by the facts summarized below, is due, not alone to long experience and careful administration on the part of its management, but to the increasing number of men and women who are safeguarding their future, and the future welfare of their families, through life insurance policies with The Imperial Life.

Every Member Of Crew Under 30 As Chaudiere Re-commissioned

OTTAWA, Jan. 20.—To the skirl of bagpipes played by a Nova Scotian seaman in the shadow of Nelson's "Victory," H.M.C.S. Chaudiere, refitted and converted Fleet Class destroyer was commissioned with an all-Canadian crew in historic Portsmouth dockyard, and will go into service with Canada's River Class ships on the convoy sealanes of the North Atlantic, according to an announcement by the Minister for Naval Services, the Hon. Angus L. Macdonald. Commanding officer of this specially-equipped anti-submarine destroyer is A-Lt. Cdr. Patrick Nixon, R.C.N., of Victoria, B.C.

First of two additional destroyers of this type to be fitted for convoy escort and anti-submarine duties H.M.C.S. Chaudiere, the former H.M.S. Hero, brings to five the number of these ships taken over within the past year, her predecessors being "Kootenay," "Ottawa," "Gatineau," and "Saskatchewan." Another, H.M.S. Foxhound, will be commissioned shortly as H.M.C.S. Qu'Appelle.

In Early Twenties

Not an officer or man in the entire ship's company is over 30 and the average age is in the early twenties. Drawn from every province in Dominion, the crew list reads like a roster of the races who are building Canada today. In addition to those of British origin there are more than 30 French Canadians and a number of names of New Canadians representative of half the countries in Europe. Many of the crew are trainees who have qualified for sea service from the great R.C.N. training base at Deepbrook, Nova Scotia.

Striking up a pibroch to launch the lean fighting ship on her new career as the commissioning pennant was broken out Leading Seaman Dan Morrison of Pictou Landing, Nova Scotia, gave his pipes full play. The wild, blood-stirring, music resounded bravely against the background of the old dockyard where the wooden walls of the "Victory," symbol of British sea-power of another century, loomed dimly in the winter mist.

Modern Equipment.

Strengthened for ice and specially equipped with the latest available anti-submarine equipment, H.M.C.S. Chaudiere has been completely refitted from stem to stern and is in first class fighting trim. In the present war she has made a name for herself at Narvik, Matapan, Cape Spada, Crete, Tobruk and Serte. Built as a Fleet Class destroyer in 1936 she is equipped with four 4.7 gun mountings, torpedo tubes, depth charge throwers and anti-aircraft battery.

Few ship's companies in the Royal Canadian Navy can muster such an unsual combination of names. Every man is a Canadian but many trace their ancestry back to distant sections of the world. England, Scotland, Ireland, Russia, Poland, France, Norway, Sweden and Denmark are all represented. The names in one section of the ship's register read: Cournyea, Damiano, Hlusiak, Hiltz, Kelly, McIntyre, Minichuk, Murphy, Shannahan and Smith.

Commanding officer of H.M.C.S. Chaudiere is Lt. Cdr. Patrick Nixon, R.C.N., of Victoria, B.C., who joined the Royal Canadian Navy in 1935. Prior to the war he had seen service in the British cruisers H.M.S. Exeter and H.M.S. Frobisher. In September, 1939, he was appointed to H.M.C.S. St. Laurent, and served in her in the North Atlantic until 1942 as first lieutenant. His next appointment was to H.M.C.S. King's College, Halifax, where he served as executive officer until taking up his present appointment. A son of Cdr. E. A. Nixon, R.C.N., he has one brother in the R.C.N.V.R., another in the R.C.A.F., and a sister in the Women's Division of the R.C.A.F.

First lieutenant of H.M.C.S. Chaudiere is Lt. T. C. Pullen, R..CN., of Oakville, Ont. A brother of Cmdr. H. M. Pullen, commanding officer of H.M.C.S. Ottawa, Lieut. Pullen is a youthful veteran of the North Atlantic sea war. He was serving as executive officer in the first H.M.C.S. Ottawa when she was torpedoed by a U-boat in the North Atlantic in 1942.

In charge of the engine room is Lt. (E) George Webb, R.C.N.V.R., of Guelph, Ont. Gunnery officer is Lt. James Hewlett, R.C.N.V.R., of Duncan, B.C. Torpedo officer is Lt. H. E. Conyers, R.C.N.V.R., of Montreal, and the navigating officer is Lt. Dudley R. Smythies, R.C.N.V.R., of Victoria, B.C. Signals officer is Sub-Lt. Douglas Boyle, R.C.N., of Reevistoke, B.C.; the other officers are Lt. James Hay, R.C.N.V.R., of Saint John, N.B., and Sub-Lt. Charles Rathgeb, R.C.N.V.R., of Toronto, a former member of the R.C.M.P., who transferred to the navy blue. Ship's doctor is Surgeon-Lieut. Alastair Macdonald, R.C.N.V.R., of Windsor, Ont

Veteran of the ship is Minnie, the ship's cat, now officially adopted by the new crew. She joined the ship on the outbreak of war and has sailed on every commission since. After the transfer had been completed Minnie inspected her new shipmates, and then walked quietly aboard. She figured "they would do."

H.M.C.S. Chaudiere, newly-commissioned River Class destroyer of the Royal Canadian Navy. The former Fleet Class destroyer H.M.S. Hero, she has been refitted from stem to stern and specially equipped for anti-submarine warfare in the North Atlantic.

MAKES SIGNAL—Lieut. Commander Patrick Nixon, R.C.N., commanding officer of H.M.C.S. Chaudiere, makes a signal from the bridge as his ship forges through the narrow waters of the English Channel.

Lieut.-Commander Patrick Nixon, R.C.N., of Victoria, B.C., commanding officer of H.M.C.S. Chaudiere. He has been in the navy since 1935.

Few Lucky Hits Cost Allies 17 Loaded Ships

By ALLAN NICKLESON
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

LONDON, Jan. 20 — (CP Cable) —One of the greatest marine disasters since the Halifax explosion in 1917 — the sinking of 17 Allied ships in the Adriatic port of Bari—came about through a couple of "lucky hits" by German aircraft who until a subsequent Allied announcement had no idea of the damage they had caused. The enemy originally claimed only three Allied ships as sunk.

This is an eye-witness account of that 60-minute raid on the night of December 2 when two ammunition ships struck by Nazi bombs exploded in gigantic sheets of flame and resulted in the sinking of 17 ships in the harbor on the east coast of Italy. About 30 enemy planes took part.

There were more than 1,000 casualties as a result of the raid, many of them fatal. Windows and doors were blown out for miles around and many small buildings in the immediate vicinity were wrecked.

Most of the ships, with cargoes destined for the British 8th Army, were destroyed by two separate blasts that followed the hitting of the ammunition vessels.

Until to-day British censorship prevented elaboration of the attack beyond details issued December 16 by War Secretary Henry Stimson at Washington.

9 Reporters There.

Nine Empire war correspondents from London on an air tour of the Mediterranean war theatre arrived in Bari only a couple of hours before the early night surprise raid. All escaped uninjured.

We were returning to the town by bus from a conference with Air Marshal Sir Arthur Coninghams when the raid started. There was no alarm. White flares from the enemy planes floated over the target area. A small bomb exploded 250 yards from us as we neared the harbor area. It only shook the bus. Then a pyrotechnic display of light and heavy anti-aircraft fire shot into the clear skies.

Incendiary Blaze Flattens Tire Plant

BARCELONA, Jan. 20 — (AP). —A fire apparently started by incendiary time bombs destroyed a large tire factory in Grenoble in France, which was working day and night to supply the German army with tires from synthetic and reclaimed rubber, it was learned yesterday.

Toulouse newspapers carried the German announcements of executions of nine Frenchmen two weeks ago for sniping at Nazi troops "favoring the enemy and carrying arms for resistance movements."

Searight for the Junior Choir; T. A. Mackay reported for Nicholls Hospital, while statistics on the operation of the hospital were supplied by John Hornall, the superintendent. Mr. Mackay and Dr. J. M. McCulloch were re-appointed to the Hospital Board. Miss Lena Eakins reported for the Willing Workers Group..

A. Watkins and O. M. Steer were named Bible Society representatives; T. H. Taylor and W. S. Hill, auditors; and G. A. Macdonald replaces W. L. Ferguson, who has left the city, on the Trustee Board

Before the meeting closed, Dr. and Mrs. Smart retired, and with T. A. Mackay in the chair, an honorarium was voted as a mark of appreciation of the faithful services rendered by the minister and his wife.

Inspector Commends Work Done By Pasteurization Operators

Results of examination of milk and milk products in December were for the most part satisfactory Sanitary Inspector MacPherson reported to the Board of Health on Tuesday.

"All specimens were reported properly and adequately pasteurized. Bacterial counts were within reasonable limits. One specimen indicated excessive post-pasteurization contamination. On visiting the plant we found the difficulty to be caused by a neglected pocket in the pipe line from the pasteurizer in the cooler. The operator of this plant has been somewhat inexperienced, and knowing the set-up it is easily understood how he missed this particular spot in his cleaning routine. However, he was very co-operative and I feel sure this will not occur again."

Operators of pasteurizing plants have to contend with long delays in replacing equipment, and in many cases equipment which might otherwise be discarded has to be patched up and repaired to serve the purpose for the present. Breakages and stoppage in this sort of equipment is expected to be more frequent, and it was this sort of difficulty several of the plant operators were faced with this month. However, every effort is made to protect the quality of the milk. "I do think the operators deserve credit for the manner in which they carry on under the most severe conditions and continue to produce a safe, quality product."

Restaurants and refreshment booths were found in sanitary condition. "Considerable interest is being shown in providing refrigeration for storage of green vegetables. This is a decided aid in preserving their vitamin content. The market was regularly inspected and the food found wholesome. Several fowl purchased here were examined and condemned as showing evidence of being unfit for food."

Two houses were closed as unfit for human habitation due to disrepair, lack of water and sanitary facilities. They have since been vacated. "One other premises was found in similar unsanitary condition and steps are now being taken to rectify these conditions. The possibility of closing this premises is also imminent. A dwelling which had been closed some four years ago and vacant since that time was found to be occupied. One week's notice was given the occupants to vacate since a nuisance was being created."

This Week's Best Wartime Recipe

Contributed By Mary Moore Readers

DEAR MARY MOORE—My sister lives in Georgia and they have lots of sweet potatoes down there. She often serves them with peanuts—this is a common dish with everybody, and she has written me this week to say that in their schools nutritionists attribute to the common use of peanuts the good health standards of their school children. I have not tried the recipe for sweet potatoes with peanuts, although it sounds like ordinary glazed sweet potatoes with peanuts added,—but I have tried the following cake and thought it very good—as did the ladies at our Red Cross who tasted it.

PEANUT APPLE CAKE
(Contributed by Mrs. March's Sister)

Two cups bread crumbs, ¼ cup sugar, 2 tablespoons butter,(or margarine she says), ½ cup salted or roasted peanuts chopped, 2 cups sweetened apple sauce. Mix crumbs sugar and butter and stir over low heat for about 3 minutes. Mix with the peanuts off the heat. Spread a thin layer of crumbs over buttered baking dish, put in a layer of applesauce and continue these layers until crumbs and applesauce are used up-having top layer of crumbs. Bake at 350 deg. Fahr. for 30 minutes. This will turn out and can be cut in slices and served with lemon sauce or whipped cream or pouring cream. Orange rind is a nice addition to the crumbs in the pudding.

I served this when I had guests this week and it was unusually good. Thanks—I am going to try to print more peanut recipes—they are excellent protein food.

DOROTHY DIX

CHILDREN CHEER UP ANY HOME

Middleaged Mother With Own Grown, Away, Offers Blessing to Motherless Little Ones.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX—I am a country woman, only middle-aged, well and strong. I have two fine children who are married and gone and our house is lonesome and empty. My husband and I long to hear the sound of little feet upon the floors and to hear childish voices babbling round us. Therefore, we are anxious to take two babies to rear, but our children are violently opposed to it, and say: "Mother, you have reared your own children. Let that be enough. Don't burden yourself with a baby now in your old age."

Yet I want a child and I feel I am more fitted to rear one now than I was when I was younger. I have learned so much by bringing up my own. Do you think we would be foolish to take children?

MRS. A. B. C.

Children Woud Cheer Home

ANSWER—Indeed I don't, Mrs. A. B. C. I think it would be the wisest thing you could possibly do and the one thing that would bring more cheer and brightness into your own and your husband's life than anything else.

And, oh, what a blessed thing it would be for the poor, little, homeless, motherless babies you would take from the cold comfort of an orphan asylum into the shelter of your warm human home! Of course, your children are trying to save you work and care and responsibility, and nobody will deny that bringing up a baby has plenty of all of these in it, and that it ties you down to your job as nothing else does. But what your children forget is that it is the kind of work that is fun and that you like to do.

The troubble with middle-aged and elderly people is the lack of interests in life. They haven't enough to do or enough to think about, or anything to plan for and look forward to. It is absolutely necessary for our happiness and well-being for us to have some incentive, some absorbing occupation, and it is the lack of this that kills people.

Notice the men who retire from business. They break under idleness far quicker than they would have done at work. Having nothing to do but to think about themselves, they get cranky and neurotic and ill with diseases that are half imaginary, and soon they die. It is the men who keep on with their jobs and have a vital interest who keep young and hale and hearty up into the eighties. And it is the same way with women.

A woman's job is rearing her family, and when that is accomplished and her children have gone about the business of life and left her, and she has nobody to work for or plan for any more, she often turns from being a cheerful, helpful, amiable woman into being a peevish, fretful, fault-finding one, who is hard to live with. And it is all because she has nothing to do and nobody to think about but herself.

So I think that if you will take these children you will save yourself from this dreary fate. You will provide yourself with a never-failing source of interest. You will have plenty to do to keep you busy, and you will have the satisfaction of knowing that you are doing one of the finest and noblest things in the world.

For no woman can set her hand to a more God-given piece of work than mothering little motherless children, and giving them a chance to make something of themselves in a world that is hard and cruel to orphans. And you will have something that every woman in the world wants, something little and cuddly to love and caress, something to pet and make a fuss over. And, believe me, a baby is a million times better pet than a Pomeranian pup.

So tell your children that in taking these babies to rear you are not taking a burden on yourself, but are giving yourself an indulgence.

DEAR MISS DIX—I have been married four years to the dearest man in the world. We have a little baby girl and she is a darling. But here is where the trouble came in. I like to go to a movie once in a while as I never go out or have any company, for we are strangers here. I get so lonely and discouraged that I have lost all interest in life and I get cross and nervous with my baby and my husband, although I worship them both.

Now I have started to go one night each week to the movies alone and my husband keeps the baby. He is glad for me to do this, but he refuses to take his night out, as he says that he prefers to stay at home with me. This makes me feel so selfish. Please tell me what you think?

Wives Need Some Amusement

ANSWER—Why I think, Ruth, that it is your bounden duty to go out and get a little relaxation and change and let your taut nerves relax, and to get something new fresh and pleasant to think about as you go about your daily duties. You owe that much to your good husband and your baby, because a woman who is so nervous that she is irritable and cross is a very unpleasant person to have to live with.

If women would spend more time in amusing themselves, it would be a good thing for everybody concerned, because it would make them more interesting and cheerful around the house, and that is what husbands and children want. They don't want these martyr-to-duty wives and mothers who are whiney and fretful and complaining and who haven't a laugh in their whole systems.

Because your husband wants to stay at home of an evenuing is no reason why you shouldn't go out. You and he approach the situation from different standpoints. He has spent his day away from home, seeing other people, talking with other people, having variety every minute, and it is a change and rest to him to put on his smoking jacket and his house slippers and spend his evening drowsing by the fireside.

But you have been shut up in the house all day, seeing no one, talking with no one, with nothing to distract your thoughts from yourself, and it is a change for you and it rests you to put on your prettiest frock and step out where there are people and lights and music and something to amuse you and give you a fresh outlook.

It would be the salvation of many a household if the husband would stay at home with the baby once a week and let the wife go out and enjoy herself.

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Friday, January 21

THE planetary configurations for this period encourage the consideration and development of large interests in connection with superiors, high executives, and all organizations of a secret or closed nature, such as diplomatic, political or fraternal groups, where much wirepulling is to be done behind the scenes. Once this contact is satisfactorily established there may be quick and decisive quality, with forceful attack, although much discretion and sagacity of an undercover form. Sound intrigues, although of an irregular or extraordinary aspect should flourish, possibly inspiring public approbation.

Those whose birthday it is may have a year in which outstanding success and progress may rely on their definite ability to "keep a secret" or to act with subtlety and shrewdness in affiliation with behind-the-scenes groups. Superiors or those in power in such organizations have influence to reward or promote those whose confidence and peculiar talents may be of far-reaching or strategic importance. Prudence, secrecy, intrigue and intuition are the characteristics demanded for either public, political, diplomatic or other undercover objectives. Be discreet with writings, signatures and speech.

A child born on this day will have much subtlety, shrewdness and unusual abilities for success in politics, diplomacy or other confidential career.

Making Eggs Replace Meat As a Suitable Dinner Dish

By MARY MOORE

If you won't serve eggs for dinner, don't read this. It is all about the virtue of eggs as a dinner food to replace meat.

There isn't one recipe that isn't of French-chef-calibre—but since eggs are easily hurt by careless cooking, details of recipes must be remembered.

I like eggs so much the proper serving of them—especially my "De Luxe Scramble"—has to be done while everyone waits at the table. This dish cannot be made to wait while children wash their hands and adults stroll leisurely to the dining room.

Emem's De Luxe Scramble

Use 6 large eggs for 4 people. Beat eggs together until foamy with rotary beater; add 1 teaspoon salt (do not reduce the salt), 4 tablespoons rich cream, and dash of white pepper. In iron frying pan melt 4 tablespoons butter until it is golden brown—it must take on some color—medium heat is best or it will sputter. As soon as butter is bubbling and gold immediately add beaten eggs with other ingredients and tip pan to form thin coating on bottom; then lift solid portion and allow liquid to run under it—continue this cooking over high heat and tipping of pan until eggs are just barely set and immediately remove from heat—immediately add 2 or 3 tablespoons parsley and serve on warm plates with hot toast triangles. Naturally you will realize the variations to this dish are limitless—frizzled squares of bacon added to it are delicious, but this is a meatless note today and if you add meat it is not at my suggestion.

Garnett's Baked Eggs

(This dish is good when you are having baked potatoes, and an oven pudding such as apple betty or fruit gingerbread for dessert.)

Into bottom of buttered baking dish pour 1 cup medium white sauce—made by melting 2 tablespoons butter, adding 2 tablespoons flour, mixing then stirring in 1 cup milk until thick. Add 1 teaspoon salt. While this sauce is very hot add six raw eggs, spacing them as evenly as possible and sprinkle top with fine buttered crumbs, salt, pepper and paprika. Bake at 350 deg. Fahr. for 15 to 20 minutes or until whites are set and yolks are still soft. Serve immediately. In Missouri this is commonly served with cornbread and crisp coleslaw.

Buckingham Eggs
(Glorified Scrambled Eggs)

Scramble eggs as described under my "De Luxe Scramble," but as soon as done serve onto slices of milk toast. Milk toast is made by toasting white bread until light gold, spreading with butter, and pouring cream over it—about 1 tablespoon and placing it under the broiler until it bubbles. Place scrambled egg on slices of this then, and sprinkle with mild cheese. Run under hot broiler again until cheese melts and browns a bit. French, sesational and "delish."

Swiss Eggs

Melt two tablespoons butter in pan, add ½ cup cream and as soon as it bubbles slip in 4 eggs, reduce heat as low as possible, cover and let simmer until whites are set and yolks are still soft. Lift out eggs onto slices of buttered toast, pour some cream over each egg, garnish with sprinkling of paprika, and sprig of parsley.

Venetian Eggs.

Two cups tomato pulp, 1 tablespoon grated onion, wholespices 1 whole cloves, 2 whole peppercorns, piece of bay leaf size of small fingernail, small bit of stick cinnamon, ½ teaspoon salt, dash of paprika, 2 tablespoons butter, ½ cup grated cheese, 4 eggs. Combine tomatoes, onion, spice salt, and paprika, and cook together 10 minutes. Strain. Melt the butter in a saucepan, pour in tomato mix, then add cheese. When hot, slip in eggs, broken but not beaten. When the whites begin to thicken (about 3 minutes) stir until the mass is creamy—about another 3 minutes. Pour over hot toast. These amounts will serve six.

Original Recipe for Deviled Eggs

Six hot hard cooked eggs, ⅜ teaspoons salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper, 1½ tablespoons butter, ¾ teaspoon dry mustard, 3 tablespoons tomato catsup or chili sauce, 1½ tablespoons Worcestershire sauce, 1½ tablespoons walnut catsup is nice if you can find it. Melt the butter and add all the remaining ingredients to it except the eggs. When sauce is hot, using 6 eggs for 4 servings, and pour slice hot eggs on hot toast triangles, "Devil" sauce over. If this is to be used in place of meat for dinner, it is good served with rice.

A reporter who discussed these with Mrs. Roosevelt passed this recipe on to me for Eggs a la King—Mrs. Roosevelt served this when a famous guest visited them on meatless Tuesday.

Eggs a la King.

Six hard-cooked eggs sliced, 3 tablespoons cooking oil, ½ teaspoon salt, dash of paprika, 1½ tablespoons lemon juice, 3 oz. fresh mushrooms, 1½ tablespoons grated onion, 1 cup cream, 1 egg yolk beaten. Mix oil, salt, paprika, lemon juice, scatter over sliced eggs, let stand 1 hour. Slice mushrooms. Melt butter in saucepan and cook mushrooms, pepper and onion in it 4 minutes. Add cream, cook slowly 10 minutes, stirring often. Drain oil from eggs, stand dish over hot water and heat thoroughly—about 10 minutes. To the beaten egg yolks add the oil mixture drained from sliced eggs, and add to hot mixture. Stir until egg is set—about 1 minute. Pour over hot egg slices and serve at once. A delicious luncheon dish.

Mrs. Leckie's Casserole of Spinach, Eggs and Cheese Sauce.

To two cups cooked spinach add ¾ cup medium white sauce (see method above under Garnett's baked eggs) and pour into buttered baking dish, make depressions in spinach and slip egg into each depression—one egg for each person to be served. Add remaining ¼ cup white sauce to ½ cup or 1 cup grated mild cheese and spread over top, sprinkling with paprika. Bake at 350 de-. Fahr. for 15 to 20 minutes—until whites are set, but yolks are still soft. A delicious dish for adults and children.

MOROCCO ECHO—Designers are always on the lookout for new ideas to translate into fashion terms. Walter Florell, taking his inspiration from a movie laid in Morocco, has created a series of hats one of which is shown here. Named the "Riff," it is made of burnt straw in the general shape of a fez. Green silk cord in which pink camellias are caught descend from the fez and encircle it.

QUESTION—Will you kindly print method for producing Bean Sprouts? T. P. Galbraith.

ANSWER — Temperature and freshness of water are two major features in producing good bean sprouts. Drainage is also a must.

Using soy beans excellent sprouts can be obtained by soaking them overnight in cold tap water in covered tub or crock which must have perforations in bottom to allow for slight but steady drainage—all sorts of contraptions are rigged up to get this drainage: some folks use window screening on an ash sifter stood low in the laundry tubs and have water dripping in all the time, and the plug so placed that it drains out constantly but slowly. I have sprouted them in the washing machine, dripping water into them from a short hose connected to the tap, and leaving the drain open very slightly. If you cannot manage this place beans in something like a huge flower pot with small hole in bottom, and water sprouts every four hours thoroughly with large quantity of tap water—do this for 5 days. You do not have to get up in the middle of the night to keep up the routine, but water them last thing at night and first thing in the morning. Five days produces 1-to-1½-inch sprouts if temperature can be kept at about 70 deg. Fahr. My washing machine has a removable dasher, leaving the tub like a huge vessell with only a centre post and drain spout. Some types of electric washers would not serve.

Cut off sprouts when five days are up, even if you are not ready to use them and keep as you would fresh lettuce, in hydrator. They are best of course if used up quickly when their vitamin content is highest.

QUESTION—Can I use ordinary chocolate bars in Chocolate Chip Cookies? I can't buy the kind the recipe calls for and wondered if sweet chocolate would taste all right? Could I add a few raisins to that chocolate chip cookie recipe without making a change in the flour? I would like to take this opportunity of telling you how much I depend on your recipes—I have tried to make at least one thing you print every week for years.

MARY ANNA SMITH.

ANSWER—If you use sweet chocolate bars in hocolate Chip Cookies reduce the amount of sugar as follows:

Chocolate Chip Cookies
(Minimum Sugar Content)

Three ordinary milk chocolate or nut chocolate bars, ½ cup shortening, ¼ cup each white and brown sugar, 1 well-beaten egg, 1 cup flour, ½ teaspoon each salt and soda, ½ cup broken nut meats (peanuts aren't too bad if you can't get walnuts, 1 teaspoon vanilla. Cut the chocolate bars into ¼-inch squares. Cream the shortening very well and cream the sugars into it. Add egg and mix well. Sift flour once. Measure. Sift again with salt and soda. Combine mixtures well. Add chocolate, nuts and vanilla. Drop from teaspoon onto greased baking sheet. Bake at 375 deg. Fahr. for from 10 to 12 minutes. This will give you about 50 minutes, but you must watch your cookies in oven all the time.

QUESTION—I very seldom eat in restaurants. but was agreeably surprised to find a good one when I was obliged to wait on an appointment in a small city. I ordered braised short ribs of beef and they were good. I wanted to ask the waiter to ask the cook for the method but thought it was too unethical. Could you tell me how to bake or braise short ribs of beef—these were cut in about 2½-inch lengths. Thanking you in advance.

M. F. McINTOSH.

ANSWER—This is a good dish, but must be carefully made. I think the tomatoes should not be left out.

Short Ribs of Beef en Casserole

Two lbs. short ribs of beef, cut in 2½-inch lengths, 3 tablespoons French dressing, 2 sliced onions, 2 cups tomato juice or canned tomatoes or stock or hot water, 6 small potatoes. Wipe meat and brush with French dressing and let stand 1 hour. Put in buttered baking dish and cover with the sliced onions. Add tomato juice or stock. Cover and bake at 400 deg. Fahr. for 1 hour. Pare potatoes and add to dis. Recover and bake one hour longer. Uncover and bake 30 minutes more. Duchess potatoes (stuffed baked potatoes) are good with this.

JUST FOR WOMEN

By CONNIE NICHOLSON
(Society Editor of The Examiner)

STEP SAVERS

A good idea to save time when shopping is to make out a list of articles needed, before going out, and decide the stores where the articles needed are most likely to be found. In this way, a route can be made out, and an approximate plan of stores to be visited made. Thus many steps are saved because the necessity of retracing is eliminated.

BEADED BLOUSES

Now that women are being asked to make their clothes last longer, and do double duty, the introduction of the new beaded blouses for night wear, as well as afternoon wear, has made a great hit. White is the most popular shade, with sequins or beads embroidered in engaging patterns and in all shades. Always looking for a new twist, some women are matching the embroidery with beaded evening bags, or sequin "beanies."

SHOE SAVER

Because of an unusually mild winter, and the absence of any great amount of snow, women are not bothering to wear overshoes when shopping. Mud and sand, however, play havoc with suede shoes. The mud should not be removed while it is wet, but should be left dry thoroughly, and then brushed off with a stiff wire brush. If any stains remain, rub lightly with a liquid cleaner, let dry, and another brushing will bring back the suede to its natural beauty.

SHORTER SLEEVES

Sleeves are shorter this spring, as a glance at the new spring creations displayed on the main street will show. Slash sleeves are also the vogue, and are made to be the centre of interest on the dress. Advance American styles show the sleeve to be practically non-existent in the newest summer dresses, but Canadian stylists will probably stop before going to that extreme.

BULLETIN BOARD

To save arguments, and to help with odd jobs around the house where there are children, try posting up a bulletin of "can" and "must" jobs for each member of the family. every day. This will not only lighten the burden of work, but will provide an unusual touch to somewhat commonplace work, because the children will like going to the bulletin board and getting their "orders for the day.'

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

Painting children's initials on new toys saves numerous arguments over ownership, and keeps tempers and nerves from fraying.

The ice on a clothesline can easily be removed by the simple expedient of a clothes-pole, with a notch cut near the end, and a little elbow grease. Run the notch along the length of the line, and the ice will scrape off easily.

A damp cloth placed on wool clothing, and pressed with a moderately warm iron, will remove rain spots.

FASHION'S FANCY

"Be bright" is the slogan for this season, and there are many ways to be in style, and yet not too extravagant. A glittering sequin bag brightens up an otherwise colorless outfit, and gloves embroidered with sequins are the newest rage. Shoe buckles, which can be fastened on any pair or shoes, as the wearer fancies, are cut of steel or jet, look gay and chic with evening ensembles, and are not out of place for formal afternoon wear. Little flower hats, trimmed with veiling, are still very much in the fashion limelight, giving a final beguiling touch to an ensemble.

CHOPPER SHARPENER

If the family food chopper has become dull, the knives can be sharpened by pulverising a piece of sand soap and running it through. The grit is removed by washing the chopper in boiling water. Glycerine can be used instead of oil, and will not affect the flavor of food passing through.

GRANDMA'S SHAWL

With the campaign to save fuel underway, interest in keeping warm in a house heated for health, and not as much for easy comfort, has grown, and a great many women are finding that grandma had the right idea when she bundled up in her shawl before putting on her specs and settling down to read. Nowadays, the shawls are not quite as voluminous, but have most of the features of the old-fashioned wraparound. Crocheted as well as knitted shaws, in smart designs and colors, are now appearing on the market, and are finding a good response. Evening shawls are becoming popular also, and it is not unusual to see a smart dinner gown finished with a dainty shawl draped over the head, and falling in folds over the shoulders.

Graham-Smith Vows Pledged

FAIRVIEW, Jan. 20 (ENS). — A quiet wedding was solemnized recently in Regent Street United Church manse, Lakefield, when Rev. G. F. Kelly united in marriage Rebecca McMillan Smith, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Smith of Timmins, and Theodore Graham of the 1st. Bn. Canadian Fusiliers, son of Mrs. Clara Graham of Lakefield.

The bride wore a dressmaker suit of Queen's blue with navy accessories and a corsage of American Beauty roses. She was attended by her sister, Helen Smith of Peterborough, wearing a biege suit with brown accessories and a corsage of pink roses.

Arnold Graham of the R.C.A.F. of Toronto was his brother's best man.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the groom's sister, Mrs. Everett Cockburn of Fairview. The groom's mother received in a gown of black crepe and wore a corsage of pink and white carnations.

The young couple will spend a short honeymoon in Timmins.

Butter Production Shows Same Decline

TORONTO, Jan. 20 (CP) Butter production in Ontario shows about the same decline in December over the same month in 1942 as was experienced in November, the Ontario Department of Agriculture reported today. In several sections of the province, particularly western Ontario, some increase is anticipated in January.

The increase in the butterfat subsidy from 8 to 10 cents a pound on Jan. 1 is likely to encourage greater butter production, the Department said, reports indicating that dairies in many sections had more milk than they required for the fluid milk trade during the holiday season.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

VICE CAN BE A VIRTUE

TRUMPING your partner's ace is such a stale joke that it is proverbially considered the worst of all playing vices at the bridge table, just as taking out your partner's business double is usually spoken of as the lowest of all bidding vices. But, as in other things vice can be a virtue, so it is in bridge. There are even situations in which neglecting to trump your partner's ace is the height of dumbness.

Pretty quick and incisive bidding, that. And pretty quick play, too, though not incisive West led his spade K and then his A, East discarding his club 2. West then put forth the spade 7, hoping East could over-ruff with the heart J or Q, but the declarer put on the 10 from the dummy, which was too high for East. Then he took three rounds of trumps and ran dummy's clubs, parking three diamonds on them. This gave him his contract, as his only remaining loser was a diamond.

Just a brief study of the dummy should have told East what his job was. West surely had something on the side in addition to his spades, and from glancing at the dummy, you could easily tell it had to be in diamonds. So East, without the slightest doubt about it, should have trumped the second trick, the spade A, and returned a diamond. That would have produced two tricks in the suit and beaten the contract.

YES A NEW BABY—One of the services offered by the Victorian Order of Nurses in Peterborough is to give bedside attention to mother when baby arrives. Miss Helen Furlong (above) of the local V.O.N. staff, holds up the infant son of Pte. George Downer, 510 Sherbrooke Street, while his baby brother gets his first glimpse of the new baby.

A Nurse Is Big Help Where There Is A New Baby

In every city in Canada today there are many homes where the father of the Little family is in uniform. Some are with the navy, some with Air Force while others are with the army, but all have their families they have left behind at heart and are anxious for them in time of illness.

Perhaps Pte. George Downer of 510 Sherbrooke street is one of the fortunate ones to be able to return now and then on leave and to see that his loved ones are cared for and looked after but always he can feel happy that with the knowledge that when sickness strikes their is the Victorian Order of Nurses waiting ready to help. The Victorian Order of Nurses is busy helping such families as these.

It does not matter whether it is a child that is ill or hurt or whether it is the mother—they will come bringing nursing care, cheer and comfort. Perhaps they may only need to make one visit, perhaps many, but no matter when your doctor calls on them they will come.

In many of these homes there are very small babies—The Victorian Order of Nurses will not only assist the doctors of our city at home confinements but they will visit those mothers who have just returned from one of our hospitals, showing them how to make and prepare formulas, how they can bath and care for their wee one the easiest and the best way, so that they may use the busy hours to the best advantage and save the little strength they possess. You may think that this service is only for those with ample means, but this is not so—the Victorian Order of Nurses will answer any call—whether it be from rich or poor—in the north end of the city or in the south—whenever your doctor calls they are ready.

Arizona Indians Stampede Japs

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NEW GUINEA, Jan. 20 (AP). — Knife-wielding American Indians, of 20 tribes, backed by tanks and bombing planes, are stalking the Japanese in the tropical jungles of New Britain.

Proud of their ability to thread through dense growth, these skilled tribesmen of Arizona and New Mexico ended a statelmate Sunday at invaded Arawe on the southwest coast by breaking through main enemy defences to such a depth that field guns were captured, Allied headquarters reported.

These Indians, forming part of the 158th Regiment of "Bushmasters" penetrated 1,000 yards through enemy lines while the Japanese still were groggy from an 87-ton air bombardment.

Pilots said the bombing was the most concentrated yet unleashed in the jungles.

The "Bushmasters" were sent to Panama during the early days of United States participation in the war to become the first American troops trained in jungle tactics.

Last April, they left the Canal Zone and on June 30 first appeared in the Southwest Pacific war zone.

Ruml Comes Up With New Plan

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—(AP).— A nine-point post-war fiscal policy for the United States—calling for reduced rates, a balanced budget and a planned program of public works — was advanced to-day by Beardsley Ruml, New York merchant-banker and author of the pay-as-you-go tax plan.

He submitted it to the House of Representatives Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds, now studying post-war planning, with the preface that if it "makes sense, there are no constitutional or technica lreasons" why it can not be adopted. His program:

1. No public spending for its own sake and no projects merely because they support purchasing power in general.

2. Lower tax rates "to the point where they will balance the budget at an agreed leve' of high employment."

3. Then stabilize taxes "except as there are major changes in national policy."

4. Retention of the principle of progressive income taxes and estate taxes "as the best way of reversing the tendency of purchasing power to come to rest. Let us reduce the rates on the individual income tax to stimulate consumption and to make possible investment in new enterprise on a business basis."

5. A planned public works program.

6. "Let us neutralize the social security programs as far as their fiscal influences are concerned. Since their beginning they have been highly deflationary."

7. Retain "important excise taxes" for the time being.

8. "Let us arrange our lending abroad so that it will support rather than contradict fiscal policies adopted to strengthen our domestic economy."

9. Re-organization of the parts of the Federal government that have to do with fiscal policy and administration.

Suffered Years With Gas Sour Acid Upset Stomach

"Often Had to Stop and Rest;" Unable to Sleep; Had Dizzy Spells, Headaches and Backache; Says Syntona Gave Her First Relief.

"During the past year I was in poor health due to very troublesome stomach disorders," said Mrs. Kathleen Boyce, 9 Wortley Road, London, Ontario, recently.

"Almost every morsel of food I ate caused an excess of acid in my stomach with belching up of hot, sour liquids. Gas pressure in my stomach and chest made me so short of breath I would often have to stop and rest until the attack passed off. When these attacks came over me at night I was unable to sleep. My system must have become contaminated by the poisons from the sluggishness of my stomach as I had a constant nagging backache and rheumatic pains all through my arms and limbs. I was subject to severe dizzy spells and frequent sick headaches.

"I tried many different things and although nothing ever helped me before, Syntona has given me such gratifying results that I cannot praise it too highly. It relieved the gassy condition of my stomach and got my bowels moving regularly. Food does not distress me now and I can enjoy my meals without fear of pain or shortness of breath afterward. I am entirely free from headaches and dizzy spells and the rheumatic aches and pains have gone away. I now get restful sleep at night and feel so much better that even my work seems easier. I am glad to add my name to the many who are recommending Syntona."

Stimson Pleads For Service Law

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20 (AP).— War Secretary Henry Stimson asked the United States Congress for National Service Legislation Wednesday with assertion that industrial unrest and a "lack of a sense of patriotic responsibility" on the home front has "aroused a strong feeling of resentment and injustice among the men of the armed forces."

"It will be tragic indeed if the discontent and resentment felt by our gallant soldiers on the fighting fronts burns deeply and festers in their hearts," he told the Senate military committee.

"The voices of these soldiers speak out very clearly today in demanding that all Americans accept the same liability which a soldier must accept for service to country. They are far away now, but some day they will return."

Reviewing recent labor troubles in the U.S. Railroad, Coal and Steel industries, Stimson declared "it does not require great imagination to realize the effect of these occurrences upon our troops," and added:

"I believe it is hazardous to belittle the effect which such a situation will have upon the ultimate welfare of our democracy.

Appearing as the first Administration witness before a committee which includes many senators hostile to the idea of labor conscription, Stimson said National Service would hasten victory, and asserted:

"Every month the war is prolonged will be measured in the lives of thousands of young men, in billions of dollars."

BERLIN STAGGERS FROM 11TH ATTACK

French Unit Outflanks Cassino Fort

Cruisers Shelling Italian Coast To Aid 5th Army

By WES GALLAGHER
Associated Press War Correspondent

ALGIERS, Jan. 21—(AP)—French troops, crossing the Rapido river in difficult mountain fighting, have captured the foot of Mount Il Lago, north and slightly west of Cassino, and are threatening to outflank the Germans' "Gustav Line" of defence in Italy, Allied headquarters announced today.

British forces of the 5th Army, supported by fire of cruisers and destroyers, smashed forward along the Appian Way, capturing Minturno, 76 miles from Rome, and taking 300 prisoners. They are assaulting the twin Nazi defensive villages of Castelforte and Ventosa on the slopes of 1,000-foot Mount Santi Cosma e Damiano, six miles inland from the Tyrrhenian.

In weather which German prisoners described as "worse than Leningrad," American patrols of the 5th Army slashed across the river south of Cassino in probing expeditions and retired.

Although the French push from captured Sant' Elia, northeast of Cassino, if continued would allow them to attack Cassino from the rear, German prisoners said there was another German line of fortifications called the "Adolf Hitler Line," six miles behind the Gustav belt which the Allies now are attacking.

12 Jap Merchant Ships Sunk By Torpedoes Bringing Total War Bag In Pacific To 558

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21—(AP)—United States submarines have sunk 12 more Japanese merchant vessels, bringing to 558 the number of Japanese ships sunk, probably sunk or damaged by American submersibles since the United States entered the war.

The new report on damage inflicted by submarines ranging the distant waters of the Pacific was announced today by the Navy.

Of the 558 total, 408 ships have been definitely sent to the bottom. In addition, American submarines probably have sunk 36 Japanese vessels and have damaged 114 others.

The Navy gave no indication where the Japanese ships were destroyed, but American submarines have operated within Japanese coastal waters.

The 12 ships listed in today's announcement were of the types used in moving materials and men. They included seven medium freighters, a large tanker, a medium cargo transport and one small transport.

Many Hairbreadth Attacks As Canadians Storm Arielli

By DOUGLAS AMARON—Canadian Press War Correspondent

WITH THE CANADIANS IN ITALY, Jan. 21—(CP Cable).—Some of the Canadian infantrymen who took part in Monday's attack against well-defended German positions before the Arielli River look upon the return of so many men unscathed as a "miracle."

The men related their experiences Wednesday and it was stressed that casualties were not excessive considering the fierceness of the opposition when Central Canadian and Maritime troops led the attack across a gully before the enemy line in an area about a mile inland from the Adriatic coast and then returned to their original positions.

Ptes. W. Gilbert of Point Edward, Ont., and Edward Desjardins of Ottawa both stopped in the middle of the battle to clean their weapons but under different circumstances.

"I was digging a hole when a mortar bomb landed in a nearby field and filled my rifle barrel with mud," said Gilbert. "There wasn't much else to do but clean the gun."

"Shells were falling all around us in a creek and we were asked to give covering fire," Desjardins related. "I let go a burst at a sniper and then the gun jammed so I stopped and cleaned it."

Sgt. Sinclair Halliday of Teeswater, Ont., told of one rookie private, whose name he could not recall, coming up and saying, "Gee, Sarge, this don't look like the real thing." It was real all right and, Halliday said, "a lot of good work was done, especially by boys who went out under that mortaring."

Cpl. John Casault of Ottawa, returned with a sharpnel scratch on the back of his neck but didn't know it until after the battle.

Gun Demolished.

L.-Cpl. Chick Cawley of Toronto, discovered half a mortar had been shot off his back only when someone asked him why he still carried it.

Lieut. Donald Handford of Chatham, Ont., a platoon commander, said two barrages were thundering at the same time—the Canadian and the German —"but we didn't care whose shells were falling, we just kept going."

Pte. Roger Sharpe of London, Ont., in a company commanded by Capt. Frank Kennedy of Stratford, Ont., also had a close call. Returning to his own lines he found a bullet hole through his foot.

Lieut. Peter Fisher of Toronto, said getting back from the objective was the worst part of the attack because the Germans had the exit "taped" with machine guns which opened fire every time anyone moved.

Sgt. Norman Bell of Toronto, was one of 10 men who spent part of a day behind the German forward positions and in the middle of the Pacific Nations Sign New Pact

CANBERRA, Jan. 21—(CP Cable)—Australia and New Zealand today signed a pact which turned the two dominions into a single bloc for dealing with post-war civilian and defence problems.

The formal signing at Parliament House here followed several days of discussion among Prime Minister Curtin of Australia, Prime Minister Fraser of New Zealand and members of their governments.

The text will be issued as soon as it has been ratified by the respective countries, it was announced. There are no secret clauses.

Mr. Curtin said that the pact is a landmark in international collaboration in the Pacific area, in the development of Australian - New Zealand foreign policy, and in the constitutional development of the British Commonwealth.

Consider All Natives

He said the agreement made the two dominions a single bloc in international affairs but added, "if any of our Pacific neighbors are in general agreement with the principles . . . they can be assured we are eager to collaborate with them."

He described the agreement as "a representative attempt by the two dominions to use their own resources for peace, welfare and good government of the whole Pacific region not in their own interests but in the interests of all Pacific countries."

Mr. Fraser denied any suggestion that the conference had met to aggrandise Australia and New Zealand.

On the contrary, he said, the conference was aimed entirely at the welfare of all native peoples of the Pacific.

Japanese Units Forced To Retire

NEW DELHI, Jan. 21 —(CP) — Allied ground forces expanding their bridgehead on the Mayu peninsula of southwestern Burma have captured new Japanese positions near Buthedaung in slashing hand-to-hand battles, an Allied East India communique announced to-day.

Mopping-up operations following the Thursday attacks are still in progress.

The Japanese pressed their counter-attacks against the Allied toe-hold, but two Wednesday night attacks on Nyaunggaung and another on Razabil were beaten off.

Other Allied advances were reported near Leftwedet, 3½ miles west of Buthedaung, where steady progress had been reported against an enemy-held hill.

The announcement made no reference to the new land front in the Upper Chindwin area of north-western Burma which yesterday's communique said had been opened up with attacks on Japanese positions near Tamu. It said, however, that R. A. F. dive-bombers and fighter-bombers attacked enemy-occupied villages and troop concentrations in the Upper Chindwin area Wednesday, and that Allied fighters had continued their sweeps against Chindwin river traffic and communcation lines north from Mandalay.

On the northern land front, Chinese forces continued with aerial support their eastward drive to oust Japanese forces from the route of the new Ledo road to China, wiping out a strong enemy patrol.

German U-Boats Take Skippers Prisoners

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2—(AP)—German U-boat commanders have resumed the practice of taking prisoner the senior officers of merchant vessels they sink, the United States War Shipping Administration reported to-day.

The W.S.A. interprets the U-boat policy as a desperate attempt to cripple the Allied merchant service by depriving the Allies of the service of experienced officers.

Latest reported victim of the practice is Capt. Owen H Reed of Jacksonville, Fla., whose ship, the S.S. William King, was torpedoed and sunk in the Indian Ocean recently. Capt. Reed is now in an internment camp in Java, the W. S.A. said.

Jap Cruiser Torpedoed Near Malaya

British Submarine Also Sinks 3 Large Supply Ships

LONDON, Jan. 21 —(CP)—A 31-year-old British submarine commander famed for his exploits in the Mediterranean was credited by the admiralty today with sinking a Japanese cruiser in the Indian Ocean at the northern approaches to narrow Malacca Strait which threads between Malaya and the Dutch East Indies island of Sumatra.

The submarine, skippered by Lt.-Cmdr. L. W. A. Bennington, approached to within "suicide range" of one mile to score the first sinking of a Japanese cruiser by a British submarine in the Indian Ocean.

The cruiser, identified as one of the 5,100-ton Kuma class, went down at about the same time three large Japanese supply ships were sent to the bottom by the same submarine.

Bennington formerly commanded the Porpoise which made naval history by carrying supplies to Malta during the darkest days of that British island stronghold in the Mediterranean. In one single attack the Porpoise survived more than 100 depth charges, one of the heaviest assaults ever made on a British submarine.

Jane's fighting ships lists five Japanese cruisers of the Kuma class—the Kuma, the Tama, the Oi, the Kitakami and the Kiso, all built in 1919 and 1920.

Second class cruisers, these vessels have a standard displacement of 5,100 tons and carry 439 officers and men. Each is equipped with 11 guns and at least eight torpedo tubes. Each also is equipped to carry one aircraft. They have an overall length of 535 feet and a beam of 46¾ feet.

The Admiralty said the submarine commander reported the enemy cruiser was sighted in company with a destroyer.

"Proceeding at maximum speed His Majesty's submarine closed to within a mile of the enemy when a salvo of torpedoes was fired," the communique added.

"Two hits were observed on the cruiser, which sank. An ineffective counter-attack by the escorting Japanese destroyer then developed.

The submarine was commanded by Lt.-Cmdr. L. W. A. Bennington.

100 Tons of Bombs a Minute Cascade Down on Hun Capital

9 R.C.A.F. Squadrons Take Part; Nine Planes Lost

By ALLAN NICKLESON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Jan. 21.—(CP Cable.)—Nine squadrons from the R.C.A.F. bomber group joined with the R.A.F. in a heavy smash at Berlin last night and dropped the heaviest bomb total since the group was formed a year ago.

R.C.A.F. airmen said the ground defences were generally weak, although there were plenty of fighters and flares.

The Canadian force was made up of Lancaster and Halifax four-engined bombers and the raid served as the operational debut for the group's newest squadron—the Porcupine—which has been adopted by the township of Tisdale and Timmins, Ont. It was led by an English wing commander, C. B. Sifton, D F.C., who enlisted in the R.C.A.F. at Vancouver

Other squadrons in the raid included the Thunderbird, Leaside, Iroquois, Bluenose, Lion, Goose, Bison and Ghost.

Fighter Chased.

A veteran of the Berlin run, Flt. Sgt. W. B. Stewart of New Richmond, Que., who went to the capital for the sixth time, said there were many fighters. One Focke-Wulf 190 attacked his plane, but Stewart, a midupper gunner with the Goose squadron, scored hits and the enemy broke off.

Flt. Sgt. J. G. Herron, of Barry's Bay, Ont., who made his 30th flight against the enemy, came back from Berlin to term it his easiest. "I saw plenty of fighters and flares, but searchlights were ineffective," he said.

Begins 2nd Tour.

Sqdn. Ldr. H. T. Patterson, of Fredericton, N.B., a Porcupine flight commander, began his second tour of operational flights in this raid. He considered the ground defences "rather weak."

Sgt. Louis Blakeney of Hamilton, Ont., told of a new Nazi anti-aircraft shell "which explodes with red and green flashes." He was among the scores of Canadians who flew in R.A.F. squadrons. Another, Flt. Sgt. Bob Reynolds of Toronto, reported a couple of great explosions as his plane steadied for its bombing run. "We could pick out some fires through gaps in the clouds," he said.

A Halifax of the Iroquois squadron piloted by Flt. Sgt. H. Kientz of Winnipeg, came back with at least 12 holes in its port wing after an encounter with a flak ship off the coast of Denmark.

Serbs Massacred By Traitors

Written For the Associated Press
By MILENTIJE POPOVIC

CAIRO, Jan. 21 (AP).—One war criminal, a Croat Quisling, who took part in the murder of 1,500 Serbs in Bugnojo, Bosnia, recently, has been hanged in public. He was sentenced to death by a public court after witnesses had been heard in accordance with the decision taken by U.S. State Secretary Hull, British Foreign Secretary Eden and Russian Foreign Commissar Molotov in Moscow for the punishment of war criminals.

The committee of National Liberation now is collecting and preparing evidence in order that no war criminal who is responsible in any way for atrocities committed in Yugoslavia shall escape due punishment. Already prepared is evidence dealing with acts committed by the regime of the Croat Quisling, Dr. Ante Pavelic (chief of the puppet Croat state) under Hitler's orders.

The committee's information is that more than 200,000 Serb and Croat patriots have been slain; more than 50,000 Jews and tens of thousands of gypsies have died in the Jasenovas camp near the River Sava, considered the worst Nazi concentration camp in Europe.

The committee has evidence that every day all the inhabitants of the camp were lined up. Members of the anti-Fascist assembly who escaped from the camp assert that Ustachi (Pavelic troopers) would kill scores of them before the eyes of their comrades and throw their bodies into specially-prepared kilns.

Evidence is also being collected on the "gas van" executions in Belgrade in May and June, 1943. Our information is that at that time the Gestapo, aided by native collaborationists, killed 2,000 Serbian patriots — including members of the Supreme Command—and hundreds of Jews.

Rebuild Centres.

Our authorities do not confine themselves simply to collecting such information and evidence but also do constructive work under hard conditions now prevailing toward helping the people.

35 Bombers Missing In Record Obliteration Attack

By GLADWIN HILL,
Associated Press Staff Writer.

LONDON, Jan. 21 —(AP) —The R.A.F. and R. C. A. F. gave Berlin the 11th great blow of a two-month obliteration campaign last night, and to-day American heavy bombers continued the offensive with attacks on the mysterious Pas-de-Calais area of the northern French coast.

The Berlin bombing, by probably 700 planes, set a new record for concentration—100 tons a minute or 13 tons more than fell upon Brunswick, January 11. In all about 2,000 tons of explosives rended the Reich capital for 20 minutes.

The new attack on German military installations in France started at dawn with streams of R. A. F. fighter-bombers and fighters streaking across the Channel. Soon afterward great formations of U.S. heavy bombers, escorted by fighters, droned across the 20-mile stretch of water, returning in mid-afternoon. They took more than a half hour to cross the coast.

Hit Before Dark.

The massive 11th blow in the two-month battle of Berlin was struck by a procession of four-engined bombers which took off almost in daylight and took three-quarters of an hour to cross the Channel on the 600-mile flight to Central Germany.

They began their thunderous hammering at their target at 7 p.m., and returned before midnight with 35 bombers missing from this and other operations. Nine Canadian bombers did not return.

The great Berlin raid, the first since the night of Jan. 2 on that objective, sent huge fires raging through the capital where three-fourths of the important facilities are believed to have been destroyed. It proved to be another illustration of the remarkable bullseye bombardments through clouds.

Clouds Aid Raiders.

The clouds blocked the defenders' searchlights, and blanketed a good portion of their fighters.

But Swedish reports said reinforced German anti-aircraft batteries put up an unprecedented barrage and the R.A.F. suffered the second highest loss of the Berlin campaign.

The Press Association said it was understood the raiding force was the biggest yet sent against the German capital, although the bomb tonnage was not as great as the 2,300 tons which were dropped on Nov. 22.

On this basis about 700 bombers probably were employed.

The R.A.F.'s record bomb load of the war was 2,500 tons dumped on Hanover on Sept. 22 by 700 to 750 bombers.

That the Berlin raiding force was strong was indicated by the German broadcast of a "preliminary" claim that 21 four-engined bombers were shot down over the capital.

The night bombers took off early. Hundreds of planes crossed the Channel coast in a 45-minute procession before 5 p.m.

It was the first heavy attack on Hitler's battered capital since the night of January 2 and the 11th since the start of the "Battle of Berlin" on November 18.

R.A.F. fighter-bombers swept out across the channel toward Northern France at dawn to-day followed by Spitfire formatins.

The R.A.F.-R.C.A.F. fleet hit Berlin after plowing through one of the heaviest anti-aircraft barrages ever thrown up over the capital.

Lots of Protection.

Swedish reports said there was a good cloud cover over the capital itself and the formations were able to come in low for the attack There was no reference to fighter oppo-

Large German Units Trapped In Strelna Corridor

LONDON, Jan. 21 —(CP) —An undetermined number of German troops were sealed off for annihilation to-day in the Strelna corridor southwest of Leningrad after other Red Army forces in the northern drive captured the ancient trading centre of Novgorod on the sixth day of the drive.

While Gen. K. A. Meretskov's armies of the Volkhov front took Novgorod, 100 miles southeast of Leningrad on the road to southern Estonia, other armies under Gen. Leonid A. Govorov, attacking southwest of Leningrad and southeast of Oranienbaum on the Gulf of Finland, were said by Moscow to have joined forces 20 miles southwest of Leningrad to trap the Germans.

The Nazis were caught in the 50-square-mile Strelna corridor, running north from the Krasnoye Selo sector to the Gulf of Finland.

Trap Takes Shape.

The two Red Armies also were shaping a trap for 250,000 other German troops in a salient southeast of Leningrad.

Govorov's forces were only nine miles from Karsnogvardiesk, a rail junction through which most of the threatened enemy troops must withdraw toward Estonia.

They fashioned the Strelna trap by striking southweset of newly-captured Krasnoye Selo, 15 miles southwest of Leningrad, and moving on to take Nizhnaya, four miles south of Krasnoye Selo and nine miles from Krasnogvardiesk. Mikhailovka, three miles southwest of Krasnoye Selo, also was taken in a fanwise movement and resulted in the union of the two Russian forces.

A midnight supplement to yesterday's communique said many of the trapped Germans had dropped their arms and surrendered.

Meantime Soviet airmen dealt heavy blows to German escape roads and the Russian Baltic fleet warships shelled the German coastal lines.

New World Bank Latest Program

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21—(AP)—Formation of a co-operative bank to finance non-profit world trade was recommended yesterday by the International Conference on Co-operative Reconstruction.

Its creation would follow, "when conditions warrant," establishment of an International Co-operative Trading and Manufacturing Association that would confine its initial activites to petroleum and food production and distribution.

The two-fold venture topped a 12-point program adopted at the close of a two-day session called to offer assistance to the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration and to plan for the post-war period.

Twenty-one countries were represented at the gathering, sponsored by the Co-operative League of the United States of America.

Save 3 Children From Deep Hole

TORONTO, Jan. 21 —(CP) — Death trap already for five persons, the shale pit 50 deep deep at nearby Mimico yesterday nearly claimed the lives of six more when three adults broke through its warmth-rotted ice while trying to save three children.

Barking of a collie dog brought the attention of Mrs. John Blenkhorn to the pool, who with her daughter Dorothy and nephew AC2 Russel Hamilton arrived to find three small children— Joan Abel, 5, Ross and Grant Mounsteven, 5 and 3 years —struggling in the water. The adults moved swiftly to rescue the children but one of them broke through the crumbling ice and fell in.

Other persons rushed to the scene. Robert Burns and John Cook, both municipality employees, ventured far out in an attempt to reach the children and themselves plunged into the water. At the same time, some of the party managed to reach the children and pull them from the water. A human chain was then formed to pull the children and the imperilled adults from the pit, all of them reaching safety.

5th Army Finally Reaches Appian Way

76 Miles To Go Through Heavily Fortified Mountain Positions

By DEWITT MacKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst

It's indeed a long stretch of Italy's ancient Appian Way that has no turning, and the mud-caked 5th Army may at last have found the twist which, so to speak, will bring it within sight of the objective of months of battling both Germans and weather—the Eternal City of Rome.

This encouraging vantage point has been reached by the breaching of the Hitlerite line north of the Garigliano river — a difficult and dangerous operation which forced the enemy to abandon the town of Minturno, strategic communications centre and stronghold on the Appian Way. British troops in the 5th Army achieved this by driving spearheads across this natural water barrier, on both sides of Minturno, in the face of fierce German counter-attacks.

Minturno is some 76 miles from Rome, as the bee would measure the course. That's about a 20-minute flight for a passenger plane, but it can be a mighty long distance for an army to fight its way—and likely will be. However, one of the toughest obstacles—the Winter weather—would seem to be weakening. The experts say the worst of it probably is past, which gives promise that Allied progress will be eased.

Expect It By Spring

Some observers like to think that Rome will be in Allied hands by spring, but caution reminds us that there are some tough obstacles to be surmounted before we reach that happy goal with land troops.

The 5th Army must occupy the high ground beyond Frosinone in order to get set for the final dash to Rome. At the same time the British 8th Army on the right flank will have to capture the heights north of Pescara on the Adriatic. We must expect this to entail much hard fighting, for the Germans have the advantage of the strong mountain positions in the centre of the Italian peninsula. The further offensive may be speeded by amphibious operations along the coasts.

F.D.R. Cool To Fourth Term

Chorus Growing Despite Cold Shoulder

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21.—(AP).—President Roosevelt probably will ignore the fourth term draft noise being created by members of the Democratic National committee so completely that he may not even send an official message to the committee's meeting here to-morrow.

Although the President will receive committee members, their wives and husbands at the White House this afternoon, party leaders said there was no indication Mr. Roosevelt planned either to address them by radio as he did last year or to send them a message of cheer at to-morrow night's banquet.

The President, Chairman Frank C. Walker said, is nine days behind on his appointments because of an attack of influenza—and besides there is a war on. Walker's statement implied there is little time for politics now.

In spite of this seeming cold shoulder, the chorus of fourth-term demands grew louder to-day as additional delegates arrived for to-morrow's session to select Robert E. Hannegan as national chairman to succeed Walker and to fix Chicago as the site for the party's nominating convention. The date of the convention may be left to the new chairman, although July 24 is considered a likely starting time.

Execute German Leaders Writer Suggests

NEW YORK, Jan. 21 — (CP) — A three-point program for dealing with Germany after her defeat written by a political observer under the pseudonym "Victory," was published recently by the London Daily Mail. One of the proposals was that Germany be totally disarmed, stripped of her war factories and otherwise prevented from organizing for another war.

The Daily Mail also published the reactions of three prominent Britons to this suggestion.

George Bernard Shaw said it was "cowardly rubbish."

Lord Vansittart said he was in agreement with the proposal "though it may be necessary to go further in some respects...."

Emanuel Shinwell, Labor member of Parliament, said "I plead with all upon whose shoulders rests the sponsibility of creating postwar foreign relations not to force the pace."

Total Disarmament.

The three-point program:

1. Germany shall be prevented from waging another war.

2. Germany will assume a place in the economic life of Europe in just proportion to her size and population. She will be encouraged in such fields as industry, science, scholarship and art to contribute to the prosperity of the world.

3. Germans convicted of individual crimes and Germans in responsible positions who influenced and encouraged the initiation of the war will be punished.

Under the first article of the plan the author wrote:

"Clause 1.

"Germany shall be totally disarmed. The German army, navy and Air Force will be dissolved.

"All factories producing explosives, gas, aircraft, or materials and weapons of war of any nature will be dismantled or destroyed.

"Clause 2.

"Allied troops will occupy Germany for one year after her surrender.

In event Germany is found to be manufacturing war weapons, the program said, a European control commission will give German authorities seven days to destroy the contraband or "their destruction will be effected by bombing."

Governed 3 Years.

The second article proposes: That at the end of the one-year military occupation, a German government be set up which will govern the country for three years, at which time the "German people may elect whatever government they wish"; that Germany will retain all territory held by it in 1937 "with the exception of East Prussia," to go to Poland "within four years of the armistice;"

That Germany be permitted to resume diplomatic relations with other countries; arm her civil police; maintain a merchant navy and civil air passenger and freight service and maintain representation at international labor conferences.

Shaw described the first article of the plan calling for total disablement of Germany as "cowardly rubbish, impudent, pretentious, and so deliberately wicked that if it were not, fortunately, quite impossible to put into practice it would justify a holy alliance against any power giving the slightest countenance to it. . ."

Shaw Disagrees.

Shaw said Article III, "is just as thoughtless as the preceding two."

"Germans convicted of individual crimes," he continued, "will, of course, be punished; as they always are. So are Englishmen, Russians, and Americans.

"But if, in addition to this, Germans in responsible positions who influenced and encouraged the initiation of war are to be expelled to Siberia, why are our own militarist imperialists to be left at home?..."

Shinwell said the Allies are fighting "to destroy Nazi tyranny, not to enslave the German people."

Lord Vansittart said he was in agreement with the disarmament proposals, but favored a 20-year military occupation of Germany. He urged that the people of Germany be allowed to choose their own form of government at once. He also urged the execution of German war leaders.

Allies Maintain Steady Pressure

ALGIERS, Jan. 21 —(AP) —The fall of the important town of Minturno to British troops of the 5th Army sweeping beyond the Garigliano river was announced officially here to-day.

Headquarters said steady pressure maintained against the Germans on all sectors of the front across the Peninsula.

The Nazi High Command announced yesterday that German troops had withdrawn from Minturno, two miles beyond the lower Garigliano, after it had been "completely destroyed."

Allied headquarters said the town was "captured after hard fighting" and that the enemy had launched several local counter-attacks, all of which were repulsed.

To-day's communique made no mention of action involving Canadian troops of the British 8th Army.

Allied bombers again attacked air fields in the Rome area yesterday, repeating their assault of the previous day.

In support of the 5th Army offensive, British cruisers and destroyers swept into the Gulf of Gaeta and bombarded German shore positions Tuesday night.

"Opposition from the enemy was slight," a naval communique said. 'One ship suffered minor damage but no casualties."

When the anti-Fascist assembly, our supreme legislative political body, erected the National Liberation Committee as the provisional government with Tito at the head, a special department was set up for the reconstruction of the country in collaboration with big regional committees and especially with smaller local committees.

These local committees are the highest authority in each town or village. They are responsible for the political education of the inhabitants in the aims and doings of the liberation movement. They also are the highest administrative authorities.

In some towns the committee has helped in rebuilding the most essential public buildings such as cultural centres, baths and public kitchens. These committees are elected by universal suffrage.

Allied Planes Destroy 12 Ships

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, New Guinea, Jan. 21 — (AP). — American heavy bomber and fighter plane raids on the Japanese air force nest at Wewak, New Guinea, destroyed at least 12 enemy planes and churned the area with 133 tons of bombs, the Allied High Command reported to-day.

Pilots returning from a 100-plane raid on Tuesday said the Japanese fliers were "smart and aggressive," but the Americans bagged 12 planes and two probables, against the loss of three raiders, the communique said.

Fifty heavy bombers struck again on Wednesday, laying 133 tons of explosives mostly on Boram Field, one of four airdromes at Wewak. Revetments, supply dumps, and anti-aircraft guns were destroyed.

U.S. Navy patrol planes prowling in the Admiralty Islands area north-east of New Britain Tuesday night blew up a 5,000-ton enemy ammunition ship and sank a 2,000-ton freighter. The vessels were in a small convoy spotted off Lorengau, north-east of the islands.

Montreal Hotels Jammed To Doors

MONTREAL, Jan. 21 — (CP).—Lack of accommodation has reached such a critical stage that hotels here during the past 24 hours had to ask for postponement of a convention in one instance and place cots in partitioned sample rooms in another.

The postponed convention was the Quebec Pomological and Fruit Growing Society annual meeting. It will be held February 24 and 25 instead.

One of the city's largest uptown hotels ordered partitioning of its sample rooms and hurried calls were made for 100 cots to face the ever-increasing demands for sleeping accommodations.

ing several hundred rounds of shells ahead of the 5th Army attack last Tuesday and Wednesday. The heaviest shelling was concentrated on the Appian Way where the road runs close to the sea near the village of Terracina.

The British attack on Castelforte and Ventosa was in a sector approximately two miles beyond the Garigliano and about six miles inland. It was around Castelforte that the Germans apparently had built their most formidable defences in the coastal sector. They launched several strong counter-attacks in this sector but all were repulsed.

The German communique said German positions were breached southwest of Castelforte.

One potential counter-attack, after Minturno was captured, was crushed before it could get started when Allied artillery and planes poured a devastating fire of bombs and shells into the enemy concentrations.

Patrol activity in bad weather was reported from the Adriatic end of the 8th Army's front where Canadian troops hold positions just south of the Arielli river.

Hit Rail Lines

In the air, R.A.F. Wellingtons bombed the rail line at Leghorn heavily at night. Americans raided the railway and highway near Carsoli, 31 miles east of Rome.

Over the Adriatic R.A.F. Kittyhawks left two German ships ablaze off the Yugoslav coast.

The lack of enemy fighter opposition was illustrated by the fact that an American dive-bomber pilot was credited with shooting down the only German plane seen during 90 minutes of attacks on military targets in the Rome area.

Two Allied planes were lost yesterday, compared with five of the enemy.

Corporal Faces Nazi Patrol With Empty Gun

By DOUGLAS AMARON
Canadian Press War Correspondent

WITH THE CANADIAN FORCES IN ITALY, Jan. 21—(CP)—There was a Hollywood finish to the adventure of a Canadian corporal who, with five dead Germans at his feet and his tommy-gun empty, stood alone facing an enemy patrol advancing upon him. He was later wounded in action.

The corporal belonged to a Western Canada battalion which engaged the Germans around the Moro valley town of Roatti two days before the main Canadian advance across the narrow stream which flows into the Adriatic.

Supported by British tanks, the Canadians held their bridgehead for two days before being withdrawn for another crossing further east.

Maj. R. P. Clark of Vancouver, battalion second-in-command, telling the story of the corporal, said that just as the Germans were coming up on him the tanks crashed through the brush behind. Literally snatched from captivity or even death, the corporal pointed out the German positions and the enemy was wiped out by the tanks.

"It was the sort of thing you only see in the movies," said Clark, who added that during his battalion's stay round Roatti 35 prisoners were taken and about 100 Germans killed.

Trapped By Nazis

Another adventurous incident involved Pte. W. G. Packo, Fullers, Man., soldier in another western unit. Packo was one of four soldiers who escaped after being cut off from the rest of their company by German machine-gunners north of San Leonardo.

"We started out with the company to attack a hill and were just getting going when one chap was wounded," Packo said. "Snipers opened up and of course the mortars had to join in too. The eight of us somehow managed to get behind the hill.

"There was a building on the right of us which we had cleared earlier in the day so we didn't bother with it. First thing we knew the Jerries were in the building and had surrounded our place.

"One of our machine-gunners was wounded and our lieutenant called to me to get first aid. By the time I got back four of our lads including the officer had already been captured."

When he was out looking for first aid, Packo was shelled by the Germans who "opened up with everything they had." Shells were dropping "pretty close" and as each one exploded the blast lifted up his steel helmet, jerking the chin strap around his throat.

Packo didn't know the full names of all the men who escaped with him, but one was Pte. D. McLean from the Okanagan Valley in British Columbia.

Engineers have high praise for Spr. M. C. McNaughton of Myrtle, Man., who though his bulldozer was under direct fire from German machine guns made the cut for the diversion across the Moro river.

There have been some strange casualties from shelling. Two men in a slit trench were killed though men standing in the open above them escaped without a scratch . . . a corporal who took shelter under a truck was crushed to death when shrapnel pierced the tires and the housing collapsed on him.

World-Wide Co-op Would Control Oil

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21—(AP)—A proposal for a world-wide non-profit petroleum organization that would have its own oil wells, refineries and tanker fleet was outlined to-day before the conference on International Co-operative Reconstruction.

Hoard A. Cowden, president and general manager of the Consumers' Co-operative Association of North Kansas City, Mo., envisaged the movement as a $12,000,000 undertaking and described its possibilities as "almost limitless."

"It can be of immense service to co-operative members in all lands," he said. "It can return important savings, and it can provide a measure of competition for the oil cartels which undoubtedly regard the war merely as an interlude to the resumption of 'business as usual.'"

He said the suggested International Co-operative Trading and Manufacturing Association would have a second division to handle distribution of food and related supplies on a world basis.

Jap Premier Sees New Opportunity

NEW YORK, Jan. 21— (AP).—Premier Hideki Tojo told the Japanese Diet to-day "a golden opportunity" was at hand to strike a crushing blow against the Allies and called for expansion of Japan's "national labor service" to speed to the front "superior aircraft," according to a Domei broadcast over the Tokyo radio.

The broadcast, recorded by United States Government Monitors, quoted Tojo as saying air power "will decide the general trend in the present war situation and determine its outcome." He warned of the need for immediate increase in basic war materials such as iron, light metals and coal; an improvement in land and sea transportation, and an expansion of the labor service.

"Munitions production, upon which the United States greatly relies, already has reached its peak and as problems of material and manpower arise, unrest increases in intensity," Tojo was quoted as saying. He added:

Says Britain Tired.

"In Britain the national strength has declined and the degree of exhaustion is becoming greater and greater."

Discussing the Allied offensive in the Pacific, Tojo asserted it was the "desperate" result of a "craving for a short war," while "outwardly talking a long war."

"The enemy," he said, "is in a fit of impatience. When the enemy is in such a state, a golden opportunity not to be missed is offered us to inflict upon them a crushing blow and drive them to their catastrophic end.

"By grasping this opportunity with utmost calmness and composure we are to deal him greater, smashing blows. In fact, this operation of meeting and defeating the enemy is already taking place."

Japan, on the other hand, prefers a long war, Tojo said, adding: "If Japan is given time, her strategic position would become even stronger, war resources in the southern region would be even more converted into fighting power, the unity of the peoples of greater East Asia would become more strengthened than it is now and the position of Japan would be beyond their (the Allies') power."

Domei also quoted Tojo as acknowledging Japanese shipping had suffered losses which "cannot by any means be minimized."

"The Government is endeavoring to reduce losses in shipping by strengthening the sea and air protection," he said, "and at the same time to adopt urgent measures with respect to such questions as transports, crew operational efficiency and especially acceleration of shipbuilding."

"We were pinned down by machine-gun fire and the officer sent us to find out what we could do about it," Bell said. "When we got back we found the company had moved so we joined Lieut. Bob Chamberlain of St. Thomas, Ont., and some of his men."

During this period, "behind the German lines," L. Cpl. George Lhons of Owen Sound, Ont., knocked out three German machine-gun posts and Chamberlain got one.

Ptes. Robert Donaldson of Montreal and Jim Coleman of Scottstown, Que., were in the same party and said they took six hours to get back. The Germans were sure they were dead and the Canadians killed a major who looked into their trench.

50 Feet Away.

In some places the Germans were only 50 feet away and the tanks were firing over their heads from a road another 50 yards back.

"It didn't seem possible that a person could come out alive," said Bell.

CSM. G. H. Kidd of Moose Jaw, Sask., told of a signaller, Pte. Freddie Baker of Hespeler, Ont., who crossed 20 yards of open ground to rescue a wireless set after his own had been smashed by machine-gun fire. He also praised Sgt. Albert Thorner of Stratford, Ont., who went out under fire to direct troops coming up from the rear.

Kidd, who served with the British 1st Army in North Africa early last year, said he had not seen a tougher fighting unit than this.

"One of the best individual performances was that of Pte. Jimmy Hyde of Farrelton, Que., a sniper who accounted for seven Germans," he said.

Spoke German.

"I tried to pick off the machine-gunners," said Hyde whose favorite peacetime sport is hunting and shooting.

Cpl. Milton Spiegelberg of Kitchener, Ont., said that when he got on top of a ridge he found the Germans holding a house and called down six-pounder artillery fire on the house. Then the Germans come out.

"I was the only one who could speak German and told them to surrender with their hands up," said Spiegelberg. "They had 12 machine-guns behind it only 25 yards from us."

Spiegelberg said the fire was so heavy he thought the Germans were preparing to counter-attack but he and CSM. R. O. Marquis of St. Mary's, Ont., and other men "decided to make a break for it and die rather than surrender."

They got back safely. Ptes. Don Fraser of Pugwash, N. S., S. T. Girling of Guelph, Ont., were knocked over by mortar explosions but neither were injured.

All the men and their medical officer, Capt. Page Stattion of Toronto, paid tribute to the stretcher-bearers, especially to Pte. Harold Whitehead of Walkerton, Ont. who always seemed to be one the spot when a soldier was hit.

Chaos Spreading Across Poland

NEW YORK, Jan. 21 — (AP). — The Polish Telegraph Agency said to-day that underground sources had reported chaos spreading through the eastern part of Poland as the result of the Germans retreat.

The agency gave this picture:

Ukrainians evacuated from around Berdichev and Vinnitsa are being driven along on foot by the Nazis, clogging the roads, and thousands are dying from hunger, cold and exhaustion.

Vilna and the surrounding neighborhood are overflowing with near-starving civilians, living in desperate conditions. The German authorities have undertaken to move the refugees farther west, but the transport system has broken down.

Meanwhile the Nazis are seizing all available stores of grain and shipping them to the Reich and factories have been shut down and the machinery taken away.

Volhania Province has become the centre of migration for hundreds of thousands of fugitives from every part of the front, with facilities inadequate for their care.

Halifax Bows To Wit Of New Ambassador

By C. R. BLACKBURN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21.—(CP).—A contest of ambassadorial inspiration enlivened the first public address of Canada's ambassador, Hon. Leighton McCarthy, but he won the deciding fall from Viscount Halifax, Britain's envoy, with a verbal "full Nelson."

The two ambassadors spoke briefly at Monday night's dinner at which production giants honored Donald Nelson on his completion of two years as War Production Board head and presiding genius over the combined production efforts of the United States, United Kingdom and Canada.

Lord Halifax said the guest of honor displayed the best qualities of his illustrious namesake, Admiral Nelson, Britain's naval idol and McCarthy squirmed. That the punch in the three-minute speech he had prepared.

Recovered Fast.

But McCarthy had an inspiration, being a golfer and a follower of the game. He pictured Donald Nelson as destroying the forces of tyranny even as Horatio Nelson had foiled them and ended Napoleon's hopes at Trafalgar.

Then he told of another Nelson, like Donald, playing the game through to victory—Byron Nelson who, at that moment, was driving his way to success in the $10,000 San Francisco open golf tournament.

When the laughter ended Lord Halifax bowed to his fellow ambassador, admitted defeat, and said he was sorry he had inadvertently stolen his lines.

Compliment to Canadians: Representative Charles A. Gifford (Rep., Mass.) made a nice bow to Canadians during House discussion of the president's request for a national service law.

"If I could only feel," he said, "that that moderation and that wisdom existed in the United States of America that has been displayed in England and Canada, I could vote for this measure." He said he did not know how he would vote and hoped to study the Canadian compulsory service statute before deciding.

Unsung Heroes: A few days ago Admiral William Halsey, Allied commander in the South Pacific, drifted in and out of Washington so quietly that Columnist David Lawrence was prompted to write of the indifference of Americans to a hero whose performance out-ranks that of Admiral Dewey, according to Lawrence. His argument now could be intensified. It was subsequently learned that Lt.-Gen. George C. Kenney, Yarmouth (N.S.)-born commander of the Allied Air Forces under Gen. MacArthur, was here talking to the President and, to cap the climax, Gen. Dwight (Ike) Eisenhower, commander of the Allied forces for the Western European invasion, had been in on the conferences and had gone to London without the news sleuths of the capital being able to say anything about it.

Churchill-Stalin To Settle Question

LONDON, Jan. 21 (CP)—London newspapers said today it seemed likely Prime Minister Churchill soon might communicate personally with Premier Stalin seeking a solution to the Russian-Polish border problem.

The Prime Minister and Foreign Secretary Eden conferred yesterday with officials of the Polish government in London — Premier Stanslaw Mikolajczyk and Foreign Minister Tadeusz Romer.

Churchill, it is known, has kept well posted on the situation and the British Government has evinced willingness to act as mediator, along with the United States, if both parties so suggest.

The Polish Government in London has asked that a four-power meeting be arranged, with Britain and America as mediators, but Moscow in a sharp reply declared that impossible because of broken diplomatic relations between Russia and the Polish Government.

Northumberland And Durham Plan For Post-War Air Facilities

COBOURG, Jan. 21 (ENS)—With an eye to the post-war future, Northumberland and Durham Counties Council Thursday decided to appoint a special committee which would enquire into the counties' facilities for air fields and landing strips and report back at the June session. After the discussion on the matter. Warden Kelley said he would appoint the committee at the closing session today.

Reeve C. R. Carveth of Newcastle referred to the post-war committee of 1943 and pointed out that the counties did not possess an airport. He suggested that the warden appoint two men from each county to form a committee which would interview people throughout the county with the view of obtaining a general survey of the facilities for aviation in the counties, and report at the June session.

"When our boys come home after the war they will be air-minded and we should be ready to carry out their wishes when they return," declared Reeve Carveth. Reeve F. Barnard and Reeve Bert Reid expressed agreement with the idea.

Practical Idea

"I agree heartily with the idea," stated Deputy-Reeve Sanders. "In the not too-distant future, counties council will be coming here for the sessions in helicopters. I believe it would cost about three or four thousand dollars for a landing strip for planes, with bigger ones, lighted at night, for night landing. The jump from cars to planes will come with much greater speed than the development from the horse and buggy to automobiles."

Deputy-Reeve Sanders added that a big air field for the counties was quite within reason and that a committee to do some fact-finding in the matter was a sound idea.

"Most municipalities have been informed by now that they are to participate in post-war work," commented Reeve N. Green of Cartwright. "We must not have another depression after this war and if we have something to keep people busy then we will not have one. We should be ready to grasp the situation when it arises."

Reeve Robert Love of Cobourg asked what preparation was being made by the council in connection with the post-war planning. Who is going to pay for it, he asked.

"Will we be digging down to pay for it, or who? I don't imagine that the government is going to play Santa Claus?" declared Reeve Love.

Reeve J. Grimes of Brighton village expressed the hope that the motion of Reeve Carveth's would be carried out and not allowed to fall by the wayside.

Lacks Interest

Charles Poynton, highways department engineer, who was present at the session, told the counties that the clerk had noted down all the projects discussed last year at two meetings held in conjunction with post-war planning. He stated that he had sent a circular letter to all the municipal clerks advising them that the counties clerk was secretary of the post-war planning and to send on their replies to the counties clerk.

"I received four replies, which I am turning over to the post-war committee," replied the counties clerk.

"Four replies are not many from the whole counties. This matter is important and it is time that serious thought was given to it," commented Mr. Poynton.

Warden Kelley agreed that the municipalities were not taking enough interest in post-war projects.

Council voted on Reeve Carveth's proposal regarding appointment of a committee on aviation, the resolution carrying.

Name Representatives

A resolution moved by Deputy-Reeve Sanders and Reeve J. L. Moncrief of Port Hope was passed by council in which it was decided to appoint one representative from each county to sit in on the board of directors of the Children's Aid Society. The first suggestion was for two members from each county but this was later amended to one each. Mr. Sanders stated that for the 32 children from the counties alone, the cost was one dollar a day each and the annual expenditure was enough to indicate that this was a large venture in public welfare and the counties council should see from first hand the extensive work being done. Reeve H. Woodley and Reeve Bert Reid expressed the view that council had little idea of how much was being done by the Society. Both said that they realized little of its scope until they sat in on the meetings of the Society and saw for themselves.

A letter from the Board of Millbrook Continuation School pointed out that due to increased teachers' salaries the costs of operating the school had increased very materially. The letter suggested that the counties pay 100 per cent of the cost of education of counties pupils at the school. At the present time the counties only pay a portion. On motion the letter was referred to the Special School Committee.

Mr. Poynton spoke to council in connection with the over-expenditure on roads in 1943. He had sent out word to the township clerks to advise the road superintendents to note where over-expenditure had occurred and included it in their annual returns. Apparently some of clerks had pigeon-holed the letter and forgot about it, Mr. Poynton said.

Begin Saving

In connection with setting up funds for post-war work, Mr. Poynton said that a letter from the Dept. of Municipal Affairs, suggested a certain procedure for entering the figures in the books. The amount should be indicated in a by-law which would be sent on to the Dept. for approval, the Dept. recommended. Mr. Poynton told the council that he knew of one municipality, at least, which had levied a mill for post-war work.

"That was my idea in bringing it up," stated Reeve Love. "I think we will have a better chance of getting something from the government if we have some money set aside to start with."

"It will likely do some good if you have something in the kitty to start with when you approach the government on it," agreed Mr. Poynton.

The counties clerk asked if the government had passed on to the municipalities the authority to set up a surplus for post-war work and Mr. Poynton replied that he had been informed that such had been done.

Council then adjourned until this morning at 10.30.

Wheezing in the Chest Points to Bronchitis

The principal symptom of bronchitis is a dry, harsh, hacking cough accompanied by a rapid wheezing and tightness across the chest.

There is a raising of phlegm, especially in the morning. This phlegm is at first of a light colour, but as the trouble progresses becomes yellowish or greenish.

You may find in Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup a remedy to help stimulate the weakened bronchial organs, relieve the inflammation, soothe the irritated parts, loosen the phlegm and mucous, and aid nature to easily dislodge the morbid accumulation.

Fair Date.

The date chosen for this year's fair is Friday, June 16, instead of Saturday of the first week in June, as has been the custom the last two years. A number of those present, representatives of the different breeders' clubs, promised increased exhibits for the 1944 fair, and the fact was stressed that quality of the highest order must still be maintained.

Directors elected to the 1944 board are: Harry McIntyre, Gordon Staples, M. H. Pimmett (Indian River), L. W. McNeil, J. J. Powell, R. McCamus, H. Jopling (Bridgenorth), Lloyd Sutton, Roy Ferren, Robert Larmer, J. Whittington, Gerald Larmer, and S. S. Staples.

Following a motion to adjourn, a directors' meeting was held when Robert McCamus was re-elected as president, L. W. McNeil, and S. S Staples as vice-presidents, and R. I. Fallis as secretary-treasurer.

The latter, however, did not definitely accept the office, the matter of proper remuneration coming up for consideration, and the whole was left over until the next directors' meeting. Notice was given of the Fairs' and Exhibitions' convention in Toronto February 10-11, and the affiliation fee was ordered paid.

The suggestion advanced by S. S. Staples that the board hold an annual get-together with a dinner and special speaker, the latter to be Hon. Thomas Kennedy, Minister of Agriculture, if possible, was favorably received, and a committee composed of the president, the secretary Roy Ferren, and S. S. Staples, was appointed to look into the matter and report at the next meeting. Tickets will be sold to outsiders, but members having paid their annual fee, will be free to attend. Dancing or other entertainment will follow the banquet and speaking.

The committee was given power to add to its numbers, and the matter of revising the fair prize list and of securing special prizes was left for the directors to arrange when they meet at the call of the chair.

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 21. — (ENS).—Empire Cheese and Butter Company patrons turned out less cheese but increased the number of first grades during the year 1943, according to a report of their annual meeting held Wednesday afternoon. They made 200 boxes less than a year ago but thanks to the increased price and higher scores were able to push gross receipts up to more than $49,400.

The annual statement was given by Secretary E. J. Mitchell and earned praise both for the patrons and cheese maker, Les Shillinglaw from Dairy Instructor J. A. Murray. Filter discs and the sediment test were discussed by Instructor Murray.

The secretary's statement showed a total of 2,386,782 pounds of milk had been manufactured into 197,652 pounds of cheese, which was 16,620 pounds less than in 1942. It required an average of 12 pounds of milk per pound of cheese and the average test was 3.19. Butterfat averaged 57.98 cents per pound and the total receipts from the sale of cheese were $39,610.74 while whey cream and butter brought an additional $1,521.13; the Federal premium on quality amounted to $3,004.97; the Provincial subsidy $4,018,08; and the milk subsidy $1,128.69. They made a total of 2,224 boxes of cheese with an average score of 93.468 and this divided into 78 boxes of 95's; 1,308 of 94's; 702 of 93's; 173 of 92's and 58 undergrades.

After considerable discussion members rejected a move to combine the office of president and secretary as has been done in a number of other companies. They felt that President Fred Peake and Secretary Ernest Mitchell had been doing a good job for the past thirteen years and should carry on. Their predecessor the late Russel Peake, had done both jobs members recalled. Officers for 1944 were named as follows; President, Fred Peake; secretary, E. J. Mitchell; directors, William Haig, Ross Stephens, Fred Smith. Les. Shillinglaw was re-engaged as maker.

Circle Members Each Pledge Quilt Top

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 21. — (ENS).—As a part of their year's work every member of the Stanwood Sewing Circle pledged a quilt top and one lining which they will give to the organization during 1944. It was felt that this plan, initiated a year ago, should be continued as a part of their war effort. The finished quilts will be donated either to the Red Cross or Salvation Army.

This decision was announced following the January meeting held Wednesday afternoon at Mrs. Stanley Keller's, which was attended by fifteen members. The president, Mrs. Carleton Rowe, presided and during the business period membership fees were collected by the treasurer. Arrangements were made to hold a surprise bazaar as a part of the March meeting. For this each member was requested to bring a parcel valued at fifty cents containing two towels and a small gift which will be the surprise feature. The ladies completed two quilts for the Red Cross during the afternoon, and Mrs. D. T. Petherick offered her home for the next meeting.

Mr. Jolliffe And Child Labour

Mr. E. B. Jolliffe, the provincial leader of the C.C.F. party, has announced that he means to begin an investigation of the subject of child labour in Ontario. Dr. Kenneth Rogers, the general secretary of the Big Brother movement, also draws attention to what he believes is an alarming increase in child labour in Toronto. We hope that Mr. Jolliffe will proceed with his investigation as quickly as possible, for if child labour is on the increase in Ontario something should be done to correct the situation at once.

The manpower shortage which the war has caused creates many difficulties for manufacturers and merchants; many of them are trying to serve the public with inadequate staffs, and it is understandable that they should take whatever labour they can get without asking too many questions. There are many jobs which boys between fourteen and sixteen can do almost as well as a grown man, and many of these jobs are well within their physical powers. But no boy can pay proper attention to his school work and to a job as well without putting a heavy strain on his health. The case of the boy who is trying to handle a job after school needs investigation; certainly some of the jobs advertised stipulate hours and tasks which a boy could not accept without serious neglect of his schooling.

Investigation is needed also of the circumstances under which boys of school age are given working permits. These permits, as we understand the matter, are meant to help families where the boy's earnings are an important part of the family income. It has been suggested, however, that many boys have gone to work—or have been sent to work—in well-paid war jobs for no other reason than that they can make good money at them, and so profit by the war.

It is not necessary to stress the shortsightedness of such action. If a boy has to work to relieve a difficult situation at home he must be allowed to do so, and it is doubtful if the experience will do him any lasting harm; many men who have made a success of life have had precisely that stern early experience. But such a boy is not trying to do a full school program in addition to his job. The boy who leaves school simply to take a war job may be handicapping himself for life. Wartime industrial conditions do not often give a boy a chance to learn a profitable trade thoroughly; he is likely to become a machine-minder, not a mechanic or a tradesman of any kind, and when the war is over he will find that he has neither a trade nor a good education; he is merely an unskilled labourer, and in any subsequent economic crisis his sort of work will be in the least demand.

We disagree with the C.C.F. so often that we are glad to find ourselves, for once, in agreement with one of their leaders. We hope that Mr. Jolliffe will go into this matter thoroughly, and see what the situation really is in this province.

More Population For Canada

Under the heading "Canada's Weakness" the Brantford Expositor joins the discussion, which has recently taken an upward turn, about more population for Canada. A handful of people, it says, cannot hope to retain its hold on half a continent. Not eleven millions, but fifty or a hundred millions are needed for a well-populated Canada.

Dr. Stephen Leacock has lately been saying the same thing, and so has J. S. McGowan, the Director of the Colonization and Agricultural Department of the C.N.R. And Jean-Charles Harvey, the brilliant editor of Le Jour, recently told a Toronto audience: "Canada is now one of the few countries where another 60,000,000 people might live comfortably, and we must either be prepared to open our doors or keep constantly under arms sufficient forces to withstand aggression—armies, incidentally, which we cannot raise in sufficient numbers today, owing to the numerical weakness of our population."

This is all very well, and everyone agrees with it, but where are we going to get these millions of people? We cannot open our doors to everybody, or we shall have all the riff-raff who cannot get a living in Europe flocking into Canada, and after a few generations we shall have an extraordinary polyglot population. Poverty should be no bar to entry here, but people who have no trade and no clear idea of what they want to do are of very little use in Canada.

Let us never overlook the fact that Canada is a very hard country, and it is our climate which makes it so. People cannot live here on a pittance; they must have money for heat and proper food, and they must have some means of earning it. It takes a good man to come to Canada and settle on the land and make a living for himself and his family. And good men are not usually eager to emigrate; it is the people who think that a change of air will alter their essential ineptitude who are eager to cross the ocean. Admittedly we want all the immigrants we can get of the right kind, and by the right kind we mean the industrious, or the ambitious, or the trained kind; if we are not to get the wrong kind we must issue our invitations with circumspection.

Death Of Robert Blatchford

News came from England recently of the death of Robert Blatchford at the age of 93. Blatchford was a prominent socialist journalist in his day and founded The Clarion, Britain's first socialist paper. He was a man of unusual literary gifts, and his writings were distinguished by an elegance of style and a moderation of tone uncommon in such writings; Blatchford's moderation was the quality which gained him a hearing from people who were deaf to the more strident socialist publicists.

Blatchford was an Englishman through and through; he was also a convinced Imperialist, and was one of the earliest journalists to warn against the rising might of Germany before the last war, and to support Lord Roberts in his belief that the Germans meant to provoke a European unheaval. Although it is almost forgotten now, Blatchford's Merrie England was one of the most powerful socialist books ever written, and converted many people to the socialist way of thinking; another book, Britain For The British, was almost equally successful.

In his day Blatchford acquired notoriety as an atheist, and for some time the late G. K. Chesterton conducted a public correspondence with him on the subject of faith; it was Chesterton's earliest appearance as a religious apologist. The correspondence is interesting not only for the excellence of the argument on both sides, but for the courtesy with which the controversialists treated each other.

Rebuilding The Library

In the course of German bombing of London the British Museum has been damaged. How extensive the damage has been we do not know, but certainly the Department of Printed Books met with some destruction, and thousands of volumes were lost.

The Library of the British Museum is important not only for the great treasures which it contains, but also because it is perhaps the most complete library in the world. By law the Museum receives a copy of every book printed in the United Kingdom, as do also the libraries of the universities of Oxford and Cambridge. But it also receives and files thousands of periodicals printed in English, and hundreds printed in every language used in the world. The British Museum library contains literally every book, in every language, which could possibly be wanted in the most intensive research. Not only has it extensive stacks and vaults in London, but it has an immense repository in the depths of the country, where the more abstruse items are stored.

The destruction of even a part of such a collection greatly lessens its usefulness. Therefore the Allied governments now resident in London have pledged themselves to replace, as far as possible, all the books and periodicals in the languages of their countries which have been destroyed by enemy action. The British Museum library is the possession of scholars all over the world, and they come from the ends of the earth to work in it and use its unrivalled collection of books. It is gratifying that the governments in exile feel an obligation to help in restoring it to its former completeness.

NOTE AND COMMENT

Says the Windsor Star: "Just think of the post-war work there'll be when the Government starts to return all the boards to the lumber yards!"

A woman in England, 100 years old, has not yet been told about the war. What is the fun of living that long if people keep all the current gossip from you?

Britain's Drama In Wartime

By SIDNEY KORNIBLOW in the Hamilton Spectator

LONDON.—It seems strange at first thought that in the midst of war the drama should flourish. But all through history it has happened. When men and nations have been struggling for their very existence playwrights and actors give of their best, seeming almost to be inspired by the real drama which is being played out around them.

In Britain today the history of the theatre through the ages is being reacted. The drama in London in this fifth year of war is prospering as it has never prospered before. Playwrights and producers, with great plays ready for presentation, wait patiently for theatres to become vacant. Every one of London's forty theatres puts up the "house full" boards night after night.

The names of Britain's most famous playwrights and authors appear on the playbills—names that are a guarantee of the very finest in entertainment. Look at some of these playbills that have stood outside the London theatres throughout the spring of 1943—the fourth spring of the greatest war in the world's history.

IN the first place they announced two of the most famous works of Britain's inimitable Bernard Shaw; his Doctor's Dilemma, starring Vivien Leigh, and Heartbreak House, which has given one of the finest parts of her career to that gifted British actress, Edith Evans.

The bills announced James Barrie's What Every Woman Knows. They announced three feasts of wit by the most successful of all Britain's present day actor-producer-playwrights, Noel Coward. It is not many men who could expect three of their plays to be running simultaneously in one city, and appear in two of them. That is the measure of Noel Coward's genius and his seemingly inexhaustible fund of energy.

The bills announced also another play by that bluff and hearty Yorkshireman, the best-selling novelist, J. B. Priestley.

More yet. Britain had a great dramatist named Congreve. The London theatre managers, dipping into the treasure chest of the past, came upon the Congreve comedy, Love for Love, which was written more than 200 years ago. They put it on again in London and instantly it became one of the greatest box office attractions anywhere in the West End.

SO much for half-a-dozen or so plays out of the 40 which London's theatregoers have to choose from. The rest, almost without exception, attain an equally high standard. Nothing but the best in entertainment is worth of these crucial years in the nation's history. The theatre—and that means everybody, playwrights, producers and actors—has risen to the occasion.

Then too, the finest actors and actresses in the land have lent themselves wholeheartedly to the work of the Entertainment National Service Association in entertaining soldiers, sailors, airmen and war workers wherever they may be. E.N.S.A., which has its headquarters in the historic old Drury Lane Theatre in the heart of London's theatre land, gave its first perforamnce only a few days after war began. Now, in a typical week, 180 different companies of actors and actresses, music hall and concert artists, working at nominal fees, give 1,650 performances to the forces at home in the British Isles, besides 1,500 to British war factories. Actors and actresses who have been used to appearing on perfectly set London stages play their parts now in huts and tents and canteens. They sacrifice time and money and comfort for the sake of the troops and the workers.

Actors and actresses whose names have twinkled in the warm glow of London's theatre lights for years past have gone to Iceland and West Africa, to Gibraltar and Persia and Iraq and India.

GIBRALTAR has been specially fortunate. Parties of world-famous stars have flown there by bomber to entertain the troops. They have given shows in aircraft carriers and warships, huts and hospitals. Their audiences paid anything from 3d. to a shilling to see them. In London, theatre-goers pay from 5s. to 15s. to see the same artists.

It was announced only recently that an E.N.S.A. party of British artists have volunteered to make a four months' tour of the Air Force flying schools scattered throughout the vast Dominion of Canada.

The highest salary paid by E.N.S.A. is £10 a week. This is the war pay for stars formerly accustomed to earning perhaps £50 or £100 or more a week. It is a sacrifice happily borne. The trouble is that there are not enough artists available to provide all the entertainment E.N.S.A. would like to give the troops. Hundreds of actors are troops themselves—they joined the forces in the early days of the war.

IN the midst of difficulties the most gratifying development of all has been the production of better plays, wittier comedies and grander, more memorable dramas than the British stage has known for years. The trashy and the trivial, the cheap and the flashy that one met so often in the peace-time farces and revues have disappeared almost completely.

Perhaps the most significant of all the theatrical developments in a Britain at war is the success of that Congreve comedy. Love for Love. That rich and rare comedy which appealed to the British in their hour of destiny 200 years ago appeals to them again today. It is a sign of the times.

The British At War

From Britain's population of 46,750,000, there are 33,100,000 between the ages of 14 and 65. Of these 22,750,000 are in full employment, meaning that they are either in the armed forces, essential industry, or civilian defence, which has been combed out and limited to the minimum number of absolutely indispensable personnel. The remaining 10,350,000 include those running one-man businesses and women with household duties.

There are today in Britain twice the number of women between the ages of 18 and 59 in the armed forces and industry, as there were at the end of the last war. Of women between the ages of 18 and 40, 91 per cent of the single women and 80 per cent of the married, childless women are in the forces or in essential industry.

The nine per cent of the single women who are not are medically unfit, have family responsibilities, or are students.—Chicago Daily News.

STILL TRYING TO PIN IT DOWN —By Rube Goldberg

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

H. & S. ASSOCIATION MISCONSTRUED

Editor Examiner:

Sir,—It is difficult to conceive how so excellent a purpose and so charitable a motive on the part of a group of conscientious citizens could be so misconstrued as to appear to the public as a "Tempest in a Teapot" brewed by a lot of busy bodies.

We refer to the matter of "Movies for Children" as dealt with in the "Examiner" editorial of Wednesday last.

The purpose of the Home and School Association and the reason of it's being, is to further the cause of edcuation and the community good of the child. Not only the children of association members but every child. In this case we deal with the underprivileged, not in the matter of lack of food, clothing, or medical attention, but with the child, whose parents lack the interest or inclination to supervise and direct his choice of entertainment and see that he receives for his money the best which is to be had.

If we knew that a merchant was selling to children an inferior or harmful grade of candy, we should certainly consider it our duty as a good citizen to do something about. The parallel is worth consideration for what the child takes into his mind is surely as important as that which he eats.

As long as no protest is made and the dimes of children keep rolling in from box offices, moving picture producers will go on feeding Canadian children, only with barely perceptible, and inexpensive variations, on the same fare which amused their parents a quarter century ago. Very little has been done to perfect or raise the general standard of moving picture entertainment for children although education set a very high value on this medium of education and amusement. Occasionally a fine type of picture, such as 'My Friend Flicka" seeps through, but these are the exception rather than the rule.

At the November meeting of H. & S. Council a committee was apointed to meet and interview theatre managers. In every case it was courteously received and the course which we propose following was at a suggestion received during these interviews.

The intention of this body is to bring its findings and its wishes to the attention of the Federation of H. & S. who in turn might, if they saw fit, bring it before the national body to be dealt with through proper channels.

The question which again seems to confront all of us, as in the matter of "sex education in schools" which arose some time ago, seems to be "Can parents who intelligently supervise and direct to the best of their ability, the youthful lives of their own children, entirely overlook the need of the child who is not so fortunate or should they in the interest of humanity and good citizenship endeavor to see that he gets fair play?

As for attempting to dictate to the entertainment tastes of adults, the idea appears just as ridiculous to this group as it did to the Examiner editor and we regret that his source of information was not more accurate.

Home & School Council of Peterborough,
(Mrs. E.) SARA CHAMBERS,
President.

FARMER AS PRINCIPAL CONSUMER

Editor Examiner:

Sir,—I was glad to see the Examiner's editorial reminder: "If the idea becomes widespread that the war is as good as over, what will happen to our next Victory Loan? We must find the money for that Loan in quantity certainly not less than was asked of us last October. Nor will the next Loan be the last...."

This reader not only concurs in the above view, but would like to add a bit of peace finance color thereto: I suggest, with due respect to all concerned (i.e. about 95 per cent on the Canadian people!) that we should not permit the coming of peace and the free years ahead, to destroy our financial fertility, which has been so conspicuous a feature of the nation's war effort? If we can assemble $7,000 millions for war and the destruction of tyranny, it seems to me that we should be just as enthusiastic in collectively providing whatever further sums may be required to "win the peace" across the five delicate and dangerous years following V....

Just a further bit of comment on an item in your news-columns quoting L. B. Pearson, Minister-Counsellor of the Canadian Embassy in Washington as saying that: "....Nearly two-thirds of the world's population do not get enough of the right kind of food for health and decent living, and that nearly half that number are on the verge of starvation. This was true in spite of the fact that in normal times two-thirds of the world's 2,100,000,000 people spend their whole lives producing food, he said."

That is a thought-provoking verbal picture and reminds me of a related assertion by a noted farm leader on the Canadian Prairies (the late Dr. H. W. Wood of Alberta) just a decade ago: "There is still persisting a curiously stupid attitude, on the part of many people, that farmers should be satisfied with a bare existence, with the blessings of fresh air and sunshine, and should not aspire to the comforts and conveniences regarded as absolute necessities in urban areas, which have added so much to the health and happiness of those able to afford them in our towns and cities. They forget that the farmer is the principal consumer of the world; that unless there is a free flow of manufactured goods to the farms, the worker in the city will be on relief...."

Manifestly, sir, we are on our way forward!

A WESTERN READER.

SOCIAL SECURITY

Sir,—It is easy for politicians to picture a tranquil life, sheltered from all misfortune by the all-powerful hand of a benevolent government, and to tell the people that it is only necessary to vote for such a life in order to get it. Such a life is what some people have in mind when they talk about social security. Those who promise this brand of security hope to bring it about by means of a planned economy. They have a motto. They do not proclaim it publicly, but they have it nevertheless. It is this: "A place for everyone, and everyone in his place." The motto is an essential part of their program. In no other way can the program be carried out. How many people would be satisfied with such a life if they had it? To be told that there is a place for you in the scheme of things is very nice, but to be told that that is your place and you have to stay there, whether you like it or not, is a different matter.

Would there be any real security in such a life? Is there any such thing as social security, or any other kind of security in this uncertain world? Or is the thing we call security only a state of reverie in which we remain oblivious of what is going on around us? A great general once said that a retreating army is always tempted to seek security within the walls of a fortress, and by so doing it invites disaster. After the last war we sought security in disarmament and the League of Nations. Russia was more realistic. She never felt secure; so she prepared herself for the struggle she knew to be inevitable. That is the reason she was able to withstand the German attack. Was Shakespeare right when he said: "Security is mortals' chiefest enemy?"

On Sunday I heard a very good preacher say that it is the duty of government to create conditions which will make possible the highest development of man's personality. Nobody will quarrel with that. But he went on to assume that the way to create such conditions is to provide man with social security, in order that he may be free to develop his personality, without having to worry about his economic future.

It has not been the experience of the human race that security has produced the highest in man. Our preacher understood this, for he hastened to explain that if we are to have social security we will have to learn how to make proper use of our leisure time. Adam and Eve in the garden had social security and leisure time. All their wants were supplied with a minimum of effort on their part, and they felt secure in the thought that it would always be so. But they got into mischief; and in order to keep them out of further mischief the Lord took away their social security and required them to earn their bread in the sweat of their faces. Will anyone say that the Lord's plan for developing the highest in our first parents was not a good one?

In seeking the solution of many problems the surest way is to inquire what Nature does, and try to profit from her wisdom. If we follow her way, we can hardly go wrong. If we depart from her way all our efforts will come to naught. And what is nature's way? It is to make us struggle for everything we get. It is the struggle that develops man's faculties. Abolish the struggle and man will cease to develop. Create a world in which man can get everything he wants by voting for it, and man will develop into an astute voter. But that is all he will be—not a very entrancing prospect. Those who get through life without a struggle are sometimes called lucky. In reality they are the most unfortunate of men. They contribute little to their own development or to the well-being of the race. They miss all the joy of the struggle. The best among us find more joy in the struggle than in the prize. Those who tell us we can vote ourselves into a full and satisfactory life are blind leaders of the blind. Even if they could fulfil their promises, it would not satisfy us, for the prize without the struggle brings little joy.

Toronto.

And, behold, a man of the company cried out, saying, Master, I beseech thee, look upon my son: for he is mine only child. And, lo, a spirit taketh him, and he suddenly crieth out; and it teareth him that he foameth again, and bruising him hardly departeth from him. And I besought thy disciples to cast him out; and they could not.

And Jesus answering said, O faithless and perverse generation, how long shall I be with you, and suffer you? Bring thy son hither. And as he was yet a coming the devil threw him down, and tare him. And Jesus rebuked the unclean spirit, and healed the child, and delivered him again to his father. (Luke 9: 38-42.)

After these things the Lord appointed other seventy also, and sent them two and two before his face into every city and place, whither he himself would come.... And the seventy returned again with joy, saying, Lord, even the devils are subject unto us through thy name. (Luke 10: 1, 17.)

Unconsidered Trifles

It was their annual visit to the local pantomime, and Jones had developed an awful thirst. So when the interval came, he seized his chance.

"Ah, I think I smell burning," he said. "I'll go and see if there's anything wrong."

In due course, his thirst quenched, he returned to his seat.

"It wasn't fire," he murmured in his wife's ear as he got back to his seat.

"No, nor water either!" replied the lady with a meaning sniff.

On his round of Christmas visits, the vicar called on Farmer Hawkins, a born pessimist.

"I'm glad to know your wife is better," began the vicar brightly.

"You wouldn't be if you 'ad to live with her!" gloomed the farmer.

"You have a nice garden here," was the vicar's next effort.

"Not so bad for them as don't 'ave to dig in it!"

"Well at least you seem to have a good supply of water."

"Maybe, but it it's all to be pumped!"

The vicar played his last card.

"It's nice weather, at any rate."

"Yes, for them as ain't nothin' to do but enjoy it!"

Princesses in Pantomime

The King and Queen saw a pantomime which they themselves had helped to produce, with their daughters, Princess Elizabeth and Princess Margaret in the leading parts, at a house in the country. Princess Elizabeth was Aladdin, and Princess Margaret was Princess Roxana. The Duke of Kent and his sister, Princess Alexandra, were in the supporting cast with 40 other children, most of them from a village school. The King sent a Christmas tree, grown on the Sandringham estate, to Westminster Abbey.—London Times.

Against Regimentation

As for keeping track of people, there may be a few people who think that free people who are law-abiding should be kept track of: Parents and wives and sons and daughters and other relatives, not to mention neighbours, do a fair job without the assistance of a perpetual national registration. And if a citizen who is not wanted by the police doesn't want to be kept track of officially he should have that privilege. It used to be his privilege. Why not again? — Petrolia Advertiser-Topic.

SPECTATOR SPORTS MODE — Hilary Brooke wears a jacket and frock semi-sports outfit which combines a smooth, dark brown crepe frock with a collarless jacket of palest beige wool. Hat is dark brown felt. The easy, well-tailored notion for everyday smartness which is a part of Hollywood town, gets into this screen costume worn by Paramount's blonde, Hilary Brooke. Face to face, your favorite movie star is usually dressed as simply as this, but it's rather unusual to see her on the screen in such bread and butter chic.

For Saturday, January 22

AN intriguing and eventful day, with surprise and unforeseen developments is presaged by an interesting chain of planetary aspects. While the occurrences may be of major significance, they may best be manipulated by quiet, subtle and shrewd tactics rather than aggressive or above board activities. Confidential or tacit agreements may best serve the desired objectives. Those in high prestige, if discreetly approached, with tact and finesse, may be willing to lend their influence for promotion, responsibility and cherished honors. Cultivate such personages as well as the requisite qualifications.

Those whose birthday it is are on the eve of a year of far-reaching influence on their present progress and future security. It is a time for working for advancement, favors and high honors either in public or private organizations where discretion, tact, diplomacy and honorable intrigues or strategies may prove the determining factor for success. Cultivate those in high places in order to attain responsible, meritorious and possibly sensational or conspicuous recognition and power. Prudence, discretion, and silence are recommended with deep recesses of power subtly manipulated.

A child born on this day may be endowed with much creative talent with peculiar insight into secret or profound problems, a gift inspired by intuition or psychic vision.

NO DISCRIMINATION

LONDON (CP). — To correct an impression that there is discrimination against Royal Naval Volunteer Reserve officers, Lord Bruntisfield, parliamentary secretary to the Admiralty, stated that at least 11 men of the R.N.V.R. have reached the rank of captain. Fifty-six have become commanders.

OTTAWA, Jan. 21 — (CP). — A hot, nourishing soup is doubly welcome on the lunch table now that winter's blasts are eating into our bones, and Laura Pepper, chief of the Consumer Section of the Agriculture Department, gives us this recipe for an easy-to-make, easy-to-eat cream soup that is sure to please the whole family. It makes a hit in the lunch box too:

CARROT CREAM SOUP: Melt 1 tablespoon fat in saucepan, stir in 2 tablespoons farina and cook 1 minute. Gradually add 2 cups of water or vegetable stock, add ½ teaspoon salt and cook slowly until thickened, stirring frequently. Grate 2 cups raw carrot, add and cook until the carrot is tender. Rub the mixture through a sieve and add to 2 cups hot milk. Season with a dash each of pepper and nutmeg and 2 teaspoons finely chopped parsley. Heat just to the boiling point before serving. This makes four servings.

WHEAT GERM: Added to the morning dish of hot cereal helps to meet the need for thiamin or vitamin B1, so necessary in starchy winter diets....Without its aid the starch becomes excess fat and is not burned up to provide bodily energy. A single spoonful of wheat germ on one's cereal meets the needs of the average person for a day, Nutrition Services says. Be sure to add it just before serving to get its full vitamin value, for thiamin, like vitamin C. is partly destroyed by heat.

COAL TIPS: The Coal Conservation Committee provides handy tips for the householder these shivery days:

1—Place shiny sheets of reflective material behind all radiators ....this tosses the heat back into the room instead of letting it soak into the walls. White cardboard is better than nothing.

2—Hard and soft coal should not be "married" until they meet in the furnace. Put a partition in the bin and keep the soft coal on one side and the anthracite on the other. Proper proportions when stoking are three shovels of anthracite to one of soft coal. Firing practice should be the same as when anthracite alone is used.

SPICE PUDDING: The Nutrition Bureau contributes this recipe for a delicious hot pudding, especially suitable for this time of year:

1 cup sugar, 1-3 cup mild fat, 1 egg, well beaten, 2-3 cup milk, ½ teaspoon salt, 2 cups flour, 3 teaspoons baking powder, ½ teaspoon nutmeg, 1 teaspoon cinnamon, 1 cup raisins.

Mix the sugar and fat, add the egg and beat until light. Add milk. Sift dry ingredients and add to the first mixture with little stirring. Add the raisins. Pour into a greased pan about two inches deep, and bake in a moderate oven for about 25 minutes. Cut in squares and serve with lemon sauce.

Range Pals Meet At Larmer Home

Letters of thanks from Gnr. Jack Quinn, L. Cpl. Fred Timlin, and Pte. Marian Quinn, for gifts received at Christmas, were read to a meeting of the Range Pals by the secretary, Miss Betty Sayer. The meeting, the first business meeting of the month, was held at the home of the Misses Audrey and Dorothy Larmer, with the president, Miss Daisy Bell, in the chair.

Spr. Arthur Sayer, a former member of the Range Pals now serving overseas, sent an embroidered handkerchief to the Club to raise money for war purposes. Plans were made for a draw to be held on the handkerchief, among members and honorary members.

During the evening the girls of the Club quilted two quilts for the Red Cross. The next meeting will be held at the home of the Misses Daisy and Jessie Bell.

Better Housing Conditions Urged as Post War Problem To Local Council of Women

"An annual meeting is of real value because it is not just stock taking, it is an experience. We can look back over the way we have come, and see what we have done, where we have erred, and look ahead, into the future," said Mrs. R. J. Marshall, president of the Ontario Provincial Council of Women, addressing the luncheon at the annual meeting of the Local Council of Women, held Thursday in the Y.W.C.A.

Mrs. Marshall comparen the goal of the Council to a shining mountain top, saying, "We toil along the road that leads to the summit, and when we think we have reached the top, we look up, and it is still very far away. Council work is like that, it never ends."

The speaker went on to say that sometimes groups felt that they were alone, and that their labors were not to any avail, but, that when an annual meeting was held, the groups could see others striving for the same goal, and toiling along the same road, and therefore gain renewed life and vigor.

Reviewing the history of the Council, Mrs. Marshall told of its beginning in 1888 as an International Council, after a congress of women held in Chicago, at which 26 countries were represented, and of the forming of the National, and subsequently Local, councils. She said that women were learning to together, that the results of that to gether, that the results of that united effort were well worth the while, and mentioned several acts of legislation which had been brought about by Council agitation.

"Today, women are facing new problems, the foremost of which are over-confidence and complacency," said the speaker. "'Selfishness, not always conscious selfishness, is another problem, and disunity is yet another difficulty to overcome." She paid tribute to the British women, saying that their courage and gallantry was a symbol to everyone, and showed that power of unity of thought and purpose.

Returning again to the mountaintop goal, Mrs. Marshall said that the goal for women of today was the achieving of legislation to take care of the war problems of better housing, nursery care, occupational therapy and superviser recreation, and the post-war problems of feeding and clothing the needy people of Europe, and seeing that the conditions which existed here after the last war do not happen again, mentioning youth training as a vital problem.

"We cannot all do the same job, because we all do not have the same capabilities," she continued, "therefore, we must do the job for which we are best fitted." She asked her audience to reason out the best way that they could help, and also urged women to use their franchise, telling of a campaign in Toronto to get women to vote, and of its success in raising the percentage of voting.

Mrs. Marshall said that there was no magic formula for victory, and that courage and determination were needed if the goal was to be attained. "We must have courage, determination, and faith,—faith in our country, in ourselves, and faith in God, if we are to emerge victorious. The challenge to the women of today has been accepted, and women are proud to have a part in shaping the future."

Her concluding statement was a quotation from Rupert Brooke, "Now God be thanked, Who has matched us with this hour."

Mrs. W. H. Morton, president of the Local Council of Women, introduced Mrs. Marshall, and also extended words of welcome to the guests, Mayor Hamilton, Alderman Glover, Alderman Dutton, Alderman Cotton, G. K. Fraser, M.P., and Captain Harold Scott, M.P.P.-elect, end expressed the regrets of Aldermen Swanston and Sullivan for being unable to be present. Mayor Hamilton, brought greetings from the city, and praised the work of the Council, saying that its members had ability, and were interested in the affairs of the community. He also asked for their co-operation and suggestions for making Peterborough a better city.

The proceedings of this annual meeting began in the morning, with a short devotional period, conducted by Rev. Dr. E. W. Young, president of the Ministerial Association, who also brought greetings from the Association. Reports from affiliated societies and conveners of groups were given during the morning, and continued after luncheon. A resolution committee was formed, consisting of Mrs. G. K. Fraser, Mrs. E. Wand and Mrs. F. Horton, to take charge of resolutions suggested by the societies, and to draft them for presentation to the Council.

Mrs. James Dutton, local vice-president and Mrs. William Addyman, League of Nations convener, reported the annual meeting of the Ontario Provincial Council of Women, and each paid tribute to Mrs. Marshall, and, though taken by surprise, both ladies expressed their appreciation for the honor given them. The decision was also made to send $100 to the Foundation Fund of the National Council of Women, and to give the life membership in the National Council which is given for every donation of $100. to Mrs. E. Wand, in recognition of her services.

Mrs. Marshall conducted the election and installation of officers for 1944, and congratulated Mrs. Morton on her re-election. The officers for the new year are as follows: Honorary president, Mrs. J. Mills; past president, Mrs. E. Wand; president, Mrs. W. H. Morton; first vice-president, Mrs. J. C. Larmer; second vice-president, Mrs. F. Merritt; third vice-president, Mrs. D. SHORTAGE IN HUSBANDS NOW

Record Crop of Spinsters After War Due to Law of Supply and Demand

Why is the old maid? Among the best-looking, the best dressed, the most intelligent, interesting and agreeable women we know are numbers of women who are unmarried. And we always wonder why, because they were so obviously cut out by Nature to be good wives and mothers, and some man was very unlucky not to have gotten one of them.

It isn't because these women were allergic to matrimony, because every woman in the world craves a husband and a home and she would rather have a baby than a career. Nor is it because men are overly choosy and hard to please in picking out their wives or that they exercise any particular judgment about it.

Observe the number of homely and unattractive women who get married.

Look at the intelligent men who marry nitwits. Consider the middle-aged and elderly men who marry girls young enough to be their daughters or granddaughters. Think of the men you know who are married to lazy, trifling, extravagant wives who keep their noses to the grindstone all of their lives and who never even give them a decent meal or a comfortable place in which to sit down.

Men Passed By Good Prospective Wives

An every one of these men with misfit wives must have known some pretty, clever, domestic girl who was just yearning to love and be loved, and to make some man a good home and an ideal wife. Yet they all passed her by, and she drifted into old maidenhood without anybody knowing just how it happened.

Of course, there are a certain number of women who are old maids because they are celibate by nature and no man looks as good to them as their own latchkey and pocketbooks do; but the general reason why the spinster crop grows larger year by year, and will break all records after this war, is because of the law of supply and demand. There simply are not enough husbands to go around.

But why the individual women is an old maid depends upon any number of causes. Very often it is environment. There are plenty of communities in which a girl has just as little chance to marry as she would to ski in the Desert of Sahara. There are many little villages and isolated country neighborhoods in which every able-bodied young man has gone forth to seek his fortune and which are Adamless Edens. Any girl living in one of them has to get out and to hustle if she craves a wedding ring.

Parents Often Ruin Girl's Chance to Marry

Often a father and mother kill a girl's chance of marrying by keeping her segregrated from other young people at the marrying time of life. Their idea is to keep Annabelle in rompers and protected against the wicked wiles of the men until she is about 25 or 30 years old. They will not let her have dates at home, or go out without Mama or Papa holding her hand, and by the time they are willing for her to step out the marrying squad has passed by.

A pitiful number of women are old maids because they are martyrs who were offered up on the altar of their families. They have always been the bread-winners with the hungry mouths of old people and little children to feed, invalids to take care of, worthless brothers and sisters who made bad marriages and came home with their breeds to be supported; and they have been too noble to desert their post, and too generous to lay their burden on any man's shoulders.

Other women have not married because they were fastidious. They have always been waiting for Mr. Right to come along and he didn't pass down their alley. There were plenty of men they could have married, but the one particular one they fancied did not fancy them, so they have remained single rather than put up with a makeshift husband.

Some Women Not Naturally Man-Hunters

Still other women do not marry because Nature did not make them hunters of men. They lack the daring and boldness to stalk down the men they want. They never acquire the art of setting their traps. They never learn how to jolly and cajole men. Perhaps they are not willing to stoop to such arts and wiles, but these are the tricks by which women catch husbands.

Women Honor Mrs. John Edgar

The highlight of the annual meeting of the Women's Auxiliary of All Saints' Church was the presentation by Mrs. S. Harris, on behalf of the members, of a walnut coffee table to the retiring president, Mrs. John Edgar. Mrs. Edgar, who presided during the first part of the meeting, gave a brief outline of the activities of the Auxiliary during her term of office, thanking all officers and members for their co-operation.

Rev. W. A. Filer, in his remarks, voiced his appreciation of the very capable way in which the retiring president had carried on the work of the group, and the new president, Mrs. Albert Hope, was then installed. During the business period, reports of the various secretaries were given, showing that all obligations had been met in full for the year.

At the close of the meeting, a social half hour was spent, and refreshments were served by Mrs. A. Williams and her committee.

Hockey Moguls To Discuss Ross

TORONTO, Jan. 21 (CP) — Teh National Hockey League's Board of Governors meets here today to discuss play-off arrangements, "routine business" and a couple of items which may turn out to be anything but routine.

If there are any fireworks, they may be touched off when delegates from the six clubs discuss differences between Boston Bruins and Montreal Canadiens over Goalkeeper Bert Gardiner. The background of this dispute has not been made public, but details may be forthcoming today on terms which sent Gardiner from Montreal to Boston this season.

A league spokesman said another matter for discussion will be a statement attributed to Manager Ross of Boston that Toronto Maple Leafs were guilty of a deliberate attack when Boston Centre Bill Cowley was injured in Toronto Jan. 8. The Daily Star quoted Ross as saying after the game that Frank Selke, Maple Leaf Manager, was responsible for the attack allegedly made upon Cowley, who later described the fall which caused a shoulder separation as "my own fault."

Stags Topple 3549 Pins In City League

Bert McCaroll's Stags came through with another good bowling effort to top the team scoring with a 3549 count in the Men's City League last night. The Cleanrites hit a 1269 game. Dick Martyn of Sunocos an 807 high three and Harold Legrow of Westclox a 334 high single. Other good singles included Jack Playford 316, R. Martyn 310 and 311, Jack Ainslee 311 and Walter Firth 306.

The lead for first place in the team standing was increased another point by Jay's when they defeated the Machine Shop 3 to 0 while the second-place Cleanrites could only win 2 points from Freeman's.

Actually the league is now minus and out-and-out last place team as Chief Gimblett's outfit rolled down Canada Packers 3 to 0 and created a four-way tie for 13th place. Canada Packers, Westclox, Old Timers and the Gimblett gang are at present sewed up tight with 17 points each.

Last night's results left the high average race unchanged, with Bud Weese still ahead of both Bob Dyer and Doug Abraham. All three are on the 246 line but Weese holds a slight mathematical advantage over the other pair by a matter of pins. Fred Martin maintained his 241 pace and Playford the fifth member of this high scoring quintette recorded a substantial gain with his 797 score. He is now averaging 241.

The standing: Jay's 38, Clenarites 33, K. of C. 32, Ramblers 32, Sunocos 30, Outlaws 28, Fractional Motors 27, Empress 26, Stags 25, Freeman's 24, Big Five 23, Machine Shop 22, Canada Packers 17, Old Timers 17, Gimblett 17, Westclox 17.

SARNIA—(CP) — Twenty rinks from 11 outside clubs have been entered in the 32-rink Imperial Curling Bonspiel which opens here January 24. Included in two Toronto Granite club rinks are W. E. McMurty, secretary of the Ontario Curling Association, and E. P. McKay, former president of the Dominion Curling Association.

SPORTS—Day by Day

By FRED D. CRAIG

An interesting souvenir of baseball in Peterborough away back in the latter part of the last century has been shown The Examiner by Vernon Spilsbury, 335 Downie street in the form of a newspaper photograph of the Peterborough Amateur Athletic Association ball club of 1889. The picture was found among the effects of Mr. Spilsbury's mother. Some well-known names are among those listed in this 55-year-old photograph. The only player now left is Dan McCabe who was famous for years not only here but throughout Eastern Canada as a clever pitcher, despite the handicap of having only one arm. Others in the photograph are the president of the club the late W. J. Green, for a long period tax collector. The late Frank D. Mackay, former editor of The Daily Review and later manager of the Machine Telephone who played first base; Hal Dumble, son of the late police magistrate D. W. Dumble, who was the shortstop; James Turnbull, the right fielder; Charlie Allison, newspaperman who performed in centre field; Dr. F. H. Brennan, a great athlete who afterward went to South Africa and who was captain, manager and third baseman of the squad; James Graham who played second base and helped out with the catching and Sid Malcolmshire, the regular catcher. One player in the picture who was not identified in the cut lines when the photograph was published may have been the late R. A. W. Hay. The P.A.A.A. team used to play its games at the old Cricket Field, off Driscoll Terrace in Ashburnham.

There should be two interesting games in the Ladies' Basketball League at the Y.M.C.A. tonight when the weekly double-header will be staged. The St. John's team, holding second place in the loop race are matched with Y Cadets in the opener and while the church outfit, made up for the most part of experienced players should win over the younger Cadet team, the latter will make a fight of it over every step of the route and the result should be a contest full of interest. The only games lost by the Saints so far have been to the leading Transports but the Cadets would not mind staging an upset in tonight's fixture which gets under way at 7.45 o'clock. The Normal School team which last week won a popular win by registering its first triumph in three seasons of consistent trying will do its best to hang up a second victory in a row by taking the Generals into camp in the senior game of the double-header. The C.G.E. team returns to the basketball wars after two weeks' absence and hopes to come home with a win to pick up some ground at the expense of the two teams out in front of the parade. The second game is scheduled for 8.45 o'clock.

Whipper Is Coming

Whipper Watson came through his bout with the rough-house Hard-Boiled Hannigan in Toronto last night without being carved up and that means that the British Empire champion will be here next Tuesday night to resume his argument with the Texas bad man, Karl Krippler Davis. The last time they met here a month ago the battle ended in a draw and that didn't suit either gladiator so both of them are tickled to death at the chance of fighting it out. Davis is allergic to wrestlers the Watson type. "Fancy Dans" is his name for them and he likes nothing better than an opportunity to knock them off and incidentally muss them up badly in the process. "Those slick birds who put stuff on their hair and come out there looking like movie stars is the kind I like to give the works," says the big Texan. "They seem to think all they got to do is go through a few flashy motions and the other fellow is going to curl up. Some of them may but not me. So far as I am concerned Watson is just another punk and I'll prove it to anybody's satisfaction next week." The unruffled Watson, on the other hand, is supremely confident that he can take Davis apart and demonstrate that Canadian wrestling can stand up to anything produced south of the border.

The Trenton R.C.A.F. junior team has pulled out of the Belleville group and Ken Colling tells why in the following paragraph: "Flt. Lt. "Buff" Horton's Trenton R.C.A.F. Flyers dropped out of group No. 2 of the O.H.A. last night, leaving Trenton, Stirling-Marmora "Combines" and Belleville Juniors to battle matters out. The decision came after the management of the youthful Flyers requested the Belleville Juniors to play their last night's scheduled game commencing at ten o'clock at night. Naturally the management of the local team balked at such a late starting hour, as many of the local juniors are students. It seems Flt. Lt. Horton, who is chief sports officer at the Trenton Main Station, has an intramural service league operating and composed of 22 teams. Of course these teams have first call on the Air Force open air rink and when it was suggested Belleville play following two service group games, Coach "Toots" Holway and company flatly refused. It is an unfortunate situation that arose, but after all the O.H.A. calls for covered rinks and the teams in group No. 2 of the O.H.A. only agreed to play at Trenton in order to give the station personnel outside hockey games."

May Change The System

Peterborough's army of five-pin bowlers will enjoy the following article by Bill Westwick in the Ottawa Journal: "There has been no concerted drive noted in Ottawa to adopt the Western system of five-pin scoring, though suggestions are heard from time to time, and at least one of the largest house leagues operating here is considering experimenting with it next season. Western officials don't insist their system of five-pin scoring is the best. They even go so far as to say that in the interests of national unity they'll adopt any system found to be better. All of which leaves considerable room for debate because the Western style has many boosters in the East. The trend in bowling, just as it is in hockey and football, is to revise rules. And the Patricks, the Ross' and the Ryans and Threlfalls of the bowling game are hard at it. An article in Maclean's introduces a new system sponsored by a former president of the Canadian Association. Under Eastern rules the pins are numbered so that the left arm of the "V" contains numbers one, two and four; the other has one, three and five. Maclean's mentions George Weale, a former C.B.A. president, sponsoring a system which would make number five the "blow pin," and places it at the head of the V, or in the head-pin spot. Behind it numbers three and two would form the left arm of the "V" with the two replacing the four pin, as the latter is spotted in the East. Numbers four and one would form the right arm. In support of this proposed system, Weale points to a high score as the object of the game. "In order to do that," he says, "you must make a number of strikes, and this in turn depends on your ability to hit the head-pin. If you can do that consistently you're a better than average bowler and should be rewarded by a better than average score, even if you do sometimes pick the head-pin out by itself or just manage to clean out one arm of pins in a frame." Says the article: "As the game is officialy played now, cleaning out the left arm gives you seven points and the 'blow-pin'; cleaning out the right arm gives you eight points, but no 'blow-pin', so that you actually don't score at all, even though you've bowled just as well, or just as badly, depending on how you look at it. Under the new system, each arm is worth 10 points and each arm has the 'blow-pin'." Weale's system raises the scores by only about 10 points a game, but, as he points out, "It is scientificially sound and gives that increase to the bowler who hits the head-pin consistently."

Detroit Red Wings have begun to serve notice on the other N.H.L. clubs that they will have to be taken into consideration when the fate of the Stanley Cup is being decided. Last night Jack Adams' outfit nosed out the Chicago Black Hawks 4 to 3 and it was the sixth game in a row in which the Wings have gone undefeated. It was a close fit and probably only the stellar work of Dion in the Detroit nets saved the day for the Hawks were roaring in often, especially in the last period. Each team scored in the first session and then the Wings with markers by Armstrong and Brown opened up a two-goal lead in the second. However Chicago came back strong in the final 20 minutes, outscored the

Hawaiian Horse Entered In Kentucky Derby

NEW YORK, Jan. 21 (AP)—What with one thing and another—like Hawaiian Haystacker in the entry lists, for instance—it begins to look like my old Kentucky home may be popping up with a brand new coat of paint for this year's Derby.

Topped off by the Oahu oat-burner, who's already at Churchill Downs aiming at trading in his grass skirt or that necklace of roses, there are enough new acts in the script for this 70th edition of the big heat so that even an old hand like Colonel Matt Winn may need a formal introduction to it.

The presence of the "Hula Hoss"—Ruth Collins' Kope Kona—plus the possibility that a Mexican delegation may also take a shot at the jackpot give the big heat its first international touch since Omar Khayyam came over from England to pick up the marbles one World War ago.

With no outstanding Derby candidate from last season to scare others away, even Colonel Winn is looking for a big field, possibly eclipsing the 22-horse rodeo in which Reigh Count "rassled" his way home in 1928.

Timid Soul Wallops 379-Pound Wrestler

BOSTON, Jan. 21 — (AP). — Joseph D. Fabiano, 25, 140-pound spectacled laborer, who allegedly took a poke at the Golden Terror, 379-pound wrestler, when the latter emerged from the arena ring last night, is a nervous man.

Charged with assault and battery on Patrolman Francis Gunning, who suffered a fractured thumb in the melee, Fabiano, who disagreed with the decision making the Terror the victor over Leo Numa, told Judge Franklin W. L. Miles that he never before had attended a wrestling match and was 4-F in the draft "on account of my nerves."

Judge Miles advised Fabiano to stay away from wrestling matches while his nerves are in their present shape and fined him $10.

Trenton Withdraws From Junior Loop

BELLEVILLE, Jan. 21.—Trenton R.C.A.F. withdrew from Group No. 2 in the Junior O.H.A. series today leaving the Belleville, Stirling-Marmora Combines and Trenton to complete the schedule.

With all teams now on even terms with two wins and a loss each, a home and home game series between the remaining three teams will be played prior to the group championship series. Tweed juniors have been included in the final title playdowns, but not in the regular schedule.

Speedy School Boy Seeks More Records

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Jan. 21 — (AP)—Flyin' Charley Parker, the blonde bullet of Texas schoolboy track, doesn't promise that he'll better any of his marks this year, but ventures that if he does it will be because of added height.

Charley won't have to surpass his 1943 performances much to hang up world records. He already is United States national scholastic 220-yard king with a 20.6 seconds in timing, and he has raced the 100 in 9.5.

"If I better any of my 1943 records, I would say a lengthened stride caused by added height would be accountable," said the "Pony Express," now in his final season at Thomas Jefferson High School.

Parker is 17 years old, 5 feet 9½ inches tall, and has gained exactly one pound over last year, weighing in at 147.

Charley hasn't lost a dash race in two years, and has 37 straight victories to his credit.

The controversy over post-war baseball was given further impetus in New York yesterday when Branch Rickey, originator of the chain system of clubs, told a press conference the committee of major and minor league interests to study the future of baseball was packed with opponents of the farm-club plan. He expected the issue would be fought out when the agreement between the leagues is re-written this year. The farm scheme had partly resulted from the needs of clubs in the lower classes and partly because of effort by major units.

Rickey said he doubted whether Class "AA" and "A-1" baseball would continue in 1944 but he saw no reason why the majors should not operate. In the best position were the Class "C" and "D" leagues because their clubs were able to pick up players who are free agents.

Announcement was made last night by President Peter Campbell of the Toronto Baseball Club that the Booster Club, active with the International League team since 1935, would not function next summer. The head of the Booster organization was Roy Worters, former National Hockey League player. No reason was given for dropping the fans' unit.

Betty Hicks of California, who won the U.S. Women's amateur golf title in 1941 and later turned pro, proposed the formation of a women's professional golfers association yesterday at Chicago. Miss Hicks said one purpose of the organization would be to promote golf among women through exhibitions and demonstrations.

Teams Fold

The four-team Pacific Coast Senior Hockey League may not be able to weather the manpower shortage, it was reported last night from Vancouver, with New Westminster and Victoria on the brink of folding, leaving Vancouver and Navy left to fight it out. The Sailors will not be able to enter the playoffs.

Peter F. Kelley, 73, one of the oldest members of the Baseball Writers' Association of America and a sports writer for half a century, died at his Milton, Mass., home yesterday. He started his career with the Boston Journal in 1890 and was with the Boston Globe at the time of his death.

Matchmaker Johnny Attell announced at New Haven, Conn., last night, the cancellation of the scheduled 10-round bout there Jan. 24 between featherweight champion Phil Terranova of New York and Snooks Lacey, a local fighter, because of an injury to Terranova's hand.

Wings Conquer Hawks 4-3; Dion Plays Well

By The Canadian Press

Detroit Red Wings have established a National Hockey League record by using four goalkeepers so far this season, but they're not likely to make any more adjustments in that department unless Conny Dion's current form changes radically.

Since the 25-year-old Cornwall, Ont., product made his first start in the nets against Montreal Canadiens Jan. 13, he has figured in three Detroit victories and one tie. He rose to the heights last night, fending off eight shots in the last two minutes as Red Wings conquered Chicago Black Hawks 4-3 to stretch their unbeaten string to five victories and one tie in their last six starts.

Manager Paul Thompson flung six forwards over the boards in the last 34 seconds in an effort to tie the count, but they couldn't beat Dion, who seems likely to become a permanent successor to Harry Lumley, Jimmy Franks and Normie Smith as Detroit backstop.

Dion, standing five feet five inches and weighing 140 pounds, is the 14th goalie to appear in the N.H.L. this season, but Detroit is the first team in the league's history to use four goalies in one campaign. Dion was discharged from the Canadian army because of a leg injury.

Playing before 9,222 home fans, Red Wings seized command in the second period on goals by Murray Armstrong and Adam Brown after Modere (Mud) Bruneteau had neutralized Cully Dahlstrom's first-period score for Hawks. Clint Smith and Fido Purpur counted for Chicago in the third but Carl Liscombe clinched things for Detroit with a sizzling 20-foot shot at 8.12 of the same period.

The victory moved Wings half a game away from the third-place Boston Bruins and skidded Hawks deeper into fifth place. Chicago has failed to win on Detroit ice in 17 games over a four-year period.

Tennis Champ Wins At Golf

SAN GABRIEL, Calif., Jan. 21—(AP). — It has taken three years of arduous practice, but Henry Ellsworth Vines, once the monarch of the tennis world, has come into his own as a golf professional.

Elly Vines, one of the all-time greats of the net game, has just won his first golf tournament against big-time competition. He captured the San Gabriel Country Club's pro-amateur best ball event yesterday with a course record-equalling 64, seven strokes under par.

Byron Nelson, golfman's man of the year in 1943, finished second with a 67. Nelson was doing everything right, getting long straight drives, being on the green in two, and holding his putts. But Vines was superlative. He had to putt only 26 times on 18 holes and never was over par anywhere.

Vines' performance was on the course where he learned to play the game when he quit tennis for good in 1940 after being the world amateur champion and then king of the net pros for five years. However, he has been the hottest golfer in Southern California all winter. Practically every course he has toured has surrendered to his shot making.

Johnny Conick Still At Top In O.H.A. Sr. A

TORONTO, Jan. 21—(CP)—Johnny Conick of Hamilton is still leading scorer of the Ontario Hockey Association Senior "A" series, now reduced to a three-team league, official records showed today. Conick has 20 goals and 18 assists for 33 points, giving him a five-point edge over Red Reynolds and Blink Bellinger of St. Catharines, tied for second with three. Doug Runions of Hamilton holds fourth spot with 32 points, and Gus Giesebrecht of Kingston and Dillon Brady of Hamilton round out the six leaders with 28 and 7 points, respectively. Toronto R.C.A.F. and Kingston Army have withdrawn from the league because of recent wartime restrictions on service hockey, and Toronto Navy will be barred from interprovincial competition for the same reason.

JUG McSPADEN

TROUBLE, TROUBLE, ON LINKS—These two top-ranking golfers, Ed Dudley, PGA president, and Jug McSpaden, recent winner of the rich Los Angeles open, aren't exactly stymied on the Harding Park course in San Francisco, but they have troubles. Dudley pitched into the rough. McSpaden had to blast out of a sand trap. The two were among the top pros competing in the $110,000 San Francisco open tourney.

Canadian Sport Snapshots

By CHARLES EDWARDS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO, Jan. 21 — (CP) — It's a pretty safe bet that the National Hockey League's "gag law" will go by the boards to-day. The N. H. L. meeting here is unlikely to take any action on Art Ross' apparent breach of the rule forbidding newspaper criticism of officials by other officials or players. Somehow we can't picture the Boston manager paying the $1,000 fine for his charge that Manager Frank Selke of Toronto instigated the injury to Boston's Bill Cowley. And if Ross gets "home free" on this occasion it will set a precedent for future offenders. N. H. L. Governors would risk terrific criticism by press and public if they attempted to fine a less influential official or player after letting Ross go Scot free.

Tar Barrel:

The navy announcement its teams and players will not be permitted to enter Interprovincial play-offs though they can go as far as Provincial finals will have its effect on the Allan Cup and Memorial Cup, particularly the latter. Navy junior teams were strong contenders in Edmonton and Regina.

The Montreal junior circuit is currently led by Royals with Canadiens second. Canadiens have eight navy players and Royals five. If either wins the Quebec title, as seems likely, it will be seriously weakened for the Interprovincial competition.

Incidently:

New York Rangers are angling for return of defenceman Vic Myles who played with them last year and is now starring with Moose Jaw Victories.... Jim Coleman of the Toronto Globe and Mail points out that Bryan Hextall of Rangers has scored 153 goals in only 6½ N. H. L. seasons while Nels Stewart required 15 seasons to count his record of 323 N. H. L. goals.

Maybe Hextall will make the grade .... A harness-racing revival is planned in Southern Saskatchewan with Assiniboia, Bengough, Rouleau, Lafleche and Gravelbourg on a newly-organized circuit .... Allan Boes, Manitoba's amateur golfer and at present the top bowler in the Winnipeg 10-pin league, claims a 300-game in bowling requires more skill and more luck than golf's hole-in-one. He has never scored either himself but bowled 10 consecutive strikes the other night and wound up with 289 ....Art Kiebe should be back in Chicago Black Hawks defence shortly. He has arranged for care of his Vermilion, Alta., bakery while he pursues the puck.

Capitals Move To Third Place

By The Canadian Press

Indianapolis Capitals whipped Providence Red 3-1 in the only American Hockey League fixture last night.

The victory gave Caps a total of 33 points and put them in third place—one point ahead of Buffalo Bisons. Cleveland Barons hold first place in the circuit while Hershey Bears are in second place with 43 points—two behind Barons.

Carl Smith scored the first goal for Caps in the opening period. In the second frame Red Morrison and Bernie Ruelle added two more counters.

Reds' lone goal came at 6.28 in the third period when Harold Cooper sent the puck flying past 17-year-old Harry Lumley in the Caps' net. The defeat was the 21st for Providence in 32 starts this season.

Rangers' Players Recover Slowly

NEW YORK, Jan. 21.— (CP). — Grant Warwick and Charles Scherza, injured members of the New York Rangers National Hockey League team, left yesterday for their homes in Regina to complete recovery. Both were reported in "exceptionally fine" condition.

Warwick, speedy right winger, suffered a fractured skull in a game at Detroit Dec. 23. He will be out of action for the remainder of the National Hockey League season. Mrs. Warwick accompanied him on the trip to their home.

Scherza, who suffered a fractured rib and a punctured lung in a game against Boston Bruins Dec. 12, will be out for a month, Ranger officials said. The left winger, purchased from Boston early this season, decided to return home to complete his recuperation.

Curling News

By HERB. MARTIN

Judging by the weather forecast for to-day it looks as if the chances for curling over the week-end are very slim. The probs say "comparatively mild."

Don't be surprised when the weather does turn a little colder that the schedule committee may decide to shove in the odd double-header. We are getting behind with our schedule and this seems to be about the only answer. However, the skips will be informed well in advance and they in turn will notify each member of his rink.

At a recent meeting of the ladies' club, Mrs. H. Dulmage and Mrs. D. Clarke were elected as Tankard skips to represent their clubs in the play for the Ontario Ladies' Tankard which is to be held in our rink on Monday, February 1, and Tuesday, February 2. It is many years since this important event was held here, and it is always considered a great honor. Each club is entitled to send two rinks, and no doubt some of the best lady curlers in Ontario will be here.

Already our ladies are preparing for the event, and all in all it looks like a big two days.

St. Mike's Beat Hamilton Team

By The Canadian Press.

Although Hamilton Whizzers scored the only counter of the initial period in the Junior "A" Ontario Hockey Association engagement last night at Hamilton, St. Michael's College took command in the second stanza to register a 10-4 decision for the students' 12th victory of the season—and climb within four points of the group-laden Oshawa Generals.

Ted Lindsay of the Collegians had a field day in scoring four counters; Bobby Schnurr accounting for three, Frank Dunlap two and Johnny McCormack one. Nick Tomiuk was the big shot for the Whizzers, garnering two of Hamilton's four, Comfort and Whitworth earning one apiece.

St. Mikes ran in six goals in the second period, against three by the home club, and coasted through the final 20 minutes during which the Saints collected four more and allowed a single tally to the Hamiltonians.

Citizens Need To Be Familiar With Economy

"The most potent force that can be created for the cure of our economic ills is a thorough understanding by a very substantial portion of our population of the fundamental laws that govern our economy,' G. R. Langley, works engineer of the Canadian General Electric, told an audience at the Thursday evening dinner of the Y's Men's Club.

"I doubt," Mr. Langley said, "if the evils that we all recognize as existing will ever be cured until we have a large educated public opinion that will ensure not only that leaders and representatives who hold correct opinions will be placed in power, but also that such leaders will receive steadfast support when they take correct measures."

Mr. Langley scored as erroneous the widely held opinion that the subject of economics is so huge and complicated that it is far beyond the grasp of the average citizen. "So prevalent is it," he said, "that only a small fraction of our educated people make any attempt to study it and understand it. Actually the fundamental economic laws are simple and easily understood."

Not Responsible.

Mr. Langley expressed himself in disagreement with the views of many economists who would place responsibility for full-time postwar employment on the doorstep of industry. Full-time employment under modern technological conditions would result inevitably in over-production, he said, and from there the step would be short to repetition of depression, irrespective of whether capitalism or socialism was in control of industry.

He held it was unwise to hope that inventive genius would provide some device creating new employment on a scale similar to that created by the automobile. "Let us not delude ourselves," he warned. "No such device is at the moment in sight and none of the active developments in aircraft, plastics or electronics show likelihood of appreciable employment."

He favoured as the solution of the problem radically increased employment in useful services such as health, and recreational services and the conservation of national resources. This, combined with decreased working hours and a shorter span of working years, would result in increased industrial employment.

Self Sustaining.

Facing the probability that antagonism to the radical extension of useful services would be met with because of a general feeling that the cost would be a heavy burden to the taxpayer, Mr. Langley gave it as his opinion that such services were truly self-sustaining, and to the same extent as in the case of the farm that produces useful needed food or the industry that manufactures useful needed goods.

"Free enterprise," Mr. Langley said in conclusion, "or the production and distribution of goods, and socialism for the services with an acknowledged responsibility on the part of the services to provide a radically greater share of employment than in the past, is not improbably the "ideal" set-up for obtaining full employment and producing the maximum standard of living."

County Council Levies 1 Mill For Red Cross

County council authorized the levy of one mill, equivalent to approximately $11,000, for the Canadian Red Cross Society, and renewed its support to the Federation of Agriculture with a grant of $500 at its session Thursday afternoon.

The appeal to the council in behalf of the Red Cross Society was presented by a deputation including H. B. Rye, Rev. George Murray of Keene, T. P. Lancaster of Havelock, G. K. Fraser, M.P. and Harold R. Scott, M.P.P.

Mr. Lancaster informed the council that the last drive by the five chartered branches of the Red Cross in the county for voluntary contributions had substantially exceeded the objective of $7,000. But, it had confronted the canvassers with a difficult task that was increased by the rationing of gasoline and imperative consideration of wear and tear of tires. Moreover, most of the money had been contributed by a comparatively small number of all the citizens in the county. On the other hand a tax levy of one mill would enable all the ratepayers to share in assisting the Red Cross Society on an equitable basis.

In asking the council "that 'you ear-mark one mill," Mr. Lancaster explained that local branches would be enabled to keep for their own local society purposes the sums they raised by their own efforts, instead of having to forward 65% of their collections to the National Red Cross as required by the Society's regulations. He stated that the Blood Donors Clinic was the main work of the Red Cross at present, and with an invasion of the continent of Europe imminent the chief aim of the Red Cross in Canada was to provide more and more blood.

Present Challenge

Rev. George Murray of Keene, in supporting the request for the grant, said that the conclusion of the Red Cross Society in Otonabee was that this was a work that belonged to every ratepayer. "We are not begging for money," he went on; "we feel that this is a challenge. One has only to read the letters of prisoners of war and their simple statements that without those parcels they wouldn't be alive, to realize how great the challenge is."

Harold Scott, M.P.P., said "The danger of setting a precedent is probably in your minds. If the war goes on next year, you may certainly expect to see the same deputation here again. But these are emergency times, and with the return of peace you will have no need to fear."

In his turn Gordon K. Fraser, M.P. for Peterborough, supported the request and referred to the large proportion of money given to the Red Cross which actually comes back to the county in the form of services rendered. He said that of the $2,250 donated by the council in the previous year, over $1,900 had been returned in the shape of the care of the hospital at Apsley. The sum of $519 had also been donated to various Red Cross units, and Mr. Fraser praised the devotion of hard-working women volunteers in meeting quotas of all kinds. "They are not just knitting socks," he said.

In concluding on behalf of the Red Cross, Mr. Rye reminded his listeners that as a member of the council in 1917 he had asked for and got a contribution on the same basis, that of a one mill on the assessment, as was being requested now. He said that he hoped to see the council go on record with a unanimous vote in favor of the proposal as a gesture of appreciation to Canada's servicemen and women.

The council went into a finance committee of the whole for immediate consideration of the requested grant, and it was moved by Reeve M. H. Johnston of North Monaghan, seconded by Reeve Peter Mather of Otonabee that the grant of one mill on the county rate be given the Red Cross. An attempt to have the matter tabled until other items of patriotic expense could be considered simultaneously was not successful, and the grant was carried without opposition.

Financing Federation

Continuation of the grant of $500 to the Federation of Agriculture was strongly supported by Reeve James Gifford of Ennismore and Reeve Gilbert McIlmoyl of Smith, while opposition to the grant in its proposed form was expressed by Reeves Rork Ferguson of Norwood and Dep. Reeve A. W. Archibald of North Monaghan.

Representatives of the Federation stated the need of their organization for assistance, and pointed out that the Provincial enabling act passed last year, whereby one-fifth of a mill could be levied on the assessment would not provide help for the Federation before the end of the year.

Supporting the request, Reeve Gifford was of the opinion that the grant should be continued in its present form until such time as the Federation was standing firmly on its own feet, and that reducing the appropriation now would be akin to "cutting down a carefully nurtured plant which is about to bear fruit." He felt that through the Federation definite steps were being taken towards the formation of a strong national organization, which to the advantage of farmers would parellel organized groups in labor and industry and thus give farmers a stronger voice in postwar discussions.

Reeve Gifford then moved that the grant be continued on the same terms as last year's, assistance up to $500 to be paid the Federation when and as necessary. Seconding the motion, Reeve McIlmoy said he had no doubt that "this is the best farm organization we have ever had."

Opposing the motion, Reeve Ferguson stated that he had never been in favor of grants designed to give an organization its livelihood and that it was rather up to the people to give the money and promote such a cause. He thought that more initiative should be shown by Federation canvassers in bringing in contributions by means of the levy, and said that "as long as they can come here and be assured of getting the help they ask for, no particular effort of their own is likely to be made." Therefore he moved that no action be taken.

Canvass Troubles

The representatives explained difficulties which had been encountered in collecting the canvass and other facts were brought to light indicating the earnestness of the association. Mr. Ferguson was prevailed upon to withdraw his motion.

It was then amended by Reeve Archibald that the grant be reduced to $250 and seconded by Reeve Gordon Scriver, Lakefield. In commenting on this move, Reeve Mather showed that many counties were awarding far higher grants that Peterborough, though he admitted one or two were not yet organized in support of the Federation and were doing nothing at all.

The matter was eventually put to the vote, and Mr. Archibald's amendment found no supporters. Mr. Gifford's original motion then carried.

Further action of the finance committee Thursday afternoon involved decision to place the renewal of all insurance in the hands of A. E. Wilson Co., Toronto and adoption of the motion to receive the treasurer's report for 1943 and have it referred to the County's auditor.

LIFFORD LINE, Jan. 21—(ENS)—Miss E. Lathangue entertained the Lifford War Workers for their January meeting at her home west of Lifford. A flannelette quilt in light colors which had been patched by the ladies in their homes was quilted and bound during the afternoon. During the business discussion which followed it was decided to send this quilt to the Russian relief as a bale of other articles is being collected.

sition, indicating clouds forced the Nazis to fall back on anti-aircraft defences entirely.

The Berlin correspondent of the Swedish newspaper Aftonbladet said Berliners are gradually learning when to expect the raids by various signs such as the weather. Last night's raid found the residents prepared, he said.

Berliners have become so accustomed to the pattern of the attacks that they know when to get set for the block-busters, other persons who have been through the raids said.

Berlin's new bomb shelters sway under the force of the larger explosives, eyewitness related.

One such reinforced concrete structure, on the Koethenerstrasse between the Anhalter and the Potsdamer railway stations, extends three stories underground and two stories above. It has room for 5,000 persons.

Reports to Stockholm said the Nazis were hastening their preparations for other Allied blows deeper in the German-controlled areas, tightening blackout restrictions in parts of conquered Poland thus far untouched by the raiding planes.

2,500 Hun Planes Ready To Stop Invasion

LONDON, Jan. 21 (AP) — The German Air Force may be able to concentrate 2,500 planes in the west to meet an Allied invasion of Europe, the magazine Aeroplane said today in a summary based on a two-year study of German press and radio reports.

The number might be smaller, the magazine said, if the Allies compel the German High Command to disperse their forces by diversionary attacks.

About 1,200 of the Nazis' 1.700 to 1,800 day and night fighters, including some 160 two-engined rocket carriers, now are facing British and American air units stationed in Britain, Aeroplane said.

From the ability of Allied bombers to reach German targets and obliterate them, it is apparent that this strength is insufficient, particularly since the Germans must protect an area from Biarritz in the southwest to the North Cape in the north, and extending inland to Leipzig.

The magazine estimates that about 400 German fighters are stationed along the Russian front and perhaps 200 spread over Italy, the Balkans and Southern Germany.

"Between four and five of the 17 bomber groups of the Luftwaffe already are in the west and a great number have been used for fighting on intruder operations in the past few months," Aeroplane said. "There is no doubt that of the seven bomber groups in the east, or the five in the Mediterranean, between one and three can be spared for the northwestern front when the Allies open the invasion."

United Church Reports Surplus

WARSAW, Jan. 21 — (ENS). — The annual meeting of the United Church was held in the church basement this week, with a good attendance. Reports from all the groups showed that it has been a good year with a balance in each treasury. The Stewards and elders were all re-elected. Mrs. G. Taylor was re-appointed pianist, with Mrs. George Hawthorne as assistant. Stewart Clysdale and Henry Dewart were appointed to the Parsonage Board. Rev. Mr. Snelgrove reported four new members of the church. The church celebrated its fiftieth anniversary this year and the event of that week were a highlight in the evening's reports. Similar meetings have been held at Bethel and Zion churches during the past week, and both report a good year with increased interest.

Allied destroyers also were active in the Adriatic the same night, shelling a harbour on the Island of Korcula off the Yugoslav coast.

The Germans offered fierce resistance as the British troops pressed forward on the Garigliano front.

2 Mile Advance.

A closely-contested battle was said to be raging at Catelforte, seven miles inland and two miles from the stream. This represented a two-mile advance from Suio, one of the three original footholds won across the stream.

Northeast of Cassino French troops crossed the Rapido river and captured the foot of Mount Iliago, a major stronghold on the eastern end of the Germans' Gustav line.

Three hundred Nazi prisoners were taken in advances along the Garigliano.

Allied airplanes joined artillery in battering the enemy as the British troops advanced. In one such joint effort, a German formation was smashed as it was about to counter-attack.

Allied heavy bombers escorted by fighters attacked two air fields southeast of Rome — at Ciampino and Centocelle, both of which were hit the previous day—and heavy bombers hit Guidonia, 14 miles northeast of the Italian capital.

It was the fourth consecutive day that Allied air forces, both strategic and tactical, had concentrated on German air fields and communications.

the Germans remaining in the Leningrad sector were facing one of the worst Nazi disasters since Stalingrad and the Moscow radio declared jubilantly:

"The Germans have been driven away from Leningrad. German forces are bleeding profusely. They are panic-stricken under the threatening tentacle of a mighty Soviet army of retribution."

Nearing Estonia

Capture of Novgorod opened the road to Lake Peipus and Southern Estonia.

Gen. Meretskov's troops were pushing wesward from Novgorod in pursuit of the fleeing garrison and latest reports placed them more than 10 miles along the roads to Estonia. Of this victory, the Moscow radio said:

"Falling back hastily they (the Germans) cannot hope to stem the onslaught of our troops, nor stand up to the deluge of artillery fire rained upon their heads."

In addition to the 40,000 Germans which the Russians said they had slain, 4,000 more were reported captured. Govorov's men accounted for 25,000 of the slain enemy troops, the other 15,000 dying in the storming of Novgorod by Meretskov's troops on the Volkhov front.

The Russians reported the capture of 265 guns on the Leningrad sector since Jan. 14, when their offensive was launched, including 85 heavy siege guns which had been shelling the city. Other material taken included 30 tanks, 159 mortars, 274 machine-guns and 18 ammunition dumps.

During the same period Meretskov's troops on the Volkhov front captured 182 guns, 120 mortars, 653 machine-guns, 263 trucks, 21 tractors and 25 dumps. They destroyed 178 guns, 15 tanks, 110 mortars, 365 machine-guns and 350 trucks, the communique said.

Professor Says System Sound

MONTREAL, Jan. 21 — (CP). — Prof. C. E. Curtis, assistant head of the department of industrial relations at Queen's University, told a service club (Kiwanis) today that Canada's present economic system has worked, and will give way to some other system only if it fails to deal effectively with the "grave problems" facing it.

"We have no sound bases on which to claim that any other system would have worked better," he said, "and all the 'isms' floating around at present will not break it down."

"It seems inevitable, however, that in dealing with present problems, the system will change. We must be prepared to participate in its development and see in this process that it continues to appreciate the value and importance of the individual, his life and his liberty."

Barefoot Sick Woman Rescues Youngster

TORONTO, Jan. 21 — (CP) — Mrs. Lena Burkosy, of nearby Long Branch, barefoot and wearing only night clothes, left her sick-bed yesterday to rescue a five-year-old boy who had tumbled through a hole of the ice in the Etobicoke River. Lying flat on the ice, she managed to reach the youngster as his grip on the ice edge began to loosen. The boy was not identified. Mrs. Burkosy saw the boy struggling in the water when she had glanced from her bedroom window.

Berlin Censors Cut Raid Stories

By EDWIN SHANKE
Associated Press Staff Writer

STOCKHOLM, Jan. 21—(AP)—Despite the strengthening of Berlin's anti-aircraft defences, Allied bombers blasted the German capital heavily again last night, the Berlin correspondent of the Stockholm Aftonbladet said today.

The Germans apparently have been increasing their anti-aircraft batteries steadily around the city in an effort to protect it from total destruction, the correspondent wrote and he described the intense din which they set up as "startling."

The air raid sirens sounded their warning at 7 p.m., he said, "and within a few minutes the whole show was in full swing."

When he emerged from a shelter, the correspondent declared, many fires were visible—especially on the outskirts of Berlin where was industries are concentrated.

Responsible quarters in Berlin characterized the raid as a "terror attack" Aftonbladet said, and added it could therefore be assumed damage and casualties were "quite large."

One report said the area in the neighborhood of the Friedrichstrasse railway station in the heart of Berlin was heavily bombed.

The foreign press in Berlin now is subject to the strictest censorship on air raid stories, and details of results of the attack were scanty.

Lt.-Cmdr. Nixon's father was the late Cmdr. E. A. E. Nixon, who was in command at the Royal Naval College at Halifax and Esquimalt, and his grandfather was the late C. E. L. Portus, manager of the Bank of Montreal in Lindsay.

After graduating from the University of British Columbia, Lt.-Cmdr. Nixon entered the Navy in 1935. Prior to the war he saw service in the British cruisers H.M.S. Exeter and H.M.S. Frobisher. In 1939 he was appointed to H.M.C.S. St. Laurent and served in the North Atlantic as a first lieutenant until 1492. He helped pick up survivors at Dunkirk, and his ship was credited with sinking a submarine.

When he left the St. Laurent he was appointed to H.M.C.S. King's College at Halifax, where he served as executive officer until taking up his present appointment. A brother is in the R.C.N.V.R., one in the R.C.A.F., and a sister in the Women's Division of the R.C.A.F.

Believe Coldwell Has Dangerous Aides

LONDON, Ont., Jan. 21.—(CP).—Calling the policies of the Progressive-Conservative party "progress by evoltuion rather than revolution," Dr. R. Hobbs Taylor, M.L.A. for Huron, told a meeting of wards two and four last night that "Coldwell would be the Kerensky of the Canadian revolution, if the C.C.F. were to come into power."

"I think Coldwell believes what he is saying," Dr. Taylor said, "but there are men in his party who do not believe the same as Coldwell; they are dangerous men and they want far different things to what Coldwell talks about."

GOING TO RUSSIA—Warm blankets, overcoats, suits, shoes and other clothing contributed in response to the appeal of the Salvation Army for the Aid to Russia Fund were packed and sent on their way this week. Cleaners and repair workers readily gave of their time in repairing the clothing which needed it. Veteran Lawyer Watched 47 Inaugurals

The election and induction of Warden Isaac Anderson of Belmont-Methuen Tuesday afternoon as the presiding officer of the county council was the feature of the forty-seventh successive opening of the January sessions attended by E. A. Peck, K.C.

"I was a member of the county council seven years, but I was never reeve of a municipality," Mr. Peck told the Examiner this morning. "I was first elected to the council in 1898 as commissioner for the district comprising the village of Ashburnham and Otonabee township. The commission form of county government was an experiment that continued for a time, but I can hardly say it operated successfully and to the satisfaction of the ratepayers.

J. B. Pearce of Norwood was elected Warden in 1898. Since then I have attended every inaugural session of the council down to the present year. My impression of all those men from the various municipalities was that they were honest and earnest, good citizens trying to do their duty to the best of their ability for the people who elected them. In 1904, my seventh year as a member of the council, I was elected Warden, and subsequently I was appointed county solicitor. Our firm has retained that position down to the present time. I am still solicitor, but I should say that most of the work these days is done my Mr. F. D. Kerr, K.C."

Succeeded Stratton

Mr. Peck's predecessor as county solicitor was W. A. Stratton, K.C., who used to serve also as sessional clerk, reporting the committee meetings and generally performing sessional clerical work for which he was paid three dollars a day. He died in 1904.

Dubious Economy

The avoidance of elections and their incidental expenditure for the taking of the votes of the people seemed to Mr. Peck to be a questionable economy.

"My impression has been that one of the surest ways of actively interesting men in public affairs and responsibilities is by way of public service," Mr. Peck said. "In that respect it has seemed to me that representation in the Legislature should have been continued on the old basis of one member for East Peterborough and one for West Peterborough. I have observed that every man who has ever served in a municipal council has acquired a training and an understanding of public affairs and administration that never leaves him. I think almost invariably he remains actively interested in his municipality, and intelligently interested because of

Want Longevity

NEW YORK, Jan. 21 (AP).—The Japanese have formed an old folks' club with which persons less than 60 may affiliate themselves only as "probationary members," the Tokyo radio said today. The new organization is designed for "the encouragement of longevity" and dedicated to activities which might "prolong the average life of the Japanese to 100-years and thereby increase the Japanese population to 500,000,000," the propaganda broadcast recorded by U.S. government monitors said.

30 Bales Of Clothing Are Shipped To Aid Gallant Russian People

Thirty bales of splendid clean, wearable clothes and shoes were packed and shipped this week as a result of the Aid to Russia appeal made by the Salvation Army.

The campaign which commenced just prior to Christmas resulted in a splendid appeal on the part of the citizens. The wearing material submitted was all of a high quality consisted of overcoats, blankets, warm underclothing and suits.

The drive was in charge of Major Dixon who left the ctiy this week and he had a group of workers who gave much time to the gathering, repairing, cleaning and packing of the shipment.

While a considerable part of the donations were almost new, soiled garments were cleaned by Fanning's and Grant's, Salvation Army ladies did the repairing. Collars and linings were mended by W. J. Hamilton.

The following financial assistance was received: Coldsprings Sunday School, per F. M. Kitney, $6.00; Mr. and Mrs. W. Boorman, 243 McDonnel street, $10; Mr. Les Turner, 395 Monaghan Road, $15; Fraserville Community Service Club $10; and anonymous $4.00.

Some shoes and goloshes needed repairing and this was done by M. Veneranda.

Few people realize the work that has been done in Canada to aid the Russians for a trainload of goods has been dispatched every five days. These goods are not included as supplies under the mutual aid agreement but rather gifts from Canadians.

Fur-Lined Coat Is Greece-Bound

Fred J. A. Hall's fur-lined coat is destined to end its use in Greece. It is only one of the pile of worn garments which have been given to the committee of local natives of Greece who are receiving clothing and boots that will be forwarded to the Greek Relief Fund headquarters in Montreal at the end of this month on the first leg of their long and circuitous journey of goodwill.

Although the response of the people of the city and district has been generous, the appeal of this communal good deed is being re-emphasized as the end of its appointed time of termination approaches the last week of the month.

Tom Poulos of the Havelock Hotel arrived in the city with an automobile filled with bundles of clothing and boots contributed by the people of the C.P.R. village.

The fur-lined coat gets special mention because it still has some years of usefulness, and to a man whose clothes are in rags it will probably seem a rich gift. Louis Yeotes told a reporter about it. Mr. Hall asked him whether such a coat would be acceptable, and characteristically Mr. Yeotes replied that it would be a great help to some one, "possibly a Greek 'guerilla' fighting the Germans might get it."

New Farm Forum Is Organized In Smith

Mrs. M. Moncrief was appointed leader and Harry Irwin secretary of the new forum. While lunch was being prepared Mrs. Roland Scott conducted a few short, snappy games.

Central Smith will unite with Stewart Hall Forum for next meeting. The topic for discussion will be The Importance of Planning the Rural Community, in the form of any analysis of the development of functions of rural community, along with an appraisal of its effectiveness.

Police Rescue Man From River

Taking a chance on the thin ice in the Otonabee River near the foot of Fradette avenue early this morning Sergt. W. E. Wigg, veteran member of the Peterborough police department saved an elderly timber scaler from death by drowning in the icy water.

The man, 80 years old, who boards on Fradette avenue, had apparently become bewildered after getting off a city bus and in the darkness wandered out on the ice until he broke through.

His cries for help were heard by Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Campbell, 125 Fradette avenue who called the police.

Sergt. Wigg answered the call and located him clinging to the edge of the ice, thirty feet from the west bank of the river.

The officer made his way out to the elderly man and pulled him out of the water and brought him ashore, assisted by Mr. and Mrs. Campbell. The ice gave way as Sergt. Wigg neared the bank and he went into the water up to his knees.

Officers Gordon Trennum and Andre Dalton had arrived on the scene by this time and helped carry him to a police cruiser car. He was taken to St. Joseph's Hospital where this morning he seemed to be little the worse for his experience.

Gilmour Circle Meets

GILMOUR, Jan. 21—(ENS).—The Young Women's Mission Circle of Gilmour Church met at the home of Mrs. Reg. McMullen with a good attendance. Mrs. Roland Scott presided, and Mrs. Ralph Scott took charge of the devotional period and spoke on "Jonathan."

The government has discovered widening uses for the valuable heart durg producer.

Salvage Drive In City Is Being Planned

Because of the desperate need at the present time for paper salvage, and at the instigation of the government, the work of the original group who handled the salvage here, will be carried on under an enlarged set-up. The first salvage drive will be held February 14, 16 and 18, it was decided at a meeting of leading women's groups Thursday night.

Robert Connolly, of the Salvage Division of the Department of National War Services, acted as chairman during the discussion and for the appointment of the committee, which is now to be known as the Peterborough War Services. Mrs. R. Whalon was elected chairman of the new organization, with Mrs. Floyd Curtis as secretary and Mrs. George Roper, treasurer.

An executive committee was appointed with the following members: Mrs. B. D. Hall, Mrs. Alice Leach, Mrs. C. Hotston, Mrs. J. McCarney, Mrs. C. Wolfe, Mrs. Robert Allin, Mrs. James Turnbull, Mrs. A. Willis, Mrs. S. O. Shields and Mrs. R. J. Kearns.

A.R.P. Helps

The salvage depot will not be re-established and all the work will be largely done by the dealers who will be paid a flat rate. The A.R.P. under Max Sloan, is co-operating and will use the block system which they adopted for their other work. The wardens in the different zones will be responsible for notifying the people in their area of the time of the drive and the proper way of preparing salvage.

Five organizations will be included in the Peterborough War Services and they are the Navy, Army and Air Force Auxiliaries, the Catholic Women's League and the Civic War Service Council. After the dealer has been paid, the remaining funds will be divided between the five groups, with the stipulation that it must be used for war services work.

Rubber is no longer a necessity for the salvage drives, the primary object being paper. Papers must be tied securely and boxes broken down. The committee hopes to have regular collections every four or five weeks and between the A.R.P. and the advertising, the public will receive warning before the pick-up.

Grafting Afoot

NEW YORK, Jan. 21—(AP)—The New York Daily News in a copyrighted story says it has uncovered what it termed illegal transactions between civilians and army officers in connection with construction of Camp Shanks, Orangeburg, N.Y., and as a result the House of Representatives Military Affairs Committee has ordered hearing beginning next Tuesday.

Production Drops

NEW YORK, Jan. 21 — (AP).—A new centralized control agency has been set up in Indo-China to supervise "all aspects of production and of rubber," the Tokyo radio said to-day in a broadcast recorded by United States Government monitors. Four days ago the controlled Saigon radio announced a sharp decline in both production and export.

IN ITALY TOO—Sgmn. Archie Sutherland, R.C.C.S., arrived in Italy in December, 1943, and has been in action, according to word received by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. George A. Sutherland, now in Peterborough, but formerly of Baptiste Lake and Bancroft. He enlisted at Kingston in April, 1941, and went overseas in August, 1942. Sgmn. Sutherland was born in Bancroft.

Youth Is Facing Two New Counts

Donald LaFonte, 19, who was on remand on a charge of vagrancy, found himself facing two other charges when he appeared before Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., in police court this morning.

LaFonte was charged with having obtained a liquor permit while under age, and also with illegal possession of loose gasoline coupons in violation of the War Time Industries' Control Board regulations.

The accused, who was defended by W. J. Arthur Fair, entered a plea of not guilty in all three charges. The cases were enlarged until Wednesday of next week.

LaFonte is one of three youths arrested near the Co-Op warehouse at George and Sherbrooke streets by Constable Ernest Beatty.

Lorne More, another of the trio, who pleaded not guilty to a vagrancy charge was also remanded until Wednesday.

The third member, Fred Hughey, 18, who pleaded guilty to the vagrancy charge, was allowed to go on suspended sentence for one year at the suggestion of Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry, K.C. One of the conditions was that he must refrain from association with La Fonte and Moore.

310 YMCA Men In Forces Report Shows

Enlistment of 310 members of Peterborough Y.M.C.A., of whom 111 joined up last year, is disclosed in the report of the president, John R. Marshall, at its annual meeting last night.

"These brave boys have been retained on our membership. At the end of last year we had 775 members, 515 in the senior section and 260 in the junior section.

"Service to the armed forces in the Training Centre and to those on leave has been and still is an important part of our work. During the year 10,883 took advantage of our showers and swimming pool.

"As an Association we have much to be proud of, and even more to be thankful for. We have been playing a valiant part in the community life of our city, and our work has prospered....War still rages, but the light of hope is breaking and clouds of doubt are vanishing, and before long right will triumph over might, and we will be able to say with the poet: 'God's in His heaven, all's right with the world.'

"Several dances were held in the gymnasium under the auspices of the citizens' committee of service men, and I want to make mention here of the very valuable aid given to the arrangements for these dances by Mrs. J. K. Hughes.

"Extra beds have been required at various times to take care of the overtaxed dormitory. In the last group of young men arriving at the Training Centre were a number of Mennonites, and a group of these have asked for a room for devotional services two nights a week and on Sundays."

The following are some of the activities mentioned by Mr. Marshall in his review of 1943:

"Our swimming department, to which Gordon Minty has given unstintingly of his time and experience, is deserving of special mention. Its outstanding feature was the winning of the junior Canadian championship at Winnipeg by one of our members, William Lech, and later at a meet in our own pool this same swimmer equalled the Canadian record....We owe much to the Y's Men's Club for a very successful year in bowling.

Boys' Department.

"The Boys' Department shows an increase of 36 members over the year 1942, and of 90 over 1941. Boys' clubs are a feature of this department, and one new group was organized this year—the Rural Members' Club—consisting of boys from the rural sections coming into Peterborough to school and devoting their noon hour once a week for club meetings and physical activities ...The Intermediate Club collected magazines for soldiers and fats for salvage, and a total of $137 was made by these two clubs and donated to various schools, Y.M.C.A. and community funds.

"The highlight of the year was a father and son banquet with 46 members and 39 fathers present.... The Fun and Friendship Club conducted on Friday nights for younger members continues in popularity with an average attendance of 721.

Learn Swimming.

"Last year 111 boys were taught to swim and a large number of boys qualified for advanced certificates; in all 367 awards were won during 1943.

"The annual free 'Learn to Swim' classes for boys of the primary schools were conducted during April and May with 67 boys registered."

Mr. Marshall continued his detailed reference to the various departments and groups, including the "Y's Men's Club" and the Friday Night Supper Club.

"The Friday Night Supper Club represents an age group hit hardest by the enlistments for war services. They can boast of 150 members in the fighting forces, a very proud record, and under the leadership of Harry Vass and Norman Allen, have and are carrying on efficiently."

The new feature in social education with Quirt McKinney as chairman of that committee has enrolled 70, of whom 19 are young men and 51 young women.

"Our financial situation I am not going to cover in detail, as it is my desire to have this presented by our treasurer. It is a very gratifying statement, and is worthy of a distinctive place in our annual proceedings.

"We wish to thank George C. Scott, Jack Thornton, Rollie Krant, Jack Wolstenholme, Newton Hamilton, Steve Csumric and Harry Currie for their valued help freely given during the early summer in helping in the work of supervision during the illness of our general secretary....During this year of war, causing dislocation of peace time activities and conditions, we have much to be thankful for....May we see our duties and rise to the occasion, and take advantage of the opportunities that are ahead to make our country a better place to live in, and by our example in this direction to make the world a heavenly place to abide."

Directors Returned.

The report of the nominating committee, presented by F. E. Johnston, recommended the re-election of the following directors whose terms were expiring: J. R. Marshall, Dr. H. M. Yelland, J. L. Gillespie, R. L. Dobbin, A. L. Elliott and H. M. Campbell.

The treasurer's report by Fred Hills, to which Mr Marshall gratefully referred, showed that the year had been financially encouraging.

IN HOSPITAL—Fergus O'Brien, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Francis O'Brien of Douro, is in a Kingston hospital with a leg injury. He has been serving in Kingston with the R.C.N.V.R. for several months. His wife, formerly Mildred Brick, lives in Peterborough, where she was employed at the C.G.E.

St. James' Group Gives Aid For War Victims

Situated in the south-end of the city where it ministers to a district largely peopled with industrial workers, St. James' United Church through a number of its various classes have for the whole of the time that the Peterborough and District British War Victims has been in operation, given really fine support for the work being done on behalf of the sufferers from air raids over Britain.

One class alone, known as the Cheerful Workers' Class, has annually made a donation of $100 each time at the Christmas season, and many other gifts have been received in like manner from other groups within this one church circle.

Among these, the King's Own Bible Class has taken its place on more than one occasion, and today another gift of $10 from this same group appears through Mrs. E. R. Frost, their treasurer, to make two days in succession when money has been received from active workers connected with local church Sunday schools.

School No. 1, Smith, Helps.

Among the rural schools, one of the more popular ways of raising money appears to be through the holding of concerts, this being largely utilized during the past festive season, being one which particularly lends itself to an event of this kind.

Recently, the pupils of School Section No. 1, presided over by Miss Eleanor Glover as teacher, staged such an event, and part of the proceeds in an amount of $6 is acknowledged in today's list for the fund, the other portion being used to fill some accessory needs at the school itself. This school lies in the Lily Lake district, which has done considerable to give the fund a helping hand.

One personal gift is noted today from G. McMillan, who turned over the proceeds of a sale made by him of some containers he had given to him, and while on this subject, the fund management would reiterate that it would be glad to arrange for the disposal and sale of the many salvage articles so urgently needed in the war effort if interested parties will get in touch with the secretary of the fund at headquarters in the Examiner office.

Dance This Friday.

The dances held in the Community Hall at Cavan have for a long time been an attraction which have given good assistance to the fund. Another of these is being held this Friday, and as usual, through Mervin Kinsman, fund representative in that district, the net proceeds will find their way into this column to help the fund along.

Son Killed In Italy Appears In Movies

MONTREAL, Jan. 21—(CP)—A month after receiving notification their son had been killed in action in Italy, Mr. and Mrs. Stewart Sexton attended a private showing of a newsreel here and saw him advancing with a party of infantrymen through an Italian village.

Their daughter, Ann, first spotted her brother, Cpl. Robert Sexton at a regular showing of the picture. The theatre management later arranged a private showing of that section of the newsreel for the benefit of the dead man's parents.

Cpl. Sexton enlisted Sept. 15, 1939, six months before his 17th birthday.

But the chief reason why women who would like to marry fail to do so is because they lack that mysterious come-hither look in the eyes that from the beginning of time has made men get up and follow women, whether they had beauty, or brains, or worth, or not. And this attribute is a gift of the gods and no woman can make it for herself.

And maybe the reason why there are so many old maids is because God is good to us, for what would we do without old maids to mother other peoples' children, to take care of the old folks when the married children leave home, and run all of the charities and clubs? Goodness only knows.

Baltic Fleet Almost Freed

MOSCOW, Jan. 21.—(AP).— The Red Army's great surge to the south from Leningrad has practically freed Russia's Baltic fleet.

Locked in port for two years or more, the Baltic fleet now is free to operate in the Bay of Kronstadt and possibly beyond.

To the south of the Baltic shore the Russians are driving deep into German positions, capturing thousands of Nazis cut of from their commands and communication lines, ands of Nazis cut off from their comrailway and highway junctions that are the key to the entire Baltic front.

Large isolated groups of Germans, either already surrounded or about to be cut off, are reported in sectors west of captured Novgorod, between Oranienbaum and Leningrad and east of the Moscow-Leningrad railway.

Group Insurance Of Westclox Is Liberalized

Westclox has had a group life insurance plan in effect since 1920, without cost to employees. The company provided insurance equal to normal annual earnings up to a maximum of $2,000 yearly.

The new plan is a combination of free and contributory insurance. All employees with six months or more of service will be insured under the "free" plan in an amount determined by annual earnings, up to a maximum of $2,000, but by $500 steps. Thus a person who earns $1,001 will be insured for $1,500 instead of for $1,001, etc.

As a result most employees will receive a larger amount of "free" insurance, the increase in some cases amounting to almost $500.

The "contributory" plan, offered to those whose earnings exceed $2,000 per year, offers them the opportunity of securing additional insurance at their own expense, but at the very low rate of $7.20 per $1,000 per year.

The "contributory" part is divided into classes, employees who are eligible being allowed to purchase an amount equal to their earnings, less the $2,000 supplied free by the company.

Earnings Class	Amount Free	Employee May Buy Additional	Employee's Yearly Contribution
Under $1,000	$1,000	$.....	None
$1,000-$1,500	1,500	.....	None
1,500- 2,000	2,000	.....	None
2,000- 3,000	2,000	1,000	$ 7.20
3,000- 4,000	2,000	2,000	14.40
4,000- 5,000	2,000	3,000	21.60
5,000- 7,500	2,000	5,500	39.60
7,500 and over	2,000	8,000	57.60

Insurance is payable for death from any cause, and no medical examination is required.

U.S. Lays Plans To Always Be Prepared

NEW YORK, Jan. 21 (AP) Leaders of industry, government and the armed services would like to make certain the United States is never again caught short by the sudden onslaught of war.

A proposal that the armed services and industry combine to keep the country forever prepared and equipped with the latest in weapons came last night from Charles E. Wilson, vice-chairman of the United States War Production Board and former president of General Electric.

It dovetailed with the suggestion of Navy Secretary Frank Knox that compulsory military training be a postwar project, and with industry outlines of plans for postwar stockpiles of raw materials vital for war.

Wilson, in an address capping a series of similarly aimed speeches before the annual meeting of the Army Ordnance Association, urged that the nation "maintain at all times leadership in the technical and operational superiority of the implements of war."

Four Soldiers Hurt In Toronto Crash

TORONTO, Jan. 21 (CP) — One girl was killed and six persons hurt when the car in which they were riding crashed into the rear of a stalled truck north of nearby Richvale early hursday. Four of the injured were solders stationed at Camp Borden.

Police said a registration card in the handbag of the dead girl identified her as Nora Galman, 21, of Toronto.

In hospital here with injuries described as serious, are Teresa Savage, 20, and Sally E. Bedard, 20, both of Toronto, Ptes. J. A. Inman, M. Perlstone, B. A. Stone and S. Thompson, all members of the Royal Canadian Army Medical Corps.

Stone, driver of the car, said he and his companions were returning to Camp Borden and picked up the three girls hitchhiking on the highway leading north from Toronto.

STOCKHOLM, Jan. 21 (AP) — Countess Edda Ciano, daughter of Benito Mussolini, was reported today to have taken refuge in a neutral country, presumably Switzerland, following the execution of her husband, Count Galeazzo Ciano.

The Geneva newspaper La Suisse said the countess had "arrived in the territory of a neutral country where her three children have been in school for several months."

MacArthur Reaches Retirement Age

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21 (AP) — Secretary of War Stimson, asked at a news conference to-day if Gen. Douglas MacArthur would be relieved of active duty when he reaches the statutory retirement age of 64 next Wednesday, replied: "I don't think you need to worry about that."

Stimson said MacArthur already was on the retired list and that the retirement law, therefore, would not apply in his case. MacArthur retired in December, 1937, at his own request, but subsequently was recalled to active service.

3 Fliers Parachute When Caught In Fog

BRANTFORD, Jan. 21 —(CP) — Three airmen of No. 5 Service Flying Training School here — FO. Leonard Stott, LAC. Patrick R. Heenan and LAC. Charles J. Jewell of Montreal—were eligible for membership in the Caterpillar Club today after parachuting from their aircraft early Wednesday.

The men, on a night navigation exercise, were caught in a dense fog. With the fuel nearly exhausted, Stott ordered the others to jump. Stott suffered a broken ankle, while the two students were unhurt.

The aircraft crashed on the shore of Lake Erie, while the men landed within a mile of each other.

Toronto Judge Raps Prices Board

TORONTO, Jan. 21 (CP) Judge James Parker yesterday quashed a conviction against Cridlands, Ltd., of Toronto on a charge laid by Prices Board investigators and reserved judgment on another appeal on a similar charge.

"I think it is disgusting to pay handsome salaries to these men who lay charges without investigation," said the judge. "I think this should be brought to the attention of the minister at Ottawa."

Judge Parker had asked Senator Salter Hayden, counsel for the company, "did the investigator ask the company for an explanation?"

"No," replied counsel.

The charges were that more than the ceiling prices had been charged in selling meat to a restaurant and to the British American Oil Co., for use on one of its tankers.

Labor Chief Lashes Montreal Newspapers

MONTREAL, Jan. 21 (CP)— Pat Conroy, secretary-treasurer of the Canadian Congress of Labor, told an organization meeting last night that the "Daily Newspaper Association of Canada is poison for Labor" and said it was "perpetuating class war in Canada."

Mr. Conroy and President A. R. Mosher of the C.C.L. joined in attacks on the Montreal Gazette and the Montreal Star. They warned Premier Godbout not to pass legislation "hastily" which would prejudice the present status of Labor, with special reference to the Police and Firemen Associations here, affiliated to the C.C.L.

Dr. Frigon Denies Gardiner Barred

OTTAWA, Jan. 21 —(CP)—Dr. Augustin Frigon, acting general manager of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation said Thursday that delay in granting permission for broadcast by two Alberta stations of an address by Robert Gardiner, president of the United Farmers of Alberta, yesterday was due to "a misunderstanding."

Dr. Frigon explained that all network broadcasts must have CBC approval.

"They applied for a network of two stations and there was some misunderstanding about what they intended to do with it," he said. "When they explained their purpose we immediately allowed the broadcast."

END-PLAYS CAN BE EASY

MANY LEAD throwing end-plays are complex things which are difficult to figure out. Some of them involve the most careful stripping of your own holdings, or those of the opponents, and the deft selection of exactly the right time to throw one of the defenders into the lead. Other plays of the same classification, however, are not complicated at all, but are easy to figure out once you consider the possibility of one.

North: ♠ 8 7 5 ♥ K J 10 9 ♦ 9 6 4 ♣ 8 5 3

West: ♠ K 10 6 ♥ 8 4 ♦ K J 3 ♣ Q J 10 9 7

East: ♠ J 4 3 2 ♥ 6 5 3 2 ♦ 10 8 7 2 ♣ 2

South: ♠ A Q 9 ♥ A Q 7 ♦ A Q 5 ♣ A K 6 4

(Dealer: East. Neither side vulnerable.)

East	South	West	North
Pass	3 NT

South did not want the lead to be through his ace-queens if the hand got played in a No Trump game contract. That is why he bid the game at once instead of starting with 2-Clubs and thus probably causing his partner to bid No Trumps. In this he was absolutely sound, and it was only too bad he could not play the hand as soundly.

When West led the club Q, he went right in with the A, used a heart to reach the dummy and finessed the spade Q to the K. The club 9 then caused him to use the A, and he now scored three more hearts, then finessed the diamond Q to the K. After West took his last three clubs to set the contract, South bemoaned his hard luck in finding two kings offside.

With four heart tricks certain, plus three other aces and the club K, South needed only one additional trick. It would have been a cinch if he had played soundly. After winning a club trick, he could have run off the hearts, taken his other club top and then thrown West into the lead with a club. That defender could have scored only three club tricks and then would have had nothing to lead but a diamond or a spade. Either would have been into a tenace, producing the needed ninth trick, and the final one then could have been given up.

South: ♠ K Q 9 2 ♥ K Q 10 5 4 ♦ Q 2 ♣ A 7

After East bids 1-Club and South doubles, what is the best action for West on this deal?

FIRST AIRWOMEN TRAIN—Stepping into one more field hitherto occupied exclusively by men, members of the R.C.A.F. Women's Division are now training to become signals officers, at No. 3 Wireless School in Winnipeg. The six-month course is a tough one, including transmission by wireless and Aldis lamp, theory of radio, direction finding, signals equipment, signals procedure and administration. During the last weeks the girls get 16 hours in the air as wireless operators, to give them an appreciation of the place of their ground job in aerial communication. These pictures show four of the girls in the first class at work on various types of radio and wireless equipment. Business Men Urged To 'Accept Office

TORONTO, Jan. 21 — (CP) — Business and professional men were urged last night by Neil P. Petersen, president of the Acme Screw and Gear Co., Ltd., to take more interest in public affairs.

"When business and professional men offer to serve in public office we will have practical and intelligent planning, replacing the crackpots, reformers and others who lately have made so much noise and so many threats against our democratic way of life," he said in an address to the Canadian Society of Automotive Engineers.

The right to work "without paying tribute and without bureaucratic restrictions" he suggested as a "fifth freedom."

"The qualify and ability of men in parliament is such that in most cases they are incapable of solving our immediate problems without assistance," he said in urging engineers to interest themselves in national problems. "The radicals with the only doubtful qualification—that of talking loudly and often — will force their plans on our government if we do not offer to help."

'Admiral M. Kerr Dies At Age 79

LONDON, Jan. 21 (CP) Admiral Mark Kerr, 79, British air pioneer who had an important role in the founding of the R.A.F. in the First Great War, died today after long ill-Great War, died Thursday after a long illness.

The son of an admiral, Lord Frederic Kerr, he entered the Royal Navy in 1877 at the age of 13. He commanded Britain's Adriatic squadron in 1916 and 1917.

But it was as an air authority that Admiral Kerr came to be remembered, for he was one of the first to recognize the potentialities of airplanes.

At the age of 49, with the rank of rear admiral, he learned to fly his own plane and received his pilot's certificate in a Sopwith seaplane in July, 1914. That year he flew a round trip from Phalerum to Poros Island, Greece, longest sea flight made to that time.

On Oct. 10, 1917, he wrote the memorandum that persuaded the British cabinet to establish the R.A.F. and he himself became deputy chief of staff with the rank of major general.

He retired in 1918 but in 1919 undertook to fly the Atlantic from St. John's, Nfld., to the British Isles in a Handley-Page bomber. After two months of waiting from day to day to take off, the flight had to be abandoned.

He then decided to fly to New York, was forced down in Nova Scotia, and on another hop reached Greenpoint, Long Island. From New York he set out for Chicago and this time his plane was forced down at Mount Jewett, Pa.

Much of his later years were devoted to writing.

Admiral Kerr in 1913 went to Greece to reorganize that country's navy and was its naval commander-in-chief until 1915.

Something New

MONTREAL, Jan. 21 (CP).—Court of appeals yesterday took under advisement the position in law of a workman, Sam Gallo, who broke his artificial arm but could not obtain full compensation under the Workmen's Compensation Act because it was a case of damage to property instead of bodily injury.

RECTAL SORENESS AND PILE TORTURE
QUICKLY RELIEVED

If you are troubled with itching piles or rectal soreness, do not delay treatment and run the risk of letting this condition become chronic. Any itching or soreness or painful passage of stool is nature's warning and proper treatment should be secured at once.

For this purpose get a package of Hem-Roid from McDermid & Jury or any I.D.A. or other drug store and use as directed. This formula which is used internally is a small, easy to take tablet, will quickly relieve the itching and soreness and aid in healing the sore, tender spots. Hem-Roid is pleasant to use, is highly recommended, and it seems the height of folly for any one to risk a painful and chronic pile condition when such a fine remedy may be had at such a small cost.

If you try Hem-Roid, and are not entirely pleased with the results, your druggist will gladly return your money. —(Advt.)

Italian Father Now Canadian Citizen Finds Son Prisoner In American Camp

WINNIPEG, Jan. 21 — (CP) — Angelo Zamparutti, a Winnipeg sculptor, would like to make a trade—one that would bring his 21-year-old son Luigi to Canada.

Luigi is in a prisoner of war camp in South Carolina, where he was taken after his capture in Sicily.

"I hope to find an Italian prisoner in Canada who would like to trade places with my son," the father said yesterday. "I could have him closer to me."

They were re-united in the prison camp, their first meeting since 1927 when the father left Italy and came to Canada. The father visited the camp recently.

The depression and then the outbreak of war prevented Lamparruti from bringing his family to Canada. Mrs. Zamparutti is still in Northern Italy.

Not Safe Anywhere

DIGBY, N.S., Jan. 21 — (CP). — A twin-engine bomber crashed on a road outside this town yesterday, landing squarely on a parked truck and crumpling it into wreckage. Three were injured—the two men in the plane and George Robbins who was running from the truck as the crash came. All were taken to hospital here in serious condition.

WITH THE CANADIANS IN ITALY, Jan. 21 (CP Cable)—The first copies of The Canadian Press News, dated Jan. 8 and flown to Italy, reached the Canadian front yesterday.

A field postal unit is handling the distribution of the paper and the troops will get copies with their mail today.

The weekly paper gives the sol-soldiers two Canadian papers, the other being the Maple Leaf. They also get the Red Patch, a chatty weekly published by and for the men on the Adriatic front. In addition, a number of units publish their own mimeographed sheets.

The Canadian Press News is a weekly eight-page illustrated tabloid comprising three pages of general Canadian news, three pages of brief hometown items—one page in French—a page of news of Services' activities overseas and a page of Canadian Sport news. The news is provided by The Canadian Press and the newspaper is distributed free to the services.

19-Year-Old Boy Has Feet Frozen

TORONTO, Jan. 21—(CP)—Provincial police here to-day told the story of a 19-year-old Toronto youth who attempted to walk from Northern Ontario to Toronto in sub-zero weather to see his sick grandmother.

The youth, Jack Wild, is in hospital at Hearst and doctors say it may be necessary to amputate his legs, frozen in the 12 to 18-below zero weather.

Wild went to Kapuskasing, about 500 miles from Toronto, on Jan. 7 to work in a lumber camp. Within a day he received a telephone call that his grandmother was ill in hospital here.

Without funds, he decided to walk to Toronto. On the night of Jan. 9 he staggered into a grocery store at Gregoire Mills, 30 miles from Kapuskasing, with his legs and feet frozen.

Provincial police made arrangements to place him on a train for Kapuskasing, but when he reached there the hospital was unable to care for him. He was taken to Hearts where doctors are endeavouring to save his legs.

In the meantime, police said, the grandmother has improved.

ALLIES LAND 30 MILES FROM ROME

Key Junction Falls To Red Army

Leningrad-Moscow Rail Line Open Once Again

LONDON, Jan. 22 —(CP) — Soviet capture of Mga, key rail junction 30 miles southeast of Leningrad, has reunited Russia's second city by rail with Moscow for the first time since the city was laid under siege by the Germans two years ago, Moscow dispatches reported to-day.

At the same time Leningrad gained a permanent rail link to tap lend-lease supplies coming from the northern port of Murmansk through Volkhov. During the siege Allied supplies had been reaching the northern city over a railway built on Lake Ladoga's ice and a highway wrested from the enemy a year ago.

Capture of Mga, hailed by Premier Stalin yesterday in a special order of the day, liquidated the tip of a salient long held by the Germans southeast of the former Czarist capital.

New Break Through.

Reduction of the strategic junction climaxed a new break-through on a 30-mile front from the Nerva river southeast to the town of Vingagolovo. Under direct pressure from the advancing Soviet forces was the main Leningrad-Moscow trunk railway a few miles westward.

The two northern Russian armies were on the offensive along the whole of the Leningrad and Volkhov fronts, the Moscow communique reported. They are led by Gen. Leonid A. Govorov and Gen. Kyril A. Meretskov, both of whom were cited by Stalin for the capture of Mga.

Other units of Govorov's Leningrad army were driving south and southwest of the city toward Krasnogvardeisk, junction of an east-west escape rail line leading to Narva, Estonia. Capture of this strategic centre would trap untold thousands of Germans fleeing from the east.

The same troops were driving Germans before them toward troops of Gen. Meretskov's army racing west from captured Novogorod, less than 100 miles south of Leningrad. Two thousand Germans were killed

Bombers Hit Magdeburg During Night

55 Bombers Lost Loosing 2,000 Tons Of Death

By TOM YARBROUGH
Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Jan. 22.—(AP).— The R.A.F.-R.C.A.F. campaign to flatten German industrial targets crushed the city of Magdeburg in Saxony last night under more than 2,000 tons of bombs as the major phase of a great aerial operation which included a smaller attack on Berlin

The new blows against Germany, following up a heavy 2,200 ton assault on the capital the previous night, cost 55 bombers, including 14 from Canadian squadrons, one of the heaviest losses suffered in a year.

They came while the Germans themselves were stabbing at London and Southeast England with two sharp raids by a force of approximately 90 bombers.

Magdeburg, a city of 300,000 on the left bank of the Elbe river, about 83 miles southwest of Berlin, is a junction point for the main railways to Leipzig, Kassel and Hamburg— all previously hit heavily.

Magdeburg itself was bombed exactly a week before by Mosquitoes while a big fleet of British bombers concentrated on the aircraft manufacturing centre of Brunswick, 26 miles away, which some neutral sources now say "ceases to exist."

The Air Ministry described last night's blast at Magdeburg as "a very heavy attack," and said great fires were left burning.

Berlin Hit Too.

The force which returned to Berlin, where fires still blazed from the 2,300-ton bombing of the night before, included both four-engined Lancasters and the swift little Mosquitoes.

At the same time other bombers struck unidentified targets in France, following up yesterday's 1,000-plane daylight assault on the so-called "rocket gun coast" in the neighborhood of Pas de Calais.

The Germans, goaded into making a counter-blow, sent one group of bombers acrosh the channel before midnight and another in the early hours of this morning.

They operated mainly over southeast England, but about 30 of the invaders struck into the London area.

London Suffers.

A communique said, "bombs were dropped at a number of places.

Surprise Raid Takes Nettuno Cassino Battered on 2 Sides

By EDWARD KENNEDY—Associated Press War Correspondent

ALGIERS, Jan. 22 —(AP)—Powerful British and American Forces of the 5th Army striking by sea toward Rome landed on the west coast of central Italy before dawn to-day in a heavy attack to smash the German's flank and turn their winter fortifications in the Gustav and Adolf Hitler lines.

The first landings were successful, winning a beachhead several miles long, and "the situation is developing favorably," Allied Headquarters announced at noon. The announcement did not locate the invasion point.

Berlin asserted the landing was made between the mouth of the Tiber, 16 miles southwest of Rome, and Nettuno, about 30 miles southeast of the Tiber and the same distance from Rome. The harbor of Nettuno has been occupied, the boadcast added.

The bold thrust was commanded by Lt.-Gen. Mark Clark under direction of the commander of central Mediterranean forces in Italy, Gen. Sir Harold Alexander.

Ending the slow process of frontal attack alone, it was supported by blistering air and naval bombardments, and followed air attacks that have severed the Rome area from communications to the north. This left the Germans there with only their immediate resources on the spot, air officials declared.

It was coupled with a general assault from the 5th Army front farther south along a 15-mile line. American troops forced their way across the Rapido River near Cassino against "withering fire," French troops seized two mountains in the same area, and British forces captured more villages on the north bank of the Garigliano.

The Nazis launched several fierce counter-attacks on this front, an indication the great amphibious flank attack apparently had taken them by surprise.

British Commandos and American Rangers spearheaded the new leapfrog landing, the biggest seaborne attack in Italy since the invasion ramming ashore near Salerno in September.

All the experience of Italian and Sicilian invasion jumps strengthened the new sea-borne plunge. The first wave spread over the beachhead, and the invading fleet sped supplies ashore.

Berlin's account placed the Allies within 30 miles of Rome.

French troops converging on Cassino from the northeast seized an important height.

The new landings came as the Germans were rushing completion of Health Plan Outlined By Dr. Vivian

Set Up New System On County Plan Minister Suggests

"So long as I remain in this position I intend to do what I can to stop any regimentation of the medical profession," declared Hon. R. P. Vivian, M.D., Minister of Health in the new Progressive-Conservative Government led by Premier Drew, in outlining as dinner guest of the Peterborough County Medical Association at the Empress Hotel last night an attractive promise and program of better things to come for the safeguarding and promotion of the health of the people of Ontario.

Establishment of a complete Public Health system on a county basis, directed by a Medical Officer of Health and assisted by a requisite number of Public Health Nurses and Sanitary Inspector in each county unit, was a salient feature of the comprehensive plan which the Minister sketched to his closely attentive audience of doctors of the city and district, and their wives, together with the members of the Board of Health and representatives of the two local hospitals.

Obviously, from his exposition, the Minister of Health is setting out to break new ground for the extensive organization of a public health service in this province that will be adequately staffed and definitely directed toward the two virtually distinct channels of prevention and cure of disease.

Dr. Vivian also announced the prospect of a personal tax, which he termed sickness insurance, instead of a property levy, as a means of helping to finance the measures which are being drafted to provide Ontario with a public health service that will advance a long way beyond the old ideas and accepted practice.

Introduced by Dr. F. C. Neal, with Dr. R. S. Chenoweth presiding as the after dinner chairman, Hon. Dr. Vivian began his address with an incisive summary of the Heagerty insurance plan and report prepared for the Dominion Department of

No Synthetic Tires Ready For Next Eighteen Months

CHATHAM, Jan. 22—(CP).—Although the $48,000,000 synthetic rubber plant at Sarnia, Ont., is producing 40,000 long tons a year, there will be no lifting of restrictions to make tires available to the non-essential motoring public for at least a year and a half, R. C. Berkinshaw, president of Government-owned Polymer Corporation, Ltd., told Kent Motor Club last night at its annual meeting.

The production program will hit full stride next week with completion of a final unit, said Mr. Berkinshaw, but the supply is sufficient only to meet military and essential civilian vehicle demands. Although there was a possibility the essential civilian list would be extended to include some motorists if the supply situation should improve, there were still many difficulties to be overcome before synthetic rubber processing could be perfected.

Equals Germany.

He said Canadian synthetic rubber production in "a short time" has been occupied, the broadcast equal to that achieved in Germany, where work on the process had been proceeding many years. Tests of Canadian production have proved satisfactory and the conversion use program is 60 per cent. complete, he said, adding that in some cases 90 per cent. conversion has been reached.

The over all synthetic program for North America was 850,000 long tons. The plant at Sarnia included four main producing units, including two for raw materials, buna-s and butyle synthetics.

"Sarnia was chosen as it is adjacent to essential oil refineries, situated on a river, and has access to highway and railroad," he said. "Approximately 35,000 barrels of oil and 15,000 gallons of water per day is used. The first sod was turned in August, 1942, and 11 months later, Styrene, a basic material was produced.

The plant was making Buna-S at the end of September and within the next week will be making Butadiene, which now is imported from the United States.

Canon's Poems Used At Funeral

MONTREAL, Jan. 22— (CP). — Montreal pays its final tribute today to Archdeacon Frederick George Scott, idol of the men of the Canadian Corps during and since the First Great War, who died in Quebec Wednesday.

It will be the second military funeral for the "grand old man" who as senior Protestant padre of the old First Division, endeared himself to the hearts of soldiers and performed deeds of valor that brought him the Distinguished Service Order and other high decorations.

Quebec, and visitors from many parts of the Dominion, paid tribute yesterday in impressive services from St. Matthews Anglican church, where he had served for 37 years before his retirement in 1933.

To-day's service will be held in Christ Church Cathedral, with burial in the family plot in Mount Royal cemetery, overlooking the city. Rt. Rev. John Dixon, Anglican bishop of Montreal, conducts the service at the Cathedral, assisted by Hon. Brig C. G. Hepburn, M.C., senior

Peterboro, Millbrook Fliers In Big Raids Over Germany

By LOUIS V. HUNTER—Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Jan. 22—(CP Cable).—Squadrons from the R.C.A.F. bomber group were out in full force for the second successive night, joining other squadrons of the R.A.F. bomber command last night in a 2,000-ton attack on Magdeburg, Germany.

Four Canadian bombers are missing, it was announced in an R. C. A. F. communique which also said Canadian Mosquitoes on intruder operations destroyed one enemy aircraft and all returned safely.

At least nine Canadian squadrons of Lancaster and Halifax bombers were included in the striking force against Magdeburg. Airmen of the Canadian group and Canadians flying with the R. A. F. said it was a good attack with many fires started.

Flt. Lt. Frank Hurley of Winnipeg, in charge of an R. A. F. Halifax bomber crew, reported his aircraft survived nine brushes with enemy fighters in the two nights. They were attacked six times on Thursday night in the Berlin raid and three times last night.

"It's getting grim," Hurley said. "It was a good prang and the grim part is for them and not us. There were kites all over the place with fighters and bombers and everybody wrestling for position."

"Between the Pathfinder flares fighter flares and the burning target, it was really as bright as day," commented Sgt. Gnr. Les Dymant of Toronto.

Other Canadians included Sgt. L. F. Sumak of Hannon, Ont., Sgt. H. L. Morrison of Fullerton, Ont., PO. C. E. O'Neil of Windsor, Ont., FO. J. B. Armstrong of Peterborborough.

Meanwhile further names were disclosed of the Canadians who participated in the bombing of Berlin Thursday night.

Canadian Crew Chases Heinkels

By SYDNEY GRUSON

LONDON, Jan. 22 (CP Cable)—An important eastbound Atlantic convoy was saved from what might have been a punishing attack by several long-range enemy bombers recently through "a gallant and courageous" fight of an R.A.F. coastal command Liberator bomber which had six Canadians in its crew, it was disclosed today.

The fight of the single Liberator against the Heinkel-77s using glider bombers took place 700 miles from land. The convoy now has reached a British port and the bomber returned to its base without damage or crew injury after setting two Heinkels on fire and scoring hits on a third.

W. J. Kennedy Dies At Age 90

W. J. Kennedy, 595 Gilmour street, father of Mrs. Chris Graham, passed away this morning in his 91st year. He had been in poor health for the past few weeks. A prominent horticulturist he served for years as a director on the Peterborough Industrial Exhibition Board.

Mr. Kennedy was born in Orono in 1853, and moved to Omemee when he was seven years old.

In 1876 Mr. Kennedy married Anne Savigne, of Bowmanville, and six years later moved to Peterborough. A blacksmith by trade, he set up his shop at the corner of Charlotte and George streets, where the Canadian Department Stores branch is now, but which was then the property of a Mrs. Taylor. When Mrs. Kennedy died in 1929, Mr. Kennedy remained at his home at 86 Aylmer street, until three years ago, when he sold his property and went to live with his daughter, Mrs. C. G. Graham, 585 Gilmour street.

Mr. Kennedy's hobby was growing gladioli, and he had a very beautiful garden at his home on Aylmer street. This well-known garden won a horticultural prize for seven years. Mr. Kennedy was a member of the

Western Bosnia Free Of Hun

LONDON, Jan. 22—(CP). — Violent fighting throughout mountainous Croatia during which Marshal Josip Broz's (Tito's) guerillas repulsed all German attacks and then swung over to the offensive was reported in the Yugoslav Liberation Army communique today.

Tito's forces were also mopping up in western Bosnia areas which have been freed from the invader, the bulletin declared. Street fighting was still going on in German-occupied Tuzla, which was attacked by Tito's Partisans yesterday.

German detachments which attempted to blast a path from Banjaluka and Bosanka Gradiska in central Croatia were driven back, Tito reported, while along the Croation coastal area, near Ogliun, a German force was wiped out and 150 enemy troops killed. Farther north, near Karlovac, German thrusts were beaten back, and the Partisans have gone over to the offensive, it was added.

Madang Base Next Big Objective

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, New Guinea, Jan. 22—(AP)—The growing Allied bid for Madang, whose pre-war wharf facilities were the best on the Northeastern New Guinea coast, was emphasized in today's reports from Allied headquarters.

South of the Japanese base, the second sizeable air assault in as many days possibly presaged a resumption by Australian soldiers of the drive which has been in abeyance in the Ramu valley since they got beyond Dumpu, less than 50 miles away, last October. In two days, nearly 150 tons of bombs have hit the enemy positions.

In addition to the inland ground menace, the Japanese also are confronted with American forces 50 miles along the coast southeast of Madang in the vicinity of invaded Saidor.

Headquarters announced today a new raid at Hansa Bay by low-flying bombers and strafing fighters resulted in destruction of 20 barges, supply dumps and anti-aircraft batteries.

Hepburn Warns Farmers

C.I.O. Pressure Groups Must Be Blocked

HARROW, Ont., Jan. 22—(CP)— Mitchell Hepburn, Independent Liberal member of the Ontario Legislature for Elgin county, in an address here last night warned farmers that "Canada is heading not toward a Labor party autocracy but to an autocracy of high pressure groups who seek to dominate the governments and who plunder the pay envelopes of the working man."

Addressing a dinner meeting sponsored by the Essex County Holstein Breeders Association, the former premier told the 700 guests that "if farmers want to guard against autocracy these high pressure C.I.O. men will set up if they get into power then they must use the remedy which lies in their own hands and this is organization as farmers, not as a political party."

"Look what your pressure groups did across the border," he continued. "They had a steel strike and the price of steel went up; They had a coal strike and the price of coal went up; they had transportation trouble; and all these things directly affected the people who are unorganized.

"This all comes to the farmer and forces him down to the lowest rung on the economic scale and that is what is happening today.

"Farmers don't call strikes—they continue to produce under extreme difficulties."

Russians Taking Few Nazi Prisoners

Most Terrible Slaughter Of All Time Taking Place On Soviet Front

By DEWITT MacKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst

When you stop to consider the titanic struggle along the Russo-German front, what feature strikes you most forcibly after you've noted that the Red avalanche continues its westward sweep?

Slaughter!

That certainly is one of the most impressive, and most significant, aspects of this crucial phase of the war in eastern Europe. The Muscovites are advancing over the bodies of dead Germans.

Comparatively few prisoners are being taken by the Red forces, and the rapidly retreating Hitlerites are in no position to capture many Russians. Thus the casualties which the Nazis are inflicting on the Russians —and they presumably are considerable, although we lack figures— likewise are mainly in killed and wounded.

In the first six days of the great new Russian offensive on the Leningrad-Novgorod front, Moscow reported that 40,000 Germans had been slain. Gen. Leonid Govorov's troops in the Leningrad area accounted for 25,000 of the dead, and the other 15,000 were killed before the ancient stronghold of Novgorod to the south. The Moscow radio summed up the situation with grim satisfaction like this:

Retribution

"German forces are bleeding profusely. They are panic-stricken under the threatening tentacle of a mighty Soviet army of retribution."

"Retribution"—that burns in the mind of the Red soldier. He is exacting punishment for crimes against his own people.

Last Nov. 6, Marshal Stalin announced the Nazis had suffered 4,000,000 casualties on the Russian front during the previous year. Of this huge total, 1,800,000 were killed. There were 147,200 buried at Stalingrad. Moscow reported 100,000 Germans were killed on the Ukraine front alone in the first three weeks of 1944.

So it has gone, and so it's likely to continue to the bloody end. The great military experts are agreed that annihilation of the enemy is the one sure way to victory — and they mean killing or capture. The mere forcing of the foe to abandon territory doesn't win wars. The Prussian war lords always have been leading exponents of annihilation. Now they are being served with a big dish of their own strong meat.

Foresees New Law

BRANTFORD, Jan. 22—(CP)— Paul Martin, Liberal member of parliament for Essex East and Parliamentary Assistant to the Minister of Labor, last night told members of the Brantford Liberal Association at their annual meeting here that "before this month is out, any man who denies labor the right of collective bargaining will find that he is guilty of an infraction of the law." Mr. Martin did not say anything more about what apparently was a reference to new labor legislation soon to be enacted by the Dominion government.

Ceiling Put On Farm Wages

Plan To Stabilize Rural Labor Set-Up

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22 (AP) — In a move unprecedented in all American farm history, a wage control program for agricultural workers, with maximum ceilings of $2,400 a year, has been ordered by United States War Food Administrator Marvin Jones.

Aides of the administrator, who disclosed the plan, said W.F.A. labor officials have been directed to set up State Farm Wage Boards to hold hearings and establish maximum wages

These groups would function much in the manner of the United States War Labor Board in determining the ceilings for industrial workers, on the basis of the 1942 Wage Stabilization Act.

Farm wages have reached the highest point in 20 years. Many workers have gone into war plants. Those who have remained on the farms have repeatedly received what amounts to a blanket deferment from Selective Service. There are few restrictions on their transfer from one farm to another. Thus they are in the position to bargain.

The Farm Wage Boards will be instructed to set ceilings only for specific types of work or farm operations for certain designated areas. Wages considered sub-standard will not be affected. However, ceilings below the $2,400 level may be set if Boards consider it necessary.

Annual Meeting Follows Church Supper

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 22 (ENS) —The annual congregation meeting of St. John's United Church took the form of a supper on Wednesday evening when more than one hundred were on hand. Rev. G. N. Maxwell who was the chairman, voiced his appreciation to all for their endeavors on behalf of the church.

The meeting began at 6.30 and following the supper a brief program began with a sing-song lead by the chairman with Arnold Bates at the piano. Mrs. R. J. Archer and Miss Carolyn Archer offered a lovely vocal duet and Harold Pierce and Mrs. A. G. Watson rendered vocal solos.

Mr. Stuart Nelson was elected secretary.

W.A. Report

Biggest both in membership and in its contribution to the general budget of the church was the Women's Association whose report was given by the secretary Mrs. T. L. Diamond. She said average attendance at meetings during the year had been 33 and that members made a total of 353 calls. They raised close to a thousand dollars last year and the biggest share of this came from free will offerings which realized $360.70. They paid $500 on the church mortgage and $52 interest; spent $20.62 on re-decorating the parsonage; $150 for parsonage furniture; $96.26 for 35 soldiers parcels; and ended the year with a balance of $106.90.

Reporting for the Board of Stewards E. H. Greig gave a summary of the over all financial pisition of the church. There was a balance on hand of $406.06 and net operating expenses for the year had been approximately $5,300 of which close to $3,200 came from envelope subscriptions. To the Missionary and Maintenance Fund the church had contributed $1,075 and from all departments a total of $1,886 went to Missions.

The W.M.S. raised more than $595 according to the report of Mrs. W. A. Kingston, and $587 of this was sent to the Presbyterial Treasurer. The average attendance of this group was 40 and 369 calls were made on sick and shut-ins during the year. All of the moneys raised by the group came from free will offerings, envelope collections, sale of bonds and coupons and thank offerings.

Other Organizations

Mrs. M. Petherick reviewed the work of the Evening Auxiliary which raised over $200 practicaly all of which went to the District treasurer. The Young People's Union raised more than $220 as the result of collections, fees, crokinole party and two plays according to the statement of Miss Leila Mitchell who said that in addition to $26 to the M. and M. Fund and $25 to the church the group had purchased a $50 war bond with which it was planned to buy chairs. Miss Ruth Rutledge reported 36 on the roll of the Girl Guides whose average attendance was 27. Their Mission Band had given a quilt to the Sick Children's Hospital and sent away a bale of toys reported Mrs. D. H. Meyers on the work of that organization. Receipts in the Sunday School department totalled $250 and from this $48.65 had been turned over to the M. and M. Fund treasurer.

Clerk of the session Harvey M. Donald said the membership of the churches was 513. Six were removed by death and 4 by certificate while 9 were received by certificate and 3 by profession of faith. T. L. Diamond moved a hearty vote of thanks to Rev. and Mrs. Maxwell and Messrs. Earl Stephens and E. H. Greig moved votes of appreciation to Ed. Bates and to the ushers. The resignation of S. A. Maguire who had for more than twenty years been recording secretary, was received with regret.

The election of officials resulted in the retiring stewards being renamed with M. B. Sayers being added to the list of elders. Mrs. C. W. Turner and H. M. Donald were reappointed representatives of the Bible Society and a Soldier's Committee comprising Mrs. F. N. Brown, Mrs. C. K. Stephens, Mr. P. B. Nelson, Mr. Morley E. Petherick and Rev. G. N. Maxwell was named. Mr. E. A. Sloggett was appointed recording secretary.

Germany Will Fold In '44 Havelock Air Ace Claims

TORONTO, Jan. 22. — Friendly Air Vice-Marshal W. A. Curtis painted the two extremes, England as he first had seen her in 1941 and as he had left her last week.

"We were ready to evacuate in 1941, you know," he smiled. "Everything was ready to be moved from headquarters. Now? Well, now the end is in sight. The war will end for Germany in 1944; there is no question about that."

Wilf Curtis, winner of the Distinguished Service Cross and Bar in the last war, had just arrived home in Toronto from England. He was born in Havelock, Ontario. He had been second-in-command of the R.C.A.F. overseas. Soon he will move on to Ottawa for his new job, air member for air staff. He'll be Coastal Command boss, in effect.

Bombing is the answer to Germany's exit, he believes, just as bombing is the answer, to some extent, for Russia's magnificent advances. "Bombing, slowisg up German's production, has contributed tremendously to Russia's advance,' was the way he put it.

He spoke highly of the quantity in the R.C.A.F. overseas of that elusive quality, morale. "Promotions, pay and mail are looked after 1,000 per cent better than two years ago," he said. "We have an excellent airmail service now, and when boys in the Mediterranean theatre change postings we have a rapid checkup system which gets their mail to them promptly. Thaa makes them happy. They're doing a grand job."

With brown, sparkling eyes and an enthusiastic, pleasant manner, Curtis said he flew back the southern route, via South America, and landed in Washington.

"The first thing to hit me were the big cars, nice colors and streamlined," he grinned. "That was something after England's tiny, camouflaged ones. I'm looking forward most to visiting with my wife and family again." They met him, Mrs. Curtis; Glen, 17; Wilf, 15, and Rhonna, 9. The family home is at 77 Dawlish Ave.

They left him long enough for him to tell that Canada's bombers and fighters are ready for the second front. That will be mostly an American job, but the Canadians will play a full part, he related.

Protestant chaplain of the present war.

Include Requiescat.

It will be the Church of England service, with the inclusion of the poem "Requiescat," written by Canon Scott in a field near Ypres in 1915, and—at the request of many veterans—the poem "Knighthood," which he wrote in France in 1916.

As in Quebec, the casket will be draped with the Union Jack that he used on countless religious services in the front lines of 1914-18. Soldiers of this war and the last join in the long procession up the winding roads to the cemetery.

The Royal Rifles of Canada, the regiment of which Canon Scott was still chaplain at the time of his death, provided the main military escort at Quebec yesterday, with the entire reserve battalion on parade for the occasion.

A 12-man firing party crashed out farewell volleys at Union station before the body was placed aboard a train as Bugler Fred Palmer sounded "Reveille" and "The Last Post."

5 Aircraft Companies To Build Transports

LONDON, Jan. 22—(CP)—Of five aircraft companies named by the British government to design new transport plane types for world trunk routes after the war, two now are engaged in planning craft weighing more than 150 tons, the magazine "Aeroplane" says.

The firms planning these leviathans, the magazine said, are the Bristol Aeroplane Company and Short Brothers.

Two other companies were said to have or to be producing "civil versions of the Lancaster and Halifax (four-engined bombers) which will match the (American) Douglas DC-4 and the (American) Lockheed constellation." The fifth company is planning a smaller ship, the article said.

School Pupils Hold Hockey Night

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 22 (ENS) —The skating carnival which Rotarians billed as "Young Campbellford Night" drew one of the biggest crowds the local arena has seen in years, Friday night, and gave citizens a first hand opportunity to see some of the benefits school children are deriving from the club's organizational work.

The 3½-hour program went smoothly due to the preliminary work of Rotarian William Hogle and there were six 15-minute hockey games featuring teams comprising both boys and girls from the public, separate and high schools. These were broken by races, some clown acts and concluding with a game of broom ball that was one of the highlights of the evening.

There were fifteen events in all, and the most interesting was an exhibition by two high school hockey teams, the World Beaters and the Ice Cutters. The bout lasted for fifteen minutes as did all of the others and ended in a close 2-1 decision for the World Beaters who wore the blue and white sweaters of the Maple Leafs. Coach Pat Shannon refereed the game and Campbellford's future senior leaguers put on a show of good hockey despite the handicap of soft ice.

All of the games were fast as the youngsters knew they were expected to give their best and gave as good an exhibition of combination playing, back checking, and skating as has been staged by groups in their class here at any time.

Winners of the various racing events were as follows:

Boys 12 years and under—Bill Fraser; girls 12 years and under, Shirley West; bantam boys, Bill Nesbitt; bantam girls, Betty Sutton; relay race, Doug. Burgis and Jean Wood; high school girls, Phyllis Stephens.

The final event of the evening was the draw made at eleven o'clock and a total of $30 was given in prizes. Rotarian Perce Denyes announced the winners as: 1, Keith Bound; 2, Mrs. J. A. Campbell; 3, C. B. Williams.

Postwar Policy Can Produce Plenty Of Work

BRANTFORD, Ont., an. 22 — (CP)—Informed economic advisers are of the opinion that it is within Canada's capacity to achieve a postwar policy of full employment, Paul Martin, parliamentary assistant to the Minister of Labor and Liberal M.P. for Essex East said Friday.

The government was aware of the prodiguous task it was undertaking in adopting a policy of full employment, Mr. Martin said in an address to a Brantford service club (Kiwanis).

Known difficulties were numerous and "the unforeseen difficulties may be even more numerous, but our national life and economy must bow the idea of social profit."

Even if full employment were achieved "there will still be the necessity for social security measures to guarantee freedom from want for those who are too old to work, too young to work, to sick to work, or who are undergoing relatively short spells of unemployment due to changes in taste or industrial technology."

Mr. Martin warned against "the propaganda now being put out in various quarters to the effect that in the postwar period, industry — free enterprise, they call it—must be under no restraint from the government in its efforts to promote its own welfare, on the theory that its own welfare is synonomous with public welfare."

The public welfare comes first and "the amount of freedom which industry will retain will be equal to the extent to which it is prepared to recognize and organize itself for the public weal."

The Liberator was captained by Flt. Lt. Hugh Sutherland, an Englishman who was awarded an immediate Distinguished Flying Cross, and his crew was made up of PO. A. P. Gibbs, navigator of Vancouver, Flt. Sgt. M. N. Werbiski of Yorketon, Man., front gunner; PO. J. M. Ketcheson of Trenton, Ont., second pilot; Flt. Sgt. W. P. Foster of Guelph, Ont., rear gunner; and Lit. Sgts. E. E. Davidson and D. H. Griese, lifelong friends from Beachburg, Ont., who operated the plane's beam guns.

Gibbs, a flight sergeant at the time of the operation and since promoted, and Werbiski were awarded the Distinguished Flying Medal.

Swooped From Clouds.

The Heinkels made a sudden swoop at the convoy through the clouds, and Sutherland, braving the intense anti-aircraft barrage the convoy was sending up against the Nazi planes, decided to take on the whole formation one by one, though heavily out-gunned.

The Liberator fought three separate combats in 35 minutes.

Sutherland attacked one Heinkel just as it began its bomb run over the ships. It did not get a chance to unload its bombs because the bomber's gunners set fire to the enemy's starboard engines and it broke off the battle.

The next Heinkel did the same after its engines caught fire, and the third was chased away after a short clash.

Other Heinkels—the R.C.A.F. did not say how many were in the formation—scooted from the scene before the bomber could get at them.

First Fliers Over Sacred Tibet Capital Live To Tell Story, Reach India Safely

NEW DELHI, Jan. 22—(CP) — Five crew members of an American transport plane have flown over the sacred capital of Lhasa, Tibet, and lived to tell about it. They were told by Tibetans their plane was the only one ever to fly over the country.

But it was a rough party. They got lost and bailed out Nov. 30 when their gasoline was exhausted. Then they spent more than a month getting back to India on mules and afoot over the wintery Himalayan ranges.

Those who underwent the experience are Lieut. R. E. Crozier, 23, of West, Tex., the pilot; Flight Officer Harold McCallum, 24, Quincy, Mass., co-pilot; Cpl. Kennety B. Spencer, 19, of Rockville Centre, N.Y., radio operator; Cpl. William Perran, 23, of Tulsa, Okla., engineer, and Pte. John H. Huffman, 27, of Straughn, Ind., assistant engineer.

Councillors Charge Board Tries To Dictate Naming Of Member

COBOURG, Jan. 22 — (ENS) — Northumberland and Durham Counties Council wound up an uneventful session on Friday afternoon. The only contentious matter on the closing session was appointment of the counties' representative on Port Hope High School Board, when Reeve H. Woodley of Hope township charged that Port Hope was attempting to dictate to Hope township as to who the counties representative on ths board should be.

Reeve J. L. Moncrief, during the course of the appointment of trustees on the high school boards, proposed that the counties' appointee be James Bennett of Hope township. It appeared that Mr. Bennett had a farm in Hope township and also owned property in Port Hope. Reeve Woodley then proposed Walter Reynolds of Hope township. Hope township has about 75 pupils attending Port Hope High School and pays about one-third of the maintenance, Mr. Woodley asserted. Reeve Moncrief commented that the amount was only one-quarter of the maintenance.

"Why should Port Hope decide who the counties representative should be?" demanded Reeve Woodley. "Just because our man doesn't fit in with the scheme of things as Port Hope sees it, we have to sit back and let them tell who should be appointed."

Might Cause Trouble

Deputy-Reeve W. G. Bickle supported Reeve Woodley's stand.

"We have proposed Walter Reynolds. He is a prominent farmer, is a graduate from O.A.C. and knows the relationship between agriculture and education. Yet Port Hope comes here and tells us that they will pick our representative on the board. The reason for that is because our man doesn't fit in with their machine and they are afraid our man might throw a monkey wrench into it. I ask the members of the counties council if that is fair and democratic," stated Deputy-Reeve Bickle.

Reeve Moncrief expressed surprise at the attitude of Hope township representatives. Things were going smoothly on Port Hope High School Board and it was desired that these smooth relations would continue that way. Mr. Bennett had been on the Board and was experienced.

Deputy-Reeve Bickle replied that the Port Hope representatives wanted to slip one over and should not be permitted to get away with it.

On the vote of the council, Mr. Reynolds was appointed.

Council Appointments

The following appointments were made: Corn-borer inspectors—W. H. Osborne for Northumberland and J. N. McGill for Durham; school board representatives — Campbellford, A. Loucks, V. Farrell and A. Armour; Port Hope, Walter Reynolds; Bowmanville, R. R. Stevens; Newcastle, L. Clarke and H. Allen; Cobourg, D. Spragge and R. E. Drope and Colborne, A. J. Dance; reforestation committee—A. Hyslop; road commission, 3 year term, W. R. Pickell; board of management—Eugene Sanders; hospital boards—Bowmanville, A. W. G. Northcutt; Cobourg, Douglas Glenn and Port Hope, L. Moncrief; counties representatives on the Children's Aid Society—Norman Green and J. W. Heckbert; special county property committee—Sid Little; committee to look into airport facilities in counties—C. Carveth, L. Moncrief, F. Lee and N. Flindall; registry offices commissioners — Bowmanville, A. Northcutt; Cobourg, D. Glenn; Port Hope, L. Moncrief and Colborne, L. Gordon; jail and county offices—R. Love, Cobourg; auditor of criminal justice accounts—H. Woodley.

To Spend $90,000

Bylaws were passed which authorized expenditure of $90,000 on the county road system; borrowing of a sum of money up to $250,000 from the bank, pending collection of taxes and a bylaw appointing a representative of the Oscar Hudson & Co., on the audit of administration of justice accounts. Council passed a resolution that the Attorney-General of the province be requested to proclaim the Juvenile Delinquents' Act as being in force in Northumberland and Durham Counties with Judge J. C. M. German as juvenile court judge and Magistrate R. B. Baxter as deputy-juvenile court judge.

Deputy-reeve E. Sanders of Port Hope drew the attention of the council to that fact that the deputy-reeve of Campbellford, H. M. Fowlds, new member of the council, sat just in front of the picture of the council wall of his father, W. H. Fowlds, who was warden in 1924. Mr. Sanders also referred to the fact that three generations of the MacNachtan family had served the counties council. E. A. MacNachtan had been county clerk from 1863 to 1891 and treasurer from 1873 to 1891; N. F. MacNachtan had served from 1891 to 1928 and the present clerk and treasurer, E. L. MacNachtan took over the duties upon his father's death in 1928.

Committees Report

The report of the Finance committee recommended a raise in pay of 20 per cent. for counties council members, the report being adopted. Accounts approved in the committee's report totalled $3,310.23 for administration of justice; maintenance of indigents, $2,233.30; registry offices, $452.20; counties home, $4,948.68; printing, postage and stationery, $296.94; counties' roads, $30,570.32; debentures, $41,714.06; interest on loans, $2,230.15; counties gaol, $952.82; municipal government, $3,001.31; miscellaneous, $222,895.28; education, $6,792.87; counties grants, $15,390.

Following was the report of the legislative and bylaws committee: "We recommend that the resolution from Lincoln County Council regarding bonus for killing foxes be received and that this council endorse the resolution received from the county of Oxford requesting that all purchase of Victory Bonds by municipalities be placed on "special names" so every dollar will be used in the war effort. We recommend that the Game and Fisheries Dept. pass legislation prohibiting the setting of snares for catching foxes in the Township of Hamilton in these United Counties. We recommend that this municipal council pass a resolution requesting that the Juvenile Delinquents' Act (Canada) be proclaimed to be in force within these United Counties.

The Equalization Committee recommended that the equalized assessment of the counties be left as at present for a period of one year. The report of the Agricultural Committee was as follows:

"We recommend that the resolution from the County of Oxford in regard to the subsidy on hogs be endorsed and that a grant of $50 be forwarded to the Ontario Agricultural Council and that Mr. Grimes, chairman of the Agricultural Committee be appointed a delegate to attend its 1944 convention.

Name Delegate

Following is the report of the Schools Committee;

"We confirm payment of the equivalent of the legislative grants to fifth classes. We recommend that this council join the O.E.A. County Council Section and that the $10 fee be paid and that Mr. Carveth be the delegate to attend this convention. We recommend that the report of Norman Walker, attending Danforth Technical School be referred to the Special Schools Committee and that the applications for grant for county pupils attending Havelock High School and Orono and Wooler Continuation schools be referred to the Special Schools Committee."

The report of the County Property Committee recommended that the matter of insulation at the counties' gaol be left in the hands of the special county property committee along with the matter of humidifier pans for radiators in the counties' offices. The committee also suggested that the water heating and refrigeration at the counties gaol be left in the hands of the Special County Property Committee.

The report of the Roads and Bridges Committee was as follows: "We recommend that the sum of $90,000 be placed in this year's budget for expenditure on counties roads and that a rate of 1.5 mill be struck. We recommend that the surplus accumulated in 1943 road accounts be reserved for purchase of machinery and repairs to, and remodelling of, the county gravel crusher."

Doenitz Warns U-Boats To Be Much Stronger

By JOHN H. COLBURN
Associated Press Staff Writer.

STOCKHOLM, Jan. 22 — (AP)— —German propagandists admitted to-day that the Reich's war production has shrunk to the point where it has affected fighting on the Eastern front and submarine warfare, although they claimed such setbacks were only temporary.

Admiral Karl Doenitz, Supreme Commander of the German Navy, told a meeting of navy and merchant marine representatives at Stettin that "or the moment" Allied submarines and submarine weapons "are better than ours," the German-controlled Scandinavian Telegraph Bureau said.

"But our enemies soon will find out that ours are going to be better than theirs," Doenitz said. He asserted the German U-boat power "hasn't been broken in 1943. It's stronger than ever."

Gen. Kurt Dittmar, Nazi miliary commentator, asserted to foreign correspondents in Berlin that the strategy of Germany's defensive warfare against Russia is designed to conserve time so that the Reich's war industry may produce badly needed armaments."

Patrol Action Livens 8th Front

By DOUGLAS AMARON
Canadian Press War Correspondent

WITH THE CANADIANS IN ITALY, Jan. 22 — (CP Cable) — Lively patrol action continued on the Canadian sector of the 8th Army front Thursday, with no change in the position of the troops.

Two German platoons came in contact with the lines of a Central Canadian battalion. They were beaten back with at least one German killed.

The enemy tried a new method of trapping Canadian patrols, by setting fire to a haystack behind them so that the Canadian soldiers were silhouetted. The trick met little success and the Canadians moved quickly out of sight.

Comfort and Consolation Found in Story of Lazarus

REV. E. R. JAMES

A Bible Study — St. John 11.

"Martha called Mary, her sister secretly." What a light it throws upon the character of the elder sister. She knew that the Lord had enemies. After the miracle "some of them went away and told the Pharisees what things Jesus had done."

"The Teacher is come and calleth thee." Our Lord understands human nature. He is truly bone of our bone and flesh of our flesh. The meditative Mary is setting in the house absorbed in her sorrow. "Jesus Christ is the same yesterday, today and forever." In the day of your grief He will call upon you. "Jesus Himself will draw near and go with you." He is come to teach you what you could never learn except in the school of affliction. Like Mary you will arise quickly and go unto Him. You will pour out your troubles at His feet. Why tell Him who knows everything? He knows it is good for you to open your heart to Him. He will lift the burden from your soul. You have wept at His feet; your emotions have been loosened — emotions if repressed will harm you.

"Jesus wept." Stoicism was a fascinating philosophy to the fighting Roman, who prided himself to be above sorrow or joy. Our Lord was no Stoic. To weep is a sign that you have not lost the gift of tears. A leader among men in his closing days remarked that he had lost the power to weep.

This chapter describes fully Our Lord's greatest miracle, proving Him to be divine. Here also we have abundant evidence that He is human, a real Man. "He took on Him the form of a servant;" "The Word was made flesh and dwelt among us." We see His love and affection for His friends. "Jesus loved Martha and her sister and Lazarus." Also He was moved with indignation. "He groaned in the spirit," v. 31 and 38. The Christian's ever present danger is to over emphasize either the Manhood or the Diety of Our Lord. We must strive to have a balanced religion.

"Where have you laid Him?" He does not use His supernatural power when others can give Him the necessary information.

"Take ye away the stone." The Master demands human co-operation in every miracle. In turning the water into wine "the servants filled the water pots with water up to the brim." So here men take away the stone. The Evangelist writing 50 years later sees the importance of the command. It has a spiritual meaning. The Christ needs your help before He can do anything for you. You must take away the stone of unbelief; the stone of selfishness; the stone of avarice and greed. You must make the effort turn away your eyes from sin that so easily besets you. When you make the effort then He can do the wonderful work of awakening your soul to new life and power.

"Jesus cried witha loud Voice: Lazarus, come forth. And he that was dead came forth." What meaning has this to you when you look upon the face of your dead? It has an inward, symbolic meaning. Though he is dead yet he lives because his life is untied with the life of God in Christ Jesus Our Lord. This is the Christian principle. In very truth if we obey His command: "loose him and let him go" then we loose our dead from the grave clothes which hindered him—the weaknesses and frailties of his character which hindered him and we see him in his new light. It is God's gift to give him back to us purified and glorified. We dimly understand that this sickness was "for the glory of God that the Son of God may be glorified thereby." When the angel of death enters your home read this eleventh chapter of St. John. Ponder deeply upon the words. They are for your comfort and consolation. You will weep; but not too deeply for he will grieve at your tears.

An English poet has written a poem entitled: "Mother's dream." The mother sees little children carrying lamps in heaven but her child's lamp is not lit. She enquires and the child tells her that her mother's tears have put it out.

Above all, remember that in the day of affliction "The Master, The Teacher is come and calleth for thee." Arise quickly and go unto Him for He has come to teach you.

Cast thy care on Jesus,
What is death to those
Who in deep submission
On His love repose;
But a short step further
Nearer to His side,
Where thine eyes shall see Him
And be satisfied.
— Canon F. G. Scott.

Parables Used by Jesus To Teach the People

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL

(The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for Jan. 23 is Mark 4:1-34, the Golden Text being Mark 4:23, "If any man hath ears to hear, let him hear.")

JESUS AND His disciples went to the shore of the Sea of Galilee, and great crowds followed them. So great was the crowd that Jesus stepped into a boat and stood or sat in it while He talked to the people on the shore.

He talked to them in parables, short stories about things with which they were all familiar but with a deeper meaning—as if your mother told you a story that was meant to suggest to you that the nice, helpful boy or girl picked up their playthings and clothing and hung them up, without telling you so directly.

The first parable was about the man who sowed his fields. It may have been that from where Jesus and the many people listening to Him were, a man really was sowing seed in the ground. Some of the seed the man sowed, said Jesus, fell by the wayside—as it often does. Wild birds flying over saw it—because you know birds' eyes are very keen—and they ate it, so there was no crop from that seed.

Fell on Rocky Soil

Some of the seed fell on rocky ground which had only a thin covering of soil. This seed grew up, but so shallow was the earth covering that as soon as the sun came up hot, the plants withered and died. Again no crop. Still more of the seeds fell among thorns. These weeds grew so fast and so tall and strong that they choked the smaller plants and they died. But other seed fell into good ground, nourished by the good earth and the rain, and they yielded an abundant harvest.

Then said Jesus, "He who hath ears to hear, let him hear." As the multitude went away, and Jesus was left alone with His disciples, they asked Him about this parable, and He explained that by the sower He meant the preacher, such as Himself or one of them. The seeds that fell by the wayside meant the minds of people who heard what was said, but so careless were they of what they heard that an evil spirit took the words away from them and the message did them no good at all.

The seeds sown on shallow ground meant the message heard by shallow, careless people, who received it gladly, found it to be good, but soon forgot it. They had no real depth of character to nourish the Word.

"And these are they which are sown among thorns," said the Lord, "such as hear the word. And the cares of this world, and the lusts of other things entering in, choke the word, and it becometh unfruitful." It is like a child who means to be good and who hears what the parents say, but is so taken up with his own play and other interests, that he forgets and so gets into mischief in spite of good intentions.

Yield Abundant Harvest

Those who hear and take the Lord's message to heart, who think and pray over it and try to live the good life always, and help others so to do, are the good soil in which seeds are sown. They yield abundant harvest. They are like the disciples—all but Judas Iscariot—who treasured what the Lord taught them, spread the message all their lives, and by these teachings and the example they set, did incalculable good.

Jesus then told these men whom He had chosen to spread His Message over the earth that when you light a candle you do not put it under a bushel or under a bed, but in a candlestick to give light. So His word should be as the lighted candle, set aloft to bring light to those who listened and understood the message.

After Jesus' death and resurrection these men would go about preaching what they had learned from Him, and as they taught their own spiritual life would grow and they would acquire more power for good. "For he that hath, to him shall be given," but to "him that hath not, from him shall be taken even that which he hath." Men grow in character by their good thoughts which lead to good actions. The more they ponder on the spiritual side of all things and try to help others to get their point of view, the more they gain for themselves. But those who are heedless and self-centred, careless, forgetting what good they hear, are apt to lose what they have.

Merely sowing the seed is enough. We should have faith that it will fall into good ground, as the man sows and sleeps and wakes to do other work. The earth will take care of even a tiny seed like a mustard seed and bring forth maybe a great tree which will be shelter and comfort to many.

Beloved Padre Canon Scott Given Full Military Funeral

QUEBEC, Jan. 22 (CP)—A bugle shrilled "Taps" Friday for Archdeacon Frederick George Scott, the padre-poet, as the tall, tired old man who died here Wednesday received the stately farewell of a full military funeral.

It was an appropriate ceremony for the old First Division's senior Protestant chaplain. Many dignitaries attended, but everywhere in the crowd were the men who had known him best in the mud of Flanders. Draping his casket was the same Union Jack he had used in countless religious services in the front lines of 1914-18.

At impressive services in St. Matthew's Church, those attending included Maj.-Gen. Sir Eugene Fiset, Quebec's Lieutenant-Governor; Brig. Edmond Blais, officer commanding the Quebec Military District; Maj.-Gen. J. P. Archambault of the Army Officers' Selection and Appraisal Board; Brig. Sherwood Lett, member of the General Staff and veteran of Dieppe; Maj.-Gen. Stein, former commander of an armored division overseas in this war; Brig. C. G. Hepburn, principal Protestant chaplain for Canada; Brig. Meakin of the Medical Services staff, and Brig. Dillon of the Quartermaster-General's branch at N.D.H.Q.

The officers from N.D.H.Q. represented Defense Minister Ralston and his department, and Group Captain R. Stuart represented Air Minister Power. Dean A. H. Crowfoot of the Cathedral of the Holy Trinity here represented Archbishop D. T. Owen of Toronto, and the Quebec Government's representative was Provincial Treasurer Arthur Mathewson.

Chief mourners at the funeral were the Archdeacon's four sons, Rev. Elton Scott of Lennoxville, Que., W. B Scott, K.G., Prof. F. R. Scott of Montreal and A. C. Scott of Quebec.

JESUS TEACHES IN PARABLES

Scripture—Mark 4:1-34.

By Alfred J. Buescher

Jesus began to teach by the seaside, with great multitudes listening, so that He sat in a ship and taught the people who were gathered on the shore.

He told the parable of the sower who sowed some seed in stony ground, some among thorns, some in good ground, explaining it to His disciples.

Jesus said that the kingdom of God was like a man sowing a seed, and sleeping and the seed should spring up and grow, and the man knew not how.

He also compared the Word to a grain of mustard seed which is very tiny, but grows up "greater than all the herbs."

Salvage Is Important

After a period of comparative quiescence the salvage campaign in Peterborough is to be revived under the direction of a committee to be known as Peterborough War Services. Under this committee five organizations — the Navy, Army and Air Force Auxiliaries, the Catholic Women's League and the Civic War Service Council—will act, and the A.R.P. organization will also co-operate. The first drive under the direction of the new committee will be held in the third week of February.

The collection of salvage is a work of the greatest importance at present, for immense quantities of raw material for the manufacture of necessary articles of war can be gathered together in this way. Salvage work is much harder than it looks to the person who has no connection with it. The public must be informed about times of collection and the types of salvage which are needed; the salvage itself must be collected, and this is a laborious, dirty and often vexatious job; then the collection must be sorted, and that is possibly the hardest job of all. By uniting their forces under a central committee, we think that the organizations concerned have taken the first step toward a really complete and satisfactory handling of the salvage problem in Peterborough.

At the risk of being insulting, we should like to impress it upon the public that salvage collection is in no way to be confused with garbage collection; the salvage workers are not offering to cart away your junk for you. They will announce to the public what articles of salvage they want, and they will make clear the condition they want them in; papers, for instance, must be sorted and neatly bundled, and boxes must be broken flat, so that they are easy to collect and store in the smallest possible space. It is one of your war jobs to see that whatever articles of salvage you have in your house are ready for collection when they are wanted. Do not allow the small trouble which it will cost you to get your salvage ready to blind you to the importance of this work.

Peterborough has not been doing the best salvage job of which it is capable. Let us co-operate with the new committee to bring this phase of the community war effort to the highest possible pitch of efficiency and completeness.

The Death Of Canon Scott

Canon Scott of Quebec was a great figure in the Canadian Army of the First Great War; he went overseas in 1914 as a chaplain in the First Division, and a year later he became senior chaplain; he was Canon Scott then, and although at the time of his death he was Archdeacon of the diocese of Quebec, he will be remembered by hundreds of thousands of Canadians by the earlier title. He was a great man, a distinguished poet and one of the best friends the Canadian soldier ever had; it is good to think that he lived long enough to see the unmistakable appearances of victory and peace in the land he loved so well.

Although the word 'mystic' is not one which should be used loosely, it may fittingly be applied to Canon Scott. He did not live out of this world, and his faith was not of the sort which cannot be communicated to ordinary people; indeed, all through his life he was a great lover of his fellow-man, and in the affection which he offered unstintingly to those whom he served was an element which was indistinguishable from the love of God. However coarsened or hardened a man might be, Canon Scott revered the spark of divinity which existed in him, and often that reverence and the true kindness of this good man fanned the tiny spark into a flame.

Of his experience during the last war Canon Scott once wrote: "At the front there was no doubt much evil thinking, evil talking and evil doing, but there was too a great revelation of that image of God in which man was made. I have often sat on my horse on rainy nights near Hill 63, and watched the battalions going up the line. With wet rubber sheets hanging over their huge packs, and with rifles on their shoulders, the men marched up through the mud and cold and darkness, to face wounds and death. At such times even the sordid life has been transfigured before me". The greatness of spirit which lived in Archdeacon Frederick George Scott transfigured many things and many people whom he met on his journey through life and, by one of the paradoxes with which the life of the spirit is filled, he reaped glorious rewards because he devoted himself entirely to the service of others. As long as a soldier of the Great War lives, he will be held in affectionate remembrance.

When The Earth Shrugs

When the earth shrugged in Argentina last week buildings toppled, bridges fell, watercourses were deflected, roads yawned and hundreds of men and women were killed. The province of San Juan forgot petty affairs and came to grips with Nature in her most careless mood; every part of the continent of South America rushed what help it could to the stricken area; the distinction between Fascist and anti-Fascist was forgotten, for man was fighting his oldest and most ruthless enemy — the earth upon which he lives.

The earthquake in Argentina was a reminder that air-raids are not the final word in destruction, and that the soil beneath us can take a hand in human affairs which no amount of diplomatic negotiations will influence. A shift of rock, deep down in the earth, cannot be forseen, and it will wipe out a city quicker than our largest fleet of planes loaded with our largest blockbusters. Why does the rock shift? We cannot tell, but apparently some parts of the earth are comparatively youthful, geologically speaking, and have not yet settled into their final form. Here in Canada we occasionally feel a slight earth tremor, but we are too old for earthquakes; it is hard for us to realise how large a part of the earth's surface is still subject to them.

It is odd that lands where there are many earthquakes seem also to be lands of careless building. It is possible to build great structures which will resist earthquakes of considerable violence; Frank Lloyd Wright has done it. But the lands which are haunted by earthquakes still go on building in the same old way, and every now and then they suffer the consequence. Whatever man's wars with his own kind may come to his wars with Nature are unending.

The Return Of Mr. Churchill

It was good to hear that Mr. Churchill was back in the House of Commons again; one report said that he went there directly from the train which brought him to London, so great was his anxiety to get back into the swing of affairs. When he made his way to his seat, emerging from the shadows behind the Speaker's chair, he was greeted with an ovation which must have stirred his heart, accustomed as he is to public demonstrations of affection and admiration. The cheers of the public are sweet music to a leader's ear; but the applause of his colleagues, like the applause of an orchestra for a great conductor, is the highest tribute he can hope for.

The Prime Minister said that he would soon make a statement about the war, and he asked for some freedom in choosing the time when this would be; from this it is permissible to guess that he intends to go into the matter in detail, and needs an indefinite period of time in which to collect and marshal his material.

It is interesting to notice the answer which Mr. Churchill gave to a member who rose to ask if he meant to reduce his official duties somewhat in order to preserve his health; the Prime Minister said, "I have no changes to propose at present in my routine". We applaud the gallantry of this answer, but perhaps we may be permitted to question its wisdom; Mr. Churchill works desperately hard, and his leadership is invaluable to all the United Nations; should he jeopardize his health by unremitting hard work in matters which might be competently handled by an assistant?

The press need not flatter itself that anything which it says will influence Mr. Churchill in his decision on this matter. Nevertheless the press shares the anxiety of millions of people that Mr. Churchill is overdoing things, and wishes that he could contrive to take matters in a less strenuous fashion.

NOTE AND COMMENT

It is an exceptional man who won't pick up the girl who falls for him.

A scientist says that it is healthy to be slightly stooped, to lean forward, and to sway a little. Healthy or punch-drunk, the look is the same.

We read that almost as many people were killed in bathtubs last year as died from snakebite. Not only is cleanliness next to godliness; sometimes the two actually become confused.

Diary Of A Hypercritical Man

By SAMUEL MARCHBANKS

SUNDAY: John Dafoe, the editor of the Winnipeg Free Press for forty years, died today. Canada can ill spare the firm grip which Dafoe had on national and international affairs. It was absolutely impossible to bamboozle him; his technique in dealing with a meretricious idea was comparable to that which Jack the Ripper employed in dealing with meretricious persons. It would be foolish to say that we shall not look upon his life again; we must. Canada cannot do without men like John Dafoe.... Listened this evening to a radio program called Harpsichord At Home, in which Greta Kraus plays charmingly. The harsichord, at its loudest, never assaults the ear. The tendency of music during the last century has been to get louder and louder, and recently to adopt a snarling and cantankerous tone toward the listener. We are losing our ability to hear any music which is softer than a roar.

MONDAY: I see that a poltergeist is busy in Nova Scotia, at a place called Eastern Passage. It has done all the usual tricks of tossing things about, and making odd noises; its one original act was to tear the heel off a woman's shoe. Now I see that the R.C.M.P. are on the track; it tickles me to think of a Mountie chasing a poltergeist; will they add "We get your ghosts" to their other proud boast, I wonder? But Rita Hilchie, a girl in the haunted house, has been taken to a hospital and all the fuss has stopped . Rita has been having "weak turns" for some time, and if what the psychic researchers say is true, she attracted the curious disturbances to the place. Nova Scotia has had poltergeists before this, and R. S. Lambert, in an interesting letter to the press, thinks that this is because it is settled predominantly by people of Celtic origin. This opens up a new train of thought to me: I am of Celtic origin, and all my adult life my pens, my handkerchiefs, important letters and even my clothes have hidden from me in unexpected places. Can it be that I am the victim of a poltergeist?

TUESDAY: I see that a newspaper in Western Ontario is complaining that many honours were awarded on New Year's Day for "questionable political services" but that none were given to Army cooks, who do a really praiseworthy job. There may be something in this; a good cook is a puissant builder of morale. My own morale can be shattered by lumpy porridge or a hair in the butter: what would be the feelings of airmen, for example, who were sent over the Target For Tonight with their stomachs filled with indigestible doughnuts and meatballs? How could a bombardier keep his accuracy of eye or touch in such a condition? A wave of nausea, or a burp at the critical moment, and a blockbuster would be wasted. There is no doubt about it, the fortunes of war rest in the floury hands of the Army cooks.

WEDNESDAY: In my mail this morning I found an Open Letter To Pope Pius XII written by someone calling himself Roman Collar; my native shrewdness leads me to suspect that this waggish pseudonym conceals the identity of some contentious Protestant parson; who could it possibly be? Roman Collar asks the Pope a lot of hard questions about Abyssinia, Franco and Japan, and winds up by asking whether the Pope really feels that he should have a place at the peace conferences? Now I have my copy of this Open Letter, and I dare say that a lot of other people in Canada have it as well. But has the Pope got a copy? If Roman Collar wants to wrangle with the Pope I wish he would go to Rome and do it face to face, and not as in a glass darkly by cluttering up my desk with his pamphlets. I also wish that Roman Collar would not sign his letter to the Pope "yours respectfully" when he has been disrespectful and downright nasty all through it. Now I want this thoroughly understood—I am not the Pope, and it is useless to send me his mail. Is that clear?

THURSDAY: The magazine "Esquire" has been denied second-class mailing privileges in the U.S. because the Postmaster General says it does "not disseminate information of a public character and is not devoted to science, art or literature." What he means is that he considers "Esquire" obscene, and he wants to discourage obscenity. If I were a dictator and wanted to discourage obscenity, I should flood the country with dirty literature, and give away packages of "art postcards" to all the school children; this would kill any taste for obscenity in three months. But to play Auntie Doleful to a whole nation, suppressing a popular magazine, merely whets the appetite of those who find "Esquire" stimulating. None of our public moralists appear to know anything about the fine old psychological Law of Reversed Effort; the harder they try the less they achieve, and they make themselves tyrannous and obnoxious into the bargain. Anyway, has the law a right to deny the public a little mild obscenity if it wants it?

FRIDAY: A man has written to me about last week's Diary, rebuking me for my fondness for finger-bowls, which he thinks revealed a streak of Roman sensuality in my nature. "Let me tell you," he writes, "that after the Revolution there will be no finger-bowls, and no people like you to use them." Then why have a Revolution? I thought that the idea of the Revolution was to supply finger-bowls for everybody—finger-bowls owned by the State, filed by the State, and emptied by the State. Presumably the finger-bowls would be controlled by the same State Department which dealt with the State handkerchiefs, with which our noses would be wiped, whether they needed it or not.

SATURDAY: An amateur astrologer told me last night that I am overly critical, and should try to develop more benevolence toward mankind. Today, therefore, I went about beaming benevolently on everyone I met, and was greeted with scowls and rebuffs by most of them. The plain fact is that most people dislike and mistrust any great show of cheerfulness. If a man were to sing in the street he would probably end up in jail; if he sang at his work the efficiency expert would ask him to come to his office for a frank talk. The way to impress your boss is to look glum all the time. He may mistake this for intelligence and give you a raise.

WAR PROFITEERING IS ODIOUS TO ALL, BUT—

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

ADVICE TO THE C.C.F.

Sir,—The C.C.F. doesn't seem to be doing so well these days, so we think a little advice might be of assistance to the good old cause.

One of the reasons people don't like the C.C.F. is that it is going to "take over" this and "take over" that. Now a much nicer way of putting it would be to say "The C.C.F. will establish a National Bank and a National Packing House, as the case may be." If this advice is taken we feel certain that at the next election the C.C.F. will be returned with a large majority.

So let us assume for a few moments that the election is over, the C.C.F. is in office, and is trying to keep some of the promises it has made.

After the house-cleaning has been done, the next thing the new government does is establish its National Bank. At this bank the rate of interest to depositors, if there are any, will of course be substantially increased, and anybody, providing he has no capitalistic notions such as starting his own business, may borrow money from this bank free of interest. At the end of a year's business done in this manner, and even though the salaries of all executives have been cut (those of the caretaker and his assistants have been increased) the bank will probably find itself faced with a deficit. All the bank has to do in this case, is ask the Finance Minister for some more money, which he immediately hands over, at the same time putting another tax on liquor, or putting some more water in it.

The National Packing House is operated on somewhat similar lines. The price of all produce bought from the farmer is doubled, and the N.P.H. sells everything at half-price, at the same time increasing the wages of all employees (cutting those of the executives) and reducing their hours to four a day. Any profit from these transactions is taken care of by (1) increasing wages of employees; (2) increasing price paid to farmers, and (3) decreasing price of all produce sold by the N.P.H. If there is no profit, and a deficit, the distracted Minister of Finance is again appealed to, and he (he's learning a few tricks now) raises the money by putting some water in the government-owned Coca-Cola.—Yours sincerely,

W. J. T.

Mr. Pinchbeck Made Curious Toys

THERE have been various metals, alloys of one sort or another, offered as substitutes for gold. Of these pinchbeck was the most successful. Christopher Pinchbeck, a watch and clock maker of Fleet Street, London, was its inventor. He did not try to deceive anyone into thinking his metal was gold, but offered it as a substitute to those who could not afford the precious metal. Pinchbeck was an alloy of zinc and copper that kept its gold colour for a long time without tarnishing. It was often washed with gold, too, and the fine workmanship and careful chasing gave articles made from it almost the beauty of gold, and today they have a value in the eyes of collectors that is all their own......

The younger Pinchbeck's advertisement, appearing in the London Daily Post on November 17, 1832, is rather interesting, as it gives a long list of articles made of pinchbeck:

"To prevent for the future the gross Imposition that is put upon the public by a great number of Shopkeepers, Hawkers, and Peddlars, in and about this town, notice is hereby given that the ingenious Mr. Edward Pinchbeck, at the Musical Clock in Fleet Street, does not dispose of one grain of his curious metal, which so nearly resembles Gold in Colour, Smell and Ductility, to any person whatsoever; nor are the Toys made of the said metal sold by anyone person in England except himself: therefore Gentlemen are desired to beware of imposters, who frequent Coffee Houses, and expose to sale Toys pretended to be of this metal, which is most notorious Imposition upon the Publick. Gentlemen and Ladies are accommodated by the said Mr. Pinchbeck with the following curious Toys, viz. Sword-Hilts, Hangers, Cane-Heads, Whip-Handles for Hunting, Spurs, Equipages, Watch Chains, Coat Buttons, Shirt Buttons, Knives and Forks, Spoons, Salvers, Tweezers for Men and Women, Snuff Boxes, Buckles for Ladies Breasts, Stock Buckles, Shoe Buckles, Knee Buckles, Girdle Buckles, Stock Clasp, Necklaces, Corrals. Also clocks and watches."

The toys here mentioned are the small things he has listed. It was a common term for them in that period, having no connection with the word as we now use it. Pinchbeck sometimes called himself a "toymaker." An honest, careful, and conscientious workman, it is unfortunate that Pinchbeck's name has come to mean something cheap or shoddy. He ill deserves this slander.—From "The Button Collector's History," by Grace Horney Ford. (Springfield, Mass.: Pond-Ekberg.)

Culled From Our Contemporaries

Must Possess Merit

Many nasty and often quite unwarranted things have been said about our National Selective Service regulations. When, however, they become the pattern for similar regulations that President Roosevelt would have the United States Congress adopt it will have to be admitted by everyone that they must possess considerable merit.—Brockville Recorder and Times.

Used To It

When every other target eludes them, people attack the press. On one day last week a single file of coast papers showed that the press was being attacked because it was not Conservative, not Liberal, not C.C.F., because it was simultaneously the "tool of capital" and "the mouthpiece of a communist union"; and, finally, because it has cut out its magazine sections, telescoped its colored comics and yet refused to print 15,000 word reports on the codling moth. It is just too bad about the codling moth, but perhaps it could be made to understand there is a war on.—Victoria Colonist.

Getting Acquainted

The United States Office of War Information in London has taken on a great job. It is trying through the British schools, Rotary Clubs and similar organizations to give a true impression of America to Britons, and the questions it has to answer are legion.

Frankly, Britain hardly knows the United States except through the misleading medium of the movies. But Britain does not know Canada either. If propaganda is so necessary in the one case, it should also find work to do in the other. If Canadian immigration is to increase after the war, we might like considerable numbers of skilled British people as well as British financial enterprise to come over here. Canadian publicity could find a profitable field of activity in London; one which should not be neglected.—Halifax Chronicle.

Those Announcers Again

Or Go Through It

A ceiling has been put on that Mexican conflagration-water called tequila—and wisely so. For, one drink, and you hit the roof.—Stratford Beacon-Herald.

Protecting Prisoner

A German named Broeig was captured recently, after he had made his third attempt to escape from a Canadian prison camp. In placing him back in the camp, the authorities were really protecting him against himself. If he ever got back to Germany now he would wish himself back in his comfortable Canadian home where he doesn't have to dodge bombs and where he can have turkey for Christmas.—Chatham News.

Tom Dewey Gone Mad?

Well, there's one American public official who must have gone mad. It's Tom Dewey, Governor of New York. Finding the State with a surplus of $140,000,000 on its hands, he's against blowing it in at once. Not only that, but he proposes saving it and putting it away for a rainy day.

I look for some tall resentment of an idea like that from the modern crop of statesmen and politicians all over the country. It's unethical. It may even be unconstitutional.

What's the use of working hard to teach the public that money is a form of wild cabbage, that it deteriorates rapidly if you hold it long, that thrift is nonsense and that the thing to have is a nice fat debt, only to see a fellow like Dewey come out publicly and blast the idea?

If there's a union or an association of public officials in this country it will drop Dewey from membership at once.—Dave Boone, in New York Sun.

A Bible Message

Then led they Jesus from Caiaphas unto the hall of judgment.... Then Pilate entered into the judgment hall again, and called Jesus, and said unto him, Art thou the King of the Jews?...

Jesus answered, My kingdom is not of this world: if my kingdom were of this world, then would my servants fight, that I should not be delivered to the Jews: but now is my kingdom not from hence.

Pilate therefore said unto him, Art thou a king then? Jesus answered, Thou sayest that I am a king. To this end was I born, and for this cause came I into the world, that I should bear witness unto the truth. Every one that is of the truth heareth my voice. Pilate saith unto him, What is truth? And when he had said this, he went out again unto the Jews, and saith unto them, I find in him no fault at all.....

But they cried out, Away with him, away with him, crucify him. Pilate saith unto them, Shall I crucify your King? The chief priests answered, We have no king but Caesar. Then delivered he him therefore unto them to be crucified. And they took Jesus, and led him away.

And he bearing his cross went forth into a place called the place of a skull, which is called in the Hebrew Golgotha: where they crucified him, and two other with him, on either side one, and Jesus in the midst....

Now there stood by the cross of Jesus his mother, and his mother's sister, Mary the wife of Cleophas, and Mary Magdalene. (John 18: 28, 33, 36-38; 19: 15-18, 25.)

The morning after Boxing Day, the mistress of the house entered the kitchen with a determined air.

"Hum, not so bad," replied the customer, "gimme a couple o' dozen of 'em."

"There was nothing to report," was the young man's airy reply. "The bridegroom was killed in a car smash on the way to the church and the bride died of shock. So there was no wedding and I just went home."

Thin-Skinned Autocrats

There are several grounds for fearing that few vestiges of a free press, freedom of speech and general freedom of discussion would remain were the C.C.F. to be handed the reins of power to run Canada on an arbitrary basis. One augury of this can be seen in the extreme sensitivity of certain C.C.F. leaders to any criticism.

The outraged indignation with which they react to any objection or opposition to their didactic proposals to make over Canadians in their own image, betrays their intolerance of any views differing from their own. It points to how thoroughly they would suppress, in power, any voice dissenting from their policies, program and actions.

The almost incredulous astonishment of C.C.F.ers at any hostile declarations or counter-criticism, and their quite evident denial to others of the right to criticize as the C.C.F. criticizes and denounces, reflect a fundamental strain of autocracy in the C.C.F. hierarchy. And autocrats have always been thin-skinned, so allergic to any contrary attitude that they would keep their world sterilized of any such expressions altogether.—Montreal Gazette.

PRINTED STORY—This year's crop of print frocks is a bumper one. Even women who aren't always for prints are likely to fall for the new designs, which are beautifully printed on colorful fabrics and made upon very smart lines. Soldier Takes English Bride As Father Did 29 Years Ago

By CONNIE NICHOLSON

Dan Cupid stole an assist from the god of war in a strange story of romance and coincidence that will be consummated in February with a wedding of a Peterborough boy and an English girl in far-away England.

Twenty-nine years ago, E. Simonds of Peterborough serving overseas with the Canadian Army, met a comely English girl at Brighton. She was a V.A.D. and station at No. 10 Canadian Hospital. This romance soon blossomed into marriage and when the war was over Mr. Simonds brought his bride to Peterborough where they have lived ever since.

Their son, Bdr. R. W. Simonds, serving overseas with the 4th Anti-Tank unit from Peterborough is finding that life for him is merely a duplication of his father's experiences. He too has found love and romance in Leeds, England, while serving miles from home as a Canadian soldier in World War 2. The bride-to-be is Catherine Pennistone, a switchboard operator, and this too involves the long arm of coincidence for her future mother-in-law was also a switchboard operator back in the hectic days of World War 1.

Bdr. Simonds plans to bring his bride to Canada when the war is over, starting another cycle of life as his father did back in 1919 when the armistice brought a quarter of century of peace to the world.

Thus will Mrs. Simonds, Sr., an English bride who found happiness in an adopted land, be able to welcome her daughter-in-law, another war bride, when the latter arrives to take up residence in this country.

Y.W.C.A. Club Doings

A new "Co-Ed" Club was formed on Wednesday out of the social dancing group for Collegiate boys and girls. About 10 couple were present for supper in the club supper room. Miss Roberta Kiefer was chairman of the meeting and guests at the head table were Miss Littlefield, Mrs. McBride and Mr. Singleton, Boys' Work Secretary of the Y.M.C.A. It was decided to meet again next week for supper and Ken Doughty is looking after the program.

The '38 Club held their regular meeting on Wednesday evening. They had planned a skating party but since things were literally "swimming" by supper time skating was cancelled and a program of table games, bowling and singing was arranged. A merry time was had by all. Supper was served by Jean Walters and Flora Metcalfe. Flora Metcalfe outlined the hostess course being sponsored by the Y.W. for the citizens' committee and which is under the direction of the club. Members have been working very hard on this project and are looking forward too to becoming "hostesses" after attending the three lectures on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, Jan. 31st, Feb. 1st and Feb. 2nd. Or, since some are busy with other engagements on one or two of those nights they will take in all or one or two lectures in the second series on Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday, Feb. 9th, 10th and 11th. Club members were advised that the important dates to remember are Wednesday and Thursday, Jan. 26th and 27th, when they must register if they want to be a "hostess". To have fun after the hard labors of organizing and carrying out this project the club is planning a Valentine dance.

The Junior Supper Club held a very gay meeting on Thursday with a large membership present. If there is no snow for a sleigh ride on January 29 a "Farmer Jones Dance" will be held in the recreation room. Members must attend the meeting next week and buy their tickets if they want to come to the party on the 29th. Next week is Health Week in the Y and the club is planning a special program.

The Gym-Swim Club held their meeting in the Green Room on Thursday after gym. Jean Thomas, the president, presided. Next week one of the members will speak to the club on "Care of the Hair" and Sgt. Robertson, C.W.A.C. will be a guest. The social committee is Hilda McConkey, June McConkey, Nola Smith and Ruth Lancaster. The club program for the next month was drawn up and interesting things are just around the corner. Refreshments were served by Marguerite Royea, social convener. Gym Swim members will be attending the Health Banquet on Wednesday and will be registered for the Hostess Course on Wednesday and Thursday.

The Friday Supper Club held an executive meeting on Tuesday to outline future programs. Betty Lou Braund is in charge of the program for this week and Barbara Cook is supper convener. A special program is being planned for next week on the Health Week theme. Agnes Weddell will be in charge of this program. Since press notices now must be in before the meeting "Y Club Doings" will report on happenings in Friday Supper Club and Saturday Juniors as of last week.

The Saturday Juniors membership is increasing steadily. A patch work quilt was started last week. Some of the club members read a chapter each from the story book and lots of energy was used up in "The Dragon's Tail".

Rummage Sale To Help Greeks

A rummage sale, the proceeds to go to Greek relief, will be the next project of the Jackson Park Fellowship Group. This announcement was made at a meeting of the Group held at the home of Mrs. A. McInroy, and the time and place of the sale will be decided at the next meeting, to be held at the home of Mrs. Cooper, 630 Stormont street, February 3.

Mrs. Holloway, the president, presided at the business session when it was decided that a quilting bee would be held Tuesday afternoon, January 25, at Dixon House. It was also decided to purchase a new study book, entitled "Our India's Story." Mrs. Simonsen was in charge of the devotional period.

Mr. Albert Brooks, of Hastings, is visiting with his son, Mr. George Brooks and Mrs. Brooks.

The ladies of Trent River War Workers held a progressive euchre party at their rooms this week. Prizes were won by Mrs. H. Mann and Mrs. G. Brownsell and Mr. Fred Hay and E. Vanness.

Due to the illness of the teacher, Mrs. Brisbin of Havelock, the Trent River school was closed this week.

Canada Rich in Plants Used for Dyeing Wool

Canadian plants are well adapted for vegetable dyeing, Mrs. Margaret McPherson of Toronto told a meeting of the Women's Art Association held on Friday afternoon in the Y.W.C.A., when she discussed "the art of hand-spinning and vegetable dyeing," which is a hobby of hers.

Mrs. McPherson first discussed spinning, and gave a brief historical sketch, relating that the first record historians have of spinning, is in Egypt, about 2000 B.C. A stone, called a whorl was first used to weight the flax and to twist the thread. The spindle was next introduced, and then the distaff, and this method of spinning, with few changes, existed for hundreds of years.

"The principle did not change," said the speaker, "but the equipment was improved." She continued saying that the Egyptian women perfected the art of spinning and weaving linen and their work has never been surpassed. Egypt produces the best quality of linen in the world, she went on.

"No change in the method of spinning was made until the 11th century," Mrs. McPherson explained, "until a European inventor made a large wheel, which, although it spun a greater quantity of thread, could not compare with the home-spun thread. In 1555, the spinning wheel was introduced, and was used until modern machines were invented. Hand spinning, however, is still done on a spinning wheel.

Practical Experience.

Mrs. McPherson, who was raised in Scotland, often helped the shepherds and so has a good knowledge of sheep and wool, and told her audience of the beginning of the wool industry in Spain by the Saracens, and its gradual spread to other countries. She spoke about wool grading and said that Canadian wool equals if not surpasses Australian and Scottish wool, and that the reason it is graded in fourth place among the countries of the world is because of the condition of the wool. "Canadian sheep-raisers do not take enough care with their sheep," she said.

Discusing the art of vegetable dyeing, Mrs. McPherson showed several samples of wool which she had dyed, and explained the flowers, plants and barks which were used to give color to each bit of wool. She said that she had spent two years gathering information about Canadian plants. "Canadian soil," she went on, "differs from Scottish soil, and consequently the flowers grown in Canada give different shades than the same flowers grown in Scotland.

"There are several conditions which play a part in the color obtained from different plants, and all must be taken into consideration when dyeing. The time of year is one of these reasons," and Mrs. McPherson gave the hemlock tree as an example. She explained that the color was extracted from the middle layer of bark on a tree, and that in the spring the bark of the hemlock gave a lovely fresh tint to material, when gathered in August the bark gave almost a salmon shade, and if gathered in November the bark yielded a brown dye.

"The pots or vessels in which plants are boiled also play a part in the color obtained," she continued, and quoted the goldenrod as an example. When boiled in a tin vessel, the goldenrod gives a bright shade of yellow, but when boiled in an iron pot, a green dye is obtained. Similarly, the wild aster gives a yellow shade when boiled in a tin vessel, but a green dye is extracted when it is boiled in a copper pot. The speaker explained that oxygen plays a part in the shading of material, because color often changes soon after the material is taken from the dye, after it has been in contact with the air.

Mrs. McPherson explained the methods of dyeing, and also of preparing the wool for dyeing, and named several Canadian plants and trees, and the color obtained from them. "Canada is particularly abundant in color giving plants," she saaid, "for I have found over 200 varieties which yield color. Some of these sources of color were apple, cherry and peach tree bark, hemlock and tamarack bark, lily of the valley, dandelion, nettle, pokeberry, chokecherry, buckwheat, cornflower and beet roots.

Home Products.

In conclusion, Mrs. McPherson said that she would like to see Canadian women take more interest in Canadian products, saying that imported goods could not compare with good made within our borders. She said that she hoped that Canadian women would begin to appreciate the wonders and opportunities given them by this rich land, and use them to advantage.

After a vote of thanks, extended by the president, light refreshments were served, and Mrs. McPherson answered questions asked by the members. She had an all-wool drape, which she had spun, dyed and woven herself, which she displayed Her winter coat also created a great deal of interest, because it was made from the combings from the under coat of English sheep dogs, given to her by a friend, to which she had added some silver fox combings. She had spun the thread herself, and had then had it woven and tailored into a beautiful coat, which has a sheen to it, and is heavy and warm.

HEROES AT HOME HIDE FEARS

DEAR MISS DIX—You said in your column the other day that it was our duty to be cheerful, even in these hard times. The question I want answered is: How is it possible to be cheerful when your brother, your boy friend and all of your close men friends are in the army, risking their lives every day for people back here who don't even care if they live or die?

In the office in which I work there are several men who gripe all day long about taxes, gasoline, food, etc. The only thing they are really doing is trying their hardest to keep out of the service, and they are succeeding, being deferred every three or six months. How can I be cheerful with all that around me? It just isn't possible.

MISERABLE.

Heroes Cover Worries With Smiles

ANSWER—But it is being done, my dear. You are not the only woman who has a loved one on the fighting front and whose very soul is torn to tatters with anxiety about the son, or brother, or husband, or sweetheart, who is more than life to her. In all this vast country of ours there is hardly a house over which the shadow of dread does not hover, nor where the coming of a telegram does not cause every heart within to skip a beat for fear of what message it may bring.
